THE translations of the Egyptian hymns and religious texts printed in this and the two following volumes form a representative collection of the various compositions which the Egyptians inscribed upon the walls of tombs and sarcophagi, coffins and funeral stelae, papyri and amulets, etc., in order to ensure the well-being of their dead in the world beyond the grave. They have been translated from papyri and other documents which were found chiefly at Thebes, and, taken together, they are generally known as the Theban Recension of the Book of the Dead, that is to say, the Recension of the great national funeral work which was copied by the scribes for themselves and for Egyptian kings and queens, princes and nobles, gentle and simple, rich and poor, from about B.C. 1600 to B.C. 900. These translations first appeared in the third volume of my work on the Book of the Dead, which was published under the title of "The Chapters of Coming Forth by Day," at the end of the year 1897, where they seemed to be a necessary accompaniment to the edition of the hieroglyphic texts of the Theban Recension and the hieroglyphic vocabulary thereto. The demand for that bulky and comparatively expensive work proved that it filled a want, but soon after its appearance frequent requests were made that the English translation might be issued in a smaller and handier form. In answer to these requests, Messrs. Kegan Paul, Trench, Trübner, and Co. decided to publish the complete English translation of the Book of the Dead in their series of books on Egypt and Chaldaea, together with such introductory matter, index, etc., as are necessary to make this edition of use to the general reader.

The translation given in the present series is, however, no mere reprint, for it has been carefully revised and compared with the original texts, and many brief explanatory notes have been added; and, with the view of placing in the hands of the reader as complete an edition as possible, more than four hundred vignettes, taken from the best papyri, have been reproduced in the volumes of the present edition at the heads of the Chapters, the general contents of which the ancient Egyptian scribes and artists intended them to illustrate. The greater number of these have been specially drawn or traced for this purpose, and they faithfully represent the originals in form and outline; to reproduce the colours of the originals was out of the question, for the cost of coloured illustrations would have placed this book beyond the reach of the general public.

Many of the ideas and beliefs embodied in the texts here translated are coeval with Egyptian civilization, and the actual forms of some of the most interesting of these are identical with those which we now know to have existed in the Vth and VIth Dynasties, about B.C. 3500. On the other hand, many of them date from the pre-dynastic period, and, in the chapter on the History of the Book of the Dead, which forms part of the Introduction to the present edition, an attempt has been made to show how some of the religious views of the north-east African race, which formed the main indigenous substratum of the dynastic Egyptians, found their way into the Book of the Dead and maintained their position there.

The greater number of the translations here given belong to the group to which the Egyptians gave the name, "Chapters of Coming Forth by Day," and the remainder are introductory hymns, supplementary extracts from ancient cognate works, rubrics, etc., which were intended to be used as words of power by the deceased in the underworld. The papyri and other originals which have been selected as authorities are the best now known, and they have been chosen with the view of illustrating the development of the Theban Recension and the changes which took place in it during the various periods of its history. Since no papyrus contains all the Chapters and Vignettes of this Recension, and no two papyri agree either in respect of contents or arrangement of the Chapters, and the critical value of every text in a papyrus is not always the same, it follows that a complete edition of all the known Chapters of the Theban Recension would be impossible unless recourse were had to several papyri. Since the year 1886, in which M. Naville's Das Todtenbuch der Aegypter appeared, several extremely important papyri of the Book of the Dead have been discovered, and it is now possible to add considerably to the number of Chapters of the Theban Recension which he published. Thus the Papyrus of Ani supplies us with Introductions to Chapters XVIII. and CXXV., and hymns to Rā and Osiris, and texts referring to the Judgment Scene, and all of these are new; besides, we gain a complete, though short, version of Chapter CLXXV. And from the Papyrus of Nu, which is the oldest of the illuminated papyri known, we have obtained about twenty Chapters of the Theban Recension, which were unknown until 1897, and several which have, up to the present, been only known to exist in single manuscripts. Use has therefore been made of several papyri, and as a result translations of about one hundred and sixty Chapters, not including different versions, Hymns, and Rubrics, are given in the present edition. Translation of sixteen Chapters of the Saïte Recension have also been added, both because they form good specimens of the religious compositions of the later period of Egyptian history, and illustrate some curious beliefs, and because, having adopted the numbering of the Chapters employed by Lepsius, they were needed to make the numbering of the Chapters in this edition consecutive.

The translation has been made as literal as possible, my aim being to let the reader judge the contents of the Theban Recension of the Book of the Dead for himself; the notes are short, and it was thought to be unnecessary to encumber the pages of a book which is intended for popular use with voluminous disquisitions and references. The reader who needs to consult other works on the subject will find a tolerably full Bibliography to the printed literature of the Book of the Dead in my Papyrus of Ani, London, 1895, pp. 371 ff.

It has been the fashion during the last few years among certain writers on Egyptology to decry the Book of the Dead, and to announce as a great discovery that the hieroglyphic and hieratic texts thereof are corrupt; but that several passages of the work are hopelessly corrupt has been well known to Egyptologists for the last fifty years, and they have never concealed the fact that they could not translate them. Moreover, the Egyptian scribes informed their readers by the frequent use of the words "ki tchet," i.e., "otherwise said," that they themselves did not know which variants represented the correct readings, and recent investigations have proved that the scribes and sages of the XIXth Dynasty had as much difficulty as we have in reading certain hieratic signs which were written during the Early Empire, and were as undecided as we are about the true transcription of them. The text of every great national religious composition which is handed down first by oral tradition, and secondly by copies which are multiplied by professional scribes and others, is bound to become corrupt in places; this result is due partly to carelessness of the copyists, and partly to their inability to understand the allusions and the obscure words which occur in them. But the history of the religious literatures of the world shows that when a series of compositions has once attained to the position of a recognized national religious work, the corruptions in the text thereof do not in any way affect the minds of their orthodox readers in the general credibility of the passages in which they occur. And the Book of the Dead forms no exception to this rule, for the work, which was very old even in the reign of Semti, a king of the First Dynasty, and was, moreover, so long at that time as to need abbreviation, was copied and re-copied, and added to by one generation after another for a period of nearly 5000 years; and the pious Egyptian, whether king or ploughman, queen or maid-servant, lived with the teaching of the Book of the Dead before his eyes, and he was buried according to its directions, and he based his hope of everlasting life and happiness upon the efficacy of its hymns and prayers, and words of power. By him its Chapters were not regarded as materials for grammatical exercises, but as all powerful guides along the road which, passing through death and the grave, led into the realms of light and life, and into the presence of the divine being Osiris, the conqueror of death, who made men and women "to be born again." The more the Book of the Dead is read and examined, the better chance there is of its difficult allusions being explained, and its dark passages made clear, and this much to be desired result can only be brought about by the study, and not by the neglect, of its texts.

In the introduction to the present translation Chapters are added on the literary history of the Book of the Dead, on the doctrines of Osiris, and of the Judgment and Resurrection, and on the Object and Contents of the Book of the Dead. The limits, however, of this work make it impossible to include within it the chapter on the Magic of the Book of the Dead which appeared in the edition of 1897. The renderings of the funeral texts written for Nesi-Khensu, K̄erāsher, and Takhert-p-uru-ābt, and the Book of Breathings, the Book of Traversing Eternity, &c., appended to the third volume will, it is hoped, enable the reader to make a comparison of the beliefs of the Egyptians in the early and later periods of their history.

INTRODUCTION

THE HISTORY OF THE BOOK OF THE DEAD

THE early history of the great collection of religious texts which has now become well known throughout the world by the names "Das Todtenbuch," "Das Aegyptische Todtenbuch," "Le Livre des Morts," "Rituel Funéraire," "Il Libro dei funerali degli antichi Egiziani," and "The Book of the Dead," is shrouded in the mists of remote antiquity, and up to the present no evidence has been forthcoming which will enable us to formulate it in an accurate manner. The very title "Book of the Dead" is unsatisfactory, for it does not in any way describe the contents of the mass of religious texts, hymns, litanies, etc., which are now best known by that name, and it is no rendering whatever of their ancient Egyptian title REU NU PERT EM HRU . i.e., "Chapters of Coming Forth by Day." The name "Book of the Dead" is, however, more satisfactory than that of "Ritual of the Dead," or "Funeral Ritual," for only a very small section of it can be rightly described as of a ritual character, whilst the whole collection of compositions does certainly refer to the dead and to what happens to the dead in the world beyond the grave.

Of the home and origin also of the Book of the Dead but little can be said. Now that so many of the pre-dynastic graves of Egypt have been excavated, and their contents have been so fully described and discussed, we find no evidence forthcoming that would justify us in assuming that the aboriginal inhabitants of the country possessed any collection of religious texts which might be regarded as the original work from which, by interpolations and additions, the Recensions of the Book of the Dead now known could have descended, or even that they made use of any collection of religious texts at the burial of the dead. That there are references in the various Recensions to the funeral customs of the aborigines of Egypt is fairly certain, and it is evident from the uniform manner in which the dead were laid in their graves in the earliest pre-dynastic times that the aborigines possessed tolerably well defined general ideas about the future life, but we cannot regard them as the authors even of the earliest Recension of the Book of the Dead, because that work presupposes the existence of ideas which the aborigines did not possess, and refers to an elaborate system of sepulture which they never practised. Whether we regard the aborigines of Egypt as of Libyan origin or not it is certain that they employed a system of sepulture which, in its earliest forms, was quite different from that in use among their latest pre-dynastic and their earliest dynastic descendants. If the known facts be examined it is difficult not to arrive at the conclusion that many of the beliefs found in the Book of the Dead were either voluntarily borrowed from some nation without, or were introduced into Egypt by some conquering immigrants who made their way into the country from Asia, either by way of the Red Sea or across the Arabian peninsula; that they were brought into Egypt by new-comers seems most probable. Who those new-comers were or where they came from cannot be definitely said at present, but there are good grounds for thinking that they first adopted certain of the general customs which they found in use among the dwellers on the Nile, and then modified them, either to suit the religious texts with which they were acquainted, or their own individual views which they evolved after they had arrived in Egypt. The excavation of pre-dynastic cemeteries in Egypt has revealed the fact that its aboriginal or pre-dynastic inhabitants disposed of their dead by burial and by burning; the bodies which were buried were either dismembered or cut up into a considerable number of pieces, or buried whole. Bodies buried whole were laid on their left sides with their heads to the south, and were sometimes laid in the skins of gazelles and sometimes in grass mats; no attempt was made to mummify them in the strict sense of the term. This seems to be the oldest method of burial in the Nile Valley. The dismembering or cutting up of the body into a number of pieces was due probably both to a wish to economize space, and to prevent the spirit of the deceased from returning to his old village; in such cases the head is separated from the body, and the limbs are laid close together. Chronologically, the disposal of the dead by burning comes next; usually the bodies were only partially burnt, and afterwards the skull and the bones were thrown into a comparatively shallow pit, care being, however, taken to keep those of the hands and feet together. Speaking generally, these two classes of burials are well defined, and the cemeteries in which each class is found are usually quite separate and distinct, lying ordinarily some distance apart. Whether we are to distinguish two distinct peoples in those who buried the bodies of their dead whole, and in those who burnt them first and buried their remains, it is almost too early to decide, but there is abundant evidence to show that both of these classes of the inhabitants of Egypt had many funeral customs in common. They both used covered pits for tombs, both buried their dead in the valleys, both oriented the dead in the same direction, and both made funeral offerings to the dead. The offerings prove beyond all doubt that both those who buried and those who burnt their dead held definite views about the future life, and these can hardly have existed in their minds without some perception, however dim, of a divine power being there also. It is idle to speculate on the nature of such a perception with our present limited knowledge, but it must not be forgotten that the widespread custom of burying the dead with the head to the south, and the presence of funeral offerings, indicate the existence of religious convictions which are not of a low order, and are not common among savage or semi-barbarous tribes.

It has been said above that the people who buried their dead whole made no attempt to mummify the bodies in the strict sense of the term, still, as Dr. Fouquet found traces of bitumen in some of the skeletons to which he devoted an exhaustive examination, and as many bodies have been found wrapped in skins of animals, and grass mats, and even rough cloths, we may rightly assume that they would have taken far more elaborate precautions to preserve their dead had they possessed the necessary knowledge. These early inhabitants of Egypt embalmed their dead either because they wished to keep their material bodies with them upon earth, or because they believed that the future welfare of the departed depended in some way upon the preservation of the bodies which they had left behind them upon earth. Whatever the motive, it is quite certain that it must have been a very powerful one, for the custom of preserving the dead by one means or another lasted in Egypt without a break from the earliest pre-dynastic times almost down to the conquest of the country by the Arabs, about A.D. 640.

Meanwhile, however, we may note that the graves of those who were buried whole, and of those who were burnt, or dismembered, contain no inscriptions, and it is evident that the habit of writing religious texts upon the objects laid in the tombs, a habit which became universal in the times of the historical Egyptians, was not yet in existence. Still, it is impossible to think that people who evidently believed in a future life, and who tried to preserve the bodies of their dead from religious motives, would bury their beloved friends and relatives without uttering some pious wish for their welfare in the world beyond the grave, or causing the priest of the community to recite some magical charm or formula, or repeat certain incantations, which had been composed for such occasions, on their behalf. It is more than probable that, if prayers or formulae were recited at the time of burial, the recital was accompanied by the performance of certain ceremonies, which must have partaken of a magical character; both prayers and ceremonies must have been traditional, and were, no doubt, primarily designed to protect the dead from the attacks of wild animals, damp-rot, dry-rot, and decay. Now although we may not regard a collection of such funeral prayers, however large, as the earliest Recension of the Book of the Dead, there is little doubt that many of the formulae found in the Heliopolitan Recension of the Book of the Dead, which was in use during the IVth and Vth Dynasties, date from a very early pre-dynastic period, and that they are as old as, or older than, the civilization of the historic Egyptians and their immediate predecessors. Such formulæ are directed against snakes and scorpions, and other noxious reptiles, and the forms in which they were written by the scribes about B.C. 3500, and the mistakes which occur in them, prove that the copyists were dealing with texts that were at that remote time so old as to be unintelligible in many passages, and that they copied many of them without understanding them. In any case such formulæ date from a period when the banks of the Nile were overrun by wild beasts, and when they formed the home of creatures of all kinds which were hostile to man, and which the early dwellers on the Nile sought to cajole or frighten away from their dead; indeed, there is little doubt that before the forests which lined the river banks were cut down for fuel Egypt must have resembled in many respects certain sections of the Nile Valley much further south, and that river monsters of all kinds, and amphibious beasts which are only now to be found on the upper reaches of the Blue Nile and near the Great Lakes, lived happily in the neighbourhood of Memphis, and even farther to the north.

Towards the close of the period when the bodies of the dead were burnt, or dismembered, the objects found in the graves vary in character considerably from those which occur in the graves wherein the bodies are buried whole, and whereas in the older graves weapons of flint occur in abundance, and stone jars and vases are rare, in the later flint weapons are the exceptions, the hard stone vases become more numerous, and objects in metal are found in comparative abundance. To what cause these changes are due cannot exactly be said, but the presence of bronze and other metal objects most probably indicates the appearance of some foreign influence in the Valley of the Nile, and that that influence proceeded from immigrants is tolerably certain. Whether these immigrants belonged remotely to a Semitic stock, or whether they were descendants of a people akin to the nation which is now by common consent called Sumerian, are questions impossible to answer at present; for, while the presence in the earliest hieroglyphic inscriptions of grammatical usages, and verbal forms, and idioms, and pronouns which are certainly identical with many of those in use in all the Semitic dialects indicates Semitic influence, or kinship with Semitic peoples to a considerable degree, the religious beliefs of the pre-dynastic and early dynastic Egyptians have few parallels with those of the Semitic peoples of antiquity known to us. But, whether the immigrants were of Semitic origin or not, they seem to have come originally from the East, and, whether by force of arms or otherwise, they certainly effected a permanent settlement in the Nile Valley; a people armed with metal weapons conquered those who relied upon weapons of flint and stone, and having made themselves masters of the country these men ruled it according to their own ideas and methods, as far as its climate and natural conditions permitted. Conquest was followed by intermarriage, which was an absolute necessity if the immigrants came from the East and wished their descendants to abide in the land, and thus it comes to pass that the historic Egyptians are the descendants of an indigenous north-east African people, and of immigrants from the East, who having settled in Egypt were gradually absorbed into the native populations. It is easy to see that the debt which the indigenous peoples of Egypt owed to the new-comers from the East is very considerable, for they learned from them the art of working in metals (although they continued to make use of flint weapons, i.e., knives, axe-heads, spear-heads, arrow-heads, scrapers, etc., without a break down to the time of the dynastic Egyptians), and the art of writing. M. de Morgan declares that the knowledge of [working in] bronze is of Asiatic origin, and he thinks that the art of brick-making was introduced into Egypt from Mesopotamia, where it was, as we learn from the ruins of early Sumerian cities, extensively practised, with many other things which he duly specifies.¹

With the art of writing the new-comers in Egypt undoubtedly brought certain religious beliefs, and funeral customs, and literature, and gradually the system of burial which was universal in Egypt up to the time of their arrival in the country became completely changed.

The covered pits and troughs which served for graves, and which were dug almost anywhere on the banks of the river, were replaced by crude brick buildings containing one or more chambers; graves were no longer dug in the valley but in the hill sides; dead bodies were neither burnt nor dismembered, and the head was not separated from the body; bandages systematically wound round the body took the place of skins of animals and grass mats and rough cloth wrappings; and dead bodies were laid on their backs in coffins, instead of being bent up and laid on their side on the ground. The change in the character of the offerings and other objects found in the graves at this period was no less marked, for pottery made on a wheel took the place of that made by hand, and maces and more formidable weapons appeared, together with a large number of various kinds of amulets of a new class. It is, unfortunately, impossible to assign a date to this period of change, and it cannot be said how long it lasted, but it is certain that at this time both the indigenous peoples and the new-comers modified their burial customs, and that the foundations of the sepulchral customs and of the system of mummification which were universal among the historical Egyptians were then laid. The indigenous peoples readily saw the advantage of brick-built tombs and of the other improvements which were introduced by the new-comers, and gradually adopted them, especially as they tended to the preservation of the natural body, and were beneficial for the welfare of the soul ; but the changes introduced by the new-comers were of a radical character, and the adoption of them by the indigenous peoples of Egypt indicates a complete change in what may be described as the fundamentals of their belief. In fact they abandoned not only the custom of dismembering and burning the body, but the half savage views and beliefs which led them to do such things also, and little by little they put in their place the doctrine of the resurrection of man, which was in turn based upon the belief that the god-man and king Osiris had suffered death and mutilation, and had been embalmed, and that his sisters Isis and Nephthys had provided him with a series of amulets which protected him from all harm in the world beyond the grave, and had recited a series of magical formulae which gave him everlasting life ; in other words, they embraced the most important of all the beliefs which are found in the Book of the Dead. The period of this change is, in the writer's opinion, the period of the introduction into Egypt of many of the religious and funeral compositions which are now known by the name of "Book of the Dead." Whether the primitive form of the doctrine of Osiris included the view that his body was hacked to pieces after death and his head severed from it is not known, but it is quite certain that many influential people in Egypt objected to the decapitation of the dead, and their objection found expression in the XLIIIrd Chapter of the Book of the Dead, which, according to its title, provides expressly that "the head of a man shall not be cut off in the underworld." The text of this remarkable Chapter is of great interest; and reads, "I am the Great One, the son of the Great One; I am Fire, the son of Fire, to whom was given his head after it had been cut off. The head of Osiris was not taken away from him, let not the head of (here follows the name of the deceased, who is also called Osiris) be taken away from him. I have knit myself together; I have made myself whole and complete; I have renewed my youth; I am Osiris, the lord of eternity." The title of this Chapter is definite enough, but the text seems to indicate that for a man to be certain of possession of his head in the next world it was necessary to have it first removed from his body after death, and then rejoined to it. The historic Egyptians seem to have abandoned any such belief, however, and there is no doubt that they viewed with dismay any mutilation of the body, although they preserved in their religious texts frequent allusions to the collecting of the members of the body, and the gathering together of the bones. The LXIIIrd Chapter, which existed in two versions in the XVIIIth Dynasty, also seems to allude to certain funeral practices of the pre-dynastic Egyptians, for one version was written to protect a man from being burnt in the underworld, and the other to prevent him from being scalded or boiled. In historic times the Egyptians neither burned nor scalded nor boiled their dead, but we have seen above that the pre-dynastic Egyptians partly burned their dead, and it is probable that they often removed the flesh from the bones of the dead by boiling as well as by scraping them. There are numerous passages in the various Chapters of the Book of the Dead which seem to contain allusions to pre-dynastic funeral customs, and many of the Chapters refer to natural conditions of the country which can only have obtained during the period that preceded the advent of the immigrants from the East. It is clear that those who introduced the Book of the Dead into Egypt claimed to be able to protect the dead body from calamities of every kind, either by means of magical names, or words, or ceremonies, and that the indigenous peoples of the country accepted their professions and adopted many of their funeral customs, together with the beliefs which had produced them. They never succeeded wholly in inducing them to give up many of their crude notions and fantastic beliefs and imageries, and more and more we see in all ages the ideas and notions of the semi-barbarous, North African, element in the Book of the Dead contending for recognition with the superior and highly moral and spiritual beliefs which it owed to the presence of the Asiatic element in Egypt. The Chapters of the Book of the Dead are a mirror in which are reflected most of the beliefs of the various races which went to build up the Egyptian of history, and to this fact is due the difficulty of framing a connected and logical account of what the Egyptians believed at any given period in their history. But there is reason for hoping that, as the texts become more studied, and more information and facts concerning the pre-dynastic peoples of Egypt become available, it will be possible to sift such beliefs and to classify them according to their source.

To assign a date to the period when the Book of the Dead was introduced into Egypt is impossible, but it is certain that it was well known in that country before the kings of the Ist Dynasty began to rule over the country. In the first instance the prayers and petitions, which in later days were grouped and classified into Chapters, were comparatively simple, and probably few in number, and their subject matter was in keeping with the conditions under which the dead were buried in the home of those who brought them into Egypt. At first also they were recited from memory, and not from written copies, and they were, no doubt, preserved by oral tradition for a very long time. Meanwhile the prayers, and petitions, and formulæ increased in number and in length, and were in other particulars made applicable to the conditions under which men were buried in Egypt, and at length they were done into writing; but this only took place when the priests began to be in doubt about the meaning of their contents, and when they found that certain of them were becoming forgotten. It is scarcely likely that at that remote period any effective supervision of the accuracy of the written copies by a central authority was attempted, and though the copyists in their copies adhered in the main to the versions of the prayers, etc., which they had received, variations, additions, and mistakes, that were often due to the misreading of the characters, soon crept into them. Experience has shown that it is extremely difficult to preserve, even in these days of printing and stereotype, the text of a work in an accurate and genuine state, and when copies of a text have to be multiplied by hand the difficulty is increased a thousand-fold. For, besides the mistakes due to the carelessness and ignorance, and to the fatigue of the eye and the hand of the copyist, there remain to be considered the additions and interpolations which are always made by the scribe who wishes the text he is copying to represent his own views. It was such tendencies as these on the part of scribes and copyists which made it necessary for Talmudic sages to resort to the means of "casuistic exegesis" for the preservation not of the original text of the Hebrew Bible but even of that text which had become authoritative in their time; and it is a well known fact that, within a few years after the death of Muḥammad the Prophet the notables of the Muḥammadan world were alarmed at the variations which had already crept into the Suras of the Ḳur'ân, and that one of them warned ¹ his master to "stop the people, before they should differ regarding their Scripture, as did the Jews and Christians!" In this case the variant readings of a national religious book, which was held to be of divine origin, were disposed of in a most effectual manner, for, as soon as the four authorities who had been appointed to make a final recension of the Arabic text began work, they collected copies of the Kūr'ân from all parts of the Muḥammadan dominions, and having decided what readings were to be retained, they burnt all the manuscripts containing those which they rejected. It seems almost a pity that some such drastic method was not employed in the formation of a textus receptus of the Book of the Dead.

The graves of the pre-dynastic dwellers in Egypt contain no religious inscriptions, and it is not until we come to the time of the dynastic Egyptians that the tombs afford much evidence of the existence of the Book of the Dead; it is, however, certain that parts of the Book of the Dead were in general use before the period of the rule of the kings of the Ist Dynasty. The numerous tombs of priestly officials, and the inscriptions in them, testify that the men for whom they were made performed during their lifetime offices in connexion with the burial of the dead, such as the reading of texts and the performance of ceremonies, which we know from the rubrics of the recensions of the Book of the Dead of a later period were regarded by the Egyptians as essential for salvation; now if the official lived and read the texts and performed the ceremonies of the Book of the Dead, that work must certainly have existed in one form or another, for priests were not appointed to read religious books which did not exist. The Egyptians themselves have not left behind any very definite statement as to their belief about the existence of the Book of the Dead in pre-dynastic times, but they had no hesitation in asserting that certain parts of it were as old as the 1st Dynasty, as we may see from the following facts. The oldest copy of the Book of the Dead now known to exist on papyrus is that which was written for Nu, the son of "the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Amen-hetep, and of the lady of the house, Senseneb;" this extremely valuable document cannot be of later date than the early part of the XVIIIth Dynasty.¹ Of the Sixty-fourth Chapter it gives two versions, one much longer than the other, and to each version is appended a rubric which assigns a date to the text which it follows; the rubric of the shorter version declares that the "Chapter was found in the foundations of the shrine of Henu by the chief mason during the reign of his Majesty, the king of the South and North, Semti" (or, Hesepti), and that of the longer version that it "was found in the city of Khemennu (Hermopolis, the city of Thoth) upon a block of iron of the south, which had been inlaid [with

 “of the South and North, Men-kau-Rā (i.e. Mycerinus), “by the royal son Heru-ṭā-ṭā-f.” Here then we have two statements, one of which ascribes the “finding” of the Chapter to the time of the Ist Dynasty, and the other to the IVth Dynasty; and it is probable that both statements are correct, for it is clear that the longer version, which is ascribed to the IVth Dynasty, is much longer than that which is ascribed to the Ist Dynasty, and it is evident that it is an amplified version of the shorter form of the Chapter. The meaning of the word “found” in connexion with the Chapter is not quite clear, but it is probable that it does not mean “discovery” only, and that the performance of some literary work on the text, such as revision or editing, is intended. The mention of king Senti in the rubric to the shorter version of the Chapter is of interest, especially when we consider the representations which are found upon the ebony tablet of the royal chancellor Hemaka;¹ this tablet appears to have been dedicated to the honour of Senti, for his Horus name Ten appears upon it side by side with that of his royal chancellor Hemaka. To the right of the name is a scene in which we see the god Osiris, upon the top of a short flight of steps; before him is a figure of king Senti, who is dancing away out of the presence of the god, and he wears the crowns of the South and North on his head, and holds in one hand the object , and in the other a staff or paddle. That the god in the shrine is Osiris is beyond doubt, for he occupies the position at the top of the staircase which in later days gained for Osiris the title of "the god at the top of the staircase;"¹ on sarcophagi and elsewhere pictures are sometimes given of the god sitting on the top of the staircase.² Other examples are known of kings dancing before their god with a view of pleasing him, e.g., Usertsen danced before the god Amsu or Min, and Seti I. danced before Sekhet, and the reference in the text of Pepi I.³ to the king dancing before the god, i.e., Osiris, like the reference to the pigmy, proves that the custom was common in Egypt in early dynastic times; that the custom was not confined to Egypt is certain from the passage in the Bible (2 Samuel vi. 14, ff.), where we are told that David danced before the ark of the Lord. Below the dancing scene on the tablet are a number of hieroglyphics, the meaning of which is very doubtful, but in the left hand corner is one which must represent the boat of Henu, and as we are told that the earliest form of the LXIVth Chapter was found in the foundations of the shrine of Henu, it seems as if king Senti was in some way specially attached to the service of this god, or to the performance of ceremonies in which the boat of Henu was a prominent feature; it must also be noted that the figure of Osiris seated in his shrine on the top of a short staircase is the oldest representation of the god which we have. From the fact that the chancellor Hemaka depicts the dancing scene on the tablet, and also the boat of Henu, we may assume that the king's connexion both with the god and with the boat was of such a special nature that the loyal servant, regarding it as one of the most important features of the king's life, determined to keep it in remembrance. There remains another point to notice about the LXIVth Chapter. The version of it to which the name of Senti is attached is entitled, "The Chapter of Knowing the Chapters of Coming Forth [by Day] in a single Chapter." Now, we have said above that the Egyptians called the Chapters of the Book of the Dead the "Chapters of Coming Forth by Day," and judging from the title it would seem that as early as Senti's time these Chapters had become so numerous that it was all-important to compose, or edit one of the Chapters which then existed, in such a way that it should contain all the knowledge necessary to the dead for their salvation; if this view be correct, and there is no reason to doubt it, we have here an extraordinary proof of the antiquity of certain parts of the Book of the Dead. The contents of the LXIVth Chapter are of a remarkable nature, and there is no doubt that in all periods of Egyptian history it was believed to contain the essence of the Book of the Dead, and to be equal in value to all its other Chapters, and to have a protective power over the dead which was not less than that of all the other Chapters taken together. That some important event in the history of the Book of the Dead happened during the reign of Senti is certain, and that this event had a connexion with the doctrine and worship of Osiris is certain from the representation of the god and of the boat of Henu, which are given on the contemporaneous tablet of Senti's chancellor Hemaka.

Of the history of the Book of the Dead during the IInd, IIIrd, and IVth Dynasties we know nothing, and no copy of any part of the Recension of it then in use has come down to us. During the reign of Men-kau-Rā (Mycerinus), a king of the IVth Dynasty, it is said that Chapters XXXB., LXIV., and CXLVIII. were "found" by Heru-ṭā-ṭā-f, the son of Khufu, a man to whom in later ages the possession of great learning was ascribed, and it is very probable that, like King Senti, he revised or edited the Chapters to which his name is attached in rubrics; for the numerous funeral inscriptions of the period prove that at that time a Recension of the Book of the Dead was in general use.

During the period of the Vth and VIth Dynasties a great development took place in the funeral ceremonies that were performed for Egyptian Kings, and Ūnās, Tetā, Pepi I., and others covered the greater part of the chambers, corridors, etc., of their pyramid tombs with series of texts selected from the Book of the Dead in the earliest Recension of that work known to us.¹ We possess five selections of texts from this Recension, to which, on account of its containing the views held by the priests of the colleges of Ānnu, or Heliopolis, the name Heliopolitan has been given, but we have no reason for assuming that the Chapters supplied by the five selections constitute the entire work. It is impossible at present to indicate exactly all the changes, modifications, and additions which the priests of Ānnu made in the work, but scattered throughout their Recension there is abundant evidence to show that the Recension upon which they worked was based upon two, or perhaps three, earlier Recensions. In their Recension also will be found religious ideas and beliefs which belong to entirely different strata of civilization and religious thought, and it is clear that some of them came down from the North African section of their ancestors, who at the time when they formulated them must have stood but little higher on the ladder of civilization than the semi-barbarous tribes of Western Africa and the Sūdân.

Between the VIth and the XIth Dynasties we know

nothing of the history of the Book of the Dead, and it is not until we come to some period in the XIth Dynasty that we find other selections from the work. But little is known of the events which happened in the interval between the VIth and the XIth Dynasties, and although in Upper Egypt tombs of considerable size and beauty were built, yet no striking development in funeral ceremonies took place, and we may assume in consequence that no new Recension of the Book of the Dead was made; if it was, we certainly have no record of it. Belonging to the XIth and XIIth Dynasties, however, we have a number of coffins and tombs which are inscribed with selections of texts from the so-called Heliopolitan Recension; such texts differ in extent only and not in character or contents from those of the royal pyramids of Šakḥâra of the Vth and VIth Dynasties. Coffins at this period were made to represent the main funeral chamber or hall of a tomb of an older period, and are covered inside with lengthy texts traced in hieratic characters in black ink upon the wood, while the outside is plain except for a few short inscriptions, which record the name and titles of the deceased, and short prayers. Above the perpendicular lines of text on all four sides inside the coffin are painted pictures of the objects which it was customary in those days to present as funeral offerings, and above these is a horizontal line of hieroglyphics which contains the name of the deceased and usually a prayer that funeral offerings may be made to him for ever. The texts in such coffins are rarely identical, and they have no fixed order, and it seems as if individual fancy either of the deceased or of the funeral scribe dictated the selection. As no pyramids were inscribed with extracts from the Book of the Dead at this period it is clear that economy prescribed the custom of burying the dead in inscribed wooden coffins, which were far cheaper than stone pyramids.

Between the XIIth and XVIIIth Dynasties there comes another break in the history of the Book of the Dead, and with the beginning of the XVIIIth Dynasty that work enters a new phase of its existence; from pyramids the transition was to coffins, and now the transition is from coffins to papyri. And here again economy probably played an important part. Inscribed pyramids, and sarcophagi, and coffins would, necessarily, be only made for royal personages and for great and wealthy folk, but a roll of papyrus was, in comparison with these, an inexpensive thing, especially if the services of an ordinary scribe were employed in transcribing it, or if a man wrote his own copy of the Book of the Dead. The greater number of the papyri inscribed with selections of texts from the Book of the Dead have been found in the tombs of Thebes, where they were copied chiefly for the priests and their wives and families, the majority of whom were attached to the service of "Åmen-Rā, the king of the gods, the lord of the thrones of the world," the seat of whose worship was at Thebes; and for this reason the Re-cension of the Book of the Dead which we find in common use from the XVIIIth to the XXIIInd Dynasty is generally called the Theban Recension. The texts which the priests of Âmen copied were, of course, those of Ânnu, or Heliopolis, and during the earlier centuries of the existence of the great brotherhood of the priests of Âmen they did little more than adopt the religious views and doctrines of the sages of that place. As time went on, however, and the brotherhood obtained greater power, they slowly but surely made their god Âmen to usurp the attribute of the oldest gods of Egypt, and at length, as we may see from Chapter CLXXI. (infra, p. 580), his name is included among theirs. Fine copies of papyri of the Theban Recension vary in length from 15 to 90 feet, and in width from 12 to 18 inches. In the early part of the XVIIIth Dynasty the text is always written in black ink in vertical columns of hieroglyphics, which are separated from each other by black lines; the titles and initial words of the Chapters, and the rubrics and catch-words are written in red ink. At this period the scribes began to ornament their papyri with designs traced in black outline, but such designs, or "vignettes," were not wholly invented by the priests of Âmen, for on some of the finest coffins of the XIth Dynasty we find painted a number of vignettes which illustrate the texts, and in the case of such a vignette as that which represents the Elysian Fields we find that the scribe of the XVIIIth Dynasty copied the design of the scribe of the XIth Dynasty in all essentials. It is possible that the scribe of the earlier period possessed an archetype which was their ultimate authority for their vignettes, but if they did, no remains of it have up to the present been found. In the XIXth Dynasty the vignettes were painted in very bright colours, and the texts were, little by little, driven into the subordinate position which the vignettes occupied at the beginning of the XVIIIth Dynasty, when they were traced in black outline. In the Papyrus of Hunefer (Brit. Mus. No. 9901) almost everything has been sacrificed to the beautifully coloured vignettes which it contains, and as a result its text of the XVIIth Chapter is so full of mistakes that many parts of it have no meaning at all. At first the "setting out" of a papyrus was done by the scribe, and the artist, if one was employed, filled in his vignettes in the spaces which had been left blank by the scribe; but subsequently the artist seems to have painted his vignettes first and the scribe had to be content with the spaces which had been allotted to him by the artist. Long copies of the Theban Recension were made in sections, which were afterwards joined together, and sometimes several scribes and artists, who seem to have been ignorant or careless of what each other was doing, were employed upon them. Thus fine papyri which have been made in sections contain duplicates, and even triplicates of some Chapters, and in some cases where duplicates occur the arrangement, both of texts and vignettes, is quite different in each. One of the finest illustrated papyri in existence, the Papyrus of Ani, omits a large section of the text of the XVIIth Chapter, a result which is probably due to the scribe, who omitted to copy what seems to be the contents of a whole sheet of the text. Vignettes, however, have at times a peculiar value, for they often supply descriptions of mythological scenes, names of gods, etc., which occur nowhere in the texts; of special importance in this connexion are the Judgment Scenes and its accompanying texts, and the long vignette to the XVIIth Chapter. In the XXIst and XXIIInd Dynasties we note a gradual falling off in the skill exhibited in the artistic work on the papyri of the Book of the Dead, and many changes take place in respect of the form as well as their contents. In the first place they are shorter and narrower, especially those which were made for the priests of Amen, and texts are inserted in them which belong to a great funeral composition entitled "The Book of that which is in the Underworld." Some papyri, however, preserve many of the characteristics of those of the best period, but it almost seems as if the work of both scribes and artists had greatly deteriorated, and it is certain that the views of the priests of Amen with reference to the Book of the Dead had changed. Thus in the Papyrus of Anhai, of the XXIIInd Dynasty (Brit. Mus. No. 10,472), we find a vignette representing the Creation, and others which have no connexion with the Book of the Dead in the strict sense of the term; the artist's work is good of its kind, and the use of gold in it for purposes of illumination is instructive. The texts are fragmentary and incomplete, and often have no connexion whatsoever with the vignettes which accompany them. About this period texts are copied in which the scribe has read from the end of the composition instead of the beginning; omissions of whole sections of texts are frequent; vignettes are frequently assigned to Chapters with which they have no connexion; and what appears at first sight to be a Chapter frequently consists of nothing but a series of fragments of sentences, copied without break merely to fill up the space which the artist had left blank for the text. In short, showy papyri with inaccurate texts are common at this period. It is interesting too to note how great had become the influence of the priests of Amen in the XXIInd Dynasty, and how they gradually made their god to usurp the attributes of the older gods of Egypt. In the Papyrus of the Princess Nesi Khensu which is preserved in the Cairo Museum, the hieratic text opens with a long detailed list of the titles of Amen-Rā, and instead of a selection of Chapters from the Theban Recension we find a series of statements, couched apparently in legal language, in which Amen-Rā swears that he will confer every possible favour upon the deceased lady. About the same period it became customary to write copies of the Book of the Dead in hieratic, and to illustrate them with vignettes traced in outline in black ink; some of these papyri measure about 50ft. by 1ft. 6in., but in others the dimensions are considerably less. As in the old days, the scribes who wrote such papyri observed no rule in the order of the Chapters, to which, however, they gave special titles; these were, of course, like the texts which followed them, copied from the Theban Recension.

Of the history of the Book of the Dead in the period which lies between the end of the XXIInd and the beginning of the XXVIth Dynasty we know nothing, but this is not much to be wondered at when we consider that the period was one of trouble and tumult. The priests of Āmen-Rā, having made their god to usurp the position of Rā and the other gods in the religious system of Egypt, next usurped the kingdom on behalf of themselves; but they were unable to maintain the authority of Egypt in the countries which had been conquered by the great kings of the XVIIIth and XIXth Dynasties, and as an inevitable result the subject nations and tribes refused to pay the tribute which had been imposed upon them. The failure in tribute spelt failure in offerings to the temples, and consequently loss of temporal power by the priests, and when the people of Egypt realized that they were losing their position among the nations they brought the rule of the priests of Āmen to an end. The loss of income of both priests and people resulted promptly in the curtailment of expense in connexion with funeral ceremonies, and thus it happens that the burials of the priests were attended with less pomp, and the custom of making copies of the Book of the Dead fell into abeyance; indeed, a time came, about B.C. 700, when no copies at all were made, and it seems as if this time corresponded with the period of the final failure of the priests of Amen to rule the country.

With the rise to power of the kings of the XXVIth Dynasty, a general revival of ancient religious and funeral customs took place, and the temples were cleansed and repaired, and ancient and long-forgotten texts were unearthed and copies of them taken, and artists and sculptors took the models for their work from the best productions of the masters of the Early Empire. In such a revival the Book of the Dead was not forgotten, and there is no doubt that those who were the principal authors of the movement became fully aware of the fact that the texts which formed their old national and religious work sorely needed re-editing and re-arranging, and measures were accordingly taken to put some system into them. How and when exactly this was done cannot be said, but it is probable that it was carried out by an assembly or college of priests, and the result of their labours was the Saïte Recension of the Book of the Dead. The papyri extant which may be rightly assigned to this period show that in this Recension the Chapters have a fixed order, and that although some selections of texts may be smaller than others, the Chapters common to all papyri have always the same relative order. Each of the early Recensions of the Book of the Dead exhibits peculiarities which reflect the religious views of the time when it was written, and the Saïte Recension is no exception to the rule, for included in it are four Chapters (CLXII.-CLXV.) which have no counterparts in the papyri of the older period. These Chapters contain many foreign words and unusual ideas, and it is much to be wished that the circumstances under which they were introduced into the Book of the Dead were known. The characteristics of the papyri containing the Saïte Recension are:—1. The text is written in long, vertical columns of hieroglyphics of purely conventional form, separated by black lines; 2. The vignettes are traced in outline in black, and generally occupy small spaces at the top of the text to which they refer, the usual exceptions being those which represent the Sunrise or Sunset, the Judgment Scene, the Elysian Fields, and the Seven Cows and their Bull which illustrates the text of Chapter CXLVIII.

The Recension of the Book of the Dead in use in Ptolemaïc times was the Saïte, but before the rule of the Ptolemies had come to an end a number of short religious works intended to be written upon funeral papyri had been composed, and it became customary to make copies of these for the benefit of the dead, and to lay them in the coffin or tomb, rather than selections from the older work. It appears as if an attempt was made by the scribes to extract from the texts of a bygone time only such parts as were believed to be absolutely necessary for the salvation of the deceased, and they omitted the hymns of praise and the addresses to the gods, and the compositions which were the outcome of beliefs and of a mythology which had long been forgotten. Many things in papyri of the period show that the scribes were quite ignorant of the meaning of the texts which they were copying, and also of the correct arrangement of the vignettes which they added. Of special interest among the works which were popular in the Ptolemaic and Græco-Roman periods, and probably later, is the "Shai en Sensen," or "Book of Breathings." In this composition we find ideas and beliefs which were derived from the Book of the Dead, and which show that the fundamental conceptions of the future life were the same as ever in the minds of the people; as a summary of all the ideas and beliefs that appertain to the immortality and happiness of the soul of the deceased and of his dead body it is remarkable, and considered from this point of view contains scarcely an unnecessary word.¹ In the Roman period small rolls of papyrus were inscribed with series of asseverations concerning the piety of life of deceased persons and their happiness in the world beyond the grave, and were buried with them, the writers' aim being not so much to glorify the gods of Egypt as to secure for the dead the happiness and blessings of immortality in the next world at the least possible expense in this. But the knowledge of the old Recensions of the Book of the Dead was not quite dead in the early centuries of the Christian era, for on a coffin in Paris, which probably dates from the second century after Christ, are written a number of texts which are certainly as old as the Pyramids at Şakḡâra, a fact which proves that, when such were needed, originals from which to copy them could be found, even at that late period. The various Recensions of the Book of the Dead may be thus summarized :—

1. THE HELIOPOLITAN RECENSION : (a) That which was used in the Vth and VIth Dynasties, and is found inscribed in hieroglyphics upon the walls and chambers of the Pyramids at Şakḡâra ; (b) That which was written in cursive hieroglyphics upon coffins in the XIth and XIIth Dynasties.
2. THE THEBAN RECENSION : (a) That which was written upon papyri and painted upon coffins in hieroglyphics from the XVIIth to the XXIIInd Dynasties ; (b) That which was written in the hieratic character upon papyri in the XXIst and XXIIInd Dynasties.
3. THE SAÏTE RECENSION, which was written upon papyri, coffins, etc., in the hieroglyphic, hieratic, and demotic characters during the XXVIth and following Dynasties ; this was the Recension which was much used in the Ptolemaic period, and which may be regarded as the last form of the Book of the Dead.

In the Graeco-Roman and Roman periods extracts from the last Recension were written upon papyri a few inches square and buried with the dead, and we see that the great religious work of the ancient Egyptians, which had been in existence for at least 5000 years, and mere selections from which would fill the walls of the chambers and passages of a pyramid, or which would fill several scores of feet of papyrus, or would cover a whole coffin, ended its existence in almost illegible scrawls hastily traced upon scraps of papyrus only a few inches square.

From first to last throughout the Book of the Dead, with the exceptions of Kings Semti and Men-kau-Rā, and Heru-tā-tā-f, the son of Khufu, the name of no man is mentioned as the author or reviser of any part of it. Certain Chapters may show the influence of the cult of a certain city or cities, but the Book of the Dead cannot be regarded as the work of any one man or body of men, and it does not represent the religious views and beliefs of any one part only of Egypt; on the contrary, the beliefs of many peoples and periods are gathered together in it. As a whole, the Book of the Dead was regarded as the work of the god Thoth, the scribe of the gods, and thus was believed to be of divine origin; it was Thoth who spoke the words at the Creation which were carried into effect by Ptah and Khnemu, and as advocate and helper or the god Osiris, and therefore of every believer in Osiris, the ascription of the authorship to him is most fitting. This view was held down to a late period, for in the Book of Breathings,¹ in an address to the deceased it is said, "Thoth, the most mighty god, the lord of "Khemennu (Hermopolis), cometh to thee, and he "writeth for thee the Book of Breathings with his own "fingers." Copies of the Book of the Dead, and works of a similar nature, were placed either in the coffin with the deceased, or in some part of the hall of the tomb, or of the mummy chamber, generally in a niche which was cut for the purpose. Sometimes the papyrus was laid loosely in the coffin, but more frequently it was placed between the legs of the deceased, either just above the ankles or near the upper part of the thighs, before the swathing of the mummy took place. In the XXIst Dynasty the custom grew up of placing funeral papyri in hollow wooden figures of the god Osiris, which were placed in the tombs, but in later times, when funeral papyri were much smaller, they were laid in rectangular cavities sunk either in the tops or sides of the pedestals to which such figures were attached. At first the figure was that of the god Osiris, in his character of god of the dead and judge of the underworld, but the attributes of the triune god Ptah-

Seker-Âsar, the god of the resurrection, were subsequently added to it, and suitable variations in the texts written on the papyri which were placed in or beneath them were made accordingly.

OSIRIS, THE GOD OF JUDGMENT, THE RESURRECTION, IMMORTALITY,
THE ELYSIAN FIELDS, ETC.

IN the oldest religious texts known the absolute identity of the deceased with Osiris is always assumed by the writer, and in later times the deceased is actually called by the name of the god; moreover, in every detail of the funeral ceremonies the friends and relatives of the dead sought to imitate the ceremonies which were declared by tradition to have been performed for the god, believing that thereby only could everlasting life and happiness be assured to the departed. The history of Osiris is shrouded in the mists of remote antiquity, and as the ancient Egyptian writers supply us with no information concerning their theories about the god there are small grounds for hoping that we shall ever possess any authentic history of him. It is, however, quite certain that even in the earliest dynastic times in Egypt the history of Osiris was legendary, and that all the main features of the story which Plutarch gave in De Iside et Osiride were then current; the scene on the plaque of Senti

(see British Museum, No. 32,650), a king of the 1st Dynasty, proves that the "god on the top of the staircase" occupied a most prominent position in the religion of the country. The texts of the Heliopolitan Recension of the Book of Dead assume throughout that Osiris occupied the position of chief of the cycle of the gods of the dead, and down to the earliest centuries of the Christian era the fundamental ideas expressed in every text which was written for the benefit of the dead rest on this assumption. It was universally believed that Osiris was of divine origin, that he lived upon earth in a material body, that he was treacherously murdered and cut in pieces, that his sister Isis collected the limbs of his body, and, by means of magical words which had been specially provided by the god Thoth, reconstituted it, that the god came to life again by these means, that he became immortal, and entered into the underworld, where he became both the judge and king of the dead. The dismembering of the body of Osiris rather calls to mind the practice of the pre-dynastic Egyptians who, at one period, cut the bodies of their dead into pieces before burial, and removed the head from the body, to which, however, they showed special honour by placing it in a raised position in the grave. Thus one portion of the legend of Osiris may be of indigenous or North African origin; at all events the ceremonies connected with the raising up of the Tet which were performed in early dynastic times at Abydos, where the head of the god was believed to be buried, suggest the commemoration of funeral rites which can hardly have been introduced by the conquerors from the East. In the XVIIIth Dynasty it is expressly stated in Chapter CLIV. of the Book of the Dead (infra, p. 517) that Osiris neither decayed, nor putrefied, nor rotted away, nor became worms, nor perished, and that he enjoyed existence, being in the full possession of all the members of his body. Thus the deceased King Thothmes III. is made to say, "I shall live, I shall live. I shall grow, I shall grow, I shall grow. I shall wake up in peace; I shall not putrefy; my intestines shall not perish; I shall not suffer from any defect; mine eye shall not decay, the form of my visage shall not disappear; mine ear shall not become deaf; my head shall not be separated from my neck; my tongue shall not be carried away; my hair shall not be cut off; mine eyebrows shall not be shaved off; and no baleful injury shall come upon me. My body shall be established (i.e., constituted), and it shall neither fall into decay nor be destroyed upon this earth." And the king, and every other follower of Osiris, believed that he would enjoy everlasting life and happiness in a perfectly constituted body because Osiris had conquered death, and had risen from the dead, and was living in a body which was perfect in all its members; moreover, for countless generations Osiris was the type and emblem of the resurrection, and relying upon his power to give immortality to man untold generations lived and died. In the hymns which are addressed to him he is called the "king of eternity, the "lord of the everlasting, who passeth through millions "of years in his existence" (see p. 18); and again it is said (see p. 67), "The dead rise up to see thee, they "breathe the air and they look upon thy face when the "Disk riseth on its horizon; their hearts are at peace "inasmuch as they behold thee, O thou who art "Eternity and Everlastingness." Still more remarkable are the words which were addressed to him by the god Thoth and which are found in the Papyrus of Hu-nefer (see p. 623); the scribe of the gods having enumerated all the titles of Osiris in a series of paragraphs, and shown how love for him permeates every god, says, "Homage to thee, O Governor of those who are "in Amentet, who dost make men and women to "be born again," the new birth being the birth into the new life of the world which is beyond the grave, and is everlasting.

All the pictures of the god Osiris known to us in funeral texts represent him as a being swathed in mummied form, and wearing on his head the white crown, and holding in his hands the emblems of sovereignty and dominion; but those which represent the deceased make him to appear in the ordinary garb of a man who is dressed in ceremonial attire, and he is seen in the Judgment Hall and other places in heaven in the form wherein he went about upon earth. There is reason for thinking that pre-dynastic man believed that his lead would live again in the identical bodies which they had upon earth, i.e., in a material resurrection, and there is no doubt that the funeral offerings which they placed in their graves and tombs were intended to be their food in the next world whilst they were accommodating themselves to their new circumstances. In later times, although the funeral offerings were made as before, the belief in a material resurrection was given up by educated Egyptians, and in texts, both of the earliest and latest periods of Egyptian history, it is distinctly stated that the material part of man rests in the earth whilst the immaterial part has its abode in heaven. Thus in a text of the Vth Dynasty¹ we read, "Rā receiveth thee, soul in heaven, body in earth;" and in one of the VIth Dynasty² it is said to the deceased, "Thine essence is in heaven, thy body is in the "earth"; and in a text of the Ptolemaic period³ it is declared to the deceased, "Heaven hath thy soul, "earth hath thy body." In another text, also of a late date,⁴ the deceased is addressed in these words, "Thy "soul is in heaven before Rā, thy double hath that "which should be given unto it with the gods, thy "spiritual body is glorious among the spirits of fire,

“and thy material body is stablished in the under-world (i.e., grave).” All the available evidence shows that the Egyptians of dynastic times mummified the dead body because they believed that a spiritual body would “germinate” or develop itself in it. We know that an ancient belief held that the head of Osiris was buried at Abydos, and many cities of Egypt claimed that limbs of Osiris were buried in them, and one tradition affirmed that the whole body of the god rested in Ānnu or Heliopolis. The texts show that the Egyptians believed that, if the prescribed prayers were said and the appropriate ceremonies were properly performed over the dead body by duly appointed priests, it acquired the power of developing from out of itself an immaterial body called sāhu, which was able to ascend to heaven and to dwell with the gods there. The sāhu took the form of the body from which it sprang and was immortal, and in it lived the soul. The god Osiris possessed a sāhu in the Egyptian heaven, and in Chapter CXXX. of the Book of the Dead (line 36) the deceased Nu is declared to have received this sāhu from the god; in other words, Osiris rewarded the beatified dead by bestowing upon them his own spiritual form; and elsewhere (see p. 349) the deceased says, “Behold, verily I have said unto thee, O Osiris, ‘I am a sāhu of the god,’” i.e., of Osiris. The proof that the soul dwelt in the sāhu is furnished by a passage in the LXXXIXth Chapter, wherein the deceased addresses the “gods who make “souls to enter into their sāhu” (see p. 280), and the distinct difference between the material and spiritual body is well illustrated by the following petition, which comes at the end of the same Chapter:—“And behold, grant ye that the soul of Osiris Ani, triumphant, may come forth before the gods and that it may be triumphant along with you in the eastern part of the sky to follow unto the place where it (i.e., the ‘boat of millions of years’) was yesterday [and that my soul may have] peace, peace in Amentet. May it look upon its material body, may it rest upon its spiritual body; and may its body neither perish nor suffer corruption for ever.” It now remains to enumerate briefly the constituent parts of man physically, mentally, and spiritually.

1. The physical body, which was called khat , i.e., that which was liable to decay, and could only be preserved by mummification.

2. The ka , a word which by general consent is translated “double”; the Coptic equivalent is κω, and it can in most cases be accurately rendered by one of the meanings of εἶδωλον. The ka was an abstract individuality or personality which possessed the form and attributes of the man to whom it belonged, and, though its normal dwelling place was in the tomb with the body, it could wander about at will; it was independent of the man and could go and dwell in any statue of him. It was supposed to eat and drink, and the greatest care was usually taken to lay abundant supplies of offerings in the tombs lest the kas of those who were buried in them should be reduced to the necessity of leaving their tombs and of wandering about and eating offal and drinking filthy water.

3. The ba ¹, or heart-soul, was in some way connected with the ka, in whom or with whom it was supposed to dwell in the tomb, and to partake of the funeral offerings, although in many texts it is made to live with Rā or Osiris in heaven. It seems to have been able to assume a material or immaterial form at will, and in the former character it is depicted as a human-headed hawk; in the Papyrus of Nebqet at Paris (ed. Devéria and Pierret, pl. 3) it is seen in this form flying down the funeral pit, bearing air and food to the mummified body to which it belongs. The soul could visit the body whensoever it pleased.

4. The ab ¹, or heart, was closely associated with the soul, and it was held to be the source both of the animal life and of good and evil in man. The preservation of the heart of a man was held to be of the greatest importance, and in the Judgment it is the one member of the body which is singled out for special examination; here, however, the heart is regarded as having been the centre of the spiritual and thinking life, and as the organ through which the manifestations of virtue and vice revealed themselves, and it typifies everything which the word "conscience" signifies to us. The necessity of preserving the material heart was very great, and four Chapters of the Book of the Dead (XXVII.—XXXB.) were composed to prevent the heart of a man from being carried off or driven away from him in the underworld by the "stealers of hearts." The most favourite of these Chapters was XXXB., which is found inscribed on large numbers of green basalt amulets, which date from the period of the XIIth Dynasty to that of the Romans. The heart amulet is made in the form of a scarab or beetle, and both it and the Chapter which is associated with it are connected, in the Papyrus of Nu (see p. 221), with that version of the LXIVth Chapter which is there declared to be as old as the time of Men-kau-Rā, a king of the IVth Dynasty.

5. The khaibit , or shadow, was closely associated with the ba or soul, and was certainly regarded as an integral portion of the human economy; it, like the ka, seems to have been nourished by the offerings which were made in the tomb of the person to whom it belonged. Like the ka also it had an existence apart from the body, and it had the power of going wheresoever it pleased. As far back as the time of King Unās¹ we find that souls and spirits and shadows are mentioned together, and in the XCIIInd Chapter of the Book of the Dead (see p. 286) the deceased is made to say, "O keep not captive my soul, O keep not ward

 "over my shadow, but let a way be opened for my soul
 "and for my shadow, and let them see the Great God
 "in the shrine on the day of the judgment of souls,
 "and let them recite the utterances of Osiris, whose
 "habitations are hidden, to those who guard the "members of Osiris, and who keep ward over the "spirits, and who hold captive the shadows of the dead
 "who would work evil against me."

6. The khu , or spiritual soul, is often mentioned in connexion with the ba or heart-soul, and it seems to have been regarded as an ethereal being, in fact the SOUL which under no circumstances could die; it dwelt in the sāhu or spiritual body.

7. The sekhem , or power, which we may look upon as the incorporeal personification of the vital force of a man; the sekhem dwelt in heaven among the khus or spirits, and in the texts it is usually mentioned in connexion with the soul and the spirit.

8. The ren , or name, to preserve which the Egyptians took the most extraordinary precautions, for the belief was widespread that unless the name of a man was preserved he ceased to exist. Already in the time of King Pepi the name was regarded as a most important portion of a man's economy, and in the following passage¹ it ranks equally with the ka :—

“shoot forth” and endure as long as the names of Tem, Shu, Seb, and other gods, and, with modifications, the prayer written for Pepi II. in the VIth Dynasty was in common use at the Graeco-Roman period in Egypt. To preserve the name of his parents was the bounden duty of every pious son, and every offering which was made in a man’s tomb, however small, provided it was coupled with the mention of the deceased’s name, helped to keep in existence the person whose name was mentioned.¹

9. The sāhu , or spiritual body, which formed the habitation of the soul. It sprang from the material body, through the prayers which were said, and the ceremonies which were performed at the tomb or elsewhere by duly appointed and properly qualified priests, and was lasting and incorruptible. In it all the mental and spiritual attributes of the natural body were united to the new powers of its own nature.

There is little doubt that the beliefs in the existence of these various members of the spiritual and material bodies are not all of the same age, and they probably upon earth; thy name shall endure upon earth; thou shalt never perish, thou shalt never, never come to an end.”

represent several stages of intellectual development on the part of the Egyptians; their origin and development it is now impossible to trace, and the contradictions in the texts prove that the Egyptians themselves had not always definite ideas about the functions of each.

The judgment of the dead took place in the Judgment Hall of Osiris, the exact position of which is unknown; the Judge was Osiris, who was supported by the gods which formed his paut  or company. The judgment of each individual seems to have taken place soon after death; those who were condemned in the judgment were devoured straightway by the Eater of the Dead, and ceased to exist, and those who were not condemned entered into the domains of Osiris, where they found everlasting life and happiness. There are no grounds for thinking that the Egyptians believed either in a general resurrection or in protracted punishment. The deceased whose heart or conscience had been weighed in the balance, and not found wanting, was declared to be "maā kheru "

, and in papyri these words always follow the names of the persons for whom they were written. They are commonly rendered "triumphant," or "victorious," "disant la vérité," "véridique," "juste," "justifié," "vainqueur," "waltend des Wortes," "mächtig der Rede," "vrai de voix," "juste de voix," etc., but their true meaning seems to be "he whose word is right and true," i.e., he whose word is held to be right and true by those to whom it is addressed, and as a result, whatsoever is ordered or commanded by the person who is declared in the Judgment Hall to be maā kheru is straightway performed by the beings or things who are commanded or ordered. Thus before the person who possessed the "right word," the doors of the halls of the underworld were opened, and the beings who had power therein became his servants; he had power to go wheresoever he pleased, and to do whatsoever he pleased, and he became the equal of the gods. The ideas which attached to the words maā kheru are well illustrated by the following passage from the text of Pepi I. (l. 171 ff.):—"O enter into the verdant stream of " the Lake of Kha, O fill with water the Fields of " Āaru, and let Pepi set sail for the eastern half " of heaven towards that place where the gods are " brought forth, wherein Pepi himself may be borne " along with them as Heru-khuti, for Pepi is maā " kheru, and Pepi acclaimeth, and the ka of Pepi " acclaimeth [the gods]. And they call Pepi, and " they bring to him these four [gods] who make their " way over the tresses of Horus, and who stand with " their sceptres in the eastern half of heaven; and " they declare to Rā the excellent name of Pepi, and " they exalt the excellent name of Pepi before Neheb- " kau, for Pepi is maā kheru, and Pepi acclaimeth, and " his ka acclaimeth [the gods]. The sister of Pepi is “ Sothis, and the birth of Pepi is the morning star,

“ and it is he who is under the body of heaven before “ Rā. Pepi is maā kheru, and he acclaimeth and his “ ka acclaimeth [the gods].”

The allusion to the “ Fields of Áaru ” in the above extract leads naturally to a brief mention of the “ Sekhet-hetepet,” or Elysian Fields, wherein the beatified were believed to lead a life of celestial happiness. At a very early period in their history the Egyptians believed in the existence of a place wherein the blessed dead led a life of happiness, the characteristics of which much resemble those of the life which he had led upon earth ; these characteristics are so similar that it is hard to believe that in the early times the one life was not held to be a mere continuation of the other. At all events, the delights and pleasures of this world were believed to be forthcoming in the next, and a life there in a state of happiness which depended absolutely upon material things was contemplated. Such ideas date from the time when the Egyptians were in a semi-savage state, and the preservation of them is probably due to their extreme conservatism in all matters connected with religion ; the remarkable point about them is their persistence, for they occur in texts which belong to periods when it was impossible for the Egyptians to have attached any serious importance to them, and some of the coarsest ideas are in places mingled with the expression of lofty spiritual conceptions. In a passage in the text of Unās it is said of this king (l. 623), “Unās hath come to his pools which are on “both sides of the stream of the goddess Meht-urt, and “to the place of verdant offerings, and to the fields

“which are on the horizon; he hath made his fields
“on both sides of the horizon to be verdant. He hath “brought the crystal to the Great Eye which is in the “field, he hath taken his seat in the horizon, he “riseth like Sebek the son of Neith, he eateth with his “mouth, he voideth water, he enjoyeth the pleasures of “love, and he is the begetter who carrieth away women “from their husbands whenever it pleaseth him so to “do.” And in the text of Tetā (l. 286 f.) we read, “Hail, Osiris Tetā, Horus hath granted that Thoth “shall bring thine enemy unto thee. He hath placed “thee behind him that he may not harm thee and that “thou mayest make thy seat upon him, and that when “coming forth thou mayest sit upon him so that he “may not be able to force intercourse upon thee.”
Such passages give a very clear idea of the state of Egyptian morals when they were written, and they indicate the indignities to which those vanquished in war, both male and female, were exposed at the hands of the conquerors.

The texts of the early period supply much information about the pleasures of the deceased in the world beyond the grave, but no attempt to illustrate the employments of the blessed dead is given until the XVIIIth Dynasty, when the vignette to the CXth

Chapter of the Book of the Dead was inserted in papyri.¹ Here we have an idea given of the conception which the Egyptian formed of the place wherein he was to dwell after death. A large homestead or farm, intersected with canals, is at once his paradise and the home of the blessed dead, and the abode of the god of his city. This place is called Sekhet-Åaru or "Field of Reeds," and the name certainly indicates that at one time the Egyptian placed his paradise in the north of Egypt, probably in some part of the Delta, near Taṭṭu, or Busiris, the capital of the Busirite or ninth nome of Lower Egypt. It was here that the reconstitution of the dismembered body of Osiris took place, and it was here that the solemn ceremony of setting up the , or backbone of Osiris, was performed each year. The Field of Reeds, however, was but a portion of the district called "Sekhet-Hetep" or "Sekhet-Hetepet," or "Fields of Peace," over which there presided a number of gods, and here the deceased led a life which suggests that the idea of the whole place originated with a nation of agriculturists. In the vignettes we see the deceased sailing in a boat laden with offerings which he is bearing to the hawk-god. In another place he is reaping wheat and driving the oxen which tread out the corn, and beyond that he is kneeling before two heaps of grain, one red and one white. In the next division he is ploughing the land of Sekhet-Ānru or Sekhet-Āaru, by the side of a stream of vast length and unknown breadth, which contains neither worm nor fish. In the fourth division is the abode of the god Osiris, and here are the places where dwell those who are nourished upon divine food, and the spiritual bodies of the dead. In one section of this division the deceased placed the god of his city, so that even in respect of his religious observances his life might be as perfect as it was upon earth. His wishes in the matter of the future life are represented by the following prayer :—"Let me be rewarded with thy fields, O god "Hetep; that which is thy wish shalt thou do, O "lord of the winds. May I become a spirit therein, "may I eat therein, may I drink therein, may I plough "therein, may I reap therein, may I fight therein, may "I make love therein, may my words be mighty therein, "may I never be in a state of servitude therein, but "may I have authority therein." Elsewhere in the same Chapter the deceased addresses the gods of the various lakes and sections of the Elysian Fields, and he states that he has bathed in the holy lake, that all uncleanness has departed from him, and that he has arrayed himself in the apparel of Rā; in his new life even amusements are provided (but they are the amusements of earth), for he snares feathered fowl and sails about in his boat catching worms and serpents.

In the texts of all periods we read often that the deceased lives with Rā, that he stands among the company of the gods, and that he is one like unto the divine beings who dwell with them; but little is told us concerning his intercourse with those whom he has known upon earth, and if it were not for some two or three passages in the Theban Recension of the Book of the Dead we should be obliged to assume that the power to recognize the friends of earth in the next world was not enjoyed by the deceased. But that he really possessed this power, at least so far as his parents were concerned, we learn from the CXth Chapter, where the deceased, addressing a pool or lake situated in the first section of the Elysian Fields, says, "O Qenqentet, I have entered into thee, and I have seen the Osiris [my father], and I have recognized my mother," a delight, however, which he brackets with the pleasures of making love and of catching worms and serpents! In the papyrus of the priestess Anhai (see p. 325) we actually see the deceased lady in converse with two figures, one of whom is probably her father and the other certainly her mother, for above the head of the latter are written the words "her mother" (mut-s) followed by the name. A supplementary proof of this is afforded by a passage in the LIInd Chapter, where the deceased says:—"The gods shall say unto me: 'What manner of food wouldst thou have given unto thee?' [And I reply:] 'Let me eat my food under the sycamore tree of my lady, the goddess Hathor, and let my times be among the divine beings who have alighted thereon. Let me

“ ‘have the power to order my own fields in Tattu
“ ‘and my own growing crops in Annu. Let me live “ ‘upon bread made of white barley, and let my ale be “ ‘[made] from red grain, and may the persons of my “ ‘father and my mother be given unto me as guardians
“ ‘of my door and for the ordering of my territory.’ ”
The same idea is also expressed in the CLXXXIXth Chapter (l. 7). Thus the deceased hoped to have in the next world an abundance of the material comforts which he enjoyed in this world, and to meet again his own god, and his father and mother; as we see him frequently accompanied by his wife in several vignettes to other Chapters we may assume that he would meet her again along with the children whom she bore him.

It will be noticed that little is said throughout the Book of the Dead about the spiritual occupations of the blessed dead, and we are told nothing of the choirs of angels who hymn the Deity everlastingly in the religious works of later Western nations. The dead who attained to everlasting life became in every respect like the divine inhabitants of heaven, and they ate the same meat, and drank the same drink, and wore the same apparel, and lived as they lived. No classification of angels is mentioned, and grades of them like Cherubim, and Seraphim, Thrones, Powers, Dominions, etc., such as are found in the celestial hierarchy of Semitic nations, are unknown; a celestial city constructed on the model described in the Apocalypse is also unknown.

We have seen that the Elysian Fields much resembled the flat, fertile lands intersected by large canals and streams of running water, such as must always have existed and may still be seen in certain parts of the Delta; of the distance to be traversed by the dead before they were reached nothing whatever is said. As the Egyptian made his future world a counterpart of the Egypt which he knew and loved, and gave to it heavenly counterparts of all the sacred cities thereof, he must have conceived the existence of a water way like the Nile, with tributaries and branches, whereon he might sail and perform his journeys. According to some texts the abode of the dead was away beyond Egypt to the north, but according to others it might be either above or below the earth. The oldest tradition of all placed it above the earth, and the sky was the large flat or vaulted iron surface which formed its floor; this iron surface was supported upon four pillars; one at each of the cardinal points, and its edges were some height above the earth. To reach this iron ceiling of the earth and floor of heaven a ladder was thought to be necessary, as we may see from the following passage, in which Pepi the king says, "Homage to thee, O ladder¹ of the god, homage to thee, O ladder of Set. "Set thyself up, O ladder of the god, set thyself up, "O ladder of Set, set thyself up, O ladder of Horus, "whereby Osiris appeared in heaven when he wrought “protection for Rā For it is thy son Pepi, and “this Pepi is Horus, and thou hast given birth to this “Pepi even as thou hast given birth to the god who is “the lord of the ladder. Thou hast given unto him

“the ladder of the god, and thou hast given unto him
“the ladder of Set, whereby this Pepi hath appeared in “heaven, when he wrought protection for Rā.”

A later belief placed the abode of the departed away to the west or north-west of Egypt, and the souls of the dead made their way thither through a gap in the mountains on the western bank of the Nile near Abydos. A still later belief made out that the abode of the departed was a long, mountainous, narrow valley with a river running along it; starting from the east, it made its way to the north, and then taking a circular direction it came back to the east. In this valley there lived all manner of fearful monsters and beasts, and here was the country through which the sun passed during the twelve hours of night.¹ It is impossible to reconcile all the conflicting statements concerning the abode of the dead, and the Egyptians themselves held different views about it at different periods.

The Egyptians, from the earliest to the latest period of their history, were addicted to the use of magical formulae which were thought to be able to effect results usually beyond the power of man, and they accompanied the recital of such formulae by the performance of certain ceremonies. The formulae consisted of the repetition of the names of gods and supernatural beings, benevolent or hostile to man as the case might be, and of entreaties or curses; the ceremonies were of various kinds.¹

The Egyptian believed that every word spoken under certain circumstances must be followed by some effect, good or bad; a prayer uttered by a properly qualified person, or by a man ceremonially pure, in the proper place, and in the proper manner, must necessarily be answered favourably; and similarly the curses which were pronounced upon a man, or beast, or thing, in the name of a hostile supernatural being were bound to result in harm to the object cursed. This idea had its origin in the belief that the world and all that therein is came into being immediately after Thoth had interpreted in words the will of the deity, in respect of the creation of the world, and that creation was the result of the god's command. In very early times the Egyptian called in the professional religious man to utter words of good omen over the dead body of his relative or friend, and later the same words written upon some substance and buried with him were believed to be effectual in procuring for him the good things of the life beyond the grave. In the text on the pyramid of Unas (l. 583) is a reference to something written which the deceased was supposed to possess, in the following words:—
 “The bone and flesh which have no writing² are

²   sesh.

“wretched, but, behold, the writing of Unās is under the great seal, and behold, it is not under the little seal.” And in the text on the pyramid of Pepi I. we find the words, “The uraeus of this Pepi is upon his head, there is a writing on each side of him, and he hath words of magical power at his two feet”; thus equipped the king enters heaven.

A common way to effect certain results, good or evil, was to employ figures made of various substances, chiefly wax, or amulets made of precious stones and metals in various forms; both figures and amulets were inscribed with words which gave them the power to carry out the work assigned to them by those who caused them to be made. It is well known that the Egyptians believed that the qualities and much else, including the ka, of a living original could be transferred to an image thereof by means of the repetition over it of certain formulae, and a good or evil act done to a statue or figure resulted in good or evil to the person whom it represented.

About the time of the XVIIIth Dynasty, we learn from a papyrus¹ that a man was prosecuted in Egypt for having made figures of men and women in wax, by which he caused sundry and divers pains and sicknesses to the living beings whom they represented. And, according to Pseudo-Callisthenes,² Nectanebus wrought magic by means of a bowl of water, some waxen figures, and an ebony rod. The waxen figures were made in the forms of the soldiers of the enemy who were coming against him by sea or by land, and were placed upon the water in the basin by him. Nectanebus then arrayed himself in suitable apparel, and, having taken the rod in his hand, began to recite certain formulae and the names of divine powers known unto him, whereupon the waxen figures became animated, and straightway sank to the bottom of the bowl; at the same moment the hosts of the enemy were destroyed. If the foe was coming by sea he placed the waxen soldiers in waxen ships, and at the sound of the words of power both ships and men sank into the waves as the waxen models sank to the bottom of the bowl. The same informant tells us that when Nectanebus wished Olympias, the mother of Alexander the Great, to believe that the god Ammon had visited her during the night, he went forth from her presence into the plain and gathered a number of herbs which had the power of causing dreams, and pressed out the juice from them. He then fashioned a female figure in the form of Olympias, and inscribed the Queen's name upon it, and having made the model of a bed he laid the figure thereon. Nectanebus next lit a lamp, and reciting the words of power which would compel the demons to send Olympias a dream, he poured out the juice of the herbs over the waxen figure; and at the moment of the performance of these acts Olympias dreamed that she was in the arms of the god Ammon.

The most important mention of figures in the Book of the Dead occurs in the VIth Chapter. When the Egyptian, in very early days, conceived the existence of the Elysian Fields it occurred to him that the agricultural labours which would have to be carried out there might entail upon himself toil and fatigue. To avoid this a short Chapter (V.) was drawn up, the recital of which was believed to free the deceased from doing any work in the underworld. But it was felt that the work must be done by some person or thing, and eventually it became the custom to bury a figure or figures of the deceased with him in his tomb so that it or they might perform whatever work fell to his share. To these figures the Egyptian gave the name ushabtiu, a word which is commonly rendered by "respondents" or "answerers," and they are often described in modern times as the "working figures of Hades."

Several of the Chapters of the Book of the Dead are followed by Rubrics which give directions for the performance of certain magical ceremonies, and among them may be specially mentioned the following:—

Chap. XIII. This Chapter was to be recited over two rings made of ānkhām flowers; one was to be laid on the right ear of the deceased, and the other was to be wrapped up in a piece of byssus whereon the name of the deceased was inscribed.

Chap. XIX. This Chapter was to be recited over the divine chaplet which was laid upon the face of the deceased while incense was burnt on his behalf.

Chap. C. This Chapter was to be recited over a picture of the boat of the Sun painted with a special ink upon a piece of new papyrus, which was to be laid on the breast of the deceased, who would then have power to embark in the boat of Rā and to journey with the god.

Chap. CXXV. The Judgment Scene was to be painted upon a tile made of earth upon which neither the pig nor any other animal had trodden; and if the text of the Chapter was also written upon it, the deceased and his children would flourish for ever, his name would never be forgotten, and his place would henceforth be with the followers of Osiris.

Chap. CXXX. This Chapter was to be recited over a picture of the god Rā wherein a figure of the deceased sitting in the bows was drawn; this done, the soul of the deceased would live for ever.

Chap. CXXXIII. This Chapter was to be recited over a faïence model of the boat of Rā, four cubits in length, whereon the figures of the divine chiefs were painted; painted figures of Rā and of the Khu of the deceased were to be placed in the boat. A model of the starry heavens was also to be made and upon it the model of the boat of Rā was to be moved about, in imitation of the motion of the boat of the god in heaven; this ceremony would cause the deceased to be received by the gods in heaven as one of themselves.

Chap. CXXXIV. This Chapter was to be recited over figures of a hawk (Rā). Tem, Shu, Tefnut, Seb, Nut, Osiris, Isis, Suti, and Nephthys painted on a plaque, which was to be placed in a model of the boat of Rā wherein the deceased was seated; this ceremony would cause the deceased to travel with Rā in the sky.

Chap. CXXXVIA. This Chapter was to be recited over a figure of the deceased seated in the boat of Rā.

Chap. CXXXVIIA. This Chapter was to be recited over four fires, fed by a special kind of cloth anointed with unguent, which were to be placed in the hands of four men who had the names of the pillars of Horus written upon their shoulders. Four clay troughs, whereon incense had been sprinkled, were to be filled with the milk of a white cow, and the milk was to be employed in extinguishing the four fires. If this Chapter were recited daily (?) for the deceased he would become like unto Osiris in every respect. The Rubric supplies a series of texts which were to be recited:—(1) over a Tet of crystal set in a plinth, which was to be placed in the west wall of the tomb; (2) over a figure of Anubis set in a plinth, which was to be placed in the east wall; (3) over a brick smeared with pitch which was set on fire, and then placed in the south wall; and (4) over a brick inscribed with the figure of a palm tree, which was set in the north wall.

Chap. CXL. This Chapter was to be recited over an utchat, or figure of the Eye of Horus, made either of lapis-lazuli or Maḥ stone, and over another made of jasper. During the recital of the Chapter four altars were to be lighted for Rā-Tem, and four for the Utchat, and four for the gods who were mentioned therein.

Chap. CXLIV. The seven sections of this Chapter were to be recited over a drawing of the Seven Ārits, at each of which three gods were seated; by these means the deceased was prevented from being turned back at the door of any one of the seven mansions of Osiris.

Chap. CLXII. This Chapter was to be recited over the figure of a cow made of fine gold which was to be placed at the neck of the deceased; during the performance of this ceremony the priest is ordered to say, "O Āmen, O Āmen, who art in heaven, turn thy face upon the dead body of thy son and make him sound and strong in the underworld."

Chap. CLXIII. This Chapter was to be recited over a serpent having legs and wearing a disk and two horns, and over two utchats having both eyes and wings.

Chap. CLXIV. This Chapter was to be recited over a three-headed, ithyphallic figure of Mut painted upon a piece of linen, and over the figures of two dwarfs painted one on each side of the goddess.

Chap. CLXV. This Chapter was to be recited over the figure of the "god of the lifted hand," who had a body in the form of that of a beetle.

Besides these a number of Chapters have Rubrics, varying in length from two to twenty lines, which declare that if the deceased be acquainted with their contents or if they be inscribed upon his coffin, they will enable him to attain great happiness and freedom in the world beyond the grave. Seven other Chapters consist of texts which were written upon the amulets that were usually laid upon the mummy, namely, Nos. XXXB., LXXXIX., CLV., CLVI., CLVII., CLVIII., and CLIX.

Finally, mention must be made here of the great importance attached by the Egyptians to the knowledge of the names of gods, supernatural beings, etc., and it seems that the deceased who was ignorant of them must have fared badly in the underworld. Thus in Chapter IB. it is said that the deceased knoweth Osiris and his names; in Chapter XCIX. the deceased is obliged to tell the names of every portion of the boat wherein he wishes to cross the great river in the underworld; in Chapter CXXV. Anubis makes him declare the names of the two leaves of the door of the Hall of Osiris before he will let him in, and even the bolts, and bolt-sockets, and lintels, and planks will not allow him to enter until the deceased has satisfied them that he knows their names. Entrance into the seven Ārits or mansions could not be obtained without a knowledge of the names of the doorkeeper, watcher, and herald who belonged to each; and similarly, the pylons of the domains of Osiris could not be passed through by the deceased without a declaration by him of the name of each. The idea underlying all such statements is that the man who knows the name of a god could invoke and obtain help from him by calling upon him, and that the hostility of a fiend could be successfully opposed by the repetition of his name. The knowledge of the names of fiends and demons constituted the chief power of the magicians of olden times, and the amulets of the Gnostics which were inscribed with numbers of names of supernatural powers are the practical expression of the belief in the efficacy of the knowledge of names which existed in Egypt from time immemorial.

THE OBJECT AND CONTENTS OF THE THEBAN RECENSION OF THE BOOK OF THE DEAD.

THOUGH the Chapters of the Book of the Dead represent beliefs belonging to various periods of the long life of the Egyptian nation, from the Pre-dynastic Period downwards, and opinions held by several schools of thought in Egypt, the object of them all was to benefit the deceased. They were intended to give him the power to have and to enjoy life everlasting, to give him everything which he required in the Other World, to ensure his victory over his foes, to procure for him the power of ingratiating himself with friendly beings in the Other World, and of going whithersoever he pleased and when and how he pleased, to preserve his mummified remains intact and uninjured, and finally to enable his soul to reach the Kingdom of Osiris, or to enter into the "Boat of Millions of Years," or into any and every abode of felicity which had been conceived of by him.

The various sections of the Book of the Dead, to which the name of "Chapters" was given by the scribes of the XIIth and following dynasties, were originally independent compositions, the greater number of which were written long before the Canon of the Book of the Dead was formed. Of the exact purpose of many of them the ancient scribes were as ignorant as we are, and the titles which now stand above them in papyri contain many proofs of this fact. In the oldest Recension of the Book of the Dead, i.e., the Heliopolitan, the fullest copies of which are found on the walls of the Pyramids of Unâs, Tetâ, Pepi I., &c., at Şakḡârah, the sections rarely have titles, and the greater number of them follow each other in unbroken succession, the reader being supposed to know for himself where one section ends and the next begins. We may assume that in the early days of dynastic civilization the number of such compositions was very large, and that a certain number, probably selected without much thought by the scribes, or priests, were copied and recited for the benefit of each king and member of the royal family, and of persons of high rank. From the sarcophagi and coffins of the XIth or XIIth Dynasty we learn that the custom of calling such funerary compositions "Chapters" was in use when they were made, but it is not always clear from the actual compositions that their titles have very much connection with their contents. The names of the learned men who composed the sections of the Book of the Dead are never given. The brief descriptions of the contents of the "Chapters" here given will, it is hoped, make clearer the general meaning of the translations printed in the following pages.

In the best papyri of the first half of the XVIIIth Dynasty, e.g., the Papyrus of Nebseni and the Papyrus of Nu, the Chapters are preceded by a large Vignette, in which we see a figure of the great god Osiris seated upon his throne. He is in the form of a mummy, wears the White Crown, and holds a crook and a flail or whip in his hands. Before him is a table loaded with offerings of all kinds, and, in cases where this end of the papyrus is complete, a figure of the person for whom the papyrus was written is seen standing in adoration before the god. Immediately following this Vignette comes the text of the Chapters, whether with or without Vignettes. In the papyri which belong to the period of the end of the XVIIIth Dynasty and the beginning of the XIXth Dynasty, the Chapters are preceded by two or more Hymns and by a large Judgment Scene. Thus in the Papyrus of Ani we have a Hymn to Rā at sunrise and a Hymn to Osiris; in the Papyrus of Qenna we have two Hymns to Rā at sunrise, but in the Papyrus of Hu-Nefer there is one Hymn only. In all three papyri the Hymns, or Hymn, to Rā are followed by elaborately-painted Judgment Scenes. Now, strictly speaking, the Judgment Scene belongs to Chapter CXXV., where it actually occurs, though in a very simple form. In the Papyrus of Ani (see Negative Confession, Chapter CXXV.) the heart of the deceased is being weighed against the feather of Maāt by Anubis, who scrutinizes the tongue of the balance with great care; close to the pillar of the scales is the monster Ām-mit, who is ready to devour the heart in the event of its being found light.

At the beginning of the Papyrus of Ani the Judgment Scene is much developed. The scales are represented as before, with the heart in one pan and the feather in the other, and Anubis conducts the operation of weighing. Ām-mit is also present, but he now appears to be associated with Thoth, the Scribe of the Gods, who is noting on his writing palette with a long reed pen the result of the weighing of the heart. The heart of Ani is now accompanied by his soul, and by Shai, the god of destiny, or perhaps his own destiny, or luck, and by the two goddesses Renenet and Meskhenet. Moreover, twelve deities are seated near the scales, and these await the report of Thoth, their righteous scribe. Ani himself is also present, with his wife, and he addresses to his heart the words of Chapter XXXB. In some papyri two Companies of Gods, the Great and the Little, are represented as being present at the weighing of the heart of the deceased, and in others Maāt, the goddess of Truth, superintends the operation instead of Anubis. Altogether the scales appear in three places in the Book of the Dead, i.e., in the Vignettes of Chapters XXXB. and CXXV., and in the introductory Vignette to the whole work described above.

CHAPTER I.

This is the first of the Chapters of PERT EM HRU,

, i.e., of "The Coming Forth by Day," or perhaps "into the Day," as some authorities would render the words , the allusion being to the well-known belief of the ancient Egyptians that the journey to the Other World occupied the deceased the whole night of the day of his death, and that he did not emerge into the realms of the blessed until the following morning at sunrise. This Chapter was recited by the priest who accompanied the funeral procession to the tomb, and as he walked at its head he declared to the dead man that he was Thoth, and the Great God, and that he had the power to do on his behalf all that he and Horus did for Osiris, to slaughter all his enemies in the Other World, to perform all the symbolic ceremonies which were performed for Osiris at his burial, and to obtain for him a regular and never-failing supply of offerings in the tomb.

CHAPTER I.B.

The object of this Chapter was to enable the Sāhu, or spiritual form of the deceased, which appears to have consisted of one or more of his souls, his intelligence, and his vital power, to enter into the Ṭuat, or Other World, immediately after his body was laid in its tomb. It contains a prayer to the dweller in the Holy Mountain for deliverance from the "worms which are in Re-stau," i.e., the serpents which guarded the corridors in the kingdom of the god Seker, situated near the modern district called Şakḫârah, "which lived upon the bodies of men and of women, and fed upon their blood," and the "Lord of light" is entreated to swallow them up. In the Papyrus of Iuâu, which was recently discovered by Mr. Theodore M. Davis at Thebes, we find a form of this Chapter in which the names of the "worms" are given, and a Vignette wherein they are depicted.¹ They are nine in number, and are called:—

1. Nārti-ānh-em-sen-f,  [𐀓].

2. Ḥer-f-em-qeb-f,  .

3. Ānh-em-fentu,  .

4. Sām-em-qesu,  [𐀓].

5. Ha-huti-ām-sau,  .

6. Shep-thmesu,  .

7. Ām-sāḥu,  .

8. Sām-em-snef,  [𐀓].

9. Ānkh - em - betu - mit,

According to the Rubric this Chapter established the deceased in the Other World, and ensured his admission into the Boat of Rā.

CHAPTER II.

In this Chapter he who shines from the Moon, i.e., Horus or Osiris, is entreated to give the deceased power to leave the Other World, and to appear upon the earth again to do his will among the living.

CHAPTER III.

Of similar import to the preceding. Temu, the primeval god of the night sun, who appears in the form of his children the Twin-gods, i.e., Shu and Tefnut, is entreated to let the deceased enter into the assembly of the gods. For he is re-born day after day, like Rā, the Sun-god, he lives again, and the gods shall rejoice in his appearances on earth just as they rejoice when Ptah appears in H̄et-Ser, the great temple of Heliopolis.

CHAPTER IV.

This Chapter contains the words of power which enabled the deceased to pass through that portion of the sky wherein the Two Combatants, i.e., Horus and Set, contended for victory. They were separated by Thoth, who gave to the former power over the Day, and to the latter power over the Night.

CHAPTER V.

This Chapter is a formula which enabled the deceased to "lift up the hand of the inert one," and to make him do work for him.

CHAPTER VI.

Throughout a large portion of Africa it was, and still is, the custom to bury alive with dead kings a number of slaves, whose souls were intended to go into the Other World, and to wait upon the soul of their king as they waited upon his body in this world. In dynastic times the Egyptians dropped this barbarous custom, and substituted figures (ushabtiu) of men and women made of stone, wood, faïence, &c., on which they at first only cut the names of the persons for whom they were made. Subsequently they cut on the figures a formula, in which they called upon them to do any work which might require to be done in the Other World, especially in connection with agriculture. When called upon by the deceased the figures inscribed with his name turned into full-grown men or women, who followed their master, and did all that he commanded them to do. The number of ushabtiu figures found in a tomb is sometimes very large; some 700 were taken from the tomb of Seti I. In another tomb 365 were found, and from the inscriptions on some of these it is clear that each figure was intended to do all the work required on one day in the year. The word shabti is probably derived from a primitive African word for a funerary human sacrifice.

CHAPTER VII.

The path of Râ and of all good spirits on their way from darkness into light, or from night to day, was obstructed by several monster serpents; the chief of these was Āpep,   . This Chapter contains a spell which, when recited properly by the deceased, made Āpep powerless to block his progress, and enabled him to use the body of Āpep as a road whereby he could reach his destination. In the text Āpep is addressed as a "creature of wax," and these words contain an allusion to the wax figures of the monster which were burned at regular intervals in a fire of khesau grass by a priest, who recited appropriate spells whilst the figures were being consumed (see my Egyptian Magic, pp. 81 ff.).

CHAPTER VIII.

This Chapter enabled the deceased to obtain the power of Thoth and Horus, to identify himself with Osiris, and to pass through Âmentet as did that god, and to renew his life like the Moon.

CHAPTER IX.

This Chapter enabled the deceased to pass through Âmentet and to enter the light of day, having seen Osiris his father, and having stabbed Set. He then addressed the great Soul-god, who had the form of a ram, and having become a spiritual being (sāhu) and a khu-soul, he was in a fit state to greet every god and every fellow khu.

CHAPTER X.

This Chapter caused the deceased to be taken in charge by the great Khu-soul of the Other World, and to be identified with him. He was thereby enabled to cleave the horizon and the heavens, to pass through the earth, and to eat food again. In the Papyrus of Ani the Vignette shows us the deceased in the act of spearing a serpent, the typical form of the enemies of the dead, but in the Papyrus of Iuâu (pl. xi.) the deceased is seen driving a short spear into the back of the neck of a human foe, who is kneeling before him and has his hands tied at the elbows behind his back.

CHAPTER XI.

In this Chapter the deceased declares himself to be Râ, and by means of it he obtained the power of walking and talking; being endued with the attributes of Horus and Ptaḥ, and the might of Thoth and the strength of Tem, he was able to destroy all his enemies.

CHAPTER XII.

This Chapter assisted the deceased to go into and out of the Other World, and to pass through the secret gates which stood between the Âmentet and this world. The gates stood hard by the Balance of Râ in which Truth was used as the testing weight daily. The previous Chapters gave the deceased new life and the full use of his limbs, and this Chapter gave him the power to prolong his life into old age.

CHAPTER XIII.

Through this Chapter the deceased identifies himself with the hawk of Horus and the Bennu bird, which later Greek tradition pronounced to be the fabulous bird the Phoenix. He was henceforth able to go to the estate of Horus and hunt with his greyhounds, and so enjoy the pleasures of the chase. The Rubric associates this Chapter with two rings, which were to be fastened to the right ear of the deceased on the day of his burial.

CHAPTER XIV.

This Chapter contains a prayer that the god who dwells among mysteries may remove from him sin, wickedness, and transgressions, so that he may be at peace with him, and feel no shame of him in his heart.

CHAPTER XV.

This section of the Book of the Dead contains Hymns and Praisings to the Sun-god, some of which were sung in the morning and some in the evening. The Papyrus of Ani includes in it a very interesting Litany to Osiris of nine verses, each of which is addressed to one of the forms of the god; this is found in no other papyrus.

The Vignettes are interesting, for they represent the solar disk, supported on "life," rising on the Mountain of Sunrise out of the Tet, , the symbol of Osiris, and descending in the form of a hawk into the Mountain of the Sunset. With him are the holy apes who sing praises to him, and represent the spirits who were created daily to praise the god at his rising. Isis, a spirit of dawn, and Nephthys, a spirit of twilight, and the Lion-gods of the Morning and Evening are also represented. In these Hymns the glory and power and majesty of the Sun-god are dwelt upon at length, and the words employed make it certain that the Egyptians fully realized the might of the great luminary of day. The Hymns to the Sun-god were written by the priests of Heliopolis, where the cult of the Sun in Egypt originated. African peoples in general do not worship the sun, and it is probable that they have never paid the same degree of homage to it as to the moon. Many African tribes view sunrise with horror, and take pains to hide themselves from the heat of the sun.

CHAPTER XVI.

This Chapter is, strictly speaking, no Chapter, for the section contains only the Vignettes which illustrate the Hymns that form Chapter XV.

CHAPTER XVII.

This is one of the most valuable and important Chapters of the Book of the Dead, for it contains a statement of the doctrines which the beatified spirit of the deceased was expected to know. Like many other sections of the Book of the Dead this Chapter was composed by the priests of Heliopolis, and it represented their views about the nature of the gods. The earliest copies of the Chapter date from the XIth Dynasty, but they are much shorter than those which appear in the Theban papyri; the Chapter is the only known example of an ancient Egyptian exegetical work, and it proves that various opinions as to the meaning of passages in it existed among the learned. A note in the title declares that the knowledge of its contents was most beneficial to a man even whilst still upon the earth. The opening passage is: "I am Tem in rising
"I am the only One. I came into being in Nu. I am
"Rā who rose in the beginning, the ruler of what he "made."

On this comes the question: "Who is this?" i.e., "What does this mean?"

The answer is: "It is Rā who rose in the city of "Suten-Henen in primeval time crowned like a king.
"He was on the height of the Dweller in Khemennu
"before the pillars of Shu (i.e., the pillars of heaven)
"were made."

This passage was intended to show that Rā was the oldest of the gods, and that he was identical with Temu, an indigenous solar god of Egypt. Other examples are:—

I. "I am purified in my great double nest which is "in Suten-henen on the day of the offerings of the "followers of the great god who is therein."

Question : "What is this?"

Answer : "The name of one nest is 1. 'Millions of "years,' and of the other, 'Great Green Lake,'
"or,
2. "'Traverser of Millions of years,' and
"'Great Green Lake,' or,
3. "'Begetter of Millions of years,' and
"'Great Green Lake.'"
"The god who dwelleth therein is Rā him"self."

II. "I am the divine Soul which dwelleth in the divine Twin-gods."

Question : "Who is this?"

Answer : "It is Osiris. He goeth to Taṭtu, and "findeth there the Soul of Rā, each god em-
"braceth the other, and the divine Souls
"spring into being within the divine Twin-"gods."

The Twin-gods are:—

Heru-netch-ḥrā-tef-f and Heru-khent-ân-maati.

The double divine Soul is:—

1. The Soul of Rā and the Soul of Osiris, or,
2. The Soul of Shu and the Soul of Tefnut.

III. "Hail, Kheperā in thy boat! Deliver thou the "Osiris from the Watchers who give judgment.
"I have never done the things which the gods hate, for
"I am pure in the Mesqet. Cakes and saffron have "been brought unto him in Tanenet."

Question: "Who is this?"

Answer: "It is Kheperā in his boat. It is Rā
"himself.

"The Watchers are Isis and Nephthys.

"The things which the gods hate are wickedness
"and falsehood.

"He to whom cakes are brought is Osiris.

"The saffron cakes are:—

1. "Heaven and earth, or,
2. "Shu, or,
3. "The Eye of Horus.

"Tanenet is the burial-place of Osiris."

CHAPTER XVIII.

In the Introduction to this Chapter in the Papyrus of Ani the deceased is presented to the gods of the great cities of Egypt by the priest An-mut-f, and by a priest who assumes the character of the Sa-mer-f, or the "son who loveth him." The former states that Ani has committed no sin, and the latter asks that water, air, and an estate in the Field of Peace (or of Offerings) may be given to him. Each priest wears a leopard-skin, the tail of which hangs down between his legs. The title Ān-mut-f, , means "pillar of his mother," but this may be a later corruption of the older title "Ān-kenemet," , the "pillar of kenemet," i.e., the "pillar of the ape." It is interesting to note that in one place¹ the priestly title Ān-mut-f, , has for its determinative the figure of a priest wearing a leopard-skin and holding one of the forepaws of an ape, which stands on its hind legs. Through a similarity in sound between kenemet, "ape," and mut, "mother," the latter word in later times took the place of the former, and had reference to the ape referred to in the earlier title. What exactly is to be understood by the words "pillar of his mother," or what part the ape played in connection with the priest, cannot at present be said.

The Chapter proper contains ten addresses to Thoth, in which that god is entreated to make the deceased victorious over his enemies as he made Osiris to be victorious over his enemies in the presence of the groups of gods of the ten chief mythological localities

CHAPTER XIX.

In late times this Chapter, which is a repetition of the preceding with a few additions, was recited twice at dawn, whilst the priest laid a "beautiful crown of victory which was woven by Tem" upon the brow of the deceased, and whilst incense was cast into the fire on his behalf. The Chapter was regarded as a spell of great and never-failing power, and it was declared that when Horus recited it four times, "all his enemies fell headlong, and were overthrown and cut to pieces."

CHAPTER XX.

This Chapter is a shortened form of Chapter XVIII. arranged as a Litany, and its recital by a man who had cleansed himself in water wherein natron had been dissolved, enabled him to take any form he pleased, and to escape injury by fire.

CHAPTER XXI.

The recital of this Chapter gave to the "pure spirit" the use of his mouth and the power to speak with his lips, and brought back to him his heart.

CHAPTER XXII.

The object of this Chapter is the same as the preceding, i.e., to give back to the deceased his mouth that he might speak therewith in the presence of the Great God (Osiris). Its Vignette is of considerable interest, for in it the "guardian of the Scales,"

, is represented in the act of touching the lips of the deceased with the fingers of his right hand, instead of with the instrument Ur-heka. The god on the top of the steps is, no doubt, Osiris. The earliest representation of the god on the top of the steps is found on a wooden plaque in the British Museum (Fourth Egyptian Room, Table-case L, No. 124), which belongs to the period of the reign of king Ten (Semti-Hesepti). The god is also figured on the sarcophagus of Seti I.¹

CHAPTER XXIII.

This Chapter also deals with the "opening of the mouth" of the deceased, who is supposed to be in the state of a mummy with swathings around his head, which press upon and cover up his mouth. These hindrances to speech are attributed to the operation of Set, the foe of Horus and Osiris, and the deceased beseeches Thoth, the arch-magician, to unloose the swathings, and entreats Tem to hurl them in the faces of those who would fetter him with them. Ancient legends asserted that Ptaḥ untied the swathings which fettered the mouths of the gods, and that Shu opened their mouths with an iron knife. The ceremonies connected with the "opening the mouth" are very ancient, and were certainly performed for the benefit of the dead under the Vth Dynasty. At first they were performed on the dead body, but subsequently a statue of the deceased was substituted for it. In the Vignette in the Papyrus of Ani a priest is seen performing the ceremonies on a statue of Ani. The Book of Opening the Mouth was discovered by Schiaparelli, who was the first to call the attention of scholars to it.¹

CHAPTER XXIV.

The object of this Chapter was to provide the deceased with hekau , "words of power," that is to say, with magical formulae, the recital of which will enable him to carry out all his wishes and supply all his needs. The deceased demands the words of power which Osiris knew and used, because he has become identified with Tem-Kheperà, the self-produced god.

CHAPTER XXV.

The recital of this Chapter gave back to the deceased his memory and the faculty of remembering not only his own name, but the name of any god whom he met. It was associated with a ceremony in which a priest held up before the face of the deceased a figure of him so that he might give it his name. The soul without a name was in a terrible plight in the Other World, for its name was an integral part of its being, and if it had forgotten its name, and there was no one there to remind it what it was, it could not be presented to the Great God. No greater harm could be done to the deceased than the erasing of his name from his monuments, for the destruction of his name was equivalent to the destruction of his individuality.

With the opening of the mouth and the restoration of the memory was closely associated the "giving of a heart" to the deceased. The heart was one of the most important organs of the body, not only from a physical point of view, but because it was the seat of one of the members of the dual soul which the Egyptian believed he possessed. The relation between the heart and the soul is well illustrated by the Vignettes to this Chapter, for in one the god Anubis is seen giving a heart to the deceased, and in the other the deceased is addressing a human-headed hawk, which was the corporeal form taken by the heart-soul. Hundreds of passages in the texts prove that it was the heart-soul which partook of offerings placed in the tomb, and in the text of this Chapter it is said, "May my heart be with me, and "may it rest there, [or] I shall not eat of the cakes of “Osiris on the eastern side of the Lake of Flowers.” So soon as the heart was restored to his body, the deceased recovered the use of all his limbs, and the heart-soul was free to leave the body at the gates of the Other World.

CHAPTER XXVII.

This Chapter was written to give the deceased the means of preventing his heart from being stolen from him in the Other World. It is a common belief all through Equatorial Africa and the Sûdân that the heart-soul of a man can be bewitched out of him by magical ceremonies, and that once this soul has left him the heart itself will quickly die, and his body also. It is said that every medicine man is acquainted with means by which these disastrous results can be effected, and the belief in the possibility of human beings being injured in this way is so widespread in the Sûdân that we are justified in assuming that the practice of bewitching the heart is one of very great antiquity. In this Chapter the deceased beseeches the “stealers and crushers of hearts” not to take into account in their dealing with his heart the things which he did, and the “lords of eternity” are entreated not to let evil words rise up against it. In the older Vignette the deceased stands by the side of his heart, which is placed on a pedestal, , in the presence of four gods, who are seated on the symbol of Truth; in the later Vignette from the Turin Papyrus these four gods are identified with the Four Sons of Horus. The heart being restored to him, the deceased becomes master of his own body and of its members.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

This chapter is addressed to a monster in human form, with a tail, who grasps a large knife in his right hand, and holds his tail by its root in his left; the deceased is seated before him in a deprecating attitude, and clasps his heart to his breast with his left hand. The monster has a shaggy mane and whiskers round his face, and his general appearance suggests that he was intended to represent a gorilla or chimpanzee with a tail, though the deceased addresses him as the "Lion-god." The beings who the deceased fears will carry off his heart are the "fighting gods in Annu (Heliopolis)," and Set, the god of evil.

CHAPTER XXIX., XXIX.A AND B.

This chapter, which is extant in three forms, contains other formulae for preventing the heart of the deceased from being carried away from him, and in the longest form he identifies himself with the "Lord of "hearts, the slayer of the heart," and with Horus, the dweller in hearts. The third form was associated with an amulet of the heart made of carnelian, and in it the deceased identifies himself with the Bennu bird, who, like Thoth, was believed to be the heart of Rā. The mention of the kau, or doubles, of the gods proves that the heart was believed to be closely connected with the ka as well as with one of the souls of man.

CHAPTER XXX., XXX.A AND XXX.B.

This Chapter is one of the most important in the Book of the Dead, and it is unquestionably one of the oldest. It is found in all great papyri which have not been mutilated, and is cut upon hundreds of hard green stone scarabs; the commonest form is that which is called XXXB. The text consists of an address by the deceased to his heart, in which he entreats that:—

1. No one may oppose him in the Judgment before the Tchatcha, or Divine Taskmasters.
2. His heart may not leave him.
3. The Sheniu, or chief gods of Osiris, may not cause his name to stink.
4. False witness may not be borne against him.
5. A verdict of righteous may be entered for him after his heart has been weighed.

In the course of his petition he says to the heart,

"Thou art my KA, the dweller in me, Khnemu who "knitteth together and strengtheneth my limbs," and he asks it to go with him into felicity. This is an important passage, for it proves how intimate was the connection of the heart with the KA. The rubrics to this Chapter are very interesting. They order that the words shall be said over a green stone scarab mounted in silver-gold, and suspended by a ring from the neck of the deceased. This scarab, one side of which was frequently made in the shape of a heart, was placed either inside the body where the heart was before it was removed during the process of mummification, or over the place of the heart on the breast, after the ceremony of "Opening the Mouth" had been performed. As to the origin of the Chapter there are two traditions: according to the one it was "found" cut upon a stone (?) slab under the feet of a statue of the god Thoth in the reign of Senti-Hesepti, a king of the 1st Dynasty, and according to the other it was "found" by Prince Heruṭātāf, the son of King Khufu. The older tradition states that it had been cut on the slab by Thoth himself. Here, then, is a proof that the text of this Chapter was believed to be of divine origin, and it is certain that the formulae in it were thought to possess very great power. The Vignettes in several papyri connect them with the weighing of the heart in the presence of Osiris, and in the large pictures of the Judgment Scene they are always assumed to be recited by the deceased whilst his heart is actually in the Scales. Now the pictures of the Judgment Scene illustrate beliefs which were universal in Egypt some two thousand years before it became the custom to illustrate the sacred texts, and it is clear that during the whole Dynastic Period, i.e., for a period of about four thousand years, the Egyptian entered the Judgment Hall of Osiris believing implicitly that the words which he was about to utter would secure for him a verdict of righteousness, and, in consequence, everlasting life in felicity.

CHAPTER XXXI.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased was able to frustrate the designs of the monster Sui, which came in the forms of three or four crocodiles to carry off from him the words of power which he had obtained, or the heart-amulet on which they were cut. Only by stealing such words of power could Sui live. The recital of this Chapter made the incisor teeth of the deceased like flints, and his molars like the name of Anubis. In the later version of the Chapter the deceased describes the offices which the words of power enabled him to fill. He was the scribe of the offerings of Osiris and priest in the regions above. Moreover, he was born with Osiris, and he opened the mouth of the gods with the Meskheth (i.e., Thigh) instrument. He was perfect, and strong, and able to avenge wrongs done to him, and he was master of the four quarters of heaven and earth.

CHAPTER XXXII.

This Chapter enabled the deceased to repulse the four crocodiles of the West, East, South and North, and to assume the attributes of the gods Set, Osiris, Sept, and Uatch-Merti, who presided over the four quarters of the earth respectively. Curiously enough, the opening paragraph mentions the "Eight Crocodiles," the names of which are known to the deceased, who is therefore able to repulse them, or to render them powerless to do him harm by casting spells on them.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Among the foes of the deceased in the Other World serpents formed an important class. This Chapter was directed against the monster serpent Rerek, who was only rendered powerless when the deceased pronounced the names of Seb and Shu. The deceased orders Rerek to stand, promising to give him to eat the "mouse,"¹ the abomination of Rā,² and the bones of the "filthy cat."²

It is difficult to explain the allusion to the "filthy cat," for usually the cat is connected with Râ, the Sun-god.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

This Chapter is also directed against snakes and snake-bites, and by the recital of it the deceased identifies himself with the animal maftet . Whether the word maftet means "lynx" or not, it is certain that some animal which was inimical to snakes, and was very skilful in destroying them, is referred to. The true lynx is not a native of Africa,¹ and it is probable, as the determinative  suggests, that the maftet was a species of wild or hunting cat, perhaps the felis cervical. The maftet is frequently mentioned in the texts of the Ancient Empire, with allusions to its terrible claws. The kind of serpent mentioned in the text is the ârart, , or cobra, the ὄφαιος of the Greeks.

CHAPTER XXXV.

This Chapter was directed against the monster serpent called Seksek, and the other serpents of his class. The allusions in it are hard to understand, and suggest that the text was so old when it was copied by the scribes of the XVIIIth Dynasty that parts of it had no meaning for them. This is precisely the case with the formulae against snakes which are found in the Pyramid of Unâs (Vth Dynasty).

CHAPTER XXXVI.

This Chapter contains a spell for keeping away from the dead the insect Āpshait, , which is figured correctly in the Vignette to the Chapter in the Papyrus of Nekht. In the Papyrus of Nekhtu-Âmen the āpshait is depicted in the form of the scarabaeus sacer, but it is clearly an incorrect identification. The creature is undoubtedly a kind of beetle, and I believe it to be the weevil, which is often found crushed between the bandages of mummies, and to belong to the genus Brachycerus. Figures of it are often found in a more or less conventionalized form on the objects made by the Bakuba of the Kasai District in the Congo Free State. According to Mr. T. A. Joyce, of the British Museum, the insect which occurs in a most naturalistic form on a carved wooden cup published by him is called Mutu Jambî, or "the head of God."¹ A specimen is exhibited in the Department of Ethnography in the British Museum (Table-case 194). It is quite clear that the scribes of the XVIIIth and XIXth Dynasties did not know what the āpshait was, for whilst one of them thought it was the ordinary scarabaeus sacer, another thought it was a pig, and wrote shaà, and the artist who drew the Vignette actually drew a pig!

CHAPTER XXXVII.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to ward off the attacks of two terrible sister-serpents called MERTI, . In the Vignettes the deceased is seen either spearing a serpent or threatening two serpents with a knife, but he relied most of all upon the spell which he cast upon them to render them powerless.

CHAPTER XXXVIII. A AND B.

The formulae of this Chapter were, according to the title, intended to give air to the deceased in the Other World. In form A he identifies himself with Tem, the god of wind and the giver of air, and in form B with the Twin-gods Shu and Tefnut, the gods of the atmosphere. In one Vignette he holds a sail, symbolic of "air," or "wind," and in the other a sail and a knife; the presence of the three serpents in the second Vignette is difficult to explain. The allusion to the "lily of green felspar," , which blossomed at sunrise under the influence of the cool wind of dawn is peculiarly appropriate to the appearance of the deceased at daybreak in the Other World.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

The recital of this Chapter was intended to free the deceased from the opposition or attack of the monster serpent Rerek, who lived in the darkest part of the Other World and endeavoured to obstruct the passage of Râ the Sun-god, and of the souls who were with him, into the kingdom of day. He had many forms and many names, but the most terrible of all his forms was that which was called Âpep, . He was endowed with immortality, for, although each day the Maftet tore his breast open, and the beams of the sun stabbed him with myriads of darts, and Serqet fettered him, and Hertit bound him in chains, and the gods held him with ropes, and Rekes overthrew him, and Râ clove his head in twain, and he was dismembered and his bones crushed, he came to life again daily and continued his nefarious efforts. His master was Set, the god of evil, and it is interesting to note that the deceased identifies himself with Set, the lord of the storm and thunder in the heavens.

CHAPTER XL.

This Chapter is a formula directed against another monster serpent, which is called "Eater of the Ass,"

, in the title, and Hai,

, in the text. He attacked the Nesh-met Boat, and Thoth cut off his head. In the Vignette he is seen in the form of a serpent which has seized an ass by the middle of his back. Now the "Ass" was associated with the Sun-god, and the Eater of the Ass was probably a local form of Āpep which was destroyed daily. He is said to be an abomination to the god Aḥu,

,¹ but for what reason is unknown; Aḥu appears to have been a "fighting god," and his original home was probably Syria.

CHAPTER XLI.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to avoid slaughter in the Other World, and to obtain air therein at eventide, when he had the power to go and converse with the divine crew who worked the Boat of Rā across the sky day by day. The contents of the Chapter have very little connection with its title, a fact which shows that titles were given by the scribes to ancient formulae, often without proper regard for their accuracy or suitability.

CHAPTER XLII.

This Chapter was also intended to enable the deceased to avoid the slaughter which took place in the Other World. It seems clear from the text that a great slaughter of the souls of the dead took place from time to time in Suten-henen, and the deceased feared that violent hands might be laid on him, and that he might be dragged back by his arms. His only way of escaping any such treatment was to identify each member of his body with or transform it into the similar member of a god. The names of the gods are duly enumerated in a remarkable passage which is a modification of a text found in the Pyramid of Pepi I. (l. 565 ff.). Thus we read:—

“My hair is [the hair of] Nu.

“My face is [the face of] Āten.

“My eyes are [the eyes of] Hathor,” &c.

In the older text the form is somewhat different, and we read:—

 “he cometh forth and raiseth himself to “heaven.

“The skull of Pepi is the [skull of the] Khas bird
 “of the god; he cometh forth and raiseth
 “himself to heaven,” &c.

The members and the gods in the Pyramid of Pepi I.
 are as follows:—

1.		head.	Horus (?).
2.		skull.	Khas bird.
3.		[neck].	Nu.
4.		face.	Āp-uated.
5.		two eyes.	Great Ones of Ānnu.
6.		nose.	Thoth.
7.		mouth.	Khens-ur.
8.		tongue.	The mā beam of the Maāt Boat.
9.		teeth.	Souls of Ānnu.
10.		lips.
11.		chin.	Khert-Khent-Sekhem

¹ Or, “The head of Pepi is as the hawk,” &c.

12.		backbone.	Sma.
13.		shoulders.	Set.
14.		[breast].	Baäbu,
15.		heart.	Bastet,
16.		belly.	Nut.
17.		[reins].	Two Companies of gods
18.		lower part of back.	Heqet.
19.		buttocks.	The boats Semktet and Mât.
20.		phallus.	Hâpi.
21.		thighs.	Net and Serqet.
22.		legs.	The two Tcherti (?).
23.		soles.	The double Maât Boat
24.		heel (?).	Souls of Annu.

The transformations of his members having been effected the deceased says, "there is no member of my "body which is not the member of a god," or, as the text of Pepi I. reads, "Pepi is a god, the son of a god." The text next identifies the deceased with Rā, and Horus, and Osiris Un-nefer, and he becomes the "only One who proceedeth from an only One." The section of this Chapter which provides for the deification of the members was a very favourite one with the Egyptians, and, in a tabular form, it was copied on papyri down to the Ptolemaic and Roman Periods.

CHAPTER XLIII.

This Chapter refers to the dismemberment of the bodies of the dead which took place in ancient times, and its recital prevented the head of the deceased from being cut off in the Other World. The excavations which have been made in recent years on pre-dynastic sites in Egypt prove beyond all doubt that in primitive times the bodies of the dead were cut into pieces before burial, no doubt in accordance with the religious beliefs which were then current. Osiris himself suffered dismemberment, but we learn from the texts in the royal Pyramids at Şakḳârah that the goddess Mut gave him back his head, and presented his bones to him, and collected the flesh which had been sliced off him, and brought back his heart and placed it in his body.¹ The reconstituting of the body of Osiris was commemorated annually at Abydos by a solemn festival, during which, in a sort of miracle play, every step in the process was acted by priests and their assistants. The crowning scene was the erection of the backbone of Osiris and the placing of the head of the god upon it. The formulae of this Chapter identified the deceased with Osiris, and assured him therefore of the possession of his head. As the cult of Osiris grew and spread in Egypt in early dynastic times the practice of dismembering the body gradually fell into disuse, and at length the only portions of the body which were removed from it during the process of embalming were the viscera, and these were mummified separately.

CHAPTER XLIV.

This Chapter proves the existence of a very curious belief among the Egyptians, i.e., that it was possible for a being in the Other World to die a second time. The animal soul of the deceased in the Other World lived on the souls of the offerings which were made at regular intervals in the tomb wherein his body was laid, and if for any reason the supply of offerings failed that soul suffered greatly. It was driven by hunger to wander about in the deserts seeking food, and for a time it might prolong its existence by devouring offal and drinking dirty water, but unless the supply of offerings was renewed it certainly starved to death. It seems also that the soul might suffer death in the Other World if it incurred the displeasure of the Tchatcha and Sheniu chiefs who administered the kingdom of Osiris, and that in such a case it was destroyed along with the souls of the wicked. The only beings who were superior to this possibility were Rā and Osiris, and this Chapter enabled the deceased to identify himself with them; this effected, he declares boldly, "I am "crowned king of the gods, I shall not die a second "time in the Other World."

CHAPTER XLV.

The object of this Chapter is made quite clear by the Rubric: if it be known by the deceased he shall not suffer corruption in the Other World. The formula is supposed to be addressed to the god Anubis, and in it the deceased entreats that god to fashion his mummy as if he were fashioning that of Osiris himself. Anubis is often called "Ām-ut," i.e., "he who is in the place of "embalmmment." To Anubis was attributed the knowledge of the art of embalming, and he was skilled in the use of balms, balsams, unguents and medicaments, and was an expert in the swathing of mummies. It was he who mummified the body of Osiris, and he did his work so well that the body of the god did not crumble away, or decay, or fall to pieces.

CHAPTER XLVI.

The recital of this Chapter gave to the deceased the power to rise up like the Henmemet, , or , a class of beings who are frequently mentioned in religious texts of all periods. Their place of abode was heaven, but some portion of their period of existence may have been passed on earth. The recital of this Chapter also set at liberty the BA, , or heart-soul of the deceased, which, as we have already seen, could die a second time, and the soul, here represented in the form of a BENNU bird, , which was immortal.

CHAPTER XLVII.

The recital of this Chapter prevented the seat and throne of the deceased from being taken away from him in the Other World. In the Vignette we see the heart-soul and the soul in the same forms as in the preceding Chapter, one on each side of a funerary building, from which they appear to have emerged.

The text suggests that each soul desired to have reserved for it an abode wherein it might seek shelter if necessary. In the second version of the Chapter the deceased asserts that he is a sāh, , i.e., that he has attained to spiritual existence, and that he is the son of Maāti, , who hates lies.

CHAPTERS XLVIII. AND XLIX

These Chapters have already been discussed as Chapters X. and XI.

CHAPTER L.A AND L.B.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to avoid the terrible block of slaughter of the god Osiris, a figure of which is given in the Vignette. From the Book Ām-Tuat and the Book of Gates, as well as from the Book of the Dead, we learn that to certain gods was assigned the duty of destroying the dead and consuming their bodies. Some were cast into a lake of liquid fire or boiling water, and others were first cut in pieces and then burnt.¹ Each of the gods who cut the dead in pieces was provided with a block, and they performed their terrible work under the direction of the headsman of Osiris, whose name was Shesmu: , or , as the name is written in the Pyramid Texts. The slaughter of the wicked and the cutting up of their bodies were performed nightly, soon after Osiris had completed the judging of those who had entered the Hall of Maāti.

CHAPTER LI.

The connection of the title with this Chapter is not clear. In the text the deceased declares that he will not eat what is an abomination to him, and prays that he may not be forced to eat filth in place of the sepulchral cakes which are usually offered to the KAU, or Doubles, in their tombs, or to touch it, or even to walk on it in his sandals.

CHAPTER LII.

This Chapter is an amplification of the preceding, and in the latter part of it we are told exactly what food the deceased wishes to eat in the Other World, and under what conditions he wishes to live there. He would partake of the seven loaves which Horus eats and of the bread which Thoth eats, seated under the branches of the Sycamore Tree of Hathor (or Nut), at the time when the souls of the beatified have alighted thereon. His bread must be made from white grain, and his beer (the modern marissa) from red grain, he would have the ancestors¹ of his father and mother to attend to his domestic affairs, he would watch his crops growing, and enjoy health and strength, and would have plenty of space in which to move about, and be able to dwell where he pleased. A much fuller version of this Chapter will be found in the second edition of the Egyptian text, p. 160 ff., where it is called Chapter LII.B. In the first edition it stood as No. CLXXXIX. For the translation see p. 639.

CHAPTER LIII.

The recital of this Chapter prevented the deceased from being tripped up during his journeyings in the Other World, and from the necessity of eating filth and drinking urine. The beginning and end of the Chapter are not found in the other Chapters which were written with the same object as this. In this text the deceased states that he will live upon the heavenly food of Rā and the earthly food of Seb, and that his loaves shall be brought to him by the Sektet and Ātet Boats in

CHAPTER LIV

The recital of this Chapter brought to the deceased the "sweet breath which" dwelt in the nostrils of Tem. He identifies himself with the great Egg, which was created by the earth-god Seb and thrust through the earth in the city of the Great Cackler. As the Egg lives he lives, and as it grows old he grows old.

CHAPTER LV.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with the "Jackal of jackals," and with Shu, the god of the atmosphere, and thus was able to roam with the fleetness of the jackal from one end of heaven to the other, and to the ends of the earth, and to the limit of the flight of the Nebeh goose, .

CHAPTER LVI.

In this Chapter, as in Chapter LIV., the deceased identifies his life with that of the Egg of the Great Cackler; his birth is its birth, his life is its life, and his breath is its breath.

CHAPTER LVII.

The recital of this Chapter gave the deceased "dominion over the water," that is, enabled him to obtain a full and constant supply from Hāp-ur, "the Great Nile," and air from every quarter of the earth. By it also he gained the power to breathe freely in Mendes or Busiris, and a settled abode in the celestial Ānnu (Heliopolis), where he had his house. The plan of the house was made by the goddess  , whose name is read Sesheta or Sefkhet-ābut, and its walls were built by the god Khnemu.

CHAPTER LVIII.

This Chapter is also connected, according to the title, with the dominion of the deceased over the water and the air. The text, however, suggests that the deceased is trying to obtain admission into a portion of the Other World, and that he has with him the two Merti goddesses. A being, name unknown, asks him his name, &c., and apparently provides him with a magical boat, which he is allowed to use provided he knows its name and the names of the oars, rudder, rudder-post, &c.

CHAPTER LIX.

The recital of this Chapter secured for the deceased the air and water which were in the gift of the goddess Nut, who, according to the Vignette, lived in the Sycamore Tree of heaven. The text mentions the Egg of the Great Cackler already noticed, and the first part of the Chapter undoubtedly has reference to the worship of certain trees, which at one time was common in the Sûdân. Such trees were supposed to be the abodes of spirits who, when placated by offerings, bestowed gifts upon those who prayed at their feet.

CHAPTER LX.

The recital of this Chapter caused the gods Thoth and Hâp (Nile) to open the gates of heaven and let the deceased into the "Land of cool water," where he was able to drink to his heart's content.

CHAPTER LXI.

The connection of the title of this Chapter with the text is not clear. The deceased identifies himself with the god of the celestial water, which appears on this earth in the form of the Nile, and there is no allusion to any attempt being made to snatch away his heart-soul from him. Its departure from him in quest of water may, however, be referred to; this might be a serious matter for the deceased, for the heart-soul might not return, and then his body would die.

CHAPTER LXII.

The contents of this Chapter resemble those of Chapter LII. In the Vignette we see the deceased washing his hands in a stream preparatory to drinking water out of them, and the allusions to Rā, the Lion-god, and the Bull suggest that the recital of the Chapter gave him the power to wander about in Sekhet-Āaru, and drink from every stream there at will.

CHAPTER LXIII. A AND B.

In version A of this Chapter the deceased prays not to be burned or destroyed by fire, but it is not clear whether by fire he refers to material fire or boiling water, or to burning thirst, or to scalding by boiling water. The Vignette suggests that the recital of the Chapter was intended to secure for him a regular supply of the cool, fresh water of heaven, which he would drink from a bowl as he sat by the side of a lake. The title of version B, "Of not being scalded," is more definite than that of A, and it is clear that the Chapter was written to prevent the possibility of the deceased's drinking boiling water in the Other World. The Book of Gates mentions a "boiling lake,"

, the waters of which were cool and pleasant to the gods who lived on its shores, but which were veritable fire to the wicked when they attempted to drink them, and which destroyed their bodies.¹ The idea of this boiling lake was derived from the hot springs of bituminous water which are found in certain places in the Western Desert.

CHAPTER LXIV.

This very remarkable Chapter occurs in two versions, one long and one short; it is one of the oldest texts in the Book of the Dead, and the two traditions about its antiquity assign it to the Ist and IVth Dynasties. The title of the longer version is "Chapter of Coming Forth by Day in the Other World," and the shorter, "Chapter of knowing the Chapters of Coming Forth by Day in a single Chapter." Thus it seems that this Chapter was supposed to contain in it the essence of the whole Book of the Dead, and according to the Rubrics it constituted a "great and divine protection" to the deceased. If he knew it he was victorious both upon earth and in heaven, he passed through every gate of the Other World without let or hindrance, he performed successfully every transformation he wished to make, and he obtained everlasting life. The formulae which constitute the Chapter are of a highly mystical character, and the recital of them gave to the deceased the power to identify himself with all the great gods, and to make use of all their attributes as he pleased for his own benefit. It was all-important that the man who recited this Chapter should be ceremonially clean and pure, and the Rubric orders that for some time previous to its recital he was to abstain from the use of meats, and fish, and women; but there is no reason for assuming that he was to observe a strict fast. In connection with this Chapter it is further ordered that the formulae which are now generally known as Chapter XXX.B be recited over a green stone scarab, set in a gold mount and anointed with myrrh, and placed in the breast of a man to perform for him the "Opening of the Mouth." It is clear from the above that the recital of the LXIVth Chapter was a very solemn matter.

CHAPTER LXV.

The recital of this Chapter gave the deceased dominion over all his enemies, and enabled him to triumph over Set and his friends and infernal watchers, who lay in wait nightly to destroy Rā as he was emerging from the Țuat and the souls of the blessed which were in his train. The deceased also declares that if he is not permitted to emerge from the Other World, the Nile shall never rise again, and Rā shall never again enter its water, and day shall never more appear [on the earth] at its appointed time. In the Saïte Recension of this Chapter the deceased describes his glorious state in the Other World, and says that his enemies shall be led in before him in a state of misery, that his mother's KA, or double, shall rest because of this, and that he will inflict cuts on their legs with a staff of gold!

CHAPTER LXVI.

By reciting this Chapter the deceased identified himself with the son of Sekhet and Neith, and with Horus and the goddess Uatchet, and was able to perch on the brow of Rā in his boat.

CHAPTER LXVII.

The recital of this Chapter caused passages to be opened for the deceased in heaven and in the air, and enabled him to advance to his throne in the Boat of Rā, and to sit there securely.

CHAPTER LXVIII.

In this Chapter the deceased describes the joy and freedom of his life in the Other World. Heaven and earth are open to him, he has gained possession of his members and whole body, he is master of water, air, canal, river, land, furrows, and male and female slaves. He has white bread to eat, beer made from red grain to drink, he sits in a clean place under a date palm and wheresoever he pleases, he stands up or sits down at pleasure, and stands "like a well equipped guide," free in the air. He has "come forth by day," and he goes about among the living.

CHAPTER LXIX.

The title of this composition is merely "Another Chapter," and the ancient scribes appear to have regarded it as a continuation of Chapter LXVIII., which it undoubtedly is. The deceased identifies himself in it with the Fire-god Aseb,   , with Osiris ithyphallic, Orion, Anubis, Osiris, Horus and Tem. He opens the mouth of the gods, he is a companion of Thoth, and he offers up sacrifices to An-heri-ertitsa,         , of whose special attributes nothing is known.

CHAPTER LXX.

This Chapter is a further continuation of Chapter LXVIII., and the effect of its recital appears to have been to give the deceased the power of seizing the east and north winds by their hair, the west wind by its body, and the south wind by its eye, and travelling about all four sides of heaven.

CHAPTER LXXI.

This Chapter opens with an address to Nekhen the lord of the ancient Sky-goddess Meḥ-urt, who is depicted in the Vignette in the form of a cow with the deceased kneeling in adoration before her. Following this comes a paragraph beginning, “uā,  is with me,” which was addressed, with modifications, to each of the SEVEN SPIRITS, whose names were:—

1. Netcheh-netcheh.
2. Aatqetqet.
3. Ānertānefbesfkhentihēf.
4. Āq-ḥer-āmi-unnuṭ-f.
5. Ṭeshenmaatiamihētānes.
6. Ubeshṛāperemkhetkhet.
7. Maaemḳerḥānnefemhru.

Or,

|----------------|-----------------------|
| 1. Kesthâ. | 5. Maaâteff. |
| 2. Hâpi. | 6. Kheribeqf. |
| 3. Tuamutef. | 7. Herukhentianmaati. |
| 4. Qebhsennuf. | |

The knowledge of the names of these terrible beings was of vital importance to the deceased, for it was they who cut off the heads of men, and broke their necks and seized their hearts, and performed slaughters at the Lake of Fire, and it enabled him to come forth from the Other World and shine upon his statue, and gave him a "beautiful tomb" (or, burial) with Osiris. This Chapter was, in fact, a mighty protection for him in the Other World.

CHAPTER LXXII.

The recital of this Chapter gave the deceased the power to leave his tomb and to force a path to the place where the gods lived. It supplied him with the name of the god TEKEM, , and it enabled him to travel through Sekhet-Āaru, and eventually to reach Seket-hetep, i.e., the Field of Peace, or, the Field of Offerings. According to the Rubric, the writing of this Chapter on the coffin of the deceased produced the same effect as the recital of it by him. In line 8 there is an allusion to the Mesqet, , or chamber in which the deceased was reborn, or perhaps annihilated. The Mesqet was originally the skin of a bull in which the deceased was placed, but in later times the word was applied to the Tuat, or Other World, in general. Tradition asserted that Osiris was assisted in preserving his life on one occasion by taking refuge in a bull's skin, and the skin of this bull is usually seen hanging to a pole before Osiris in his shrine in pictures of the Judgment.

CHAPTER LXXIII.

See Chapter IX.

CHAPTER LXXIV.

This Chapter contains formulae addressed to Seker, a very ancient god of the dead whose kingdom formed the Other World of the people of Memphis, and is represented to-day by the great necropolis of Şakḳârah. It is possible that the name "Şakḳârah" may be derived from the name of the god Seker, .

The Vignette contains a picture of Henu, the sacred boat on which the shrine containing the god was placed. The recital of this Chapter gave the deceased the power to emerge from his tomb, and to stand on his feet like Seker in his hidden and mysterious abode.

CHAPTER LXXV.

This Chapter is connected with the preceding, and its recital gave the deceased the power to pass from Šakḳârah, on the left bank of the Nile, over, or under, the river to Ānnu (Heliopolis), on the right bank, and to take up his abode in the sanctuary of the great Sun-god, whose home was in that ancient city. On his way thither he passed through the region where reposed the souls of the blessed dead who are referred to in the later sections of the Book Ām-Tuat and the Book of Gates, and the gods of that region, Ākhsesef, , and Remrem, , or Kemkem, , afforded him their protection. The magical buckle, , which carried with it the mystical power of the blood of Isis, caused the goddesses Khebent, , and Sekseket, , to be gracious to him, and it placed him in the eastern part of the sky where Râ rose daily.

CHAPTER LXXVI.

The recital of this Chapter secured for the deceased the service of the insect abit , which, on account of the assistance that it rendered to him, may be identified with the mantis. He says, "I have come “into the house of the King through the abit which led “me hither.” It is a common belief in many parts of Central and South Africa that the mantis acts as guide to the traveller who has lost his way, and the Hottentots say that the insect leads children who have lost themselves in the bush back to their villages and houses. We find that the mantis, the Goliath beetle, and the bee all play a prominent part in the Book of Opening the Mouth, and when we remember the unknown and difficult roads which the deceased had to travel over in the Other World, it is easy to see how important it was for him to be able to take the form of the mantis at pleasure, and find his way back to a place he knew. According to the title this Chapter enabled the deceased to make any transformation, i.e., take any form he pleased.

CHAPTER LXXVII.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to take the form of a golden hawk, with wings which were like felspar, and had a spread of four cubits. In this form he could fly to the Boat of Rā and visit any and every part of Sekhet-hetep.

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to take the form of the divine hawk, i.e., the hawk which possessed the powers of Rā himself, and to fly from one end of Egypt to another, and to visit all the great sanctuaries of Rā and Osiris. In this form all the gods of heaven, earth, and the T̄uat regarded him with awe, for he possessed the soul of Horus, the Hawk-god par excellence. All the mysteries of the gods were laid bare before him, for, the soul of Horus being in him, he became the son of Osiris, the King of the Other World.

CHAPTER LXXIX.

In this Chapter the deceased identifies himself with the “great god who created himself,” the lord of life and maker of the gods, and becomes therefore the Ruler of the Tchatcha, or chief administrators of the Kingdom of Osiris. The Tchatcha kept the registers of Osiris and the lists of all who were in his kingdom, and they had the power to give rewards to those who performed their appointed tasks and to punish those who did not. They were, in fact, the celestial judges and magistrates under the direct supervision of Osiris, and their power was absolute and their decrees were final.

CHAPTER LXXX.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased became the “girdle of the robe of Nu,” and the great luminary of heaven who was able to lighten not only the darkness about himself, but also the darkness of all those who were in the Other World, and to lead away the darkness captive. When storms or eclipse overtook the Eye, i.e., the Sun, he rescued the Sun-god from destruction, he weighed Set in the scales against the Aged One, i.e., Rā, and sent him to his doom, and he provided Thoth with all that he needed to make the Moon-god shine in the full moon on his fifteenth day. In short, this Chapter enabled the deceased to transform himself into Light.

CHAPTER LXXXI.A AND B.

In this Chapter the deceased identifies himself with the "pure lily" in the waters of the celestial Ocean out of which Rā, under the name of Nefer-Tem, rose daily. The lily, or lotus, was the symbol, or image, of Nefer-Tem, who, according to Memphite theology, was the son of Ptaḥ and the goddess Sekhet.

CHAPTER LXXXII.

In the preceding Chapter the deceased identifies himself with the son of Ptaḥ, and in this he identifies himself with Ptaḥ, the Blacksmith-god of Thebes, thereby obtaining funerary offerings in abundance, and the power to become a living being in Annu (Heliopolis), and a partaker of the existence of Temu, the chief god of that city. Many passages in the Chapter relating to offerings of food and drink are already familiar from Chapter LII., &c.

CHAPTER LXXXIII.

The text of this Chapter does not make clear exactly what advantage would be gained by the deceased from its recital. The Bennu bird, as we have already seen, was regarded as the soul of Rā, and it no doubt possessed faculties and attributes of a remarkable nature, but what these were is not known. The deceased, by the recital of the words of this Chapter, identifies himself with Khensu, an ancient Moon-god, who was regarded as the "great strider" through the night sky. The words, "I have clothed myself like the tortoise (or, turtle)," suggest that the deceased wished to clothe himself in apparel as thick and strong as the shell of the tortoise, so that he might be able to withstand the attacks which birds of the Bennu class might make upon him. The existence of the Rubric seems to show that the ancient editors of the Book of the Dead did not know the exact import of this Chapter.

CHAPTER LXXXIV.

This Chapter appears to have some connection with funerary sacrifices and offerings, and its recital probably enabled the deceased to supply himself with such necessary things. The connection of the heron in the Vignette with the formulae to be recited is not clear.

CHAPTER LXXXV.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with the Soul of Rā, the Soul which is God, or is Divine, the Soul of the everlasting gods, and with the body of that Soul, which is eternity itself. As the possessor of that Soul the deceased became the counterpart of Nu and Kheperā and the lord of light, i.e., Rā, and the substance of his being was identical with that of the gods. Now the eternal Soul of Rā was also the Soul of Osiris, whose living symbol on earth was the famous Ram-god of Mendes. From the XVIIth Chapter we learn that the Soul of Rā and the Soul of Osiris met in Ṭaṭṭu, and, having joined themselves together in that sacred city, they became the Twin-souls which were known as the TCHAFUI, .

Thus the great god of Ṭaṭṭu possessed a dual soul, one member performing functions which resembled those of the heart-soul (ba) in man, and the other having the characteristics of the spiritual soul (khu) in man. In the Vignettes we see an allusion to a play upon words, for the word ram is ba, and the word for the heart-soul is ba.

CHAPTER LXXXVI.

The recital of this Chapter gave to the deceased some power possessed by the bird, probably the swallow, which is represented in the Vignette. This bird is said to have rendered service to Isis when she was in trouble, by carrying the news of the calamity which had befallen her to the gods, who straightway went to her aid. It is possible that the deceased expected this Chapter to make him to be received everywhere in the Other World with the same cordial welcome which was given to the swallow on this earth as the harbinger of good tidings. For he says, "Let me advance with my message, for I have come with words to tell. Open the doors to me and I will declare the things which have been seen by me." The news he had to tell was that Horus had risen as the successor of Osiris, and that Set, the god of evil, was bound in the fetters which he had made for the deceased. The connection between the Scorpion, the daughter of Rā, and the swallow is not clear, but to identify himself with the Scorpion-goddess Serqet seems to have been all-important to the deceased.

CHAPTER LXXXVII.

By transforming himself into the Sata serpent the deceased obtained the power of gliding unharmed through the remote parts of the earth, just as by taking the form of the golden hawk he was able to fly to the uttermost parts of heaven in every direction at will.

CHAPTER LXXXVIII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased was enabled to take the form of the crocodile, and to traverse the Nile from one end to the other, and to penetrate all the great canals which ran from the river to the hills on its east and west banks. The terror which accompanied the appearance of the crocodile among men now became the attribute of the deceased, and he was able to seize his prey when and where he pleased. The crocodile is one of the oldest objects of veneration in Egypt, and until quite recently it was worshipped in some of the islands in Lake Victoria. At the end of the XVIIIth century of our era the king of the crocodiles was believed to live at Armant in Upper Egypt, and a gigantic crocodile was held in veneration at Khartûm during the reign of Muḥammad 'Alī!¹ In certain districts on the Blue Nile the natives believed that by the use of magic men were able to enter crocodiles and to cross the river in them, and to the present day the belief exists in the Sûdân that the eating of a portion of the genitals of a crocodile increases in a man the power of begetting children

CHAPTER LXXXIX.

The Egyptians of all periods believed that the souls of the blessed would meet again and recognize in the Other World the souls which they had known and loved upon earth, and several spells and prayers were written with the object of bringing about the reunion of families. By the recital of this Chapter over a golden soul, inlaid with precious stones, placed on the breast of his mummy, the deceased believed he would be able to compel his heart-soul (Ba) to come from any and every place and unite itself to his body. Once the heart-soul had returned it was impossible for the body to crumble away and perish. In the text (l. 4) the deceased prays that he may have possession of his heart-soul (Ba) and his spiritual soul (Khu), and the last line of this very important Chapter proves that the Ba joined itself to the material body (khat ) , and the Khu to its spiritual body (sāḥ ). The reunion of souls took place at Ānnu (Heliopolis).

CHAPTER XC.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to spit out of his mouth the "recollection" (or, taste) of foul or evil things. In the formulae he adjures the "cutter off of heads and the splitter of skulls" not to cut off his head or split his skull, and not to prevent him from uttering the words of power which he knows by closing his mouth. This evil being attacked Osiris on one occasion, being urged to do so by Set, but Isis cast spells upon him, and frustrated his nefarious design. As the monster retreated before Osiris so, the deceased believed, he would retreat before him when armed with the words of power contained in this Chapter.

CHAPTER XCI.

This interesting Chapter introduces us to another of the constituent elements of man, namely his shadow, khaibit, which was depicted in the form of a parasol or umbrella, . In the text it is mentioned in connection with the heart-soul and the spiritual soul, and, in the light of the beliefs current on the subject of the shadow in Central and West Africa at the present day, we may assume that the shadow is to be regarded as a third soul. At all events, the soul and the shadow are so intimately connected that many tribes use only one word for both soul and shadow,¹ and it is generally thought that the shadow is one of the four souls of man. A man will take infinite pains in the daytime to avoid losing his shadow, even for a short time; at night he is less careful, for then all shadows lie down in the shadow of the Great God and renew their strength.² A man may be murdered by the secret stabbing of his shadow, and the man who has lost his shadow necessarily dies. The recital of this Chapter prevented the souls of the deceased from being shut in the tomb or any part of the Other World, and transformed him into a spiritual soul who possessed his heart-soul and his shadow.

CHAPTER XCII.

This Chapter is one of great importance, for it proves that the heart-soul was intimately connected with the Ka, or double of a man. Its recital enabled the Ka and the Ba to leave the tomb at pleasure, and in one Vignette we see the deceased on one side of the tomb door and his Ka and Ba on the other, having passed through the door. From this and the preceding Chapter it seems clear that the Ka and the Ba and the Khaibit were closely associated in the minds of the

² Kingsley, West African Studies, p. 207.

Egyptians, and that in early times they represented three phases of that soul in man which could not die.

CHAPTER XCIII.

This Chapter presents some difficulty. The meaning of the text is on the whole clear, and by its recital the deceased was enabled to avoid going to the East, or being carried there against his will. It is possible that the Egyptians thought that the souls of the dead, when setting out on their journey from the earth to the Other World, might take the wrong turning, and so travel to disaster and annihilation. The being seated in the boat with his face turned round behind him, as seen in the Vignette, is a very old god, and his name, H_rā-f-ḥa-f, , occurs in the Pyramid Texts; his functions are unknown. The allusion to the phallus of Rā is not clear. We may note the threat on the part of the deceased that the Eye of the Sun shall become obscured through the suppuration which shall take place in it if he be kept in restraint, or carried off forcibly to the East.

CHAPTER XCIV.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with Thoth, the righteous scribe of all the gods, and the heart of Rā, and in this character he became the secretary of Osiris, and understood all the mysteries which were written in the Books of God. As Thoth he knew all the words of power which that god had invented, the secrets of all hearts were open to him, and he became the chief recording angel.

CHAPTER XCV.

The object of this Chapter is not quite clear, but the text seems to imply that the deceased by reciting it obtained the power of stilling storms and putting an end to strife among the gods who caused rain and thunder, just as Thoth stopped the fight between Horus and Set, and Rā and Āpep, and Osiris and Set, when the champions of light and order fought against the powers of darkness, wickedness, and chaos. According to a papyrus in the British Museum (No. 10,009) this Chapter is entitled, "Of making the transformation "into a goose," and in the Vignette is a picture of a goose.

CHAPTER XCVI.

The recital of this Chapter placed the deceased near Thoth, and caused him to be identified with Rā, the "god who dwelt in his eye." Armed with the intelligence of Thoth and the power of Rā, he made Set to be at peace with him, and made offerings to the ancient Earth-god Aker and to the Red Devils in the fiery clouds at sunrise and sunset, and did homage to Seb, or Kēb.

CHAPTER XCVII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased propitiated the Four Khu, viz., Maa-âtef-f, Kheribeqf, Ḥerukhenti[ān]maati, and Ānpu, and was enabled to take up his position in the Boat of Rā, to whom he presented an offering of Maāt, ⚡, having purified himself in the sacred lakes, and in the well of the Eye of the God “which is under the holy Sycamore Tree of “heaven,” in Heliopolis. This has been a holy well from time immemorial, and it is probably the same well as that which the Muslims called “‘Ayn-ash-shems,” i.e., “Eye of the Sun,” and in the waters of which, according to an ancient tradition, the Virgin Mary washed the raiment of Christ. The traditional well is carefully guarded at the present day in a garden at Maṭariyah, a few miles from Cairo, and a short distance from the obelisk of Usertsen I., which marks the site of the ancient city of Heliopolis.

CHAPTER XCVIII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased obtained the use of a boat in the Other World, and the services of a god who understood how and where to sail it. From the facts that he addresses the Meskhet, or the constellation of the Great Bear, and that the "stars which never set," i.e., the circumpolar stars, put him on his way, it may be assumed that he wished to have the power to sail over the northern heaven. In line 5 there is an allusion to a Ladder, and in the Papyrus of Ani a picture of it is given. This Ladder is referred to in the Pyramid Texts (Unâs, l. 579, Pepi, ll. 200 and 471); it was made originally for Osiris, who by means of it ascended into heaven. It was set up by Horus and Set, each of whom held one side, and they assisted the god to mount it; in the tombs of the Ancient and Middle Empires several models of ladders have been found, and in later times, as we have seen, pictures of the Ladder of Heaven were drawn on papyri. This Chapter is of Heliopolitan origin.

CHAPTER XCIX.

The object of this Chapter was to enable the deceased to work and sail a boat, that is to say, a magical boat, over the canals and lakes of the Sekhet-Âaru, in one portion of which were placed the Sekhet-hetep, or Elysian Fields, where Osiris and the souls of the blessed lived in everlasting felicity. Every part of this boat (mākhent ) possessed a name which identified it with some god or goddess, and the deceased was obliged to declare to each part its name before he was allowed to enter it. This Chapter contained the names of each part, and the knowledge of them made the deceased master of the boat, and enabled him to sail from the east to the west of heaven as Rā did each day.

CHAPTER C.

In the preceding Chapter we have seen that the deceased obtained a boat in which to sail over heaven like Rā, and in this we find that provision was made to enable him to enter into the Boat of Rā himself, whercin were the great gods in his following. This Chapter was, like the preceding, of Heliopolitan origin, and it is possible that the idea of the solar boat, with the shrine of the god placed in it, was derived from some Asiatic people. The Chapter was to be recited over a picture of a boat, drawn upon a piece of new papyrus with a special kind of ink made of sulphate of copper mixed with a solution of myrrh; the picture was placed on the breast of the deceased. The words and the picture secured for him the entry into the Boat of Rā, and prevented Thoth, who kept a list of all.

those who entered the boat, from omitting to inscribe his name on it.

CHAPTER CI.

This Chapter is a spell which was written upon a strip of fine byssus and placed round the neck of the deceased on the day of his funeral. It contains an address to Rā, in which is mentioned the sacred Eye of magical powers, which was seven cubits long and had a pupil three cubits in diameter; the recital of this Chapter strengthened the power of Rā, and enabled him to resist the attacks of Āpep and the fiends of darkness. In fact, Rā himself needed the protection of spells; if Rā were strong the deceased was strong, and if Rā lost his strength the deceased perished. The formulae of this Chapter transformed the deceased into a "follower of Horus," and made him like Sept (Sothis), and gave him the company of his kinsfolk, and the goddess Menqet caused plants (i.e., grain) to spring up from his body, and Thoth made light to shine on him.

CHAPTER CII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased caused Rā to bring his boat to him, and to allow him to enter it, and to sail about with the god among the region of the stars which never set, i.e., the circumpolar stars of the northern sky. He states that he has lived upon the pure food which the solar boats Sektet and Āṭet (or Māṭet) have brought to him, and, having eaten of the food of Rā, he is pure like Rā, and of like substance. In line 8 appears to be mentioned the curious custom of spitting, as a sign of healing and blessing, which is common among several peoples of Africa at the present day. Thus Mr. Thomson says, "Little bits of paper were next dipped in the water, and after I had spat upon them the ceremony was over, and the pieces were handed round as an infallible cure warranted not to fail."¹ Among the Masai spitting expresses the greatest good-will, and the best of wishes. It takes the place of the compliments of the season, and you had better spit upon a damsel than kiss her. You spit when you meet, and you do the same on leaving. You seal your bargain in a similar manner."² Among the Egyptians spitting was a creative act, for the god Tem spat, and Tefnut came into being.

CHAPTER CIII.

The recital of this Chapter placed the deceased among the company who followed the goddess Hathor. This goddess was the personification of the sky, and especially of that part of it which was the "house of

² Ibid., p. 290.

“Horus”; hence her name, . Her symbol was in the earliest times a cow, and she represented the great mother of the world and the female power of nature which was perpetually conceiving, creating, bringing forth, and rearing and maintaining all things, both great and small. The Greeks identified her with Aphrodite, and she represented what was true, and good, and all that is best in wife, mother, and daughter.

CHAPTER CIV.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased was able to avail himself of the services of the *abit*¹ or mantis, and to pass through the house of the Shēhāptet Boat,   , and to take his place among the great gods.

CHAPTER CV.

It has already been said that the KA, or double, and the heart-soul, existed on the offerings which were made in the tombs by the relatives of the deceased, and it was, naturally, one of the first duties of a man whilst upon earth to provide, as far as possible, an endowment to be expended in supplying the statutory offerings.

The recital of this Chapter secured food for the KA similar to that on which the KAU of the gods lived, it enabled the deceased to identify himself with the Uatch Amulet,  ¹, which was on the neck of Rā, and it prevented his heart from falling away from him.

CHAPTER CVI.

Among the places which the deceased expected to visit in the Other World was the celestial Memphis, the abode of the spirit of Ptaḥ. By the recital of this Chapter the deceased would avoid the possibility of being in that place without food, and would secure a supply of bread, &c., which would be brought to him by the boat of the Other World.

CHAPTER CVII.

The recital of this Chapter gave to the deceased the power to go in and come out from the gate of the gods of the West, and to know these gods in person.

CHAPTER CVIII.

This Chapter also deals with the knowing of the Souls of the West; these were Temu, Sebek, and Hathor. The place where these Souls lived was the Mountain of Bakhau, or the Mountain of Sunrise, which was 30,000 cubits long and 15,000 cubits broad; its principal god, or "soul," was Sebek. On this mountain lived a serpent 30 cubits long, and his forepart, for a distance of 8 cubits, was covered with flints and bright metal plates; his name was ÂMI-HEMF,

. When Râ came to the mountain in his boat, he attacked the serpent with an iron harpoon, and made him vomit, and thus the power of Suti was broken, and he was turned back. The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to do what Râ had done, and to walk boldly over the back of the serpent.

CHAPTER CIX.

The recital of this Chapter gave to the deceased the knowledge of the Souls of the East, i.e., Heru-khuti, the Sucking Calf, and the Morning Star, and of the position of the Gate of the East in the sky, and the Two Sycamores between which Râ appeared daily. It also enabled him to reach that portion of the Sekhet-Âaru where grew wheat with ears two cubits long, and barley with ears three cubits long, which were reaped by the Souls of the Blessed who were nine cubits in height!

CHAPTER CX.

This is a remarkable Chapter, with a large Vignette wherein are depicted the Elysian Fields of the Egyptians. They were surrounded on all sides by water, and were intersected by numerous canals, like many fertile districts in the Delta at the present time. The god of the region was called H̄etep, whose city was also called H̄etep, and the soul who had once learned the secret name of the god was able to lead there a life which closely resembled the life he had led upon earth. He sailed at will on the canals, he found there his parents and kinsfolk, he passed from place to place at will, he ploughed, sowed, reaped, ate, drank, married, held converse with the gods, arrayed himself in beautiful apparel, and lived a life of endless happiness. The various Vignettes are explained in detail on pp. 319—323.

CHAPTERS CXI. AND CXII.

By the recital of these Chapters the deceased became acquainted in person with the Souls of the city of Pe in the Delta, whose names were Horus, K̄esth̄a and H̄āpi, and learned how to profit by his knowledge of an interesting legend concerning Horus. It seems that in very early times Set, the god of evil, took the form of a black pig, , which came into the presence of Horus, who looked on the animal. Soon after this Horus found that a serious injury had been done to his eye through looking at the black pig, and he felt as if he had received a blow in it. Rā ordered him to be placed in a chamber in the city of Pe, and at his request appointed Kesthā and Hāpi to keep watch over him. The legend refers, no doubt, to a great storm which swept over Pe, when the whole heaven was obscured by clouds, and thunders roared, and lightnings flashed, and torrents of rain fell. During the storm Horus was struck in the eye by lightning, or smitten by a thunderbolt, and when the storm had passed Rā appointed two of the sons of Horus to "make the earth blossom," and destroy the thunder-clouds and rain which threatened the city.

CHAPTER CXIII.

This Chapter contains a legend of Horus when he was in the city of Nekhen, in Upper Egypt. The meaning of the text is not very clear in places, but it seems that Horus fell into the papyrus swamp, and Isis ordered Sebek, the god of the papyrus swamp, to find him. Sebek took a net and succeeded in recovering the hands and arms of Horus, and by the orders of Rā they were placed in the city of Nekhen, and at the request of Horus, Tuamutef and Qebhsennuf were appointed to watch over them. By the recital of this Chapter the deceased was enabled to avoid the disaster which fell upon Horus, and to obtain the protection of those who watched over this god.

CHAPTER CXIV.

The city of Khemennu, i.e., the city of the Eight Gods, or Hermopolis, was the seat of the god Thoth, the head of the oldest company of gods in Egypt. This company consisted of four gods and four goddesses, viz. :—

Nu, .

Nut, .

Hehu, .

Hehut, .

Kekiu, .

Kekiut, .

Kerh, .

Kerhet, .

These were forms of Thoth and were regarded as his Souls. By the recital of this Chapter the deceased obtained the wisdom, and knowledge, and learning of Thoth and his Souls, and the power to use them to his advantage.

CHAPTER CXV.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased obtained the power of passing unharmed through the Ammehet,

, or Āmāḥet, ,
 and the knowledge of the Souls of Heliopolis, Rā, Shu and Tefnut in person. The Āmmeḥet was a division or chamber in the kingdom¹ of the god Seker, wherein certain souls were kept in restraint at the pleasure of the lord of the region, and it seems that at intervals they were tortured by fire. In the text mention is made of the high-priest of Ānnu, whose official title was "Urmau," , and there is an allusion to the origin of a beard or tress of hair, , in connection with the god Āmi-haf,
, but the exact meaning is not clear.

CHAPTER CXVI.

The purpose for which this Chapter was recited is explained in the Rubric; it prevented the deceased from being obliged to eat offal and drink dirty water.
 There is probably a mistake in the title which mentions the Souls of Khemennu, whilst the text speaks of the Souls of Ānnu who are here said to be Thoth, Sheta-
Saa and Rekh-Tem.

¹ It was the fifth Division of the Tuat and was called ĀMENT.

CHAPTER CXVII.

The recital of this Chapter provided the deceased with a staff and a belt, or girdle, and gave him the knowledge of the paths whereon he would travel in Re-stau, a portion of the Other World, and enabled him to pass safely through the funeral valley and reach the Great Lake.

CHAPTER CXVIII.

The recital of this Chapter enabled him to pass through Re-stau, and to emerge safely from it in the company of the Šāhu who lived near the abode of Osiris.

CHAPTER CXIX.

This is an interesting Chapter, for it shows how the Egyptians associated the kingdom of Osiris at Abydos with Re-stau, which was in the Other World of Seker near Memphis. Its recital enabled the deceased to identify himself with the Sāhu (spiritual body) of Osiris, and to enter the presence of Rā in its company.

CHAPTERS CXX. AND CXXI.

These have already been described as Chapters XII. and XIII.

CHAPTER CXXII.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to re-enter Àmenti at pleasure, and to go in like the hawk and come forth like the Bennu bird. The text suggests that he is asking some god to admit him into Àmenti, and in reply to the question "Who art thou?" he recites the names of various parts of the boat in which he is sailing. It seems as if the Chapter represents the belief that the deceased was obliged to return to Àmenti in order to partake of milk, cakes, bread, ale and meat in the Temple of Anubis.

CHAPTER CXXIII.

In this Chapter the deceased identifies himself with Thoth, who made the Two Combatants, Horus and Set, to cease from fighting and to be at peace; being Thoth, he possesses the knowledge of the words of power which are necessary to make the old gods to perform his commands, and the young gods to follow him. The allusion to the Ātu fish, , is not clear, and little is known about the god Nem-hrà, or Uhem-hrà,     .

CHAPTER CXXIV.

According to one papyrus the formulae of this Chapter were recited to enable the deceased to transform himself into a Bennu bird, and according to another the Chapter contains the speech which he was supposed to make when he entered into the presence of the TCHATCHA,    , or chief ministers of Osiris (i.e., the four sons of Horus), or into the presence of Osiris himself.

CHAPTER CXXV.

This Chapter is one of the most interesting and remarkable in the Book of the Dead, and it illustrates the lofty moral and spiritual conceptions of the Egyptians in the XVIIIth Dynasty. In the opening section the deceased is supposed to be standing before the doors of the Judgment Hall of Osiris, which are guarded by Anubis, and he describes to this god the journey which he has made from the Delta to Elephantine, and enumerates the shrines and holy places which he has visited. He has conversed with Set, and visited Mendes, the sacred Acacia Tree, Elephantine, the seat of the goddess Sati, Qem-ur, Busiris, the temple of Anubis, Re-stau in the kingdom of Seker, and An-ruṭ-f the kingdom of Heru-shefi at Herakleopolis. Having told Anubis the magical names of the Hall of Maāti, the god gave him permission to enter. On his arrival in the Hall the deceased then solemnly declared that he knew the name of Osiris, and the names of Forty-two gods who sat there with him to assist him in examining the souls of those who came in before him for judgment, and that he had not committed the sins which he mentioned one by one. According to this confession he 1. had harmed no man; 2. had not injured his family; 3. had committed no evil in a holy place; 4. had not kept evil companions; 5. had done no evil; 6. had not overworked his men; 7. had not sought for honours; 8. or ill-treated his servants; 9. or scorned God; 10. or seized any man's property; 11. or done what the gods hate; 12. or vilified a servant to his master; 13. or caused pain to any; 14. or let any man go hungry; 15. or made any one weep; 16. or committed murder; 17. or caused murder to be committed; 18. or inflicted pain; 19. had not stolen the offerings in the temple; 20. or the sacred bread; 21. or bread offered to the spirits; 22. had not committed fornication; 23. or polluted himself in the sanctuary of the city god; 24. had not given short measure; 25. or filched land; 26. or encroached on land not his own; 27. had not cheated the seller; 28. or buyer by means of false weights; 29. had not stolen the milk of children; 30. had not raided cattle; 31. or snared sacred birds; 32. or caught fish with bait made of fish of the same kind; 33. had not stopped the flow of water; 34. or cut the bank of a canal; 35. or extinguished a fire which ought to burn; 36. had not defrauded the gods of their meat offerings; 37. or raided sacred cattle; 38. and did not repulse God in his manifestations.

In the second form of the Confession the deceased addresses each negative statement to a god, whose duty it appears to have been to punish all those who committed the particular sin mentioned in connection with his name. The names of the Forty-two gods are:—

- | | |
|--|-----------------|
| 1. Usekh-nemmât. | 13. Ām-senf. |

and Tefnut). | 18. Tuṭuf. |

The order of the names is not always the same, and there are a few variants in the lists given by the different papyri. It will be noticed that the names of very few of the great gods are contained in the list, and it seems as if the Forty-two gods of the Judgment Hall of Osiris were merely divine ministers of that god whose sole duty was to help the god to examine souls nightly.

The last section of this Chapter contains an address to the gods of the Other World which was spoken after the deceased had passed successfully through the ordeal of the Judgment. The Rubric to the Chapter is also of great interest, and in it the deceased is ordered to make a picture of the Judgment Scene in colour upon a new tile made of earth upon which no pig or any other animal has trodden. If he did this it would have the effect of making him and his family to flourish, his name would never be forgotten, and he would be able to satisfy the hearts of the king and his princes. He lived on the food of the gods, went wherever he pleased in the Other World, and followed in the train of Osiris continually.

CHAPTER CXXVI.

In this Chapter the deceased entreats the Four Apes who sat each at a corner of the Lake of Fire, or of boiling water, in the Ámmehet chamber in the kingdom of Seker, to put away his "evil deeds and sin" which deserved stripes upon earth, and to destroy any "evil which clung to him," and to let him enter Re-stau, and to grant him sepulchral meals. To this petition the Apes reply that they have granted his prayer.

CHAPTER CXXVII.A AND B.

The two versions of Chapter CXXVII. contain hymns of praise to the gods of the QERTI, , i.e., the "Circles" of the Other World, which the deceased sang before he entered into the Great Temple of the Other World.

CHAPTER CXXVIII.

This Chapter contains a hymn to Osiris, the lord of souls, , which the deceased sang to the god as he presented his offerings to him. It belongs to a late period, and contains nothing which is not found in older texts.

CHAPTER CXXIX.

This Chapter has already been described as Chapter C.

CHAPTER CXXX.

This Chapter was recited on the birthday of Osiris, and the object of its recital by the deceased was to "make perfect his spiritual soul." The Rubric directs that it shall be recited over a picture of the Boat of Rā, and that a figure of the deceased be placed in it, with a Sektet Boat on one side and an Ātet Boat on the other. In the Vignette the deceased is seen standing between the two boats. The object of the Chapter is clear. The recital of it enabled the deceased to identify himself with Rā-Osiris, that is to say, with the Day-sun and the Night-sun, and it provided him either with a passage in both boats of Rā-Osiris, or with two boats in which to follow the god across heaven by day and through the Tuat by night. This Chapter is probably of Heliopolitan origin. In the Saïte Recension the Rubric contains an interesting statement to the effect that this Chapter was "found" in the large hall of the temple during the reign of the Majesty of Semti-Hesepti, , having been "found" in a cave in a hill which Horus made for his father Osiris Un-nefer, . . Thus it is clear that in the Ptolemaic Period the Chapter was believed to have been in existence under the Ist Dynasty.

CHAPTER CXXXI.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with Rā, and attained the object of his prayer, i.e., permission to enter the boat of the god and to be in the company of Thoth, who was the heart of Rā. The deceased refers to the deity Mehen, under whose protection Rā sailed, and to her everlasting existence, and to the Lake of a Million Years, and he declares that through all these years Rā is the Lord, and that his path is in the fire. This Chapter also is probably of Heliopolitan origin.

CHAPTER CXXXII.

The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to return to earth and to visit his old house, or perhaps tomb. In one of the Vignettes the form of the deceased is standing at the door, and in the other his heart-soul is alighting on the roof of the building.

CHAPTER CXXXIII.

This Chapter is to all intents and purposes a hymn to Rā, and is, no doubt, of Heliopolitan origin. It was intended to be said or sung over a model of the Boat of Rā, four (or seven) cubits long, made of green porcelain, in which were a figure of Rā and a figure of the deceased. No one was to look upon the boat except the father, or son, of the man for whose benefit it was made. If these things were done they would cause Rā to look upon the soul of the deceased as perfect, and the gods would consider him to be an equal, and men and the dead would fall on their faces when they saw him, and in the Other World he would appear as the radiance of Rā.

CHAPTER CXXXIV.

This Chapter resembles the preceding, and is also of Heliopolitan origin. It was to be recited over a model of the Boat of Rā, in which, painted on a plaque, were figures of the deceased, a hawk, Tem, Shu, Tefnut, Seb, Nut, Osiris, Isis, Suti, Nephthys, and the solar disk ; this done the deceased enjoyed existence with Rā daily, and helped to overthrow his enemies.

CHAPTER CXXXV.

This Chapter was to be recited by the deceased on the day when the new moon appeared in the sky, and its recital helped him to become a perfect soul in the Other World, and to escape a second death. The new moon was the symbol of Osiris risen from the dead, and the Egyptians believed that the knowledge of this Chapter would enable the deceased to pass unharmed through the Other World, and to emerge, unfettered by storm and darkness, into the clear vault of heaven. He would then, like Rā, enter his boat and sail over the sky. This and the following Chapter were also of Heliopolitan origin.

CHAPTER CXXXVI.A AND B.

This Chapter is in character similar to the preceding, and was recited with the object of making perfect the soul of the deceased and of securing for it a seat in the Boats of Rā, where it would live for ever and ever.

CHAPTER CXXXVIIA.

This Chapter was recited during the performance in the tomb of some interesting ceremonies which are described in the Vignette. Four men assumed the character of the four pillars of Horus, and each had the name of one of the pillars, i.e., sons of Horus, on his shoulder. Each took in his hand a torch made of strips of âtma cloth, which had been dipped in the finest Thehennu unguent, and set fire to it, and after it had been burning some time, that is, during the recital of certain portions of the Chapter, they extinguished them in four earthen vessels containing the milk of a white cow. This ceremony was to be performed daily, with very great secrecy, for it was regarded as a great mystery. If the instructions given in the Rubric were carried out faithfully, the deceased became a "living soul for ever," and enjoyed all the powers and attributes of Osiris himself. The formulae are said to have been composed by Thoth in very early times, and copies of them are said to have been "found" by Prince Heruṭātāf, the son of King Khufu, in a hidden chest in Hermopolis. After the lighting of the torches, a crystal Tēṭ, , set on a block of crude Nile mud, was inserted in a cavity in the west wall of the tomb; and a figure of Anubis, set on a similar block, was inserted in a cavity in the east wall; another block of crude Nile mud, containing a hollow filled with lighted incense, was inserted in a cavity in the south wall; and another block, with a figure of a palm-tree set in it, was inserted in the cavity in the north wall. On each block was inscribed a formula which was recited by the deceased, and which prevented the approach of any enemy to the wall of the tomb in which was placed the amulet referred to in the formula. Like certain other Chapters this Chapter was to be recited by a man who had eaten neither fish nor meat, and who had not had intercourse with women. A set of mud blocks with the amulets upon them from a tomb of a priestess of Âmen-Râ at Thebes may be seen in Wall-case No. 73 in the Second Egyptian Room in the British Museum.

In the Vignette of the second and shorter form of the Chapter the Hippopotamus-goddess "Âpit, lady of "amulets," is seen kindling a lamp set on a stand, and the text makes it clear that the flame is a type of the Eye of Horus, or the Sun-god, the "Pillar of his "mother," . It is possible that the ape-goddess mentioned in connection with Ân-mut-f (see above, p. c, Chap. XVIII.) may be a hippopotamus-goddess.

CHAPTER CXXXVIII.

The recital of this Chapter by the deceased gave him the power to enter into the kingdom of Osiris at Abydos, to become one of the followers of the god, and to identify himself with Horus, the son of Osiris, on the day of the great ceremony when the reconstitution of the body of Osiris was commemorated by setting up the Tet, , and placing the head of the god on the top of it. The Vignette represents the setting up of the Tet by Horus and Isis, and grouped about it are the Souls of Pe and Nekhen, the Ram-gods (i.e., Soul-gods), the Lions of Sunrise and Sunset, the Four Utchats of heaven, the Two Fly-flappers, &c.

CHAPTER CXXXIX.

This Chapter has already been described as Chapter CXXIII.

CHAPTER CXL.

This Chapter was to be recited on the day of the full moon of the sixth month of the Egyptian year over two Utchat amulets, , one made of lapis-lazuli and one made of jasper, which were to be placed on the body of the deceased. At the same time four altars were to be dedicated to Râ-Tem, and four to the full moon, and four to the gods whose names are mentioned in the Chapter, and each altar was to be supplied with offerings, according to the list given in the Rubric.

CHAPTERS CXLI. AND CXLII.

These Chapters originally formed one composition, which contained the names of all the gods of heaven, earth, and the Other World, to whom on the ninth day of the festival it was meet and right that the deceased should make offerings on behalf of his father or his son. These names were followed by a list of the forms of Osiris, to which also offerings were to be made. In the Saïte Recension the list of the forms of Osiris comes first, and is fuller than that given in the Theban Recension.

CHAPTER CXLIII.

This Chapter consists of a series of five Vignettes only.

CHAPTER CXLIV.

This Chapter was to be recited during the performance of a number of ceremonies which are described in the long Rubric. The first portion of it, which is arranged in tabular form, contains a representation of the SEVEN ĀRITS, i.e., Halls, which formed the abode of Osiris in the Other World. Before each Ārit stood three beings: one of these guarded the door, another kept a look-out to see when any one was approaching, and the third acted as herald, and announced the name of the comer to the god. No one could gain admission into the Ārits unless he was able to recite the names of the doorkeepers, watchmen, and heralds. The second portion of the Chapter contains a long address to the Ārits and their keepers, which the deceased was supposed to recite. The Rubric ordered that figures of the gods of the Ārits were to be painted with their Ārits, and that a figure of the deceased was to be made to approach each Ārit in turn. At each Ārit the Chapter was to be recited, and certain offerings made, among them being four vessels of blood.

CHAPTER CXLV.

In the preceding Chapter we have seen that the Hall-gates of the Kingdom of Osiris were seven in number, but in this Chapter the Pylons of the Sekhet-Āaru, or Elysian Fields, which also formed a part of the domain of Osiris, were twenty-one in number. Each Pylon was under the care of two gods, whose names had to be proclaimed by the deceased before he was permitted to pass through it. As he came to each Pylon he uttered the names of the gods and told them what acts of purification he had performed. This done he was allowed to proceed. The speech recited before the XXIst Pylon is the longest of all, and in it the deceased enumerates the shrines which he has visited, and the pious acts which he has performed.

CHAPTER CXLVI.

This Chapter is a version of Chapter CXLV.

CHAPTER CXLVII.

This Chapter is a version of Chapter CXLIV.

CHAPTER CXLVIII.

The recital of this Chapter by the deceased enabled him to supply himself with animal food, milk, cream, &c., and gave him the names of the seven divine cows and their bull, the figures of which are seen in the Vignette. In the text he addresses the god of the kine and their bull, and also the animals themselves. Following the prayer for offerings are pictures of the Rudders of the four quarters of heaven, and of the gods who preside over them, and these also are entreated to give food to the deceased. This Chapter is described in the Rubric as the "Book of Un-Nefer," , , and it is ordered that it be recited by the deceased only when he is quite alone. If the instructions in the Rubric be faithfully carried out, Râ himself will be the Rudder of the deceased and his protecting power.

CHAPTER CXLIX.

This Chapter was originally the last of the Chapters of the Book of the Dead, for the words "Here endeth "[the book] in peace," , come at the end of it. It contains pictures of the Fourteen Āats, , of Sekhet-Āaru, or the Elysian Fields, and a series of texts which gives the names of many of the gods who live in them, and descriptions of the Āats. In the Pyramid Texts frequent allusions to the Āats, or Domains, of Horus and Set are met with, but the Āats of Sekhet-Āaru were under the rule of Osiris. The Āats and their gods, according to two lists, were:—

ĀAT.	GOD.
I. Āment
II. Sekhet-Āaru	Râ-Ĥeru-khuti.
III. Khu
IV. Tui-gauī-āāui

CHAPTER CL

This Chapter contains a list of Fifteen Aats, with a picture of each ; it is practically a summary of Chapter CXLIX. in a tabular form.

CHAPTER CL.I.A AND B.

The Vignette of this Chapter is of great interest, for in it are represented the form and decoration of the mummy chamber of a tomb, according to the views of those who were learned in matters concerning the Other World. This chamber was rectangular in shape, and in the centre of it the deceased is seen lying on a bier, with his feet to the south, and with the jars containing his viscera beneath it; by his feet stands Anubis, and Nephthys and Isis kneel at the head and foot of the bier respectively. In each corner is a figure of one of the sons of Horus; these figures may have been painted on the walls. Each wall had in it a cavity. In the cavities of the north and south walls were placed bowls of incense, which is here represented as burning, in the cavity of the east wall is a figure of Anubis, and in that of the west wall a Tēṭ. A shabti figure stands at the north-east and south-east corners, and a figure of the heart-soul in the north-west and south-west corners. The texts which accompany the gods, amulets, &c., are magical formulae intended to protect the mummy. The text of Chapter CLII.B contains a speech of the god Anubis, in which the beatified state of the deceased is described.

CHAPTER CLII.

The recital of this Chapter secured for the deceased the possession of a house in this world which he could visit daily. The goddess Sesheta, the mistress of architectural knowledge, drew the plan, and its foundations were laid in Heliopolis, the city of Râ. To this house beasts for slaughter were brought by the south wind, and grain by the north wind, and his barley came from the ends of the earth.

CHAPTER CLIII.A AND B.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased was enabled to avoid capture in the net of "the fowler whose fingers are hidden," whether the net were cast on land or in the waters. The net itself, and its ropes, and the instruments with which it was fastened to the ground and worked, had each a magical name, and by the knowledge of all these names the deceased not only avoided capture himself but was enabled to use the net and capture fowl and fish for his own needs. Nets are used for catching game to this day by many African tribes, and the Fân tie them on to trees in two long lines which converge to an acute angle, the bottom part of the net lying on the ground. Then a party of men and women accompanied by their trained dogs, which have bells hung round their necks, beat the surrounding bushes, and the frightened small game rush into the nets, and become entangled.¹ The Bible contains several allusions to the net, both as a weapon of evil men and as a hunting instrument. Thus we read of the "wild bull in a net" (Isaiah li. 20), "they have prepared a net for my steps" (Psalm lvii. 6), and see Psalms ix. 15, x. 9, xxv. 15, xxxi. 4, xxxv. 7; Proverbs xxix. 5; Micah vii. 2, &c. Anthony the Great also spoke of the net of the Enemy.²

CHAPTER CLIV.

This is a remarkable Chapter, and is one of the most important in the Book of the Dead. It consists of an address to the god Osiris wherein the deceased prays to his "divine father" not to let his body decay or perish. He appeals to Osiris because, like Tem and Kheperâ, he was one who never saw corruption, and entreats him to deliver him from decay even as he delivered his own body from the worms and corruption which seize upon the bodies of "every god, and every goddess, and "every animal, and every reptile, as soon as the breath "hath departed from them." The recital of this Chapter enabled the deceased to identify himself with Kheperâ, and at the end of the text he says, "My "members shall have an everlasting existence. I shall "neither decay, nor rot, nor putrefy, nor turn into "worms, nor see corruption. I shall have my being, I "shall live, I shall flourish, I shall wake up in peace." A version of the text of this Chapter was written upon one of the linen sheets in which the mummy of Thothmes III. was wrapped.

CHAPTER CLV.

The recital of this Chapter over a Tet, , of gold, which was placed on the neck of the deceased on the day of the funeral, gave him the power to rise up like Osiris with strength in his back, shoulders, and neck.

CHAPTER CLVI.

The recital of this Chapter over a buckle of carnelian, which was placed on the neck of the deceased on the day of the funeral, gave him the protection of the blood of Isis, and the strength of the goddess and the knowledge of her words of power. It caused Horus to rejoice when he saw him, and one hand of the deceased would be towards heaven, and the other towards earth, regularly and continually.

CHAPTER CLVII.

This Chapter is ordered by the Rubric to be cut upon a figure of a vulture made of gold, which was to be placed on the neck of the deceased on the day of the funeral. This figure and the formula cut on it secured for him the protection and motherly love which Isis lavished upon her son Horus, whom she brought forth in the papyrus swamps of the Delta. According to the legend, Horus who had been left by Isis sleeping in safety was, during her absence, stung to death by a scorpion. Isis, in the form of a vulture, flew about over the swamps, uttering cries as she went, until at length she found the body of her son. Her sister Nephthys cried out to Thoth, who was in the Boat of Rā, and who stopped the solar boat, and came to earth and gave Isis the words of power which enabled her to restore Horus to life. By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with Horus who was raised up from the dead.

CHAPTER CLVIII.

The words of this Chapter were cut upon a pectoral of gold, which was placed on the neck of the deceased on the day of the funeral, and they secured for him the protection of Isis, whom he calls "my father, my brother, my mother."

CHAPTER CLIX.

The words of this Chapter were cut upon an amulet of felspar, made in the form of a papyrus column, which was placed on the neck of the deceased on the day of the funeral. They secured for him the protection of Isis and the strength of Horus.

CHAPTER CLX.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased obtained possession of the health and strength which were in the Eye of Horus, and of the Uatch amulet,  ¹, which was bestowed upon the righteous by Thoth.

CHAPTER CLXI.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased was enabled to enter each of the four quarters of heaven at will, and to breathe the air in them. Osiris gave him the north wind, Rā the south wind, Isis the west wind, and Nephthys the east wind. This Chapter was a "great mystery," and it was only to be recited in the presence of the father or son of the deceased.

CHAPTER CLXII.

This Chapter was the last of a series which was not originally connected with the Book of the Dead. It was to be recited over a gold figure of a cow, which was to be placed on the neck of the deceased, and to be written on a strip of new papyrus which was to be placed under his head. The object of the Chapter was to keep heat in the body of the deceased until his resurrection, and it is said to have been composed by the Cow-goddess of heaven for the benefit of her son Rā when he was surrounded by beings of fire. It contains the magic names of the Cow and of the Divine Body in Heliopolis, and is one of the few Chapters which mentions Amen. Of the god PAR, or PAL,  (l. 1), nothing is known.

CHAPTER CLXIII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with the Divine Soul in Áthabu and with the Divine Soul in Saïs, and became the emanations of the eyes of Ámen, the divine Bull-Scarab, the Lord of the Utchats, and the very essence of the pupils of the eyes of the god. By the knowledge of this Chapter he prevented his body from decaying, by it he avoided the devourers of souls and the things which he hated on earth, and vanquished all the "worms" in the Other World. The Rubric is unusually interesting, and illustrates the magical ceremonies which were performed in connection with the Chapters of the Book of the Dead in the late period.

CHAPTER CLXIV.

This Chapter contains an address to the goddess Sekhet-Bast-Rā, which was to be recited over a three-headed figure of the goddess Mut and two figures of two-headed dwarfs, and it gives the name by which she was known among the dwellers in the Sûdân, viz.,

Tekaharesapusaremkakaremet, ,
. Her father's name was Ḥarpukakasharushabaiu,

, and the names of the two dwarf-gods were Ātaruāmtcherqemtūrenu- parsheta, ,
, and Panemmā,
. If the instructions given in the Rubric were followed, the flesh and bones of the deceased became like those of one who had never been dead.

CHAPTER CLXV.

This Chapter was to be recited over two figures, one of which represented the "god of the lifted arm," and the other a man with a ram's head above each shoulder.
 The god of the lifted arm was a form of Āmen, and he had the head, arms, hands, and legs of a man, the body of a beetle, and the tail of an animal; he is ithyphallic.
 The deceased addresses Āmen by various names, several of which appear to be of Sûdânî origin, and entreats the god to let him comprehend him; by the recital of this Chapter the deceased obtained water in the Other World, and shone like the stars of heaven. The attributes of the god Sukāṭi, , are unknown.

CHAPTER CLXVI.

By the recital of this Chapter the head of the deceased was lifted up in heaven by the gods and preserved for ever. He was enabled by it to avoid slaughter in the Other World, and his head was never carried away from him.

CHAPTER CLXVII.

The recital of this Chapter gave to the deceased the strength which was in the Eye (Utchat) of Horus. Making a play on the words utchat, "eye," and utcha, "strength," he says, "I am sound, and it is sound." The mention of Thoth bringing the Utchat is an allusion to the legend which states that on one occasion Set stole the Eye of Horus and carried it off, whereupon Horus became sick. Thoth went in pursuit of Set, and having found him he took away the Eye of Horus and carried it back to the god; in the struggle between Thoth and Set the latter received a wound in the thigh. On another occasion Set was wandering through the sky on the evening of the new moon, and finding the little crescent there he swallowed it, but Thoth made him vomit, and the moon was restored to the sky. According to another view Set bit a piece off the moon each night after the full moon, and thus the waning of the moon was accounted for.

CHAPTER CLXVIII.

This section contains a series of prayers to the gods of the Eighth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth Circles of the Other World, who are entreated to grant to the deceased favours and benefits, in return for which offerings on his behalf are to be made to them. The prayers form a sort of Litany of the Gods.

CHAPTER CLXIX.

In this Chapter we have a detailed statement of the various benefits which have been conferred on the deceased by the gods, and its recital secured for the deceased everlasting felicity in the Other World. In the text it is assumed that he has performed all ceremonial obligations, he has passed through the Hall of Judgment with credit to himself, none has obstructed his passage or kept him under restraint, he does as the gods do, he eats what they eat, drinks what they drink, lives with them, holds converse with them, rests happily in the haven of the Gap at Abydos, where he is sheltered from the whirlwind and the storm, and death cannot again approach him. The Great God ordered him to be brought to this place of felicity, and he dwells within Rā.

CHAPTER CLXX.

This Chapter is a continuation of Chapter CLXIX.; the recital of either was equally beneficial for the deceased. Among the favours which the gods bestowed upon him was the gift of books, written in hieroglyphics, which the god Thoth himself brought to him. Shesmu, the headsman of Osiris, also snared and killed the fowl of heaven, which he brought to him, and thus saved him the trouble of working the net for himself.

CHAPTER CLXXI.

This Chapter contains a prayer to all the great gods and goddesses, and to all the divine beings who are in heaven and earth, that when the deceased arrayeth himself in the ābu apparel, , he may at the same time be freed from every taint of evil, and may put on all the strength and purity which are the peculiar attributes of all the gods who are mentioned in the text, and may be a pure and undefiled soul for evermore. Among the names of the gods we find the name of Amen, a fact which suggests that the Chapter is not older than the XVIIIth Dynasty.

CHAPTER CLXXII.

This Chapter consists of an introductory paragraph, and Nine Houses or Stanzas, wherein the triumph, and beauty, and happiness of the deceased are described in picturesque and highly poetical language. He is wholly identified with every power of heaven, and every god and every goddess share their natures and attributes with him. As bearing upon the question of the efficacy of funerary offerings and sacrifices and ceremonies, it is important to note the words, "Hail, "thou who hast been raised up, thou art raised up by "means of the ceremonies which have been performed "for thee."

CHAPTER CLXXIII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with Horus, the son of Osiris, who came from the Ābt chamber to see Rā in the form of Un-Nefer, i.e., Osiris, the Lord of the Holy Land. When Horus met his father Osiris each god embraced the other, and Horus enumerated in forty short statements the things which he had done on his father's behalf. Each statement opens with the words "I have come," and it will be remembered that in the famous inscription of Thothmes III., which contains a series of addresses to the king by Amen-Rā, Lord of Karnak, and which enumerates all the great things which the god had performed for him, each address opens with the words "I have come." The recital of this Chapter by the deceased before Osiris caused the god to regard him as his son Horus.

CHAPTER CLXXIV.

The text forming this Chapter was originally a section of the Heliopolitan Recension of the Book of the Dead which was in use under the Vth and VIth Dynasties; it is found in the Pyramid of Unās, ll. 379—399. The title is a later addition, and the Vignette merely illustrates the title. The "great door" alluded to in both is probably the door of the star-god Sept (Sothis), , at which the deceased was brought forth by the goddess Sekhet. The Heliopolitan or Memphite origin of the Chapter is proved by the fact that in the text the deceased identifies himself with Nefer-Tem, the son of Ptaḥ and Sekhet, the great gods of Memphis. The symbol of Nefer-Tem was the lily, or lotus, seshen , and with this the deceased identifies himself.

CHAPTER CLXXV.

This Chapter is of very great interest, but is full of difficulties. The text as it stands in the Papyrus of Ani shows that the deceased is supposed to have become dissatisfied with the actions of the divine children of Nut, who have brought wickedness and trouble into everything. In his difficulty he appeals to Thoth, the righteous scribe of Osiris. Next, the deceased is supposed to find himself in a region of unfathomable depth and darker than the darkest night, where there is neither air nor water. Allusions are made to Horus, and the throne of the Dweller in the Lake of Fire, the Boat of Millions of Years, &c., but it is impossible to fit these together in a connected fashion with the prayers of the deceased. Immortality is assured to the deceased, for in answer to his question, "How long have I to live?" he is told, "Thou shalt live for millions of millions of years, a life of millions of years." In the longer but sadly mutilated version of the Chapter given in a papyrus at Leyden, M. Naville sees the remains of a Heracleopolitan legend of the Flood. The great god Tem informs the deceased that he is about to destroy all that he has made by a flood which he will bring on the earth. Everything will be destroyed except Osiris and himself, and he (Tem) will take the form of a very small serpent which no man shall know of and no god shall see. Osiris will then be left in possession of the earth, and in due time he shall transfer his rule and his throne to his successor Horus.

CHAPTER CLXXVI.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased became a "perfect soul" in the Other World, and he passed through the Mesqet Chamber and avoided the place where the slaughtering of the enemies of Râ and Osiris was carried out. And he attained to such a state of perfection that he could never die again.

CHAPTER CLXXVII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased's soul was raised up, and his heart-soul was made to live in the Other World. This Chapter was originally a section of the text in the Heliopolitan Recension of the Book of the Dead, and its ancient form is found in the Pyramid of Unâs, l. 361 ff. It mentions some of the gods of the older mythology, e.g., the four Uaipu cow-goddesses, , and the blue-eyed

Horus, , and the red-eyed

Horus, .

CHAPTER CLXXVIII.

By the recital of this Chapter the head of the deceased was established, he gained the sight of his eyes, the hearing of his ears, and protection for his face. The Chapter consists chiefly of extracts from the Heliopolitan Recension of the Book of the Dead; their original forms are found in the Pyramid of Unâs, ll. 166 ff., 199, 200, and 399 ff.

CHAPTER CLXXIX.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased advanced from yesterday, and came forth by day, and obtained food in the Other World. His enemy was delivered into his hands, and the God of the Red Eye gave him the shadow and form of the living gods.

CHAPTER CLXXX.

This Chapter is a hymn of praise to Râ and Osiris, and when it had been sung to these gods by the deceased he became like unto the divine and holy Soul-god who is in the Other World. He was thus enabled to travel through heaven with long strides, to go where he pleased, and to perform all his transformations.

CHAPTER CLXXXI.

This Chapter is also a hymn of praise to Osiris, Governor of Ámentet, and to his counterpart, Râ.

CHAPTER CLXXXII.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased identified himself with Thoth; it contains eight paragraphs in which he describes all the things which he has done for Osiris as Thoth, and a hymn to Osiris, Prince and Governor of Ámentet.

CHAPTER CLXXXIII.

This Chapter is a really fine Hymn to Osiris, in which the deceased, who identifies himself with Thoth, declares all the things which he has done to vivify the Still-Heart, i.e., Osiris. In the form in which it is here given it belongs to the reign of Seti I., B.C. 1370.

CHAPTER CLXXXIV.

By the recital of this Chapter the deceased obtained the power of being near Osiris, and in the Vignette he is seen standing near the god. The text of this Chapter is much mutilated, and from the remains of it, which are found in one papyrus only, it is impossible to make a connected translation.

CHAPTER CLXXXV.

This Chapter is a short hymn to Osiris.

CHAPTER CLXXXVI.

This Chapter contains a short hymn to Hathor, the Lady of Ámentet, and a prayer to her by the deceased that he may join those who follow in her train, and may receive funerary offerings in Ámentet.

CHAPTER CLXXXVII.

This Chapter contains a short prayer addressed by the deceased to the company of the gods of Rā, and by its recital he was enabled to join that company, and to make his way among them.

CHAPTER CLXXXVIII.

This is an interesting Chapter. The deceased is supposed to have entered into the Utchat, i.e., the Eye of Horus, and to have gained possession of his soul, and heart-soul, and shadow; but according to the title he longed for his heart-soul to have the power to build habitations for itself upon earth, and to come forth by day on earth among men.

CHAPTER CLXXXIX.

This Chapter appears to be an amplification of Chapter LII., many passages in the texts of both being identical; it appears to represent an attempt on the part of a scribe to collect under one heading all the important formulae, the recital of which enabled the deceased to avoid eating filth and drinking urine in the Other World. In the first paragraph the deceased prays for an allowance of seven cakes [daily?], four cakes of Horus and three of Thoth; these he would eat under the Sycamore of Hathor, and would have his maternal and paternal ancestors to look after his estate and house. In the second paragraph he holds a conversation with the god Pen-ḥeseb(?), , concerning his supply of food, and he tells the Aukhemu beings, , his wishes in respect of those who are to bring him his food, to watch over his estate, to plough his fields, and to reap his harvest.

The last-named work shall be done by Suti, or Set, the god of evil.

CHAPTER CXC.

This section, although it has a long title stating that the text, or "Book," has the power of making perfect the soul of the deceased before Râ, Tem, and Osiris, and of making it mighty before the gods, is practically only a Rubric, which may really belong to Chapter CLXXXIX. or Chapter CXLVIII. The recital of the Chapter to which it belonged gave the deceased the power to pass through the Other World in safety, it destroyed the "deafness of his face," and made "a way for his face with the god." The formula was held to be most solemn and holy, and the Rubric orders it to be said by a man in the strict privacy of a cloth tent decorated with stars. It was also a "great mystery," and none of the dwellers in the papyrus swamps of the Delta was to be allowed to look upon it.

From the above brief analysis of the Chapters which I have included in the Theban Recension of the Book of the Dead, the reader will see that there is in many of them much overlapping of subject-matter, and may think that the Egyptian revelled in texts full of repetitions both of words and ideas. It must, however, be remembered that the Chapters and formulae do not all belong to the same period, and that collectively they cover a period of some two thousand years. These formulae represent a number of different and, in some cases, diametrically opposite opinions, and the influences of many schools of thought are manifest in them. The oldest formulae were composed, no doubt, by the priests of Heliopolis, and in their original forms were very different from those in which we find them in the Theban Papyri. This is fully proved by Chapters CLXXIV., CLXXVII., and CLXXVIII., where it is clear that, owing to the want of an adequate number of determinatives, the scribes wholly misunderstood the meaning of certain passages, and that they altered and modified the texts of several passages to suit modern views, or to make them mean what they thought they ought to mean. And sometimes passages of a coarse nature were omitted, probably because they offended the susceptibilities of the men of a more refined time. Thus in the passage from the text of Unâs (l. 166 ff.; see infra, p. 603) we have a reference to the love-making¹ of the deceased which is entirely omitted from the later copy of it given in the Papyrus of Nebseni; and it seems as if the ideas expressed in it found no favour with the cultured mind of Nebseni, the great designer, draughtsman, and artist, who was attached to the Temple of Ptah at Memphis. In a similar manner most of the coarse expressions and ideas which are found in the religious books of the old period have no counterparts in the Theban Recension of the Book of the Dead. Moreover, as the balance of power moved southwards after the fall of the VIth Dynasty, the beliefs of the Heracleopolitans were grafted on to those of Memphis and Heliopolis, and they found expression in many interpolated passages. The doctrines also of the priests of Abydos were duly incorporated, those of the priests of Heliopolis were made to harmonize with them, and still later the priests of Āmen-Rā at Thebes succeeded in obtaining recognition of the power of their god in a few Chapters. Over and above all this the natural evolution and development of religious thought must be taken into account, and, if it did not overthrow the old religious literature entirely, it must certainly have influenced priests and others in making the selection of texts which were written on their funerary papyri. The Egyptian masses were intensely conservative, and they clung to precedent and tradition to a remarkable degree; the older the text the more they revered it, and though they were tolerant enough to accept new settings of old thoughts, or new versions of old legends, they did not allow themselves to give up the old, but kept both the old and the new. The Book of the Dead contains beliefs of all periods gathered together from every part of Egypt and the Sûdân, and its gods, though perhaps under different names, were well known throughout the country. The forms of the beliefs and the attributes of the gods changed from time to time, but the principal doctrine which the Book of the Dead, as a whole, was intended to teach, i.e., the belief in immortality, never changed. The fundamentals of the Egyptian religion were:—

- I. Belief in the immortality of the soul, and the recognition of relatives and friends after death.
- II. Belief in the resurrection of a spiritual body, in which the soul lived after death.
- III. Belief in the continued existence of the heart-soul, the ka (the double), and the shadow.
- IV. Belief in the transmutation of offerings, and the efficacy of funerary sacrifices and gifts.
- V. Belief in the efficacy of words of power, including names, magical and religious formulae, &c.
- VI. Belief in the Judgment, the good being rewarded with everlasting life and happiness, and the wicked with annihilation.

All the above appear to be indigenous African beliefs, which existed in the Predynastic Period, and are current under various forms at the present day among most of the tribes of the Sûdân who have any religious belief at all.

Early in the Dynastic Period the cult of Osiris was introduced, and this god, whose mutilated body, tradition asserted, was reconstituted, became the centre round which all the beliefs enumerated above grouped themselves. During the whole Dynastic Period the cult of Osiris was the dominant feature of the Egyptian religion, and the same funerary rites were performed, and the same religious formulae were recited at Memphis during the early centuries of the Christian Era as under the dynasties of the Ancient Empire, in precisely the same way and with precisely the same object. The worship of ancestral spirits in the Pre-dynastic Period gave way to the cult of the deified man Osiris who had risen from the dead, but the ancient beliefs about the dead and their future state remained unchanged. With these morality had nothing to do, for breaches of morals, private or public, were only regarded as offences against Moral Law, which could be atoned for by gifts and offerings.

THE BOOK OF THE DEAD

TRANSLATION

HYMNS INTRODUCTORY 3 TO THE BOOK OF THE DEAD.

Hymn to Rā when he riseth.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 1).]

Vignette: The scribe Ani standing, with hands raised in adoration, before a table of offerings consisting of haunches of beef, loaves of bread, and cakes, vases of wine and oil, fruits, and flowers. He wears a fringed linen garment and has a wig, necklace, bracelets, &c. Behind him stands his wife Thuthu, a member of the College of Amen-Rā at Thebes; she is similarly robed and holds a sistrum, a vine branch, and a menūt, or emblem of pleasure, in her hands.¹

Text: (1) A HYMN OF PRAISE TO RĀ WHEN HE RISETH IN THE EASTERN PART OF HEAVEN. Behold

¹ The vignette which accompanies the hymn in the papyrus is broken in places; a more perfect one from another section of the papyrus is therefore substituted.

Osiris,¹ Ani the scribe of the holy offerings of all the gods, (2) who saith :—

“Homage to thee, O thou who hast come as Kheperà, “Kheperà² the creator of the gods. Thou risest, thou “shinest, (3) thou makest light [in] thy mother [the “goddess Nut³]; thou art crowned king of the gods.
 “[Thy] mother Nut doeth an act of homage unto thee
 “with both her hands. (4) The land of Manu⁴ re“ceiveth thee with satisfaction, and the goddess Maât⁵ “embraceth thee both at morn and at eve. May he “(i.e. Râ) give glory, and power, and triumph, (5) and “a coming forth as a living soul to see Heru-khuti⁶
 “(i.e., Horus of the two horizons) to the double (ka)⁷

¹ The god who after death and mutilation upon earth rose again and became the king of the underworld and judge of the dead; he was the type of eternal existence, and the symbol of immortality. The deceased pleads the resurrection of this god as the reason for his own resurrection, and he always identifies himself with Osiris in funereal texts.

² He is a form of the rising sun, and his seat is in the boat of the Sun-god. He is the god of matter which is on the point of passing from inertness into life, and also of the dead body from which a spiritual and glorified body is about to burst forth. His emblem is a beetle.

⁴ Manu was the name of the mountain where the sun set in the west.

⁵ The wife of Thoth, and daughter of Râ; she assisted at the work of creation. She is the goddess of absolute regularity and order, and of moral rectitude, and of right and truth. Her emblem is the feather β .

⁶ He is a form of the Sun-god; the words “two horizons” refer to the mountains of Bakhatet and Mann, the most easterly and westerly points of the sun’s course, and the places where he rose and set.

⁷ The life of the ka \sqcup was sustained by the funeral offerings; its abiding place was the tomb.

“of Osiris, the scribe Ani, victorious before Osiris, (6)
 “who saith:—Hail, all ye gods of the Temple of the “Soul,¹ who weigh heaven and earth in the balance,
 “and who provide sepulchral meals² in abundance.
 “Hail, Tatunen,³ thou One, (7) thou Creator of man“kind and Maker of the substance of the gods of the “south and of the north, of the west and of the east.
 “O come and acclaim ye Rā, the lord of heaven,
 “(8) the Prince (Life, Health, Strength!), the Creator
 “of the gods, and adore ye him in his beautiful form
 “at his rising in the *Ātet*⁴ boat. (9) They who dwell
 “in the heights and they who dwell in the depths⁵ “worship thee. The god Thoth⁶ and the goddess
 “Maāt have written down [thy course] for thee daily
 “and every day. Thine enemy the serpent hath been “given over to (10) the fire, the serpent-fiend Sebāu “hath fallen down headlong; his arms have been “bound in chains, and his legs hath Rā hacked off “from him. The children of (11) impotent revolt shall “never more rise up. The Temple of the Aged One⁷

¹ The name of a part of the sky where the gods lived; a place which had a counterpart upon earth, probably at Annu (On, Heliopolis) and at Tattu (Mendes).

² Tchefau was the name given to the food upon which the gods lived.

³ The god of the earth, and one of the oldest gods of Egypt; he is sometimes identified with Seb.

⁴ A name for the boat of the morning sun.

⁵ I.e., the gods who live in the heights and depths of heaven, or celestial and terrestrial beings.

⁶ The divine intelligence which at the creation uttered the words which resulted in the formation of the world. He was self-produced, and was lord of earth, air, sea, and sky; he was the scribe of the gods, and the inventor of all arts and sciences.

⁷ I.e., the Temple of Rā at Annu (On or Heliopolis).

"keepeth festival, and the voice of those who rejoice is "in the mighty dwelling. (12) The gods exult when "they see Rā as he riseth, and when his beams flood
 "the world with light. The Majesty (13) of the holy "god goeth forth and advanceth even unto the land of
 "Manu; he maketh brilliant the earth at his birth
 "each day: he journeyeth on to the place where he "was yesterday. (14) O be thou at peace with me,
 "and let me behold thy beauties;¹ may I journey forth
 "upon earth, may I smite the Ass;² may I crush
 "(15) the serpent-fiend Sebāu;³ may I destroy Āpep⁴
 "in his hour; may I see the *Abtu*⁵ fish at his season,
 "and the *Ant*⁵ fish [piloting] (16) the Ant boat in its
 "lake. May I see Horus acting as steersman, with "the god Thoth and the goddess Maāt, one on each "side of him; may I grasp the bows of the (17) Sektet
 "boat,⁶ and the stern of the Ātet boat. May he (i.e., "Rā) grant unto the double (ka) of Osiris Ani to behold
 "the disk of the Sun and to see the Moon-god without "ceasing, each and every day; and (18) may my soul

² We should probably read, "May I smite the eater of the Ass," and consider the word "eater" to refer to the serpent who is seen attacking the Ass in the vignette of Chapter XL. Otherwise "Ass" must be the name of a fiend of darkness; but then again, it must be remembered that "Ass" is one of the names of the Sun-god.

³ Sebāu is, in reality, the name of a legion of devils.

⁴ The great antagonist of the Sun-god, of which many types are known.

⁵ The name of a mythological fish which, on coffins, &c., is seen swimming at the bows of the boat of the Sun-god.

⁶ A name for the boat of the setting sun.

“come forth and walk hither and thither (19) and “whithersoever it pleaseth. (20) May my name be “proclaimed (21), and may it be found upon the board “(22) of the table of offerings; may offerings (23) be “made unto me in my presence, even as [they are made “unto] the followers (24) of Horus; may there be made “ready for me (25) a seat in the boat of the Sun on the “day when (26) the god goeth forth; and may I be “received (27) into the presence of Osiris in the land of “victory.”

² The words rendered "victorious" are maā kheru, and mean, literally, "right" (maā) and "word," or, "voice" (kheru). They indicate a belief on the part of the writer that the deceased by means of the ceremonies which have been performed, and the words which have been said, on his behalf, has satisfactorily passed the ordeal of judgment, and has attained to a state of knowledge which will enable him to utter commands, whatever they may be, in such a manner as will cause them to be carried out by those to whom they are addressed, whether gods or devils.

THE JUDGMENT.

THE Judgment Scene, of which a description is here given, forms a very important section of the Book of the Dead as contained in papyri of the XVIIIth, XIXth, and following Dynasties. It follows the two or more hymns with which a large papyrus opens, and seems to occupy a suitable place, and to form a fitting introduction to the selections of the chapters of Coming Forth by Day which follow it. These chapters refer to and deal with the events which took place in the life of the deceased, who has succeeded in entering the realm of Osiris, the god of the dead, but they, of necessity, were absolutely useless to any one who had not passed the judgment and been permitted by this god to enter his dominions. Those who were condemned in the judgment were devoured straightway by the Eater of the Dead, and ceased to exist. The Judgment Scene, as given in the large papyri, seems to have been developed from the vignette which illustrates one of the Chapters of the Heart (XXXB.), in which special reference is made to the weighing of the heart, or from one which, properly speaking, belonged to the CXXVth Chapter. Where and when the judgment took place is unknown, but the original idea seems to have been that the broad heavens, or a certain portion of them, formed the Judgment Hall, and that the judgment took place in the presence of the three Companies of the gods; as the head of the funereal Company Osiris occupied a very prominent position, and he eventually became the sole judge of the dead. The judgment of each individual seems to have taken place soon after death, and annihilation or everlasting life and bliss to have been decreed at once for the souls of the dead; there are no sufficient grounds for assuming that the Egyptians believed either in a general resurrection, or in protracted punishment. How far they thought that the prayers of the living for the dead were efficacious in arresting or modifying the decree of doom cannot be said, but very considerable importance was attached by them to funeral prayers and ceremonies in all ages, and there is no doubt that they were the outcome of the firm belief that they would result in the salvation and well-being of the souls of the dead.

On the standard of the scales sits the dog-headed ape, the companion of Thoth, the scribe of the gods; and the god Anubis, jackal-headed, tests the tongue of the balance. On the left of the balance, facing Anubis are:—(1) Ani's "Luck"; (2) the Mesken or "cubit with human head," thought by some to be connected with the place of birth; (3) the goddesses Meskenet and Renenet who presided over the birth, birth-place, and early education of children; and (4) the soul of Ani in the form of a human-headed bird standing on a pylon. On the right of the balance, behind Anubis, stands Thoth, the scribe of the gods, who holds in his hands his reed-pen and palette with which to record the result of the trial. Behind Thoth stands the monster called either Amām, the "Devourer," or Ām-mit, the "Eater of the Dead."

"My¹ heart my mother, my heart my mother, my heart my coming into being. May there be nothing to resist me at [my] judgment; may there be no opposition to me from the Tchatcha;² may there be no parting of thee from me in the presence of him that keepeth the scales. lord of everlastingness." Behind him stand Nephthys, his sister, on his right hand and Isis, his sister and wife, on his left. Before him, standing on a lotus flower, are the gods of the cardinal points or, as they are sometimes called, "the Children of Horus" and "Children of Osiris." The first, Kestha, has the head of a man; the second, Hâpi, the head of an ape; the third, Tuamutef, the head of a jackal; and the fourth, Qebhsennuf, the head of a hawk. Near the lotus hangs the skin of an animal. The side of the throne of Osiris is painted to resemble that of a funeral chest. The roof of the shrine is supported on pillars with lotus capitals, and is surmounted by a figure of Horus-Sept or Horus-Seker, and by rows of uraei. The pedestal on which the shrine rests is in the form of the hieroglyphic which is emblematic of Maât or "Right and Truth." Before the shrine is a table of offerings by which, on a reed mat, kneels Ani with his right hand raised in adoration; in the left hand he holds the Kherp sceptre. He wears on his head a whitened wig and the so-called "cone," the signification of which is unknown.

Text: (1) Saith Horus the son of Isis: "I have come to thee, O Un-nefer, and I have brought unto thee the Osiris An[†]. Thoth hath weighed it according to the decree pronounced (3) unto him by the company of the gods; and it is most true and righteous. Grant that cakes and ale may be given unto him, and let him appear in the presence of the god Osiris; (4) and let him be like unto the followers of Horus for ever and for ever."

(1) And Osiris Ani (2) saith: "Behold, I am in thy presence, O lord of (3) Amentet. There is no sin in my (4) body. I have not spoken that which is not

"true (5) knowingly, nor have I done aught with a false heart. Grant thou that I may be like unto those favoured ones who are in thy following, (6) and that I may be an Osiris greatly favoured of the beautiful god, and beloved of the lord of the world. [I] who am, indeed, a royal scribe who loveth thee, Ani, victorious before the god Osiris."

The details of the Judgment Scene vary considerably in the papyri of different periods, and it seems as if every scribe or artist felt himself free to follow out his own ideas of its treatment. First, as regards the Great Balance. The beam is always exactly horizontal, a fact which proves that the Egyptian was only asked to make his heart or conscience just to counterbalance, and not outweigh the feather of Maāt. The pillar of the Balance is at times (see pp. 23 and 32) surmounted by the ape of Thoth, at others by the head of Maāt (see p. 31), at others by the head of Anubis (see p. 31), and at others by the head of Thoth himself. The feather of Maāt, , which is in one pan of the scales, is often exchanged for the figure of the goddess herself  (see p. 32). The actual weighing of the heart is performed sometimes by Anubis (see pp. 31, 32), and sometimes by Maāt (see p. 31); usually the deceased enters the Hall of Judgment alone or accompanied by his wife, but sometimes he is led in by Anubis, and sometimes by a dog-headed god who carries a knife in his left hand. The Eater of the Dead sometimes sits, and sometimes stands by the side of the pillar of the Balance; in the Papyrus of Hu-nefer (see p. 31) a description of her appears above her head, thus:—“Ām-mit, her forepart [is that of] crocodiles, her hind-part [is that of a] hippopotamus, and her middle [is that of a] lion.” In details the Judgment Scene as given in the Papyrus of Ani is very full (see p. 23), and very few papyri contain the “Luck” and the nursing goddesses Meskhenet and Renenet in human form. The arrangement of one part of the Scene in the Papyrus of Anhai (see p. 32) is most unusual. In the upper register we have the Great and Little Companies of the gods arranged facing each other; the former contains five gods and the latter six. Now a paut, or Company of gods, rarely contained less than nine gods, though often more. Each Company is seated before a meagre table of offerings. Below these gods are two human-headed objects which are called respectively Shai and Renenet; each has the head of a woman, but one, Shai, should have had that of a man, and a beard. It is noteworthy that the Eater of the Dead is not seated by Anubis, and that the god Anubis grasps one of the cords by which the pan of the Balance that contains the heart is suspended, as if to steady the beam. The text above the head of Anubis is unusual (see also the Scene from the Papyrus of Ani, p. 23), and contains an exhortation addressed to the ape of Thoth seated on the top of the pillar, that this god will give his careful attention to the correct weighing of the heart of the deceased in the Balance. The text above the Eater of the Dead is a prayer by the deceased, who entreats the god, saying, "Set my heart upon the throne of right in the presence of the Great God." The result of the weighing of the heart is always noted by Thoth, who records it upon his palette. The deceased is sometimes led into the presence of Osiris by Horus, the son of Isis, and sometimes by Anubis. In papyri wherein the vignettes are not very elaborate, Osiris stands or sits in his shrine alone, but in fully illustrated papyri he is accompanied by Isis and Nephthys, and by the four children of Horus, who stand on a lotus flower (see pp. 27, 35). The stem of this flower springs from out of the waters of a lake, whereon the throne of Osiris is placed (see the following illustration from the Papyrus of Hu-nefer); this lake was fed by the celestial Nile, or by one of its branches, and was the source whence the beatified, as well as the gods, drank. This scene is of considerable interest from the point of view of comparative mythology, for many Semitic writers held the opinion that the throne of the deity was placed, or rested upon, a stream of water, or a river. Even in the Book of Revelation we have a reference to a "pure river of water, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God" (see chapter xxii. 1).

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheets 5 and 6).]

Vignettes: The funeral procession to the tomb, and the ceremony thereat, are here depicted. The mummy of the deceased, lying in a funeral chest placed in a boat, is being drawn along by oxen: figures of the goddesses Nephthys and Isis stand at the head and foot respectively. By the side kneels the wife of the deceased. In front of the boat stands the Sem priest, dressed in a panther's skin, burning incense and sprinkling water, and behind follow eight male mourners; in the rear are servants drawing a small funeral chest surmounted by a figure of Anubis, and carrying vases of unguents along with the couch, staff, chair, palette, &c., of the deceased. Preceding the oxen drawing the funeral boat are men carrying on yokes boxes of flowers, vases of unguents, &c., and a group of wailing women with uncovered heads and breasts, who smite their heads and faces in token of grief. Close by stand a cow and her calf, intended to be slaughtered for the funeral feast, and tables loaded with offerings of herbs, fruits, &c. At the door of the tomb stands the god of the dead, Anubis, clasping the mummy of the deceased, before which kneels the weeping wife. At a table of funeral offerings stand two priests. One, the Sem priest, wears a panther's skin and holds in his hand a libation vase and censer; the other holds in his right hand the instrument UR HEKA¹ in the form of a ram-headed serpent, the head of which is surmounted by an uraeus, and in his left hand an instrument in the shape of an adze . and eyes of the mummy, and with the latter the mouth. On the ground, by their side, lie the instruments which are to be employed in the ceremony of opening the mouth, i.e., the ceremony which will give the deceased the power to eat, and to drink, and to talk in the next world, namely the Mesket , the group of instruments in the form of adzes , the Pesh-en-kef , the libation vases, the boxes of purification, the bandlet, the feather, &c. Behind them stands the "Reader," who recites the funeral service from a papyrus roll, and to the rear is a ministrant who holds the haunch of beef which is to be used in the ceremony at the door of the tomb.

FUNERAL CEREMONIES AT THE TOMB.

In the upper register we see the tomb in the Theban hills, with a sepulchral stele inscribed with prayers by the deceased. Anubis supports the mummy, before which kneel Hu-nefer's wife, and, probably, his daughter. Two priests performing ceremonies connected with "opening the mouth," and the "Reader" burning incense and sprinkling water. In the lower register are the instruments used in the ceremonies, priests, and animals for sacrifice.

CHAPTER XV.

Hymn and Litany to Osiris.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 19).]

Vignette : “Osiris Ani, the royal scribe in truth, who loveth “him, the scribe and teller of the divine offerings of all the “gods,” and “Osiris Thuthu, the lady of the house, the singing

"woman of Amen," with hands raised in adoration presumably before the god Osiris who, accompanied by the goddess Isis, stands in a shrine made in the form of a funeral chest.¹

Text: "Praise be unto thee, O Osiris, lord of eternity, Un-nefer, Heru-Khuti (Harmachis), whose forms are manifold, and whose attributes are majestic, (2) Ptaḥ-Seker-Tem² in Annu (Heliopolis), the lord of the hidden place, and the creator of Het-ka-Ptaḥ³ and of the gods [therein], the guide of the underworld, (3) whom [the gods] glorify when thou settest in Nut. Isis embraceth thee in peace, and she driveth away the fiends from the (4) mouth of thy paths. Thou turnest thy face upon Amentet, and thou makest the earth to shine as with refined copper. Those who have lain down (i.e., the dead) rise up to see thee, they (5) breathe the air and they look upon thy face when the disk riseth on its horizon; their hearts are at peace inasmuch as they behold thee, O thou who art Eternity and Everlastingness!"

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 20).]

Vignette : Osiris, wearing the white crown and holding the crook, whip, and sceptre, standing in a shrine; behind him is the goddess Isis in the character of the Divine Mother.

Text : (1) A HYMN OF PRAISE TO RĀ WHEN HE RISETH IN THE EASTERN PART OF HEAVEN. Those who are in his train (2) rejoice, and lo ! Osiris Ani victorious, saith :—

Osiris Ani, being in peace and in triumph, adoreth his lord, (7) the lord of eternity, saying: “Homage to thee, “O Heru-khuti (Harmachis), who art the god Kheperā, “the self-created; when thou risest on the (8) horizon “and sheddest thy beams of light upon the lands of “the North and of the South, thou art beautiful, yea “beautiful, and all the gods rejoice when they behold “thee, (9) the King of heaven.  passest over the sky, and every face watcheth thee
 (17) and thy course, for thou hast been hidden from their gaze. Thou dost shew thyself at dawn and at “eventide day by day. (18) The Sektet boat, wherein “is thy Majesty, goeth forth with might; thy beams “[shine] upon [all] faces; [the number] of thy red and “yellow rays cannot be known, nor can thy bright (19) “beams be depicted. The lands of the gods, and the “eastern lands of Punt¹ must be seen before they can “be described and before that which is hidden (20)

 “[in thee] may be measured. Alone and by thy“self thou dost manifest thyself [when] thou comest
 “into being above Nu (i.e., the sky). May Ani (21)

 “and thou dost count them, even thou; thou endest “them in thine own appointed season, and the earth “becometh light. (24) Thou settest thyself before thy “handiwork in the likeness of Rā; thou risest in the “horizon.”

Osiris, the scribe Ani, victorious, declareth (25) his praise of thee when thou shinest, and when thou risest at dawn he crieth in his joy at thy birth: (26) “Thou “art crowned with the majesty of thy beauties; thou

 "thee, O thou who risest (32) like unto gold, and who

(And the god saith :—)

(40) “Thou shalt come forth into heaven, thou shalt

"pass over the sky, thou shalt be joined unto the starry
 "deities. Praises shall be offered (41) unto thee in "thy boat, thou shalt be hymned in the Ātet boat, (42)
 "thou shalt behold Rā within his shrine, thou shalt
 "set together with his Disk day by day, thou shalt
 "see (43) the *Ant*¹ fish when it springeth into being in "the waters of turquoise, and thou shalt see (44) the "*Abtu*¹ fish in his hour. It shall come to pass that the "Evil One shall fall when he layeth a snare to destroy
 "thee, (45) and the joints of his neck and of his back
 "shall be hacked asunder. Rā [saileth] with a fair
 "wind, and the Sektet boat draweth on (46) and cometh
 "into port. The mariners of Rā rejoice, and the heart
 "of Nebt-ānkh² is glad, (47) for the enemy of her lord
 "hath fallen to the ground. Thou shalt behold Horus
 "on the standing place³ of the pilot of the boat, and "Thoth and Maāt shall stand one upon each side of "him. (48) All the gods shall rejoice when they
 "behold Rā coming in peace (49) to make the hearts of "the shining ones to live, and Osiris Ani, victorious
 "the scribe of the divine offerings of the lord of Thebes,
 "shall be along with them!"

² I.e., "Lady of life," a name of Isis.

³ I.e., the little platform in the bows of the boat on which the pilot stands or sits. In the Vignette to Chapter CXXXIII. it will be seen that some plaited object is hanging over the prow of the boat, and this I believe to represent a mat made of reeds and grass. The pilot of a Nile boat often has to sound the depth of the water under his boat, and this he does by means of a pole. As he lifts the pole out of the water, some drops fall on the place where he is standing, which eventually becomes wet and slippery; to secure a good foothold a reed-mat or layer of grass is thrown down, and I have seen a layer of sugar-canes also used as a mat.

A Hymn to the Setting Sun.

From the Papyrus of Mut-hetep (Brit. Mus. No. 10,010, sheet 5).]

Vignette : In this papyrus this Chapter is without a vignette

Text : I. (1) [ANOTHER CHAPTER OF] THE MYSTERY OF THE T̄UAT (UNDERWORLD) AND OF PASSING THROUGH THE UNSEEN NETHERWORLD, and of seeing the Disk when he setteth in Amentet, [when] he is adored by the gods and by the Khus in the underworld, and [when] the Soul (2) which dwelleth in Rā is made perfect. He is made mighty before Tem ; he is made great before Osiris ; he setteth his terror before the company of the gods who are the guides of the nether-world ; he maketh long (?) (3) his steps and he maketh his face to enter (?) [with that of] the great god. Now every Khu, for whom these words shall have been said, shall come forth by day in any form which he is pleased to take ; (4) he shall gain power among the gods of the T̄uat (underworld), and they shall recognize him as one of themselves ; and he shall enter in at the hidden gate with power.

The lady (5) Mut-hetep, victorious, singeth hymns of praise to thee, [saying] : “ O Rā-Tem, in thy splendid "progress thou risest, and thou settest as a living being "in the glories (6) of the western horizon ; thou settest

 "in thy territory which is in Manu.¹ Thy uraeus is "behind thee, thy uraeus is behind thee. Homage to "thee, O thou who art in peace, homage to thee, O
 "thou who art in peace. Thou art joined unto the "Eye of Tem,² and it chooseth (7) its powers of protec"tion [to place] behind thy members. Thou goest forth
 "through heaven, thou travellest over the earth, and "thou journeyest onward. O Luminary, the northern "and southern halves of heaven come to thee and they
 "bow low in adoration, (8) and they pay homage unto "thee, day by day. The gods of Amentet rejoice in "thy beauties and the unseen places sing hymns of "praise unto thee. Those who dwell in the Sektet
 "boat (9) go round about thee, and the Souls of the "East³ pay homage to thee, and when they meet thy "Majesty they cry : ' Come, come in peace ! ' There is "a shout of welcome to thee (10), O lord of heaven and "governor of Amentet ! Thou art acknowledged by "Isis who seeth her son in thee, the lord of fear, the "mighty one of terror. Thou settest as a living being in "(11) the hidden place. Thy father [Ta-]tunen raiseth
 "thee up and he placeth both his hands behind thee ;
 "thou becomest endowed with divine attributes in [thy]

 Sun-god, who is spearing a serpent.

Vignette II. : The deceased spearing a serpent; compare the vignette to Chapter XXXIX. The following vignette, in which the deceased is seen kneeling in adoration before Rā in company with certain gods, is taken from the Papyrus of Qenna (plate 17).

Text : ANOTHER CHAPTER OF THE MYSTERY OF THE TUAT (UNDERWORLD) AND OF TRAVERSING THE UNSEEN

PLACES OF THE UNDERWORLD, of seeing the Disk when he setteth in Ámentet, [when] he is adored by the gods and by the Khus of the T̄uat (underworld), and [when] the divine Khu which dwelleth within Rā is made perfect. He setteth his might before Rā, he setteth his power before Tem, [he setteth his strength] before Khenti-Ámentet, and he setteth his terror before the company of the gods. The Osiris of the gods goeth as leader through the T̄uat (underworld), he crasheth through mountains, he bursteth through rocks, he maketh glad (?) the heart of every Khu. This composition shall be recited by the deceased when he cometh forth and when he goeth in with the gods, among whom he findeth no opposition; then shall he come forth by day in all the manifold and exceedingly numerous forms which he may be pleased to take. [The Osiris saith :—]

“A hymn of praise to Rā at eventide [when] he “setteth as a living being in Baakha.¹ The great god “who dwelleth in his Disk riseth in his Two Eyes² and “all the Khus of the underworld receive him in his “horizon of Ámentet; they shout praises unto Heru- “khuti (Harmachis) in his form of Tem, and they sing “hymns of joy to Rā when they have received him at “the head of his beautiful path of Ámentet.”

² I.e., the Sun and the Moon

He (i.e., the deceased) saith : " Praise be unto thee, " O Rā, praise be unto thee, O Tem, in thy splendid " progress. Thou hast risen and thou hast put on " strength, and thou settest like a living being amid thy " glories in the horizon of Amentet, in thy domain which " is in Manu. Thy uraeus-goddess is behind thee ; thy " uraeus-goddess is behind thee. Hail to thee, in peace ; " hail to thee, in peace. Thou joinest thyself unto the " Eye of Horus, and thou hidest thyself within its secret " place ; it destroyeth for thee all the convulsions of thy " face, it maketh thee strong with life, and thou livest. " It bindeth its protecting amulets behind thy members. " Thou sailest forth over heaven, and thou makest the " earth to be stablished ; thou joinest thyself unto the " upper heaven, O Luminary. The two regions of the " East and West make adoration unto thee, bowing " low and paying homage unto thee and they praise " thee day by day ; the gods of Amentet rejoice in thy " splendid beauties. The hidden places adore thee, the " aged ones make offerings unto thee, and they create " for thee protecting powers. The divine beings who " dwell in the eastern and western horizons transport " thee, and those who are in the Sektet boat convey " thee round and about. The Souls of Amentet cry " out unto thee and say unto thee when they meet thy " majesty (Life, Health, Strength!) ' All hail, all hail ! ' " When thou comest forth in peace there arise shouts " of delight to thee, O thou lord of heaven, thou Prince " of Amentet. Thy mother Isis embraceth thee, and in "thee she recognizeth her son, the lord of fear, the "mighty one of terror. Thou settest as a living being

 "within the dark portal. Thy father Tatunen lifteth
 "thee up and he stretcheth out his two hands behind
 "thee; thou becomest a divine being in the earth.
 "Thou wakest as thou settest, and thy habitation is in "Manu. Grant thou that I may be venerated before
 "Osiris, and come thou [to me], O Rā-Tem. Since
 "thou hast been adored [by me] that which I wish
 "thou shalt do for me day by day. Grant thou victory
 "[unto me] before the great company of the gods, O Rā
 "who art doubly beautiful in thy horizon of Amentet,
 "thou lord of Maāt who dwellest in the horizon. The "fear of thee is great, thy forms are majestic, and the "love of thee is great among those who dwell in the "underworld."

CHAPTER XVI.

The scene to which Lepsius inadvertently gave the number XVI. and which he regarded as a Chapter of the Book of the Dead is, strictly speaking, only a vignette intended to accompany the hymn to the rising Sun that forms part of the introductory matter to the Chapters of the Book of the Dead which we find in some of the oldest papyri of the Theban period. In the Papyrus of Ani³ we see the Sun's Disk supported by a pair of arms which emerge from the sign of life;

¹ I.e., the dead.

this, in its turn, is supported by the pillar which symbolizes the tree-trunk which contained the dead body of Osiris. This pillar rests upon the horizon. On each side of it are three apes typical of the Spirits of the Dawn, adoring the disk; on the right is the goddess Nephthys and on the left is the goddess Isis, Nephthys kneels upon the symbol of the sunset, and Isis upon the symbol of the dawn. Above the whole scene is the vaulted sky. In the Papyrus of Hu-nefer¹ the pillar is endowed with human arms and hands, which grasp the crook and flail, emblematic of Osiris' reign and rule, and the two goddesses are standing upright; one says: "I am thy sister Nephthys," and the other: "I am thy sister Isis, the divine mother." The sun is typified by a hawk having a disk, encircled by an uraeus, upon his head. The apes are here seven in number, four stand in front and three behind; above the whole scene is the vaulted sky.

Certain papyri have also vignettes which illustrate the hymns to the setting sun.² In this case the hawk usually stands upon the emblem of the West, while apes and gods adore him. In the Papyrus of Qenna on the right three hawk-headed gods kneel in adoration with their left arms raised, and on the left three jackal-headed gods, with their right arms raised in adoration. Below, two lion-headed gods, with disks on their heads, are seated back to back in a cluster of lotus flowers; these typify dawn and eventide. The goddess Isis kneels in adoration before the lion of the dawn, and the goddess Nephthys before the lion of eventide.

CHAPTER XVII.—VIGNETTES.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheets 7—10).]

III. A table of offerings upon which are lotus flowers, a libation vase, &c.

IV. Two lions seated back to back and supporting the horizon with the sun's disk, over which extends the sky; the lion on the right is called Sef, i.e., "Yesterday," and that on the left Tuau, i.e., "To-day" (see lines 13—16 of the text).

The chest, which is called "the district of Abṭu (Abydos)," or "the burial-place of the East," has upon its sides figures of the four children of Horus, who protect the intestines of Osiris or the deceased. On the right stand Ṭuamutef and Qebḥsennuf, and on the left ẖesthā and Ḥāpi (see lines 82 and 83 of the text).

Plate 10. I. The Cat, emblematic of the Sun, cutting off the head of the serpent Āpep or Āpepi, typical of darkness.

II. Ani and his wife Thuthu, kneeling in adoration before the god Kheperâ, beetle-headed, who is seated in the boat of the rising sun (see lines 116 ff. of the text).

CHAPTER XVII.—TEXTS.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheets 7—10), and from the Papyrus of Nebseni (Brit. Mus. No. 9,900, sheet 14, l. 16 ff.).]

Text : (1) HERE BEGIN THE PRAISES AND GLORIFYINGS OF COMING OUT FROM AND OF GOING INTO THE GLORIOUS UNDERWORLD WHICH IS IN THE BEAUTIFUL AMENTET, OF COMING OUT (2) BY DAY IN ALL THE FORMS OF EXISTENCE WHICH PLEASE HIM (i.e., THE DECEASED), OF PLAYING AT DRAUGHTS AND SITTING IN THE HALL, AND OF COMING FORTH (3) AS A LIVING SOUL.

Saith Osiris, the scribe Ani, (4) after he hath come to his haven of rest—it is good for [a man] to recite [this work whilst he is] upon earth, for [then] all the words of (5) Tem come to pass :—

“I am the god Tem in rising ; I am the only One. “I came into existence in (6) Nu. I am Rā who rose “in the beginning, the ruler of . . . this.”¹ (7)

Who then is this ?

It is Rā when at the beginning he rose in (8) the city of Suten-henen (Heracleopolis Magna), crowned like a king in [his] rising. The pillars² of the god Shu³ were not as yet created, when he was (9) upon the high ground⁴ of him that dwelleth in Khemennu (Hermopolis Magna).

“I am the great god who created himself, even Nu, “(10) who made his name[s to become] the company “of the gods as god.”

Who then (11) is this ?

It is Rā, the creator of the name[s] of his limbs, which came into being (12) in the form of the gods who are in the train of Rā.

“I am he who is not driven back among the gods.” (13)

Who then is this ?

Var. “the ruler of what he hath made ” (Papyrus of Nebseni).

² I e., the cardinal points.

³ Shu was the first-born son of Rā, by the goddess Hathor, the sky ; he typified the light, and lifted up the sky (Nut) from the earth (Seb), and placed it upon the steps  which were in Khemennu (Hermopolis).

⁴ Or “stair-case.”

It is Tem the dweller in his disk, or (as others say), (14) It is Rā in his rising in the eastern horizon of heaven.

The gods of Yesterday and To-day.

The Bennu.

“I am Yesterday ; I know (15) To-day.”

Who then is this ?

Yesterday is Osiris, (16) and To-day is Rā on the day when he shall destroy the enemies of Neb-er-tcher,¹ (17) and when he shall establish as prince and ruler his son (18) Horus, or (as others say), on the day when we commemorate the festival (19) of the meeting of the dead Osiris with his father Rā, and when the battle of the (20) gods was fought in which Osiris, the lord of Amentet, was the leader.

What then is this ? (21)

It is Amentet, [that is to say] the creation of the souls of the gods when Osiris was leader in Set-Amentet ;² or (22) (as others say), It is Amentet which Rā hath given unto me ; when any god cometh, he doth arise and (23) doeth battle for it.

“I know the god who dwelleth therein.” (24)

² I.e., the “Mountain of Amentet,” or the “Mountain of the Underworld.”

Who then is this?

It is Osiris; or (as others say), Rā is his name, (or) It is the (25) phallus of Rā wherewith he was united to himself.

"I am the Bennu bird (26) which is in Ānu (Helio-polis), and I am the keeper of the volume of the book "of things which are and of things which shall be."

Who then (27) is this?

The dead body of Osiris on his bier.

It is Osiris; or (as others say), It is his dead body, or (as others say), (28) It is his filth. The things which are and the things which shall be are his dead body; or (as others say), (29) They are eternity and everlastingness. Eternity is the day, and everlastingness is the (30) night.

"I am the god Āmsu in his coming forth; may his "two plumes (31) be set upon my head for me."

Who then is this?

Āmsu is Horus, the avenger (32) of his father, and his coming forth is his birth. The plumes (33) upon his head are Isis and Nephthys when they go forth to set themselves (34) there, even as his protectors, and they provide that which his head (35) lacketh, or (as others say), They are the two exceeding great uraei which are upon the head of their father (36) Tem, or (as others say), His two eyes are the two plumes which are upon his head.

“Osiris Ani, (37) the scribe of all the holy offerings, “riseth up in his place in triumph, he cometh into (38) “his city.”

What then is this?

It is the horizon of his father Tem. (39)

“I have made an end of my short-comings, and I “have put away my faults.”

What then (40) is this?

“It is the cutting off of the corruptible in the body “of Osiris, the scribe Ani, (41) victorious before all the “gods; and all his faults are driven out.”

What (42) then is this?

It is the purification [of Osiris] on the day of his birth. (43)

“I am purified in my great double nest which is in “Suten-henen (Heracleopolis Magna), (44) on the day “of the offerings of the followers of the great god who “is (45) therein.”

The god of Millions of Years.

Great Green Lake.

Re-stau.

The Utchat.

What then is this ?

"Millions of years" is the name of the one [nest], "Great Green Lake" (46) is the name of the other ; a pool of natron, and a pool of nitre (47) ; or (as others say), "The Traverser of millions of years" is the name of one, "Great Green Lake" (48) is the name of the other ; or (as others say), "The Begetter of millions of years" is the name of one, "Great Green Lake" (49) is the name of the other. Now as concerning the great god who dwelleth therein, it is Rā (50) himself.

"I pass over the way, I know the head of the Pool of Maāti." (51)

What then is this ?

It is Re-stau ; that is to say, it is the underworld on the (52) south of Na-āruṭ-f,¹ and it is the northern door of the tomb.

Now as concerning (53) the Pool of Maāti, it is Ābṭu (Abydos) ; or (as others say), It is the way by which his father (54) Tem travellet when he goeth forth to Sekhet-Āaru, (55) which bringeth forth the food and nourishment of the gods who are behind [their] shrines. (56) Now the gate of Tchesert is the gate of the pillars of Shu, (57) the northern gate of the T̤uat (underworld) ; or (as others say), It is the two leaves of the door (58) through which the god Tem passeth when he goeth forth to the eastern horizon of heaven. (59)

"O ye gods who are in the presence [of Osiris], grant

• Or An-ruṭ-f, the "place where nothing groweth."

"me your arms, for I am the god who (60) shall come
 "into being among you."

Who then are these?

They are the drops of blood which (61) came forth from the phallus of Rā when he went forth to perform mutilation (62) upon himself. They sprang into being as the gods Hu and Sa, who are in the following (63) of Rā, and who accompany (64) the god Tem daily and every day.

"I, Osiris, the scribe Ani, triumphant, (65) have "filled for thee the Utchat after it had suffered failure
 "(66) on the day of the combat of the two Fighters"
 (i.e., Horus and Set).

What then (67) is this?

It is the day on which Horus fought with Set, (68) who cast filth in the face of Horus, and when Horus destroyed the members (69) of Set. Now this Thoth did with his own fingers.

"I lift up the (70) hair[-cloud] when there are "storms and quakings in the sky."

What then is this? (71)

It is the right Eye of Rā, which raged against [Set] when (72) he sent it forth.

Thoth raised up the hair[-cloud], and brought the Eye (73) alive, and whole, and sound, and without defect to [its] lord; or (as others say), It is the Eye of Rā when it is sick and when it (74) weepeth for its fellow-eye; then Thoth standeth up to cleanse it. (75)

"I behold Rā who was born yesterday from the “buttocks of (76) the goddess Meḥ-urt; his strength “is my strength, and my strength is his strength.”

Meḥ-urt.

The gods in the train of Horus.

What then is this ? (77)

It is the watery abyss of heaven, or (as others say),
It is the image (78) of the Eye of Rā in the morning at his daily birth. (79) Meḥ-urt is the Eye (Utchat) of Rā. Therefore Osiris, (80) the scribe Ani, triumphant, is a great one among the gods who are in the train of (81) Horus. The words are spoken for him that loveth his lord.

What (82) then is this ?

[The gods who are in the train of Horus are] Kesthā, Hāpi, Tuamutef, and Qebhsennuf.¹

(83) “Homage to you, O ye lords of right and truth, “ye sovereign princes who [stand] behind Osiris, who “utterly do away with (84) sins and crimes and who “are in the following of the goddess Hetep-sekhus, (85)
“grant [ye] that I may come unto you. Destroy ye
“[all] the faults which (86) are within me, even as ye

“did for the Seven Spirits¹ (87) who are among the “followers of their lord Sepa.² Anubis appointed (88) “their place on the day [when was said], ‘Come therefore “thither.’”

The Three Spirits and Anubis.

What then (89) is this?

These lords of right and truth are Thoth and (90) Åstes,³ the lord of Åmentet. The sovereign princes [who stand] behind Osiris, even Kesthâ, (91) Hâpi, Tuamutef, and Qebhsennuf, are they who are (92) behind the Thigh in the northern sky.

Now those who do utterly away with (93) sins and crimes and who are in the following of Ietep-sekhus (94) are the god Sebek [and his company] who dwell in the water.

The goddess Ietep-sekhus is the Eye of (95) Râ; or (as others say), It is the flame which followeth after Osiris to burn up (96) the souls of his enemies.

As concerning all the faults which are in (97) Osiris, the scribe of the offerings of all the gods, Ani, triumphant, [this is all that he hath done against the lords of eternity] since he came forth from (98) his mother's womb.

³ This god was an associate of Osiris and Anubis.

The Seven Spirits.

As concerning the Seven Spirits (99), even Kestha, Hāpi, Tuamutef, Qebhscnuf, (100) Maa-ātef-f, Kheribeq-f, and Herukhenti-[ān]maati, (101) Anubis appointed them to be protectors of the dead body of Osiris, or (as others say), [set them] (102) behind the place of purification of Osiris; or (as others say), those Seven Spirits are (103) Netcheh-netcheh, Āatqetqet,¹ Ānertānef-bes-f-khenti-heh-(104)f,² Āq-her-āmi-unnut-f,³ Teshermaati-āmi-(105)het-Ānes,⁴ Ubes hrā-per-em-khet-khet,⁵ and (106) Maa-em-kerh-ān nef-em-hru.⁶ The chief of the sovereign princes (107) who are in Na-āruṭ-f is Horus, the avenger of his father.

As concerning (108) the day [upon which was said], "Come therefore thither," it referreth to the words,

¹ I.e., "He who is mighty in revolving."

² I.e., "The dweller in his flame giveth not his flame."

³ I.e., "He entereth in his hour."

⁴ I.e., "The Red-eyed one in the house of Ānes."

⁵ I.e., "The Fiery-face who cometh onwards and retreateth."

⁶ I.e., "He seeth in the dark and bringeth in the day."

"Come (109) then thither," which Rā spake unto Osiris. Lo, may this be said unto me in Āmentet!

"I am the divine Soul which dwelleth in the divine Twin-Gods." (110)

The Souls of Rā and Osiris in Taṭṭu.

What then is this?

It is Osiris [when] he goeth into Taṭṭu (111) and findeth there the Soul of Rā; there the one god embraceth (112) the other, and divine souls spring into being within the divine Twin-Gods.

(16) As concerning the divine Twin-Gods they are Heru-netch-ḥrā-tef-f¹ (17) and Heru-khent-ān-maati;² or (as others say), the double divine Soul which dwelleth in the divine Twin-Gods is the Soul of Rā and the Soul of Osiris; [or (as others say),] It is the

² I.e., "Horus, the dweller in darkness," i.e., Blind Horus.

Soul (18) which dwelleth in Shu, [and] the Soul which dwelleth in Tefnut,¹ and these are the double divine Soul which dwelleth in Taṭtu.

“I am the Cat which fought (?) hard by the Persea tree (19) in Ānnu (Heliopolis), on the night when the “foes of Neb-er-tcher were destroyed.”

From the Papyrus of Ani.

From the Papyrus of Hu-nefer.

Who then is this?

The male Cat is Rā (20) himself, and he is called ‘Māu’ by reason of the speech of the god Sa, [who said] concerning him: “He is like (māu) unto that which he hath made”; thus his name became ‘Māu’;² or (as others say), it is the god (21) Shu who maketh over the possessions of Seb to Osiris.

As concerning the fight (?) hard by the Persea tree in Ānnu, it concerneth the children of impotent revolt when (22) justice is wrought on them for what they have done.

¹ I.e., the feminine counterpart of Shu.

² This is a very ancient pun on the words māu “cat” and māu “like.”

As concerning the night of the battle [these words refer to] the inroad [of the children of impotent revolt] into the eastern part of heaven, whereupon there arose a battle in heaven and in all the earth.

"O thou who art in thine egg (23) (i.e., Rā), who "shinest from thy Disk and risest in thy horizon, and "dost shine like gold above the sky, like unto whom "there is none among the gods, who sailest over the "pillars (24) of Shu (i.e., in the ether), who givest "blasts of fire from thy mouth, [who makest the two "lands bright with thy radiance, deliver] thou the "pious Nebseni from the god (25) whose form is hidden, "whose eyebrows are like unto the two arms of the "Balance on the night of reckoning destruction."

Who then is this?

It is Ān-ā-f (i.e.,¹ the god who bringeth his arm). (26)

As concerning "the night of reckoning destruction," it is the night of the burning of the damned, and of the overthrow of the wicked at the block, (27) and of the slaughter of souls.

Who then is this?

It is Shesmu, the headsman of Osiris, or (as others say), It is Āpep when he riseth up with one head bearing Maāt (i.e., right and truth) [upon it]; (28) or (as others say), It is Horus when he riseth up with a double head, whereof the one beareth right and truth and the other wickedness. (29) He bestoweth wickedness on him that worketh wickedness, and right and truth upon him that followeth righteousness and truth; or (as others say), It is Horus the Great who (30) dwelleth in Sekhem (Letopolis); or (as others say), It is Thoth; or (as others say), It is Nefer-Tem; [or (as others say),] It is Sept who doth thwart the acts of the foes of Neb-er-tcher.

“Deliver thou the scribe Nebseni, victorious, from the Watchers who bear slaughtering knives, and who have cruel fingers, and who slay those who are in the following of Osiris. (31) May they never gain the mastery over me, may I never fall under their knives.”

What then is this?

It is Anubis, and it is Horus in the form of Khent-(32)ân-maati; or (as others say), It is the sovereign princes who thwart the works of their weapons; or (as others say), It is the chiefs of the *Sheniu*¹ chamber.

“May (33) their knives never gain the mastery over me, may I never fall under their instruments of cruelty, for (34) I know their names, and I know the being Mâchet who is among them in the House of Osiris, shooting rays of light from [his] eye, but who himself is unseen. (35) He goeth round about heaven robed in the flame of his mouth, commanding Hâpi, but remaining himself unseen. May I be strong upon earth before Râ, may I come happily into haven (36) in the presence of Osiris. Let not

 “after Neb-er-tcher according to the writings (37) of “Kheperā. I fly as a hawk, I cackle as a goose; I “ever slay, even as the serpent goddess Neheb-ka.”

What then is this? (38)

Those who preside over their altars are the similitude of the Eye of Rā and the similitude of the Eye of Horus.

“O Rā- (39) Tem, thou lord of the Great House,¹ “thou Sovereign (Life, Strength and Health!) of all
 “the gods, deliver thou the scribe Nebseni, victorious, “greyhound, whose brows are as those of a man, and “who feedeth upon the dead, who watcheth at the “Bight of the Lake (41) of Fire, and who devourerth

 “the bodies of the dead and swalloweth hearts, and “who shooteth forth filth, but he himself remaineth “unseen.”

Who then is (42) this?

“Devourer for millions of years” is his name, and he liveth in the Āat.² As concerning the Āat of flame, it is that which is in Ānruṭ-f, hard by (43) the Sheniu chamber. The unclean man who would walk thereover doth fall down among the knives; or (as others say),
 His name is “Mātes,”³ (44) and he is the Watcher of the door of Amentet; or (as others say), His name is "Beba," and it is he who watcheth the Bight of Amentet; or (as others say), "Hēri-sep-f" is his name.

³ I.e., “he who hath the flint knife.”

"Hail, Lord of terror, chief of the lands of the North "and South, thou lord of the red glow (or red lands),
"(45) who preparest the slaughter-block, and who dost
"feed upon the inward parts!"

Who then is this?

The guardian of the Bight of Amentet. (46)

What then is this?

It is the heart of Osiris, which is the devourer of all slaughtered things. The Ureret crown hath been given unto him with gladness of heart as lord of Suten-henen (Heracleopolis Magna).

What then (47) is this?

He to whom hath been given the Ureret crown with gladness of heart as lord of Suten-henen is Osiris. He was bidden to rule among the gods on the day of the union of earth (48) in the presence of Neb-er-tcher.

What then is this?

He that was bidden to rule among the gods is [Horus] the son of Isis, who was appointed to rule in the place of his father (49) Osiris. As concerning the "day of the union of earth with earth," it is the mingling of earth with earth in the coffin of Osiris, the Soul that liveth in Suten-henen, the giver of meat and drink, the destroyer of wrong, and the guide of the everlasting paths.

Who then is this ?

It is Râ himself.

“Deliver thou the Osiris Nebseni, victorious,”

[The following lines are from the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 10, l. 7 ff.).]

“(113) from the great god who carrieth away the soul,
“who eateth hearts, and who feedeth upon (114) offal,
“the guardian of the darkness, the dweller in the Seker
“boat; those who live in crime (115) fear him.”

Who then is this ?

It is Suti, or (as others say), It is Smam-ur, (116)
the soul of Seb.

The deceased and his wife adoring Kheperâ.

The Two Apes.

“Hail, Kheperâ in thy boat, the two-fold company of “the gods is thy body! Deliver thou Osiris (117) Ani, “victorious, from the Watchers who give judgment,
“who have been appointed by the god Neb-er-tcher “(118) to protect him and to fasten the fetters on his “foes, and who slaughter in the (119) shambles; there “is no escape from their grasp. May they never stab
“me with their knives, (120) may I never fall helpless “into their chambers of torture. (121) Never have the “things which the gods hate been done by me, for I “am pure within the Mesqet.¹ (122) Cakes of saffron

 “have been brought unto him in Tanenet.”

Who then is this? (123)

It is Kheperà in his boat. It is Rā himself. As concerning the Watchers (124) who give judgment, they are the apes Isis and Nephthys. As concerning the things which are abominated by the gods they are wickedness (125) and falsehood; and he who passeth through the place of purification within the Mesqet is Anpu (Anubis), who is behind the chest (126) which containeth the inward parts of Osiris. He to whom saffron cakes have been brought (127) in Tanenet is Osiris; or (as others say), The saffron cakes (128) in Tanenet are heaven and earth; or (as others say), They are Shu, strengthener of the two lands in (129) Suten-henen (Heracleopolis Magna). The saffron cakes are the Eye of Horus; and Tanenet (130) is the burial-place of Osiris. Tem hath built thy house, and the double Lion-god hath founded thy habitation; (131) lo! drugs are brought, [and Horus purifieth and Set strengtheneth, and Set purifieth and Horus strengtheneth. (132)]

“The Osiris, the scribe Ani, victorious before Osiris, hath come into the land, and he hath taken possession thereof with his two feet. He is Tem, and he is in thy city.”

"given to thee for thy delight (139) Thou hast
"created that which is in Kher-āḥa and that which is "in Ānnu (Heliopolis) Every god feareth thee, for
"thou art exceeding great and terrible: thou [avengest]

"shootest out arrows Thou livest according to “thy will; thou art Uatchit, the Lady of Flame.

“Evil cometh (141) among those who set themselves up “against thee.”

What then is this?

“Hidden in form, granted of (142) Menḥu,” is the name of the tomb. “He seeth what is on his hand” is the name of Qerâu; or (as others say), (143) the name of the block.

Now he whose mouth shineth and whose head moveth is the member of Osiris, or (as others say) (144) of Rā. “Thou spreadest thy hair and I shake it out over his brow” is spoken concerning Isis, who hideth in her hair (145) and draweth her hair over her. Uatchit, the Lady of Flames, is the eye of Rā.

CHAPTER XX.

[From the Papyrus of Nebseni (Brit. Mus. No. 9,900, sheet 12).]

Vignette: This Chapter, in the Theban Version, has neither vignette nor title.

Text: (1) "Hail, Thoth, who didst make Osiris (2) "to triumph over his enemies, snare thou the enemies "of Osiris, the scribe Nebseni, the lord of piety, in the "presence of the great sovereign princes of every god "and goddess; (3) in the presence of the great "sovereign princes who are in Ánnu (Heliopolis) on "the night of the battle and of the overthrow of the "Sebáu-fiend in Ṭaṭṭu; on (4) the night of making to "stand up the double Ṭet in Sekhem (Letopolis); on "the night of the things of the night in Sekhem, in Pet, "(5) and in Ṭepu;¹ on the night of the stablishing of "Horus in the heritage of the things of his father in "the double land of Rekhti; (6) on the night when "Isis maketh lamentation at the side of her brother "Osiris in Ábtu (Abydos); on the night of the Haker "festival (7) of the distinguishing [between] the dead "(i.e., the damned) and the Spirits on the path of the "dead (i.e., the damned); on the night of the judgment "of those who are to be annihilated at the great [festival

"of] the ploughing and the turning up of the earth (8) "great in Nâarerut-f in Re-stau; and on the night of "making Horus to triumph over his enemies. Horus is "mighty, the northern and southern halves of heaven "rejoice, (9) Osiris is content thereat and his heart is "glad. Hail, Thoth, make thou to triumph Osiris, the "scribe Nebseni, over his enemies (10) in the presence "of the sovereign princes of every god and every goddess, "and in the presence of you, ye sovereign princes who "passed judgment on Osiris behind the shrine."

In the Saite Recension this Chapter has no vignette, but it has the title, "Another Chapter of the Chaplet "of victory," and is arranged in tabular form. The words "Hail, Thoth, make Osiris Auf-ânkh, triumphant, to triumph over his enemies even as thou "didst make Osiris to triumph over his enemies," which are written in two horizontal lines, are to be repeated before each column of text. The "great sovereign princes" invoked are those of:—(1) Annu (Heliopolis), (2) Tattu, (3) Sekhem (Letopolis), (4) Pe and Tep, (5) An-ârut-f, (6) the double land of Rekhti, (7) Re-stau, (8) Âbtu, (9) the Paths of the Dead, (10) the Ploughing festival in Tattu, (11) Kher-âha, (12) Osiris, (13) heaven and earth, (14) every god and every goddess. The rubric reads:—

If this chapter be recited regularly and always by a man who hath purified himself in water of natron, he shall come forth by day after he hath come into port (i.e., is dead), and he shall perform all the transformations which his heart shall dictate, and he shall come forth from the fire.

CHAPTER XXI.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 9).]

In the Papyrus of Ani the XXIst Chapter follows the XXIIInd, but it is there given without title and without vignette; in the Turin papyrus published by Lepsius (Todtenbuch, Bl. 14) the XXIst and XXIIInd Chapters are quite distinct, and each has its own title, while a single vignette stands over both.

Vignette: The deceased standing in the presence of a beatified person, who holds the symbol of life in one hand, and a staff in the other. A priest is holding in his right hand the UR-HEKAU instrument, and is about to touch the mouth of the deceased, in his left hand he holds a vase of ointment. (From Lepsius, Todtenbuch, Bl. 14.) The UR-HEKAU instrument, i.e., "the Mighty one of Enchantments," was made in the form of a ram-headed serpent, and it was believed to possess magical powers.

From the Papyrus of Nebseni.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF GIVING A MOUTH (2) TO OSIRIS ANI, THE SCRIBE AND TELLER OF THE HOLY OFFERINGS OF ALL THE GODS, VICTORIOUS, IN THE UNDERWORLD. He saith :—

From the Turin Papyrus.

Vignette: The statue of Ani, the scribe, seated upon a pedestal in the form of the emblem of Maât (i.e., right and truth). Before it stands the Sem priest clad in a panther's skin and holding in his right hand the ram-headed, serpent-like instrument "Ur-ḥekau," with which he is about to touch the lips of the statue and so perform the ceremony of "Opening the Mouth." At his feet are a sepulchral box for holding unguents, &c.; three instruments called respectively "Seb-ur," "Tun-tet," and "Temānu"; and the object called "Pesh-en-kef." In the Papyrus of Nebseni the scene is described as "the Sem priest performing [the ceremony] of the 'Opening of the Mouth'" (sheet 5). In the Saïte Recension a priest is seen offering a vase of ointment only to the deceased.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF OPENING THE MOUTH OF OSIRIS. THE SCRIBE ANI, TRIUMPHANT, saith:—

"May the god Ptaḥ open my mouth, and may the god

 "he opened the mouth of the gods. I am the goddess

¹ The allusion here is to the belief that Thoth was the great master of the use of magical names and formulae. He gave the word which resulted in the creation of the world; he supplied Isis with words of magical power which enabled her to effect the resurrection of Osiris, and also of her son Horus after he had been stung to death by a scorpion.

 "greyhounds and quicker than light," or (as others say),
 "quicker than a shadow."

Vignette : In the greater number of the Theban papyri this Chapter is without vignette. In the Brocklehurst papyrus, however (see Naville, Todtenbuch, Bd. I. Bl. 36), the Sem priest, wearing a panther's skin, is seen holding up before the face of the deceased, who stands before him, a small bearded figure like an ushabti. In the Turin papyrus (Lepsius, Todtenbuch, Bl. 15), the priest and the deceased are standing facing each other, and no ceremony is being performed.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF MAKING A MAN TO POSSESS MEMORY IN THE UNDERWORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, the son of the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Amen-hotep, saith :—

I am with the Divine One, [and I sit on the eastern side of heaven]. "If any god whatsoever should advance unto me (4), "let me be able to proclaim his name forthwith."

CHAPTER XXVI.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 15).]

From the Papyrus of Ani.

Vignette: The scribe Ani, clothed in white, and with his heart in his right hand, addressing the god Anpu (Anubis), jackal-headed. In his left hand, which is outstretched, Ani holds a necklace of several rows of coloured beads; the clasp is made in the form of a pylon or gateway, and on the side of the pendant, which is in the same form, is a representation of a scarab or beetle in a boat to typify the Sun-god Rā-Kheperā in his boat. From the pendant hang lotus flowers. In other Theban papyri the vignettes are different. In the Papyrus of Nebseni (sheet 5) the god "Anubis who dwelleth in the city of embalmment" gives a heart to the deceased; and in others (see Naville, Todtenbuch, Bd. I. Bl. 37) the deceased is seen either being embraced by Anubis or addressing his heart which rests upon a standard before him. In the Turin papyrus (Lepsius, Todtenbuch, Bl. 15) the deceased is seen kneeling before his own soul, which is in the form of a human-headed hawk, and clasping his heart to his breast with his left hand.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 5).]

Vignette : In some papyri containing the Theban Recension of the Book of the Dead (e.g., those of Nu and Amen-neb (Brit. Mus. No. 9964), this Chapter has no vignette. In the Papyrus of Nefer-uben-f the deceased is seen holding his heart upon his breast with his left hand, and kneeling before a monster in human form who holds a knife in his right hand, and grasps his tail with the left. Another papyrus shows the deceased offering incense to Osiris, who, standing on a pedestal in the form of Maât, holds the flail and sceptre in his hands; in the Brocklehurst papyrus the deceased is kneeling and holding his heart in his left hand, which is outstretched (see Naville, Todtenbuch, Bd. CHAPTER XXXB.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 15).]

From the Papyrus of Nebseni.

Vignette : (1) Some papyri containing the Theban Recension give this Chapter without any vignette, and it is probable that this arises from the fact that it often appears as one of the texts which occur in the great Judgment Scene, where it forms the prayer put into the mouth of the deceased; see the Papyrus of Ani, sheet 3, and the Papyrus of Hu-nefer, sheet 3. In the Papyrus of Nebseni, sheet 4, the deceased kneels in one pan of the Balance, and he is being weighed against his heart which rests in the other in the presence of "Osiris, the great god, the Governor of Everlastingness." The support of the beam is surmounted by a human head, and the tongue of the Balance is being scrutinized by a dog-headed ape, seated on a pedestal, who is called "Thoth, the lord of the Balance." Elsewhere this ape is seated on a pedestal with steps, and is called "The lord of Khemennu (Hermopolis Magna), the righteous weigher" (see Naville, Todtenbuch, Bd. I. Bl. 43). In the Papyrus of Amen-neb (Brit. Mus. No. 9964), the deceased stands by the Balance while a figure of himself is being weighed against his heart; in this example of the scene the support of the beam is surmounted by the head of a jackal. Elsewhere the vignette is simply a heart, or a scarab, or the deceased seated adoring his heart, or the deceased standing in adoration before a beetle, which is the symbol of the god Kheperá, the self-created god and the type of the Resurrection (see Lepsius, Todtenbuch, Bl. 16).

(1) These words are to be said over a scarab of green stone encircled with a band of refined copper and [having] a ring of silver, (2) which shall be placed on the neck of the khu.

This chapter was found in the city of Khemennu (Hermopolis Magna) under the feet of [the statue of] (3) this god. [It was inscribed] upon a slab of iron of the south, in the writing of the god himself, in the time of (4) the majesty of the king of the north and of the south, (Mēn-kau-Rā), ²triumphant, by the royal son Heru-ṭā-ṭā-f, who discovered it whilst he was on his journey (5) to make an inspection of the temples and of their estates.

In some ancient papyri the text of this chapter is made to follow the Rubric of Chapter LXIV., with which it had some close connexion, and in others it follows the Rubric of Chapter CXLVIII. The Rubrical

CHAPTER XXXI.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 5).]

Vignette : In the Papyrus of Nekht the vignette of this Chapter represents the deceased attacking three crocodiles, but in the Saïte Recension he is attacking four (see Lepsius, Todtenbuch Bl. 16).

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF BEATING BACK THE CROCODILE THAT COMETH TO CARRY AWAY THE CHARM FROM NU, THE OVERSEER OF THE HOUSE OF THE OVERSEER OF THE SEAL, TRIUMPHANT, THE SON OF THE OVERSEER OF THE HOUSE, AMEN-HETEP, TRIUMPHANT, IN THE UNDERWORLD. He saith:—(2)

“Get thee back, return, get thee back, thou crocodile-flend Sui; thou shalt not advance to me, for I live by reason of the magical words which I have by me. I do not utter that name of thine to the great god (3) who will cause thee to come to the two divine envoys; the name of the one is Betti,¹ and the name of the other is ‘Hrâ-k-en-Maât.’² Heaven hath power over its seasons, (4) and the magical word hath power over that which is in its possession, let therefore my mouth have power over the magical word which is therein. My front teeth are like unto flint knives, and my back teeth are like unto the Nome of Tutef.³ Hail thou that sittest with thine eyeball upon these my magical words! Thou shalt not carry them away, O thou crocodile that livest by means of magical words!”

In the Turin Papyrus (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 16) the following lines are added to this Chapter:—

The āpshait is probably the beetle which is often found crushed between the bandages of poorly made mummies, or even inside the body itself, where it has forced its way in search of food.

The text which follows the title of this chapter is that of Chapter XXXVI., and the only explanation of this unusual vignette is that the scribe confused the proper name Āpshait with the word for “pig,” shad and wrote down the latter word. The artist, seeing the word for “pig” in the text, drew the picture of a pig in the vignette. The following is the vignette :—

 “‘Hail,’ say those who dwell among the gods, (21) ‘He

I. “Get thee back, (2) Hai, thou impure one, thou “abomination of Osiris! Thoth hath cut off thy head, “and I have performed upon thee all the things which “the company of the gods (3) ordered concerning thee “in the matter of the work of thy slaughter. Get thee “back, thou abomination of Osiris, from the Neshmet “boat which (4) advanceth with a fair wind. Ye “are holy, O all ye gods, and [ye] have cast down head- “long the enemies (5) of Osiris; the gods of Ta-ur “shout for joy. ² These words are from the Papyrus of Rā.

³ A god of whom little is known. He is called the “great god of the West,” and is said to be the deity of the dwellers in the western desert and mountains; subsequently he was identified with a form of Osiris, and was especially worshipped in the sixth nome of Lower Egypt.

“thy members, and thou art destroyed within thy company, and thy bend (or dwelling-place) is destroyed for thee by the company of thy gods who dwell in the cities of Pe and (4) Tep. He that slayeth [thee] there is in the form of the Eye of Horus, and I have driven thee away as thou wast advancing, and I have vanquished thee by the winds of my mouth. O thou Eater (5) of those who commit sins, who dost plunder and spoil, I have [committed] no sin; therefore let my palette and the writings¹ with hostile charges [against me upon them] be given unto me. I have done no wrong in the presence of (6) the sovereign princes, therefore shoot not thy [venom] at me. I give, do thou take according to what I order; snatch me not away, and eat me not, for I am the lord of life, the Prince (Life, Health, Strength!) of the horizon.”

CHAPTER LII.

From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 11).]

Vignette : This Chapter is without a vignette in the Theban Recension ; in the Turin Papyrus (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 21) the deceased is seated on a chair and his left hand is stretched out over a table.

¹ Or, “Let me not be compelled to eat it [in the absence of] the sepulchral cakes and provisions which shall be offered unto me.”

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF NOT EATING FILTH IN THE UNDERWORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“That which is an abomination unto me, that which “is an abomination unto me, let me not eat. That “which is an abomination unto me, (2) that which is “an abomination unto me is filth ; let me not eat it [in “the place of] the sepulchral cakes [which are offered “unto] the Kas. Let it not light upon my body ; let “me not be obliged to take it into my hands ; and let “me not be obliged to (3) walk thereon in my sandals.
“What, now, wilt thou live upon in the presence of “the gods? [Let food] come unto me from the place “whither thou wilt bring food (?), and let me live upon “the seven loaves of bread (4) which shall be brought as “food before Horus, and upon the bread which is “brought before Thoth. The gods shall say unto me :
“‘What manner of food wouldst thou have given unto “thee?’ [And I reply :] Let me eat my food under “the sycamore tree (5) of my lady, the goddess Hathor.
“and let my times be among the divine beings who “have alighted thereon. Let me have the power to “order my own fields in Tattu (Mendes) (6) and my “own growing crops in Annu (Heliopolis). Let me “live upon bread made of white barley, and let my “beer be [made] from red grain, and may the persons “of (7) my father and mother be given unto me as “guardians of my door and for the ordering of my “territory. Let me be sound and strong, let me have “a large room, and let me be able to sit wheresoever

“I please.”

CHAPTER LIII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 11).]

Vignette : This Chapter is without a vignette in the Theban Recension; in the Turin Papyrus (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 22) the deceased is seated on a chair with a table of offerings before him, and his left hand, with a bowl therein, is stretched out over it. See the vignette to Chapter LII.

“I am the Bull with two horns, and [I] lead (2) along “the heavens. [I am] the lord of the risings of the “heavens, the Great Illuminer who cometh forth out of “flame, the bestower of years, the far extending One,
“the double Lion-god, and there hath been given to “me (3) the journey of the god of splendour (Khu).¹
“That which is an abomination unto me, that which is “an abomination unto me, let me not eat. [Let me not

“not be tripped up and fall [in the underworld]. (4) I “heaven with Rā, and my cakes are on the earth with “the god Seb, for the Sektet boat and the Ätet boat

“great god who is in Ännu. I have put away from me “my associates, and I have united myself to the boat of “divine boatmen) eat there; I live upon what (6) they “live upon there; and I eat of the cakes which are in “the hall of the lord of sepulchral offerings, I the over“seer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu,

¹ In the Leyden Papyrus of Rā the Chapter ends:—“triumphant before the great god, the lord of Ämentet, and before Anpu”; in the Turin Papyrus (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 22) it ends with the words:—“Filth is an abomination unto me, and I will not eat it.”

 “(3) which is in Kenkenur (i.e., the Great Cackler),
 “and I watch and guard that mighty thing which hath “come into being and with which the god Seb hath “opened the earth. I live ; and it liveth ; (4) I become “old, I live, and I snuff the air. I am the god Utchā-

“āabet (i.e., the god who trieth hostility), and I revolve “behind [to protect] his egg. I shine at the moment

 “two-fold. Hail, thou who makest sweet the seasons
 “of the two earths, thou dweller among celestial food, “thou dweller in the cerulean heights of heaven,¹ keep “watch over the Babe that dwelleth in his (6) cot when “he cometh forth to you.”

 “air from the presence of the god of Light [Khu] to the “bounds of heaven, and to the bounds of (3) earth, and “breath which dwelleth in thy nostrils. I embrace

 “that great throne (3) which is in the city of Hermo-“polis, and I keep watch over the Egg of Kenken-ur
 “ (i.e., Great Cackler) ; I germinate as it germinateth ;
 “ (4) I live as it liveth ; and [my] breath is [its] breath.”

 “My mouth is open, and I see with my two eyes.”

CHAPTER LVII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 12).]

“Hail, Ḥāp-ur,¹ god of heaven, in thy name of “‘Divider of heaven,’ grant thou unto me that I may “have dominion over (3) the water, even as the goddess “Sekhet had power over Osiris on the night of the “storms and floods. Grant thou that I may have “power over the divine princes who have their habita“tions in the place of (4) the god of the inundation, “even as they have power over their own holy god of “whose name they are ignorant; and may they let me

“have power even as [he hath let them have power].”

“My nostrils are (5) opened in Ṭaṭṭu,” or (as others say), “My mouth and my nostrils are opened in “Ṭāṭāu, and I have my place of peace in Ānnu, which “is my house; it was built for me by the (6) goddess “Sesheta,¹ and the god Khnemu set it up for me upon “its walls. If to this heaven it cometh by the north, I “sit at the south; if to this heaven (7) it cometh by “the south, I sit at the north; if to this heaven it “cometh by the west, I sit at the east; and if to this “heaven it cometh by the east, (8) I sit at the west. I “draw the air of my nostrils, and I make my way into “every place in which I wish to sit.”

In the Papyrus of Nefer-uben-f (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 70) this Chapter ends quite differently, and reads:—

“I am strong in my mouth and in my nostrils, for “behold Tem has stablished them; behold, O ye gods
“and Khus. Rest thou, then, O Tem. Behold the “staff which blossometh, and which cometh forth when “a man crieth out in your names. Behold, I am Tem, “the tree (?) of the gods in [their] visible forms. Let “me not be turned back . . . I am the Am-khent,

“been judged, I have come forth therein, [I] have “power with my father, the Old Man, Nu. He hath “granted that I may live, he hath given strength unto “me, and he hath provided me with the inheritance of “my father therein.”

CHAPTER LVIII.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 16).]

Vignette: Ani and his wife Thuthu standing in a pool of running water; each holds a sail, the symbol of air, in the left hand, and scoops up water to the mouth with the right hand. On the edges of the pool are palm trees, from the largest of which hang great clusters of dates.

Separate thou from him, head from head, “when (3) [thou] goest into the divine Mesqen chamber. “He letteth me set out for the temple of the gods “who have found their faces. ‘Assembler of Souls’ “(4) is the name of my boat; ‘Making the hair to “stand on end’ is the name of the oars; ‘Goad’ is the “name of the (5) hold(?); ‘Making straight for the “middle’ is the name of the rudder; likewise [the “boat] is a type of my being borne onward (6) in the “pool. Let there be given unto me vessels of milk, “together with cakes, and loaves of bread, and cups of “drink, and flesh (7) in the Temple of Anpu.”

RUBRIC: If he (i.e., the deceased) knoweth this chapter, he shall go into, after coming forth from, the underworld of the [beautiful Amentet].

I embrace the throne which is in Unnu (Hermopolis), and I watch and guard (3) the Egg of Neḫek-ur (i.e., the Great Cackler). It groweth, I grow; it liveth, I live; (4) it snuffeth the air, I snuff the air, I the Osiris Ani, in triumph.”

CHAPTER LX.

Vignette : The deceased holding in his left hand a lotus flower. In the Turin Papyrus the deceased holds a sail, symbolic of air.

Text : (1) ANOTHER CHAPTER. Osiris Auf-ānkh, triumphant, saith :—

“Let the gates of heaven be opened for me by the “god [Thoth] and by Hāpi, and let me pass through “the doors of Ta-qebh¹ into the great heaven,” or (as others say), “at the time,” (2) [or (as others say)]. “with the strength (?) of Rā. Grant ye, [O Thoth and “Hāpi,] that I may have power over the water, even as “Set had power over (3) his enemies on the day when “there were storms and rain upon the earth. Let me “have power over the divine beings who have (4) “mighty arms in their shoulders, even as the god who

“is apparelled in splendour and whose name is unknown
“had power over them; and may I have power over “the beings whose arms are mighty.”

CHAPTER LXI.

“mighty as the river [Nile].”

CHAPTER LXII.

[From the Papyrus of Nebseni (Brit. Mus. No. 9900, sheet 4).

Vignette : The deceased scooping up running water out of a stream into his mouth with both hands.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF DRINKING WATER IN THE UNDERWORLD. (2) The scribe Nebseni saith :— (3)

“May be opened [to me] the mighty flood by Osiris, “and may the abyss of water be opened [to me] by “Teḥuti-Ḥāpi, (4) the lord of the horizon, in my name “of ‘Opener.’ May there be granted [to me] mastery “over the water-courses as over the members (5) of Set. “I go forth into heaven. I am the Lion-god Rā. I “am the Bull. (6) [I] have eaten the thigh, and I “have divided the carcass. I have gone round about “among the islands (or lakes) of Sekhet-(7)Āaru.¹ “Indefinite time, without beginning and without end, “hath been given to me; I inherit eternity, and ever- “lastingness hath been bestowed upon me.”

The last three Chapters, with a single vignette, are grouped in one in the Papyrus of Nefer-uben-f (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 72); but the order of them, as there given is 61, 60, 62. In the Turin Papyrus (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 23) the vignette of each is the same, i.e., the deceased holding a sail in his left hand.

CHAPTER LXIII.A.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 7).]

Vignette: The deceased drinking water from a running stream, or the deceased kneeling by the side of a pool of water and receiving water in a bowl, which he holds in his right hand, from a vessel which the goddess of the sycamore tree (Hathor) is emptying into it. In the Turin Papyrus (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 23) the deceased is pouring out water from two vessels before the symbol of flame.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF DRINKING WATER AND OF NOT BEING BURNT (2) BY FIRE [IN THE UNDER-

WORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“Hail, Bull of Ámentet! I am brought unto thee, “I am the oar of Rā (3) wherewith he ferried over the “divine aged ones; let me neither be burnt up nor “destroyed by fire. I am Bet,¹ the first-born son of “Osiris, who doth meet every god (4) within the temple “of his Eye in Ánnu. I am the divine Heir, the “exalted one (?), the Mighty One, the Resting One. I “have made my name to germinate, (5) I have delivered “[it], and thou shalt live through me day by day.”

CHAPTER LXIIIB.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 12).]

Vignette : The deceased standing before two symbols of fire, or the deceased sitting before a table of offerings and smelling a flower (Naviile, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 74).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF NOT BEING SCALDED WITH WATER. The overseer of the palace, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“I am the oar made ready for rowing, (2) where-
“with Rā transported the boat containing the divine “ancestors, and lifted up the moist emanations of Osiris
“from the Lake of Fire, (3) and he was not burned. I “lie down like a divine Spirit, [and like] Khnemu who “dwelleth among lions. Come, break away (4) the “restraints from him that passeth by the side of this “path, and let me come forth by it.”

CHAPTER LXIV.

The LXIVth Chapter is probably one of the oldest of all in the Book of the Dead, and two versions of it seem to have existed in the earliest times. The longer version is called the “Chapter of coming forth by day in the underworld,” and the shorter the “Chapter of knowing the ‘Chapters of coming forth by day’ in a single Chapter.” On a coffin of the XIth dynasty both versions occur. The rubric of one version ascribes it to the reign of Senti-Hesep-ti, i.e., about B.C. 4266, while the rubric of the other attributes its discovery to the time of Menthu-hetep, which is clearly a mistake for Men-kau-Râ (Mycerinus). Thus in the XIth dynasty it was believed that the Chapter might even be as ancient as the time of the Ist dynasty. There is little doubt that the Chapter was looked upon as an abridgment of all the "Chapters of coming forth by day," and that it had a value which was equivalent to them all.

[From the Papyrus of Nebseni (Brit. Mus. No. 9900, sheets 23 and 24).]

Vignette : The deceased adoring the sun's disk, which rises above the top of a tree.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF COMING FORTH BY DAY IN THE UNDERWORLD. Nebseni, the lord of reverence, saith :— (2)

"I am Yesterday, To-day, and To-morrow, [and I "have] the power (3) to be born a second time ; [I am] "the divine hidden Soul who createth the gods, and "who giveth celestial meals unto the denizens of the "Tuat (underworld), Amentet, and heaven. [I am] the "Rudder (4) of the East, the Possessor of two Divine

"Faces wherein his beams are seen. I am the Lord of "the men who are raised up; [the Lord] who cometh
 "forth from out of the darkness, and (5) whose forms
 "of existence are of the house wherein are the dead.
 "Hail, ye two Hawks who are perched upon your rest-
 "ing-places, who hearken unto (6) the things which are
 "said by him, who guide the bier to the hidden place,
 "who lead along Rā, and (7) who follow [him] into the "uppermost place of the shrine which is in the celestial
 "heights! [Hail,] Lord of the Shrine which standeth
 "in the middle of the earth. (8) He is I, and I am
 "he, and Ptaḥ hath covered his sky with crystal.
 "[Hail] Rā, thou who art content, thy heart (9) is "glad by reason of thy beautiful law of the day; thou
 "enterest in by Khemennu (?) and comest forth at the "east, and the divine (10) first-born beings who are in "[thy] presence cry out with gladness [unto thee].
 "Make thou thy roads glad for me, and make broad for "me thy paths (11) when I shall set out from earth for "the life in the celestial regions. Send forth thy light
 "upon me, O Soul unknown, for I am [one] of those "who are about to enter in, and the divine speech is in
 "(12) [my] ears in the T̄uat (underworld), and let no
 "defects of my mother be [imputed] unto me; let me
 "be delivered and let me be safe from (13) him whose
 "divine eyes sleep at eventide, when [he] gathereth
 "together and finisheth [the day] in night. I flood

 "Hail, thou divine prince Àti-she-f,¹ cry out unto those
 "divine beings who dwell in their hair at the (15)
 "season when the god is [lifted upon] the shoulder,
 "saying: 'Come thou who [dwellest] above thy divine
 "abyss of water, for verily (16) the thigh [of the sacri"fice] is tied to the neck, and the buttocks are [laid]
 "upon the head of Àmentet.' May the *Ur-urti*² god-
 "desses grant [such] gifts unto me when my tears start
 "from me as I see myself (17) journeying at the divine
 "festival of Tenà in Abydos, and the wooden fastenings
 "which fasten the four doors above thee are in thy "power (18) within thy garment. Thy face is like that "of a greyhound which scenteth with his nose the place

 "sporteth me to the chamber (?), and [my] nurse is the "divine double Lion-god himself. I am made strong

 "through the gate, and the radiance which my heart
 "hath made is enduring; 'I know the abysses' is thy "name. I work for you, (21) O ye Spirits—four millions,
 'six hundred thousand, one thousand and two hundred
 "are they—concerning the things which are there. [I "have come (24) there in triumph, and [I am] he who "is in the halls (or courtyards) of the underworld, and "I am he who is laid under tribute to (25) Shu. I rise

 "as the Lord of Life through the beautiful law of this "day, and it is their blood and the cool water of [their]
 "slaughter (26) which make the union of the earth to "blossom. I make a way among the horns of all those "who make themselves strong against me, and [among] "those who in secret (27) make themselves adversaries
 "unto me, and who are upon their bellies. I have "come as the envoy of my Lord (28) of lords to give
 "counsel [concerning] Osiris; the eye shall not absorb¹
 "its tears. I am the divine envoy (?) of (29) the house
 "of him that dwelleth in his possessions, and I have "come from Sekhem to Annu² to make known to the "Bennu bird therein concerning the events of (30) the "Tuat (underworld). Hail, thou Aukert, (i.e., under"world) which hidest thy companion who is in thee,
 "thou creator of forms of existence like the god
 "Khepera, grant thou that (31) Nebseni, the scribe and "designer to the temples of the South and of the North,
 "may come forth (32) to see the Disk, and that his

“a bird to see (34) the companies (?) of the Spirits in “human being (35) that walketh upon the regions

“which are upon the earth. Hail, Hemti (i.e., Runner), “hail, Hemti, who carriest away the shades of the “dead (36) and the Spirits from earth, grant thou unto “me a prosperous way to the Tuat (underworld), such “as is made for the favoured ones [of the god],

 "the lord of the bier which giveth life in the presence
 "of Osiris. (43) In very truth the things which are "thine are stable each day, O scribe, artist, child of the "Seshet chamber, Nebseni, lord of veneration. I clasp

 "upon its throne. I have come to see Râ when he RUBRIC: If this chapter be known [by the deceased] he shall be victorious both upon earth and in (51) the underworld. He shall do whatsoever a man doeth who is upon the earth, and he shall perform all the deeds which those do who are [alive]. Now it is a great protection [given] by the god. This chapter was found (52) in the city of Khemennu inscribed in letters of lapis-lazuli upon the block of iron which was under the feet of this god.

In the Rubric to this Chapter as found in the Papyrus of Mes-em-neter, the Chapter is said to have been “dis“covered in the foundations of the shrine of the divine “Hennu¹ boat by the chief mason in the time of the “king of the North and of the South, Semti (or “Hesepti²), triumphant,” and it is there directed that it “shall be recited by one who is ceremonially pure “and clean, and who hath not touched women, and who “hath not eaten flesh of animals or fish.”

CHAPTER LXIV. (SHORT VERSION).

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 13).]

Vignette : In the Papyrus of Nu this Chapter has no vignette.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF KNOWING THE "CHAPTERS OF COMING FORTH BY DAY" IN A (2) SINGLE CHAPTER. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Osiris Nu, triumphant, begotten of the overseer of the house, Amen-hetep, triumphant, saith :—

"I am Yesterday and To-day ; and I have the power
 "to be born a second time. [I am] the divine hidden
 "(3) Soul, who createth the gods, and who giveth
 "celestial meals to the divine hidden beings [in the "Tuat (underworld)], in Amenti, and in heaven. [I am]
 "the Rudder of the East, the Possessor of two Divine
 "Faces wherein his beams are seen. (4) I am the "Lord of those who are raised up from the dead, [the "Lord] who cometh forth from out of the darkness.
 "[Hail,] ye two divine Hawks who are perched upon "your resting-places, and who hearken unto the (5)
 "things which are said by him, the thigh [of the sacri"fice] is tied to the neck, and the buttocks [are laid] upon
 "the head of Amentet. May the Ur-urti¹ (6) goddesses
 "grant such gifts unto me when my tears start from me

“as I look on. ‘I know the abysses’ is thy name. [I]
“work for [you], O ye (7) Spirits, who are in number “[four] millions, [six] hundred and one thousand, and “two hundred, and they are [in height] twelve cubits.
“[Ye] travel on joining the hands, each to each, but “the sixth [hour], (8) which belongeth at the head of “the Tuat (underworld), is the hour of the overthrow “of the Fiend. [I] have come there in triumph, and “[I am] he who is in the hall (or courtyard) of the “Tuat; (9) and the seven (?) come in his manifesta“tions. The strength which protecteth me is that “which hath my Spirit under its protection, [that is]
“the blood, and the cool water, and the slaughterings “which abound (?). I open [a way among] (10) the “horns of all those who would do harm unto me, who “keep themselves hidden, who make themselves adver“saries unto me, and those who are upon (11) their “bellies. The Eye shall not eat (or absorb) the tears
“of the goddess Aukert.¹ Hail, goddess Aukert, open “thou unto me the enclosed place, and (12) grant thou “unto me pleasant roads whereupon I may travel.
“Who art thou, then, who consumest in the hidden “places? I am the chief in Re-stau, and [I] go in and “come forth (13) in my name of ‘Hehi, the lord of “millions of years [and of] the earth’; [I am] the “maker of my name. The pregnant one hath deposited “[upon the earth] her load. The door by the wall is

"shut fast, and the (14) things of terror are overturned
 "and thrown down upon the backbone (?) of the *Bennu*¹
 "bird by the two Samait goddesses.² To the Mighty
 "One hath his Eye been given, and his face emitteth
 "light when [he] (15) illumineth the earth, [my name
 "is his name].³ I shall not become corrupt, but I "shall come into being in the form of the Lion-god;
 "the blossoms of Shu⁴ shall be in me. I am he who "is never overwhelmed in the waters. Happy, yea
 "happy, is the funeral couch of the (16) Still-heart; he
 "maketh himself to alight upon the pool (?), and verily
 "he cometh forth [therefrom]. I am the lord of my "life. I have come to this [place], and I have come "forth from Re-āā-urt (17) the city of Osiris. Verily
 "the things which are thine are with the Sariu deities.
 "I have clasped the Sycamore tree and I have divided (?)
 "it (18); I have opened a way for myself [among] the "Sekhiu gods of the Tuat. I have come to see him
 "that dwelleth in his divine uraeus, face to face and
 "eye to (19) eye, and [I] draw to myself the winds
 "[which rise] when he cometh forth. My two eyes (?)
 "are weak in my face, O Lion[-god], Babe, who dwellest
 "in Utent. (20) Thou art in me and I am in thee;
 "and thy attributes are my attributes. I am the god
 "of the Inundation (Bāh), and 'Qem-ur-she' (21) is "my name. My forms are the forms of the god

² I.e., Isis and Nephthys.

“Kheperà, the hair of the earth of Tem, the hair of the “earth of Tem. (22) I have entered in as a man of no “understanding, and I shall come forth in the form of “a strong Spirit, and I shall look upon my form which “shall be that of men and women for ever and for ever.”

RUBRIC¹: I. [If this chapter be known] by a man he shall come forth by day, (23) and he shall not be repulsed at any gate of the Tuat (underworld), either in going in or in coming out. He shall perform [all] the transformations which his heart shall desire for him and he shall not die; (24) behold, the soul of [this] man shall flourish. And moreover, if [he] know this chapter he shall be victorious upon earth and in the underworld, and he shall perform every act of a living (25) human being. Now it is a great protection which [hath been given] by the god. This chapter was found in the foundations of the shrine of Henu² by the chief mason during the reign of His Majesty, the King of the North and of the South, Semti (or Hesepti³), triumphant, who carried [it] away as a mysterious object which had never [before] been seen or looked upon. This chapter shall be recited by a man who is ceremonially clean and pure, who hath not eaten the flesh of animals or fish, and who hath not had intercourse with women.

RUBRIC⁴: II. (1) If this chapter be known [by the deceased] he shall be victorious both upon earth and in the underworld, and he shall perform every act of a living human (2) being. Now it is a great protection which [hath been given] by the god.

This chapter was found in the city of Khemennu upon a block of iron of the south, which had been inlaid [with letters] (3) of real lapis-lazuli, under the feet of the god during the reign of His Majesty, the King of the North and of the South, Men-kau-Rā (Mycerinus), triumphant,⁵ by the royal son

Heru-ṭā-ṭā-f,¹ triumphant; he found it (4) when he was journeying about to make an inspection of the temples. One Nekht (?) was with him who was diligent in making him to understand (?) it, and he brought it (5) to the king as a wonderful object when he saw that it was a thing of great mystery, which had never [before] been seen or looked upon.

This chapter (6) shall be recited by a man who is ceremonially clean and pure, who hath not eaten the flesh of animals or fish, and who hath not had intercourse with women. And behold, thou shalt make a scarab of green stone, with (7) a rim plated (?) with gold, which shall be placed in the heart of a man, and it shall perform for him the "opening of the mouth." And thou shalt anoint it with ānti unguent, and thou shalt recite over it [these] enchantments:—²

"who dwell in the Temple of Kheperā, who eat (3) the "god Bāḥ¹ and who drink the drink-offerings which "are brought into the celestial regions of light; and "conversely. Grant that I may take possession of the "captives (4) of Osiris, and never let me have my being "among the fiends of Suti! Hail, let me sit upon his
 "folds in the habitation of the god User-ba.² (5)
 "Grant thou that I may sit upon the throne of Rā, and "let me have possession of my body before the god Seb.
 "Grant thou that Osiris may come forth triumphant

 "night-watchers of the Crocodile, whose faces are "hidden and who dwell in the divine Temple of the "King of the North in the apparel of the gods on the "sixth day of the festival, (7) whose snares are like
 "unto everlastingness and whose cords are like unto "eternity. I have seen the god Ábet-ka placing the "cord; the child is tied with (8) fetters, and the rope of "the god Áb-ka is drawn tight (?) Behold me.

“ing [me], thou dost not (11) allow me to come forth “against my Enemy and to be victorious over him “before the sovereign princes, then may Hāpi—who “liveth upon law and order—not come forth into “heaven—now he liveth by Maāt—(12) and may Rā—
“who feedeth upon fish—not descend into the waters!
“And then, verily shall Rā—who feedeth upon law “and order—come forth into heaven, and then, verily, “(13) shall Hāpi—who feedeth upon fish—descend
“into the waters; and then, verily, the great day “upon the earth shall not be in its season. I have “come against my Enemy, (14) he hath been given “unto me, he hath come to an end, and I have gotten “possession [of him] before the sovereign princes.”

(2) Behold, I have come forth on this “day, and I have become a Khu (or a shining being);

“peace because of this, and I shall stand upon my feet
“and have a staff of gold,” or (as others say), “a rod

(3) My enemies have wrought every [kind of] evil, therefore their arms, and hands, and feet, have been fettered by reason of their wickedness which they have wrought (4) upon me. I am Osiris, the first-born of the divine womb, the first-born of the gods, and the heir of my father Osiris-Seb (?). I am Osiris, the lord of the heads (5) that live, mighty of breast and powerful of back, with a phallus which goeth to the remotest limits [where] men and women [live]. I am Sah (Orion) who travelleth over his domain and who journeyeth along before (6) the stars of heaven, [which is] the belly of my mother Nut; she conceived me through her love, and she gave birth to me because it was her will so to do. I am (7) Anpu (Anubis) on the day of the god Sepa.¹ I am the Bull at the head of the meadow. I, “Osiris. Hail, thou divine first-born, who dost enter

“and dost speak before the divine Scribe and Door-“keeper of Osiris, grant that (10) I may come. I have “become a spirit, I have been judged, I have become a “divine being, I have come, and I have avenged mine “own body. I have taken up my seat by the divine “birth-chamber (11) of Osiris, and I have destroyed
“the sickness and suffering which were there. I have “become mighty, and I have become a divine being

RUBRIC¹: (1) If (2) this chapter be known [by the deceased] upon earth, [or if it be done] in writing upon [his] coffin, he shall come forth by (3) day in all the forms which he is pleased [to take], and he shall enter in to [his] place and shall not be driven back. (4) And cakes, and ale, and joints of meat upon the altar of Osiris shall be given unto him; and he shall enter (5) in peace into Sekhet-āarru to know the decree of him who dwelleth in Ṭaṭtu; (6) there shall wheat and barley be given unto him; there shall he flourish as he did (7) upon earth; and he shall do whatsoever it pleaseth him to do, even as the company of the gods which is in (8) the underworld, continually, and regularly, for millions of times.

CHAPTER LXXIII.

[See Chapter IX., Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 18).]

This Chapter is given twice in the Turin Papyrus (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bll. 3 and 27); once with a vignette and once without; the vignette in the Theban Recension is quite different from that in the Saïte Recension, where the deceased is seen standing and holding a staff in his left hand.

¹ From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 6).

CHAPTER LXXIV.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 6).]

Vignette : The deceased kneeling, with both hands raised in adoration, before the Hennu boat of the god Seker which is placed upon its sledge (Papyrus of Ani, sheet 18). In the Saïte Recension the deceased is standing near a two-legged serpent (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 27).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF LIFTING UP THE FEET AND OF COMING FORTH UPON THE EARTH. (2) The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Perform thy work, O Seker,¹ perform thy work, O “Seker, O thou [who dwellest in thy house], and who “[standest] on [thy] feet in the underworld! I am the

CHAPTER LXXV.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 13).]

Vignette: In the Theban Recension the deceased, holding a staff, is seen standing before a pylon of a temple; but in the Saite Recension he is standing before the emblem of Annu (Heliopolis) (Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 28).

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF JOURNEYING TO ANNU (HELIOPOLIS) AND OF RECEIVING A THRONE THEREIN. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—(2)

“I have come forth from the uttermost parts of the “earth, and [I have] received my apparel (?) at the “will (?) of the Ape. I penetrate into the holy habita“tions of those who are in [their] shrines (or coffins),

CHAPTER LXXVI.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 9).]

Vignette : This Chapter is without a vignette in the Theban Recension, but in the Saïte Recension a figure of the deceased is given above the Chapter (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 87).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF A MAN TRANSFORMING HIMSELF INTO WHATEVER HE PLEASETH. (2) The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“I have come into the House of the King by means “of the mantis¹ (ābit) which led me hither. Homage

¹ I.e., the “praying μάντις,” i.e., “diviner,” or “soothsayer” (Mantis religiosa), an insect of the Mantidae class. Its hips are greatly elongated, and the thigh bears on its curved underside a channel armed on each side by strong movable spines. Into this channel the stout shin bone is capable of closing like the blade of a pen-knife, its sharp serrated edges being able to cut and hold. With its head raised upon the much-elongated and semi-erect prothorax, and with the half-opened forelimbs held outwards in the characteristic devotional attitude, it rests motionless upon the four posterior limbs waiting for prey, or occasionally stalks it with slow and silent movements, finally seizing it with its knife blades and devouring it. This insect was greatly honoured in Egypt and Nubia, and the Greeks attributed to it supernatural powers; the Arabs, who call it “marka” or “masgad,” declare that it always prays with its head turned towards Mecca!

“to thee, (3) O thou who fliest into heaven, and dost “shine upon the son of the white crown, and dost “protect the white crown, let me have my existence

 “god[s], I am mighty, I have made my way and I “have travelled along thereon.”

CHAPTER LXXVII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 10).]

Vignette : A golden hawk, holding a flail, emblematic of rule (see Papyrus of Ani, sheet 25).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF PERFORMING THE TRANS-FORMATION INTO A HAWK OF GOLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—(2)

“I have risen, I have risen like the mighty hawk [of “gold] that cometh forth from his egg; I fly (3) and I “alight like the hawk which hath a back four cubits “wide, and the wings of which are like unto the “mother-of-emerald of the south. (4) I have come “from the interior of the Sektet boat, and my heart “hath been brought unto me from the mountain of “the east. I have alighted (5) upon the Āt̄et boat,
“and those who were dwelling in their companies have “been brought unto me, and they bowed low in paying “(6) homage unto me and in saluting me with cries of “joy. I have risen, and I have gathered myself to“gether like the beautiful hawk (7) of gold, which “hath the head of a Bennu bird, and Rā entereth in “day by day to hearken unto my words; I have taken “my seat among those (8) first-born gods of Nut. I “am stablished, and the divine Sekhet-ḥetep is before “(9) me, I have eaten therein, I have become a spirit “therein, I have an abundance therein—as much as I “desire—the god Neprā hath given to me my throat,
“and I have gained the mastery over (10) that which “guardeth (or belongeth to) my head.”

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheets 13 and 14).]

Vignette : A hawk, painted green, holding a flail, and standing upon a pylon-shaped pedestal (see Papyrus of Ani, sheet 25).

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF MAKING THE TRANSFORMATION INTO A DIVINE HAWK. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Hail, Great God, come now (2) to Ṭaṭṭu! Make “thou smooth for me the ways and let me go round “about [to visit] my thrones; I have renewed (?) “myself, and I have raised myself up. O grant thou “that I may be feared, (3) and make thou me to be a “terror. Let the gods of the underworld be afraid of “me, and may they fight for me in their habitations “me harm draw nigh unto me, or injure (?) me, in the “House of Darkness, that is, he that clotheth and “covereth the feeble one, and whose [name] is “towards me. [Hail], ye gods, who hearken unto “[my] speech! Hail, ye rulers, who are among the “followers of Osiris! Be ye therefore silent, O ye “gods, (6) when one god speaketh unto another, for he “hearkeneth unto right and truth; and what I speak

“Grant thou that I may journey round about [accord“ing to] that which cometh forth from my mouth “concerning me, (7) and grant that I may see thine

“Souls. Grant thou that I may come forth, and that “I may have power over my legs, and that I may have “my existence there like (8) unto that of Neb-er-tcher
“who is over [all]. May the gods of the underworld “fear me, and may they fight for me in their habi“tations. Grant thou that I may move along therein

“onwards, and may I be stablished upon my resting-“place like the Lord of Life. May I be joined unto “Isis the divine lady, and may she protect me (10)
“from him that would do an injury unto me; and let “not any one come to see the divine one naked and “helpless. May I journey on, may I come into the “uttermost (11) parts of heaven. I exchange speech

"with the god Seb, I make supplication for divine
 "food from Neb-er-tcher; the gods of the underworld
 "have fear of me, and they (12) fight for me in their "habitations when they see that thou hast provided
 "me with food, both of the fowl of the air and of the "fish of the sea. I am one of those Khus who dwell
 "with (13) the divine Khu, and I have made my form
 "like unto his divine Form, when he cometh forth and "maketh himself manifest in Taṭṭu. [I am] a spiritual
 "body (sāḥ) (14) and possess my soul, and will speak
 "unto thee the things which concern me. O grant
 "thou that I may be feared, and make thou me to be "a terror; let the gods of the underworld be afraid of "me, (15) and may they fight for me in their habita-
 "tions. I, even I, am the Khu who dwelleth with the "divine Khu, whom the god Tem himself hath created,
 "(16) and who hath come into being from the blossom
 "(i.e., the eyelashes) of his eye; he hath made to have "existence, and he hath made to be glorious (i.e., to be "Khus), and he hath made mighty thereby those who "have their existence along with him. Behold, he is "the only One in Nu, (17) and they sing praises (or
 "do homage) unto him [when] he cometh forth from
 "the horizon, and the gods and the Khus who have "come into being along with him ascribe [the lordship
 "of] terror unto him."

"I am one of those worms (?) which the eye of the "Lord, the only One, (18) hath created. And behold,
 "when as yet Isis had not given birth to Horus, I had “germinated, and had flourished, and I had become “aged, (19) and I had become greater than those who “dwelt with the divine Khu, and who had come into “being along with him. And I had risen up like the “divine hawk, and Horus made for me a spiritual body “(20) containing his own soul, so that I might take “possession of all that belonged unto Osiris in the “underworld. The double Lion-god, the governor of “the things which belong to the Temple of the nemmes

 “crown, (21) who dwelleth in his secret abode, saith “[unto me]:—‘Get thee back to the uttermost parts of “heaven, for behold, inasmuch as through thy form of “Horus thou hast become a spiritual body (sāḥ) the “nemmes crown is not for thee; but (22) behold, “thou hast the power of speech even to the uttermost
 “parts of heaven.’ And I, the guardian, took posses“sion of the things of Horus [which belonged] unto “Osiris in the underworld, and Horus told aloud unto “me (23) the things which his divine father Osiris “spake unto him in years [gone by] on the day of his “own burial. I have given unto thee¹ the nemmes
 “crown through the double Lion-god that thou mayest “pass onward (24) and mayest come to the heavenly “path, and that those who dwell in the uttermost “parts of the horizon may see thee, and that the “gods of the underworld may see thee and may fight “for thee (25) in their habitations. And of them is

"Āahet.¹ The gods, each and all of them, who are
 "the warders of the shrine of the Lord, the only one,
 "have fallen before my words."

"Hail! (26) He that is exalted upon his tomb is on "my side, and he hath bound [upon my head] the "nemmes crown, by the decree of the double Lion-god
 "on my behalf, and the god Āahet hath prepared a "way for me. I, even I, am exalted (27) in my tomb,
 "and the double Lion-god hath bound the nemmes
 "crown upon my [head], and he hath also given unto "me the double hairy covering of my head. He hath "stablished my heart through his own backbone, he "hath stablished my heart through his own (28) great
 "and exceeding strength, and I shall not fall through
 "Shu. I make my peace with the beautiful divine
 "Brother, the lord of the two uraei, adored be he!
 "I, even I, am he who knoweth the roads through "the sky (29), and the wind thereof is in my body.
 "'The bull which striketh terror [into men] shall not "drive me back, and I shall pass on to the place where
 "lieth the ship-wrecked mariner on the border of the "Sekhet-neḥeh (i.e., Field of illimitable time), (30)
 "and I shall journey on to the night and sorrow of "the regions of Āmenti.

"O Osiris, I shall come each day into the House of "the double Lion-god, and I shall come forth there-

“from into the House of (31) Isis, the divine lady. I “shall behold sacred things which are hidden, and I “shall be led on to the secret and holy things, even as “they have granted unto me (32) to see the birth of “the Great God. Horus hath made me to be a spiritual “body through his soul, [and I see what is therein. If “I speak near the mighty ones of Shu they repulse my “opportunity. I am the guardian and I] take posses“sion of the things which Horus had from Osiris in “the underworld. I, even I, (33) am Horus who “dwelleth in the divine Khu. [I] have gained power “over his crown, I have gained power over his radiance,
“and I have travelled over the remote, illimitable
“parts of (34) heaven. Horus is upon his throne, “Horus is upon his royal seat. My face is like “unto that of the divine hawk, my strength is like “unto that of the divine hawk, and I am one who “hath been fully equipped by his divine Lord. I “shall come forth to Tattu, (35) I shall see Osiris, I “shall pay homage to him on the right hand and on “the left, I shall pay homage unto Nut, and she shall “look upon me, and the gods shall look upon me, “together with the Eye of Horus who (36) is without “sight (?) They (i.e., the gods) shall make their arms
“to come forth unto me. I rise up [as] a divine “Power, and [I] repulse him that would subject me to “restraint. They open unto me the holy paths, they “see (37) my form, and they hear that which I speak.”

“[Down] upon your faces, ye gods of the Tuat “(underworld), who would resist me with your faces

“and oppose me with your powers, who lead along “the stars which never (38) rest, and who make the “holy paths unto the Hemati abode [where is] the “Lord of the exceedingly mighty and terrible Soul.
“Horus hath commanded that ye lift up your faces
“so that I may (39) look upon you. I have risen “up like the divine hawk, and Horus hath made for “me a spiritual body, through his own soul, to take “possession of that which belongeth to Osiris (40) in “the Tuat (underworld). I have bound up the gods
“with divine tresses, and I have travelled on to those “who ward their Chambers, and who were on both “sides of me. I have made my roads and I have (41)
“journeyed on and have reached those divine beings
“who inhabit their secret dwellings, and who are “warders of the Temple of Osiris. I have spoken “unto them with strength, and have made them to “know (42) the most mighty power of him that is “provided with two horns [to fight] against Suti;
“and I make them to know concerning him that hath “taken possession of the divine food, and who is pro“vided with the Might of Tem (43) May the gods of “the underworld [order] a prosperous journey for me!

“O ye gods who inhabit your secret dwellings, and “who are warders of the Temple of Osiris, and whose “numbers are great and multitudinous, grant ye (44)
“that I may come unto you. I have bound up and I “have gathered together the powers of Kεsemu-enenet.”

or (as others say), "Kesemiu-enenet; and I have made
"holy (45) the Powers of the paths of those who watch
"and ward the roads of the horizon, and who are the "guardians of the horizon of Hemati which is in "heaven. I have stablished habitations for Osiris, I "have made the ways holy (46) for him, I have done
"that which hath been commanded, I have come forth
"to Tat̃tu, I have seen Osiris, I have spoken unto him
"concerning the matters of his first-born son whom "(47) he loveth and concerning the wounding of the "heart of Suti, and I have seen the divine one who is "without life. Yea, I have made them to know con"cerning the counsels of the gods which Horus carried "out (48) while his father Osiris was not [with him].

"Hail, Lord, thou most mighty and terrible Soul!
"Verily I, even I, have come, look thou upon me, (49)
"and do thou make me to be exalted. I have made my "way through thy T̃uat (underworld), and I have "opened up the paths which belong to heaven and
"also those which belong to earth, and I have suf"fered no opposition therein. (50) Exalted [be thou]
"upon thy throne, O Osiris! Thou hast heard fair
"things, O Osiris! Thy strength is vigorous, O Osiris.
"Thy head is fastened unto thee, O Osiris. Thy brow
"is stablished, (51) O Osiris. Thy heart is glad, [O
"Osiris]. Thy speech (?) is stablished, [O Osiris], and "thy princes rejoice. Thou art stablished like the "Bull of Amentet. (52) Thy son Horus hath risen
"like the sun upon thy throne, and all life is with “him. Millions of years minister unto him, and “millions of years hold him in fear; the company “of the gods are his servants, and the company of “the gods hold him in fear. The god Tem, (53)

 “the Governor and only One of the gods, hath “spoken [these things], and his word passeth not “away. Horus is both the divine food and the “sacrifice. [He] hath passed on (?) to gather to“gether [the members of] his divine father (54); “Horus is [his] deliverer, Horus is [his] deliverer.
 “Horus hath sprung from the water of his divine “father and [from his] decay. He hath become the “Governor of Egypt. The gods labour for him, and “they toil for him for (55) millions of years; and he “hath made to live millions of years through his Eye,
 “the only One of its Lord (or Neb-s), Nebt-er-tcher.”

Vignette : The deceased, or his soul, in adoration before three gods (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 90).

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF BEING TRANSFORMED INTO THE GOVERNOR OF THE SOVEREIGN PRINCES. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal. Nu, triumphant, saith:— (2)

“I am the god Tem, the maker of heaven, the creator
 “of things which are, who cometh forth from the earth,
 “who maketh to come into being the seed which is “sown, the lord of things which shall be, who gave “birth to the gods; [I am] the great god who made “himself, (3) the lord of life, who maketh to flourish
 “the company of the gods. Homage to you, O ye “lords of divine things (or of creation), ye pure beings “whose abodes are hidden! Homage to you, O ye “everlasting lords, (4) whose forms are hidden and “whose shrines are hidden in places which are un“known! Homage to you (5) O ye gods, who dwell
 “in the Tenait (?). Homage to you, O ye gods of the “circuit of the flooded lands of Qebhu! Homage to “you, O ye gods who live in Amentet! (6) Homage
 “to you, O ye company of the gods who dwell in Nut!
 “Grant ye that I may come unto you, for I am pure,
 “(7) I am divine, I am a khu, I am strong, I am “endowed with a soul (or I am mighty), and I have “brought unto you incense, and sweet-smelling gums,
 “and natron; I have made an end of the spittle which “floweth (8) from your mouth upon me. I have come,
 “and I have made an end of the evil things which are “in your hearts, and I have removed the faults which “ye kept [laid up against me]. I have brought to you

“(9) the things which are good, and I make to come “into your presence Right and Truth. I, even I, know “you, and I know your names, and I know (10) your “forms, which are unknown, and I come into being “along with you. My coming is like unto that of the “god who eateth men and (11) who liveth upon the “gods. I am mighty with you like the god who is “exalted upon his resting-place ; the gods come to me
 “in gladness, and goddesses make supplication (12)
 “unto me when they see me. I have come unto you,
 “and I have risen like your two divine daughters. I “have taken my seat in the (13) horizon, and I receive “my offerings upon my tables, and I drink drink-offer“ings at eventide. My coming is [received] with (14) “shouts of joy, and the divine beings who dwell in the “horizon ascribe praises unto me, the divine spiritual “body (Sāh), the lord of divine beings (15). I am “exalted like the holy god who dwelleth in the Great “Temple, and the gods rejoice when they see me in “my beautiful coming forth from the body of Nut,
 “when my mother Nut giveth birth unto me.”

“I am (2) the girdle of the robe of the god Nu, “which shineth and sheddeth light upon that which “belongeth to his breast, which sendeth forth light “into the darkness, which uniteth the two fighting “deities (3) who dwell in my body through the mighty “spell of the words of my mouth, which raiseth up him “that hath fallen—(4) for he who was with him in the “valley of Abtu (Abydos) hath fallen—and I rest. I “have remembered him. I have taken possession of “the god Hu in my city, for I found (5) him therein,

 “and I have led away captive the darkness by my “might. I have rescued the Eye [of the Sun] when “it waned at the coming of the festival of the fifteenth
 “day, (6) and I have weighed Sut in the celestial “houses against the Aged One who is with him. I “have endowed (7) Thoth [with what is needful] in the “Temple of the Moon-god for the coming of the fifteenth “day of the festival. I have taken possession of the “Ureret crown; Maât (i.e., right and truth) is in my “(8) body; its mouths are of turquoise and rock-“crystal. My homestead is among the furrows which “are [of the colour of] lapis-lazuli. I am (9) Hem-“Nu (?) who sheddeth light in the darkness. I “have come to give light in the darkness, which is “made light and bright [by me]. I have given light “in the darkness, (10) and I have overthrown the “destroying crocodiles. I have sung praises unto “those who dwell in the darkness, I have raised up
 “those who (11) wept, and who had hidden their faces
 “and had sunk down in wretchedness; and they did “look then upon me. [Hail, then,] ye beings, I am “Hem-Nu (?), and I will not let you hear concerning
 “the matter. [I] have opened [the way], I am Hem-“Nu (?), I have made light the darkness, I have come, “having made an end of the darkness, which hath “become light indeed.”

 “names among [those of] the gods, the lords of the “(5) the underworld near unto the lords of Amentet.

 “Let me arrive at a habitation in the land of Tchesert,

“the lords of eternity. Grant that my soul may come “forth whithersoever it pleaseth, and let it not be

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF MAKING THE TRANSFORMATION INTO PTAH, OF EATING CAKES, AND OF DRINKING ALE, AND OF UNFETTERING THE STEPS, AND OF BECOMING A LIVING BEING IN ANNU (Heliopolis).

The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“I fly like a hawk, I cackle like the smen goose, and “I perch (3) upon that abode of the underworld (âat)

Variant vignettes represent the deceased as having opened the door of the tomb and having his soul by his side, or as standing before the open door with hands stretched out to embrace his soul. An interesting vignette represents the disk of the sun with rays shooting forth from it above the tomb, and the soul of the deceased hovering over his shade, drawn in solid black colour, which has just emerged therefrom (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. Vignette : A Buckle with human hands and arms which grasp the deceased by his left arm (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 105). In the Ani Papyrus (plate 17) and in the Saïte Recension the vignette shows the deceased standing, with both hands raised in adoration, before a god who is seated in a boat and who has his head turned so that his face looks backwards (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 34).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF NOT SAILING TO THE EAST IN THE UNDERWORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail, phallus of Rā, who departest from thy “calamity [which ariseth] through opposition (?), the

 "of Osiris. And behold me, for I journey along over

 "Tem along with corruption if I be kept in restraint,
 "or if I have gone (7) towards the east, or if the feast

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 12).]

Vignette: The deceased seated with a table before him, on which rest an ink-pot and the palette of a scribe: in the Saite Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 34) the deceased is offering an ink-pot and a palette to the god Thoth.

¹ The Papyrus of Ani (see plates 16 and 17) contains what are, apparently, two versions of this Chapter.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF (2) PRAYING FOR AN INK-POT AND FOR A PALETTE. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“Hail, aged god, who dost behold thy divine father
“and who art the guardian of the book (3) of Thoth, “[behold I have come; I am endowed with glory, I am “endowed with strength, I am filled with might, and I “am supplied with the books of Thoth], and I have “brought [them to enable me] to pass through the god “Aker who dwelleth in Set. I have brought the ink-“pot and the palette as being the objects which are in “the hands (4) of Thoth; hidden is that which is in “them. Behold me in the character of a scribe! I “have brought the offal of Osiris, and I have written “thereon (5). I have made (i.e., copied) the words of “the great and beautiful god each day fairly. O Heru.
“khuti, thou didst order me and I have made (i.e., “copied) what is right and true, and I do bring it unto “thee each day.”

CHAPTER XCV.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 7).]

Vignette: The deceased standing before Thoth in adoration of the god. In the Papyrus of User-hat (Brit. Mus. No. 10,009), which probably belongs to the period of the XVIIIth dynasty, the vignette is a goose, but this arises from the fact that the Chapter is there called "[The Chapter] of making the transformation into a goose."

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF BEING NIGH UNTO THOTH. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:— (2)

"I am he who sendeth forth terror into the powers
 "of rain and thunder, and I ward off from the great
 "divine lady the attacks of violence. [I have smitten
 "like the god Shāt (i.e., the god of slaughter), and I
 "have poured out libations of cool water like the god
 "Ashu, and I have worked for the great divine lady
 "[to ward off] the attacks of violence], I have made
 "to flourish [my] knife along with the knife (3) which "is in the hand of Thoth in the powers of rain and "thunder."

CHAPTERS XCVI. AND XCVII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheets 19 and 20.)]

Vignette : The deceased standing behind the god Thoth.

The vignette in which the deceased is seen kneeling in adoration before "Râ, the great god, the lord of the Semketet boat," really belongs to the second portion of the chapter.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF BEING NIGH UNTO THOTH AND OF GIVING GLORY UNTO A MAN IN THE UNDERWORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

"I am the god Her-âb-maat-f,¹ and I have come to "give (2) right and truth to Râ; I have made Suti to "be at peace with me by means of offerings made to "the god Aker and to the Tesheru deities,¹ and by "[making] reverence unto Seb."²

Vignette : The Sun-god Râ seated in his boat. Before him stands Seb offering to the god the feather of Maât; behind Seb is the sceptre of Anubis. The deceased kneels at the front of the boat.

[The following] words are to be recited in the Sektet boat :—"[Hail,] (3) sceptre of Anubis, I have made the "four *Khus*³ who are in the train of the lord of the "universe to be at peace with me, and I am the lord of "the fields through their decree. (4) I am the divine "father Bāh (i.e., the god of the water-flood), and I "do away with the thirst of him that keepeth ward "over the Lakes. Behold ye me, then, O great (5) "gods of majesty who dwell among the Souls of Annu,

² The XCVIth Chapter ends here according to the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 34).

³ The names of the four are Maa-atef-f, Kheri-beq-f, Heru-khenti-[ân]-maati, and Anpu.

“for I am lifted up over you. I am the god Menkh
“(i.e., Gracious one), who dwelleth among you. (6) “Verily I have cleansed my soul, O great god of “majesty, set not before me the evil obstacles which “issue from thy mouth, (7) and let not destruction “come round about me, or upon me. I have made “myself clean in the Lake of Making to be at Peace,
“[and in the Lake of] Weighing in the Balance, and I “have bathed myself in Netert-utchat, which is under “the holy Sycamore tree (8) of heaven. Behold [I “am] bathed, [and I have] triumphed [over] all [mine “enemies] straightway who come forth and rise up “against right and truth. I am right and true in the “earth. (9) I, even I, have spoken (?) with my mouth
“[which is] the power of the Lord, the Only one, Rā
“the mighty, who liveth upon right and truth. Let “not injury be inflicted upon me, [but let me be] “clothed on the day of those who go forward (?) (10)
“to every [good] thing.”

CHAPTER XCVIII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 9).]

Vignette: In the Theban Papyri this Chapter has no vignette; in the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 35) the vignette represents the deceased standing with his right hand outstretched in the act of addressing a god who is seated in a boat.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF BRINGING ALONG A BOAT IN HEAVEN. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:— (2)

“Hail to thee, O thou Thigh which dwellest in the “thou didst rise like a god. I have seen thee, (3) and “I have not lain down in death; I have stood over

“Hail, ye who bring along the boat over the evil “back [of Āpepi], grant that I may bring the boat

"along, and coil up (3) [its] ropes in peace, in peace.
 "Come, come, hasten, hasten, for I have come to see "my father Osiris, the lord of the ānsi garment, who

 "thou who dost sail over the evil back of Āpep! Hail,

“with rejoicing therefrom,” is thy name.

THEN SHALL BE RECITED BEFORE THEM THESE WORDS :—

“Hail to you, O ye divine beings with beautiful Kas, “ye divine lords (32) of things, who exist and who live
“for ever, and [whose] double period of an illimitable “number of years is eternity, I have made a way unto “you, grant ye my food and sepulchral meals for my “mouth, [and grant that] I may speak (33) therewith,
“and that the goddess Isis [may give me] loaves and “cakes in the presence of the great god. I know the “great god before whose nostrils ye place (34) celestial “food, and his name is Thekem; both when he maketh
“his way from the eastern horizon of heaven and when “he journeyeth into the western horizon of heaven may “his journey be (35) my journey, and his going forth “my going forth. Let me not be destroyed at the “Mesqet chamber, and let not the devils gain dominion
“over my members. I have my cakes (36) in the city “of Pe, and I have my ale in the city of Tepu, and let “the offerings [which are given unto you] be given “unto me this day. Let my offerings be wheat and “barley; let my offerings (37) be ānti unguent and “linen garments; let my offerings be for life, strength, “and health: let my offerings be a coming forth by "day in any form whatsoever (38) in which it may

"please me to appear in Sekhet-Āarru."

RUBRIC: If this chapter be known [by the deceased] he shall come forth into Sekhet-Āarru, (39) and bread, and wine, and cakes shall be given unto him at the altar of the great god, and fields, and an estate [sown] with wheat and barley, which the followers of Horus shall (40) reap for him. And he shall eat of that wheat and barley, and his limbs shall be nourished therewith, and his body shall be like unto the bodies of the gods, and he shall come forth into (41) Sekhet-Āarru in any form whatsoever he pleaseth, and he shall appear therein regularly and continually.

CHAPTERS C. AND CXXIX.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheets 27 and 28).]

Vignette : A boat, wherein stand the deities Isis, Thoth, Kheperā, and Shu, and the deceased sailing on a stream. The vignette in the Saite Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 37) shows the deceased poling along a boat wherein are Rā and the Bennu bird, and in front of the boat stand the emblem of the East, the god Osiris, and the Tet, i.e., the emblem of Osiris and of stability. The four short lines of text written over the boat read:—The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, raiseth up the Tet, and stablisheth the Buckle, and he saileth with Rā into any place that he pleaseth.

Text : (1) THE BOOK OF MAKING PERFECT THE KHU AND OF CAUSING HIM TO GO FORTH INTO THE BOAT OF RĀ ALONG WITH THOSE WHO ARE IN HIS FOLLOWING (?). (2) The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“I have brought the divine Bennu to the east, and ‘Osiris to the city of Taṭṭu. (3) I have opened the “treasure houses of the god Hāp, I have made clean “the roads of the Disk, and I have drawn the god “Sekeri ¹ along (4) upon his sledge. The mighty and “divine Lady hath made me strong at her hour. I “have praised and glorified the Disk, (5) and I have “united myself unto the divine apes who sing at the “dawn, and I am a divine Being among them. I have “made myself a counterpart of the goddess Isis, (6) and “her power (Khu) hath made me strong. I have tied “up the rope, I have driven back Āpep, I have made “him to walk backwards. (7) Rā hath stretched out to “me both his hands, and his mariners have not repulsed “me ; my strength is the strength of the Eye of Rā, “and the strength of the Eye of Rā is my strength. “(8) If the overseer of the house of the overseer of the “seal, Nu, triumphant, be separated [from the boat of

"Rā], then shall he (i.e., Rā) be separated (9) from the "Egg and from the Ābtu fish."

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be recited over the design which hath been drawn above, and it shall be written upon papyrus (10) which hath not been written upon, with [ink made of] grains of green ābut mixed with ānti water, and the papyrus shall be placed on the breast (11) of the deceased; it shall not enter in to (i.e., touch) his members. If this be done for any deceased person he shall go forth (12) into the boat of Rā in the course of the day every day, and the god Thoth shall take account of him as he cometh forth from (13) and goeth in the course of the day every day, regularly and continually, [into the boat of Rā] as a perfect khu, and he shall set up the Țet and shall stablish the buckle, and shall sail about with Rā into any place he wisheth.

In the Saïte Recension Chapter C. is repeated as CXXIX, and both texts have the same vignette. The rubric of Chapter CXXIX. is, however, fuller than that of Chapter C., and it may conveniently be divided into two parts, the first of which refers to the picture which is ordered to be written upon a piece of new papyrus, and the second to the Chapter itself; the originals of both are to be found in the variant texts of the rubric of the Chapter published by Naville (op. cit. Bd. II. p. 236).

CHAPTER CI.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 27).]

Vignette: In the Papyrus of Nu this Chapter has no vignette. In the Saïte Recension the deceased is seen poling along a boat wherein are the god Rā and the Bennu bird (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 37).

Text: [THE CHAPTER OF PROTECTING THE BOAT OF RĀ.]¹

“(1) O thou that cleavest the water (2) as thou “comest forth from the stream and dost sit upon thy “place in thy boat, sit thou upon thy place in thy boat
 “as thou goest forth to thy station of yesterday, and “do thou join the Osiris, the (3) overseer of the house
 “of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, the perfect “strength. Hail, Rā, in thy name of Rā, (4) if thou “pupil of three cubits, then verily do thou strengthen

“the Osiris Nu, triumphant, the perfect Khu, [and let “him be among] thy mariners, and let thy (5) strength “be his strength. Hail, Rā, in thy name of Rā, if “thou dost pass by those who are overturned in death
“then verily do thou make the Osiris (6) Nu, trium“phant, the perfect soul, to stand up upon his feet, and “may thy strength be his strength. Hail, Rā, in thy “name of Rā, (7) if the hidden things of the under“world are opened unto thee and thou dost gratify (?)
“the heart of the cycle of thy gods, then verily do thou “grant joy of heart unto the overseer of the house of “the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, and let thy “strength be his (8) strength. Thy members, O Rā,
“are established by (this) Chapter (?).”

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be recited over a bandlet of the fine linen of kings [upon which] it hath been written with anti, which shall be laid upon the neck of the perfect khu (9) on the day of the burial. If this amulet be laid upon his neck he shall do everything which he desireth to do even like the gods; and he shall join himself unto the followers (10) of Horus; and he shall be stablished as a star face to face with Septet (Sothis); and his corruptible body shall be as a god along with his kinsfolk for ever; and the goddess (11) Menqet shall make plants to germinate upon his body; and the majesty of the god Thoth lovingly shall make the light to rest upon his corruptible body at will, even as he did for the majesty of the King of the North and of the South, the god Osiris, triumphant.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 28).]

Vignette : The boat of Rā with the god seated therein and holding a paddle; before him kneels the goddess Isis (?), and behind him the deceased. Sometimes Rā is accompanied by the gods Thoth and Kheperā and sometimes by Anubis alone (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 114). In the Saïte Recension the deceased is kneeling before Rā at a table of offerings (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 38).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF GOING INTO THE BOAT (2) OF RĀ. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Hail, thou Great God who art in thy boat, bring “thou me into thy boat. [I have come forward to thy “steps], let me be the director (3) of thy journeyings
 “and let me be among those who belong to thee and “who are among the stars which never rest. The “things which are an abomination unto thee and the “things which are an abomination unto me I will not “eat, that which is an abomination unto me, (4) that “which is an abomination unto me is filth and I will “not eat thereof; but sepulchral offerings and holy “food [will I eat], and I shall not be overthrown “thereby. I will not draw nigh unto filth with my “hands, and I will not walk (5) thereon with my “sandals, because my bread [is made] of white barley,

“and my ale [is made] of red barley; and behold, the “Sektet boat and the Ātet boat have brought these “things (6) and have laid the gifts (?) of the lands “upon the altar of the Souls of Annu. Hymns of “praise be to thee, O Ur-ārit-s, as thou travellest
“through heaven! Let there be food [for thee], O “dweller in the city of Teni,¹ (7) and when the dogs “gather together let me not suffer harm. I myself “have come, and I have delivered the god from the “things which have been inflicted upon him, and from “the grievous sickness of the body, (8) of the arm, and “of the leg. I have come and I have spit upon the “body, I have bound up the arm, and I have made the “leg to walk. (9) [I have] entered [the boat] and [I] “sail round about by the command of Rā.”

CHAPTER CIV.

[From the Papyrus of Nebseni (Brit. Mus. No. 9900, sheet 8).]

Vignette: Two “great gods” seated on thrones facing each other: on the ground between them sits the deceased. In the Saïte Recension the deceased is seated on a low pedestal before three gods (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 38).

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF SITTING AMONG THE GREAT GODS. Behold Nebseni, (4) who saith :—

“I sit among the great gods, and I have made a way
“for myself (5) through the house of the Seheptet boat;
“and behold, the mantis ¹ hath brought me to see the “great gods (6) who dwell in the underworld, and I “shall be triumphant before them, for I am pure.”

CHAPTER CV.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 7).]

Vignette: The deceased standing before a ka on a pedestal (); with his right hand he pours out a libation, and with his left he makes an offering of incense. In the Papyrus of Nebseni we have the deceased and his wife seated at a table of offerings, and their son pours out a libation and burns incense before them.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF MAKING OFFERINGS TO THE KA IN THE UNDERWORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:— (2)

“Homage to thee, O thou ka, who art my whole “life!¹ Grant thou that I may come before thee, and “let me rise up [like the Sun], and let me be strong, “and let me have my soul, (3) and let me gain the “mastery [over mine enemies]. “ka is like unto the celestial food of their kas. (6) O
“thou who liftest up the Scales and who exaltest right
“and truth to the nostrils of Rā this day, let not my “head fall away from me. (7) For, behold, am I not “the eye which looketh upon thee? And am I not the “ear which hearkeneth unto [thee]? For, behold, am “I not the bull of those who have fallen down in “death? And have not sepulchral meals [been made]

“heights,” or according to another reading, “those

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF GIVING SEPULCHRAL MEALS UNTO THE OSIRIS NU, TRIUMPHANT, IN HET-PTAḤ-KA (i.e., MEMPHIS) IN THE UNDERWORLD. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:— (2)

“Hail, Great God, thou lord of heavenly food! Hail, “Great God, thou prince of the celestial habitations
 “which supply bread for the god Ptaḥ! [Hail, Mighty
 “One who dwellest in the Great House!] Grant ye “unto me bread, grant ye (3) unto me ale, and let me “cleanse myself by means of the haunch and by the “offerings of cakes. Hail, thou divine boat of Sekhet-“Aarru, let these cakes be brought to me (4) by thy “stream, even as thy divine father, the mighty one, “passed thereon in the divine bark.”

CHAPTER CVII.

There is no equivalent for this Chapter in the papyri containing the Theban Recension. In the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 39) this Chapter is called the "CHAPTER OF GOING INTO AND OF COMING OUT FROM THE GATE OF THE GODS OF THE WEST, OF BEING AMONG THE FOLLOWERS OF RĀ, AND OF KNOWING THE SOULS OF THE WEST," and the vignette represents the deceased standing, with both hands raised in adoration, before Rā, Sebek, Hathor, and a serpent, who rest on the slope of a mountain. The text is actually the first line and a half of Chapter CIX. which is entitled the "CHAPTER OF KNOWING THE SOULS OF THE EAST."

CHAPTER CVIII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 8).]

Vignette : The deities Temu, Sebek, lord of Bakhau, and Hathor, lady of Māsheru, seated.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF KNOWING (2) THE SOULS OF THE WEST. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“Now the Mountain of Bakhau,¹ whereupon this “heaven supports itself, (3) is situated in the eastern “part of heaven, and it hath dimensions of three hundred khet (i.e., 30,000 cubits)² in length, and one “hundred and fifty khet (i.e., 15,000 cubits) in breadth; “Sebek, the lord of Bakhau, (4) [dwelleth] to the east “of the Mountain, and his temple is on the earth there. “There is a serpent on the brow of that Mountain, and “he measureth thirty cubits in length; the first eight “cubits of his length are [covered] with (5) flints and “with shining metal plates. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, “knoweth the name of this serpent which [dwelleth] “on his hill, ‘Dweller in his fire’ (6) is his name. “Now after Rā hath stood still he inclineth his eyes “towards him and a stoppage of the boat [of Rā] taketh “place, and a mighty (7) sleep cometh upon him that is “in the boat, and he gulpeth down seven cubits of the “great waters. Thereby he maketh Suti to depart, “having the harpoon of iron (8) in him, and thereby “he is caused to throw up everything which he hath “eaten, and thereby is Set put into his place of restraint. And then [I] recite before him the enchant-

“therefore, been delivered unto me. Who, then, is “this venerable Khu (12) who advanceth walking upon “his belly and upon his tail and upon the joints of his “back? Verily it is I myself who do walk over thee,
“and thy strength is in my power. I am he who (13) “lifteth up strength, and I have come, and I have “become master of the serpents of Rā when he setteth
“in my sight at eventide. (14) I go round about

“thing was ordained for thee formerly when Rā set

“guide the matters whereby the serpent Āpep is driven “back, and I know the divine Souls of the West, that

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 12).]

Vignette: The god Heru-khuti (Harmachis) seated; before him is a spotted calf, behind which stands the deceased with both hands raised in adoration of the god; above is the Morning Star. Elsewhere the deceased is seen standing, with both hands raised in adoration, before three seated ibis-headed deities (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 120). In the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 39) the vignette is quite different. The god Râ-Harmachis, hawk-headed and wearing a disk which is encircled by a serpent, is seated in a boat; above the disk is the emblem of air, and he holds on his knees the emblem of life. Before him in the boat is a calf, above which is a star, and behind him stands the deceased. The boat is about to sail between two sycamore trees, in front of which stands the deceased, with both hands raised in adoration.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF KNOWING THE SOULS OF THE EAST. (2) The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—

 “supports of Shu¹ towards the gate (6) of the lord of “the East through which Rā cometh forth. I, even I,

 “are of iron. The height of the wheat therein is five “cubits, of the ears thereof two cubits, and of the “stalks thereof three cubits. (8) The barley therein

 “cubits, and the stalks thereof are four cubits. And

CHAPTER CX.

[From the Papyrus of Nebsemi (Brit. Mus. No. 9900, sheet 17).]

Sekhet-hetepet (Papyrus of Nebsemi).

Vignette : The Sekhet-hetepet or "Fields of peace," commonly called the "Elysian Fields," surrounded and intersected by streams. The divisions contain the following:—(a) Nebsemi, the scribe and artist of the Temple of Ptah, with his arms hanging by his sides, entering the Elysian Fields. (b) The scribe Nebsemi making an offering of incense to the "great company of the gods." (c) Nebseni seated in a boat paddling; above the boat are three symbols for "city." (d) The deceased addressing a bearded, mummied figure. (e) Three Pools or Lakes called Urti,¹ Hētep,² and Qetqet respectively. (f) Nebseni reaping in Sekhet-hetepet. (g) Nebseni grasping the Bennu bird which is perched upon a stand; in front are three kas and three khus. (h) Nebseni seated and smelling a flower, the text reads: "Thousands of all good and pure things things to the ka of Nebseni." (i) A table of offerings. (j) Four Pools or Lakes called Neb-taui, Uakha, Kha (?), and Hētep. (k) Nebseni ploughing with oxen by the side of a stream which is one thousand [measures] in length, and the width of which cannot be said; in it there are neither fish nor worms. (l) Nebseni ploughing with oxen on an island "the length of which is the length of heaven." (m) A division shaped like a bowl in which is inscribed: "The birth-place of the god of the city, Qenqen[et nebt]." (n) An island whereon are four gods and a flight of steps; the legend reads: "The great company of the gods who are in Sekhet-hetep." (o) The boat Tchetfet with eight oars, four at the bows and four at the stern, floating at the end of a canal; in it is a flight of steps. The place where it lies is called the "Domain of Neth." (p) Two Pools, the names of which are illegible.

In the Papyrus of Nebseni are two scenes, one on each side of "Sekhet-hetepet," or the Elysian Fields. In the first (A) Nebseni stands, with both hands raised, and adores the company of the gods who dwell in Sekhet-hetep, saying: "Homage to you, O ye lords of food, I have come in peace to your Field to receive heavenly food. Grant ye that I may come to the Great God daily, and grant that I may attain to the offerings, that is to say, to the cakes, and ale, and oxen, and ducks, and bread, which are offered unto his ka." The three short lines of hieroglyphics (B) in front of Nebseni read:—"Nebseni, the lord of reverence, the scribe and artist in the temples of the South and of the North, ascribeth praise to the company of

"the gods and adoreth the great god." In the second scene Nebseni is standing upright and a youth is pouring a libation over him; at the same time another youth is bringing to him an offering of raiment. The text above him (C) reads:—"May the god Osiris and all the company of the gods who dwell in Sekhet-hetep grant offerings of cakes, and ale, and oxen, and ducks, and bread, and all good things, and linen garments, and incense each day, and an offering on the altar each day, and the receiving of cakes of various kinds, and milk, and wine, and heavenly food, and the following of the god at his coming forth during his festivals of Re-stau along with the favoured ones of the great god, to the ka of the scribe Neb-seni," etc.

The vignette in the Papyrus of Ani (sheet 35) has some interesting variants, and may be thus described:—

(1) Ani making an offering before a hare-headed god, a snake-headed god, and a bull-headed god; behind him stands Thoth, holding his reed and palette. Ani paddling a boat, Ani addressing a hawk, before which are a table of offerings, a beatified being, three Lakes, and the legend "Being at peace in the Field [of Peace], and having air for the nostrils."

(2) Ani reaping corn, Ani driving the oxen which tread out the corn; Ani addressing (or adoring) a Benru bird perched on a stand; Ani seated holding the kherp sceptre; a heap of red and a heap of white corn; three kas and three khus, which are perhaps to be read, "the food of the khus"; and three Lakes.

(3) Ani ploughing a field near a stream which contains neither fish nor serpents.

(4) The birthplace of the god of the city; an island on which is a flight of steps; a region called the place of the khus who are seven cubits high, the wheat is three cubits high and it is the sāhu who have become perfect who reap it; the region Åshet, the god who dwelleth therein being Unnefer, a boat with eight oars, lying at the end of a canal; and a boat floating on a canal. The name of the first boat "Beḥuṭu-cheser," and the name of the second, "Tchefau."

The vignette in the Papyrus of Ânhai (sheet 6) has some further interesting variants, and may be thus described:—

(1) Ânhai seated in a boat with her husband, who is rowing it towards two gods who probably represent her father and mother; the handles of the oars terminate in heads of hawks. Behind them stands the god Thoth, ibis-headed, who holds the symbol of life in his right hand, and a sceptre in his left; he is called the “lord of divine words”  . To the left is the lady Ânhai, with her hair falling over her face, bowing before two divine beings; one of these is “her mother Neferitu,” and the other is probably her father. Hence we may assume that the Egyptians expected to meet and to know their relatives in the world beyond the grave. Behind Ânhai is a male figure digging in a mound of earth; he is probably her husband. (2) The lady Ânhai, standing by the side of a table of offerings, with her hands raised in adoration before a seated god, who is here the representative of “the gods, the lords of the Tuat”; before him, on a table, are a libation vase and a lotus, and between the god and Ânhai stands the bennu bird on his accustomed perch. In the field close by are growing two kinds of cereals, i.e., red barley and wheat; Ânhai's husband is reaping the wheat, and Ânhai herself follows behind with what is, apparently, a rush basket or bag. (3) A field intersected by a portion of a stream, on each side of which Ânhai is seen ploughing with a yoke of oxen. In the text above the deceased says, “May I come therein, and “may my soul follow after me [and obtain] divine food. May “I plough therein and reap therein, even I, the singer of Amen, “Ânhai, triumphant.” (4) A field wherein are four lakes, the names of which are not given, two granaries, and two small islands. The upper island is the “birthplace of the god of the city,” and the lower the abode of the company of the gods who are here represented by four of their number. On the bank of one canal stand two bennu birds, and at the end of an arm of the river is moored a boat wherein is a flight of steps; the boat is provided with four oars, two being placed at the bow and two at the stern.

Text : (1) HERE BEGIN THE CHAPTERS OF SEKHET-HETEPET, AND THE CHAPTERS OF COMING FORTH BY DAY; OF GOING INTO AND OF COMING OUT FROM THE UNDERWORLD; OF COMING TO SEKHET-ĀARU; OF BEING IN SEKHET-(2)HETEPET, THE MIGHTY CITY, THE LADY OF WINDS; OF HAVING POWER THERE; OF BE-COMING A KHU THERE; OF PLOUGHING THERE; OF REAPING THERE; OF EATING THERE; OF DRINKING
 THERE; OF MAKING LOVE (3) THERE; AND OF DOING EVERYTHING EVEN AS A MAN DOETH UPON EARTH.
 Behold the scribe and artist of the Temple of Ptah,
 Nebseni, who (4) saith :—

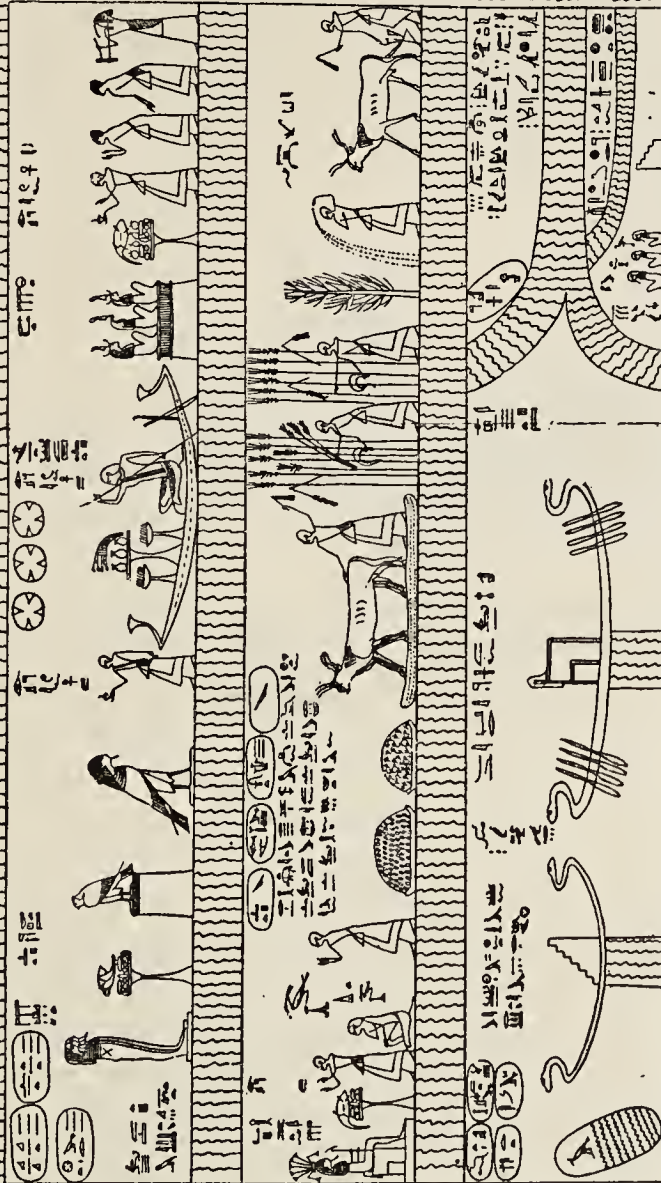

“Set hath taken possession of Horus, who looked “with the two eyes upon the building (?) round Sekhet-“hetep, but I have unfettered Horus [and taken him
 “from] Set, and Set hath opened the ways of the two “eyes [which are] in heaven. (5) Set hath cast (?) his “moisture to the winds upon the soul [who hath] his “day (or his eye) and who dwelleth in the city of Mert,
 “and he hath delivered the interior of the body of Horus
 “from the Ākeru gods. Behold me (6) now, for I “make this mighty boat to travel over the Lake of “Hetep, and I brought it away with might from the “palace of Shu; the domain of his stars groweth young “and reneweth its former strength. I have brought the “boat (7) into the lakes thereof so that I may come “forth into the cities thereof, and I have sailed into “their divine city Hetep. And behold, it is because I, “even I, am at peace with his seasons, and with his “guidance, and with his territory, and with the com“pany of the gods who (8) are his firstborn. He maketh

“the two divine fighters (i.e., Horus and Set) to be at “peace with those who watch over the living ones whom “he hath created in fair form, and he bringeth peace “[with him]; he maketh the two divine fighters to be “at peace with those who watch over (9) them. He “cutteth off the hair from the divine fighters, he driveth “away storm from the helpless, and he keepeth away “harm from the Khus. (10) Let me gain dominion “within that Field, for I know it, and I have sailed “among its lakes so that I might come into its cities.
“My mouth is strong; and I am equipped [with “weapons to use] against the Khus; let them not “have dominion over me. (11) Let me be rewarded
“with thy fields, O thou god H̄etep; that which is thy “wish shalt thou do, O lord of the winds. May I “become a khu therein, may I eat therein, may I drink “therein, (12) may I plough therein, may I reap therein,
“may I fight therein, may I make love therein, may my “words be mighty therein, may I never be in a state of “servitude therein, (13) but may I be in authority “therein. Thou hast made strong (?) the mouth and “the throat (?) of the god H̄etep; Qetetbu is its (?) “name. He is stablished upon the watery supports (?)
“of the god Shu, and is linked unto the pleasant things
“of Rā. (14) He is the divider of years, he is hidden
“of mouth, his mouth is silent, that which he uttereth “is secret, he fulfilleth eternity and taketh possession of “everlastingness of existence as Hetep, the lord Hetep.

“The god Horus (15) maketh himself to be strong like “unto the Hawk which is one thousand cubits in length
“and two thousand [cubits in width] in life; he hath “equipments with him, and he journeyeth on and “cometh where the seat of his (16) heart wisheth in “the Pools thereof and in the cities thereof. He was “begotten in the birth-chamber of the god of the city,
“he hath offerings [made unto him] of the food of the “god of the city, he performeth that which it is meet
“to do therein, and the union thereof, in the matter of “everything of the birth-chamber (17) of the divine “city. When [hè] setteth in life like crystal he per“formeth everything therein, and these things are like “unto the things which are done in the Lake of double “Fire, wherein there is none that rejoiceth, and wherein “are all manner of (18) evil things. The god Hetep “goeth in, and cometh out, and goeth backwards [in]
“that Field which gathered together all manner of “things for the birth-chamber of the god of the city.
“When he setteth in life like (19) crystal he performeth
“all manner of things therein which are like unto the “things which are done in the Lake of double Fire, “wherein there is none that rejoiceth, and wherein are “no evil things whatsoever [Let me] live with the “god Hetep, (20) clothed and not despoiled by the lords
“of the north (?), and may the lords of divine things
“bring food unto me; may he make me to go forward
“and may I come forth, and may he bring my power to

CHAPTER CXL

In the Theban Recension this Chapter has not as yet been found. In the Saïte Recension it is called “The Chapter of knowing the Souls of Pe,” but an examination of the text shows that it is identical with that of Chapter CVIII.; it has no vignette.

CHAPTER CXII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 18).]

Vignette: The gods Horus (hawk-headed), Kesthâ, and Hâpi, seated.

Text: (1) ANOTHER CHAPTER OF KNOWING THE SOULS OF PE. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“[Hail,] Khat, who dwellest in Khat, in Ânpet,¹ and “in the nome of Khat! [Hail,] ye goddesses of the “chase (2) who dwell in the city of Pe, ye celestial “lands (?), ye stars, and ye divine beings, who give “cakes and ale (?), do ye know (3) for what reason the “city of Pe hath been given unto Horus? I, even I, “know, though ye know it not. Behold, Râ gave the “city unto him in return for (4) the injury in his eye, “for which cause Râ said to Horus, ‘Let me see what “is coming to pass in thine eye,’ and forthwith he “looked thereat. Then Râ said (5) to Horus, ‘Look "at that black pig,' and he looked, and straightway an "injury was done unto his eye, [namely,] (6) a mighty

 "storm [took place]. Then said Horus unto Rā,
 "'Verily, my eye seems as if it were an eye upon
 "which Suti had inflicted a blow'; [and thus saying]
 "he ate (7) his heart.¹ Then said Rā to those gods,
 "'Place ye him in his chamber, and he shall do well.'
 "Now the black pig was Suti who had transformed
 "himself into a (8) black pig, and he it was who had
 "aimed the blow of fire which was in the eye of Horus.
 "Then said Rā unto those gods, 'The pig is an "abominable thing unto Horus; (9) O but he shall "do well although the pig is an abomination unto him.'
 "Then the company of the gods, who were among the "divine followers of Horus when he existed in the form of "his own child, said, (10) 'Let sacrifices be made [to "the gods] of his bulls, and of his goats, and of his pigs.
 "Now the father of Kesthi, Hāpi, Tuamutef, (11) and "Qebhsennuf is Horus, and their mother is Isis. Then "said Horus to Rā, 'Give me two divine brethren in "the city of Pe and two divine brethren in the city of "Nekhen, (12) who [have sprung] from my body and
 "who shall be with me in the guise of everlasting
 "judges, then shall the earth blossom and thunder-
 "clouds and rain be blotted out.' And the name of "Horus became 'Her-uatch-f' (i.e., Prince of his emerald
 "stone). I, even I, (13) know the Souls of Pe, namely,
 "Horus, Kesthi, and Hāpi."

CHAPTER CXIII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 18).]

Vignette : The gods Horus, Thutmosef and Gebhsennuf.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF KNOWING THE SOULS OF NEKHEN. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“I know the hidden things of the city of Nekhen,
 “that is to say, the things which the mother of Horus “did for him, and how she [made her voice to go forth]
 “over the waters, saying, ‘Speak ye unto me concern“ing the judgment which is upon me, [and show me]
 “the path behind you, and let me discover [it]’; and “how Rā said, ‘This son of Isis hath perished’; and “what the mother of Horus did for him [when] she “cried out, saying, (3) ‘Sebek, the lord of the papyrus “swamp, shall be brought to us.’ [And Sebek] fished
 “for them and he found them, and the mother of Horus “made them to grow in the places to which they be“longed. Then Sebek, the lord of his papyrus swamp,

“said, ‘I went and I found the place where they had “passed with my fingers on the edge of the waters, and “I enclosed them in [my] net: (4) and strong was that “net.’ And Rā said, ‘So, then, there are fish with the “god Sebek, and [he] hath found the hands and arms
“of (5) Horus for him in the land of fish’; and [that] “land became the land of the city of Remu (i.e., Fish).
“And Rā said, ‘A land of the pool, a land of the “pool to this net.’ Then were the hands of Horus “brought to him (6) at the uncovering of his face at “the festivals of the month and half month in the “Land of Remu. And Rā said, ‘I give the city of “Nekhen to Horus for the habitation of his two arms
“and hands, and his face shall be uncovered (7) before
“his two hands and arms in the city of Nekhen; and I “give into his power the slaughtered beings who are in “them at the festivals of the month and half month.’
“Then Horus said, ‘Let me carry off (8) Ṭuamutef
“and Qebhsennuf, and let them watch over my body;
“and if they are allowed to be there, then shall they “be subservient to the god of the city of Nekhen.’ (9)
“And Rā said, ‘It shall be granted unto thee there and “in the city of Senket (i.e., Sati), and there shall be “done for them what hath been done for those who “dwell in the city of Nekhen, and verily they shall be “with thee.’ (10) And Horus said, ‘They have been “with thee and [now] they shall be with me, and shall “hearken unto the god Suti when he calleth upon the “Souls of Nekhen.’ Grant to me [that I, even I, may “pass on to the Souls of Nekhen, and that I may un-“loose the bonds of Horus]. I, even I, know the Souls “of Nekhen, namely, (11) Horus, T̄uamutef, and “Qebhsennuf.”

 “Ánnu hath been destroyed. I, even I, know for what “reason was made the lock of hair of the (5) Man. Rā “unto his mouth, that is to say, he was wounded in “[that] mouth. And Rā spake (6) unto the god Ámi-“haf, saying, ‘O heir of men, receive [thy] harpoon’;

 “and the harpoon-house came into being. Behold, O “god Ámi-haf, two divine brethren have come into “being, [that is to say] (7) Senti-Rā came into being,
 “and Setem-ànsi-f came into being. And his hand “stayed not, and he made his form into that of a “woman with a lock of hair (8) which became the “divine lock in Ánnu, and which became the strong
 “and mighty one in this temple; and it became the “strong one of Ánnu, and it became the heir of (9) the “heir of Ur-maat-f (i.e., the mighty one of the two “eyes), and it became before him the god Ur-ma of “Ānnu. I know the Souls of Ānnu, (10) namely, Rā, “Shu, and Tefnut.”

I. The Introduction.

[From the Papyrus of Ani, Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheets 2]

Vignette : The god Osiris, bearded and wearing the "white" crown, stands in a shrine, the roof of which is surmounted by a hawk's head and by uraei; he holds the usual emblems of sovereignty and dominion. Behind him is the goddess Isis, and before him, standing upon a lotus flower, are the four children of Horus, Kestha, Hapi, Tuamutef, and Qebhsennuf.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF ENTERING INTO THE HALL OF DOUBLE MAĀTI; A HYMN OF PRAISE TO OSIRIS, THE GOVERNOR OF ĀMENTET. Osiris, the scribe Ani, triumphant, saith :—

(2) “I have come, and [I] have drawn nigh to see thy beauties; my hands [are raised] in adoration of thy name ‘Right and Truth.’ I came and I drew unto [the place where] the acacia tree groweth not, where (3) the tree thick with leaves existeth not, and where the ground yieldeth neither herb nor grass. Then I entered into the hidden place, and I spake with (4) the god Set, and my protector (?) advanced to me, and his face was clothed (or covered), and [he] fell upon the hidden things. He (5) entered into the Temple of Osiris, and he looked upon the hidden things which were therein; and the sovereign chiefs of the pylons [were] in the form of khws. THE HALL OF DOUBLE MA'AT. (From the Papyrus of Nebsemi.)

Each of the forty-two gods wears the feather of Ma'at on his head, and the Ma'ati goddesses are seated at the end of the Hall. Above each god is written the address of the deceased to him, and below him is the negative statement, but these texts have been omitted from the above plan to make clearer the general arrangement of the Hall according to the vignette

The Maāti goddesses, each seated upon a throne and holding a sceptre in her right hand, and the emblem of life in her left. 2. The deceased, arrayed in white, standing before the god Osiris with both hands raised in adoration. 3. A balance with the heart, symbolizing the conscience of the deceased, in one scale, and the feather, emblematic of Right and Truth, in the other. The god Anubis is testing the tongue of the balance, and close by stands the monster Ām-met. 4. Thoth, ibis-headed, seated upon a pylon-shaped pedestal, painting a large feather of Maāt. upright and three seated, each of whom holds in his hands a flail and a sceptre. The first god has the head of a bull, the second is jackal-headed, the third is snake-headed, the fourth is human-headed, the fifth is bull-headed, and the sixth is human-headed. The last three have feathers, emblematic of right and truth, on their heads.

CHAPTER CXXIX.

Vignette : This Chapter is without a vignette in the Theban Recension; in the Turin Papyrus we find the deceased poling along a boat wherein are Ra and the Bennu bird, and in front of the boat stand a table of offerings, the god Osiris, and the Tet.

CHAPTER CXXX.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 17).]

Vignette : The deceased standing between the two boats of the sun. In the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 52) the deceased is seen standing in the stern of a boat behind Rā and two other gods.

Text : (1) ANOTHER CHAPTER OF MAKING PERFECT THE KHU, WHICH IS [TO BE RECITED ON] THE BIRTH-DAY OF OSIRIS, AND OF MAKING TO LIVE THE SOUL FOR EVER.¹ (2) The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“The heavens are opened, the earth is opened, the “West is opened, the East is opened, the southern half “of heaven is opened, the northern half of heaven is “opened, the doors are opened, and the (3) gates are “thrown wide open to Rā [as] he cometh forth from

 "double doors and the Mātet boat bursteth open [for

 "nut. Those who are in the following of Osiris follow
 "in his train, and the overseer of the house of the "overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, (5) followeth
 "on in the train of Rā. He taketh his iron weapon
 "and he forceth open the shrine even as doth Horus,

 "things of his habitations with the libations of (6) his

 "him. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of

 "overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal,

 "he bindeth fast the shrine. Storms are the things "which he abominateth. (8) Let no water-flood be
 "nigh unto him, let not the Osiris Nu, the overseer
 "of the house of the overseer of the seal, trium"phant, be repulsed before Rā, and let him not be "made to turn back; for, behold, the Eye is in his
 "two hands. (9) Let not the Osiris Nu, the overseer

“no existence among the damned, even for a moment.
“Let not the Osiris Nu fall headlong (11) among those “who would lead him captive, and let not [his] soul go
“in among them. Let his divine face take possession “of the place behind the block, the block of the god “Septu.”

“Hymns of praise be unto you, O ye divine beings of “the Thigh, (12) the knives of God [work] in secret,
“and the two arms and hands of God cause the light
“to shine; it is doubly pleasant unto him to lead the “(13) old unto him along with the young at his season.
“Now, behold, the god Thoth dwelleth within his “hidden places, and he performeth the ceremonies of “libation (14) unto the god who reckoneth millions of “years, and he maketh a way through the firmament,
“and he doeth away with storms and whirlwinds from “his stronghold, and the Osiris Nu, the overseer
“of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant,
“arriveth in the places of his (15) habitations. [O ye “divine beings of the Thigh], do ye away with his “sorrow, and his suffering, and his pain, and may the “sorrow of the Osiris [Nu] be altogether put away. Let “the Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the over“seer of the seal, triumphant, gratify (16) Rā, let him “make a way into the horizon of Rā, let his boat be “made ready for him, let him sail on happily, and let “Thoth put light into [his] heart; (17) then shall the “Osiris Nu, triumphant, praise and glorify Rā, and Rā “shall hearken unto his words, and he shall beat down

“the obstacles which come from his enemies. I have “not been (18) shipwrecked, I have not been turned “back in the horizon, for I am Rā-Osiris, and the “Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer
“of the seal, shall not be shipwrecked (19) in the “Great Boat. Behold him whose face is in the god
“of the Thigh, because the name of Rā is in the body “of the Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the “overseer of the seal, and his honour is in his mouth; “(20) he shall speak unto Rā, and Rā shall hearken
“unto his words.”

“Hymns of praise unto thee, O Rā, in the horizon,
“and homage unto thee, O thou that purifiest with “light (21) the denizens of heaven, O thou who hast “sovereign power over heaven at that supreme moment
“when the paddles of thine enemies move with thee!
“The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer
“of the seal, triumphant, (22) cometh with the ordering “of right and truth, for there is an iron firmament in “Āmentet which the fiend Āpep hath broken through “with his storms before the double Lion-god, (23) and “this will the Osiris Nu set in order; O hearken ye, “ye who dwell upon the top of the throne of majesty.
“The Osiris Nu shall come in among thy divine sove“reign chiefs, (24) and Rā shall deliver him from Āpep
“each day so that he may not come nigh unto him,
“and he shall make himself vigilant The Osiris Nu “shall have power over the things which are written,
“he shall receive (25) sepulchral meals, and the god

“Thoth shall provide him with the things which should “be prepared for him. The Osiris Nu maketh right
“and truth to go round about the bows in the Great “Boat, (26) and hath triumph among the divine “sovereign chiefs, and he establisheth [it] for millions “of years. The divine chiefs guide him and give unto “him a passage in the boat (27) with joy and gladness;
“the first ones among the company of the sailors of Rā
“are behind him, and he is happy. Right and truth
“are exalted, and they have come unto their divine “lord, and praises have been ascribed unto (28) the “god Neb-er-tcher. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of “the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant,
“hath taken in his hands the weapon and he hath “made his way through heaven therewith; the denizens “thereof have ascribed praises unto him as [unto] a “divine being who standeth up (29) and never sinketh
“to rest. The god Rā exalteth him by reason of what “he hath done, and he causeth him to make of none “effect the whirlwind and the storm; he looketh (30) “upon his splendours, and he stablisheth his oars, and “the boat saileth round about in heaven, rising like
“the sun in the darkness. Thoth, the mighty one, “leadeth the Osiris Nu (31) within his eye, and he “sitteth [upon his] thigh[s] in the mighty boat of “Kheperā; he cometh into being, and the things which “he saith come to pass. (32) The Osiris Nu ad-“vanceth, and he journeyeth round about heaven unto “Āmentet, the fiery deities stand up before him, and

"the god Shu rejoiceth exceedingly, and they take in "their hands the bows [of the boat] of Rā along with "his divine mariners. (33) Rā goeth round about and "he looketh upon Osiris. The Osiris Nu is at peace,
 "the Osiris Nu is at peace. He hath not been driven "back, the flame of thy moment (34) hath not been "taken away from him, [O Rā,] the whirlwind and "storm of thy mouth have not come forth against "him, he hath not journeyed upon the path of the "crocodile—for he abominateth (35) the crocodile—
 "and it hath not drawn nigh unto him. The Osiris
 "Nu embarketh in thy boat, O Rā, (36) he is furnished
 "with thy throne, and he receiveth thy spiritual form.
 "The Osiris Nu travelleth over the paths of Rā at "daybreak to drive back the fiend Nebt; [he] cometh
 "(37) upon the flame of thy boat, [O Rā,] upon
 "that mighty Thigh. The Osiris Nu knoweth it,
 "and he attaineth unto thy boat, (38) and behold
 "he [sitteth] therein; and he maketh sepulchral
 "offerings."

RUBRIC: [This chapter shall be] recited over a boat of the god Rā which hath been painted (39) in colours in a pure place.
 And behold thou shalt place a figure of the deceased in the bows thereof, and thou shalt paint a Sektet boat upon the right side thereof, and an Ātet boat upon the left side thereof, and there shall be made (40) unto them offerings of bread, and cakes, and wine, and oil, and every kind of fair offering upon the birthday of Osiris. If these ceremonies be performed his soul shall have existence, and shall live for ever, and shall not die (41) a second time.

The following is from the Rubric to this Chapter in the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 53):—

“[He shall know] the hidden things of the underworld, he shall penetrate the hidden things in Neter-khertet (the underworld).”

“[This Chapter] was found in the large hall (?) of the Temple under the reign of His Majesty Semti (Hesepti), triumphant, and it was found in the cavern of the mountain which Horus made for his father Osiris Un-nefer, triumphant. Now since Rā looketh upon this deceased in his own flesh, he shall look upon him as the company of the gods. The fear of him shall be great, and the awe of him shall be mighty in the heart of men, and gods, and Khus, and the damned. He shall be with his soul and shall live for ever; he shall not die a second time in the underworld; and on the day of weighing of words no evil hap shall befall him. He shall be triumphant over his enemies, and his sepulchral meals shall be upon the altar of Rā in the course of each day, day by day.”

CHAPTER CXXXII.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 18).]

Vignette : The deceased standing before a house and holding a long staff in his hand. In the Brocklehurst papyrus the soul of the deceased, in the form of a human-headed bird, is seen hovering over a house by the side of which is a tree (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 145).

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF CAUSING A MAN TO COME BACK TO SEE HIS HOUSE UPON EARTH.¹ The Osiris Ani saith :—

“I am the Lion-god (2) coming forth with extended strides. I have shot arrows and I have wounded the prey; I have shot arrows and I have wounded the prey. I am the (3) Eye of Horus, and I pass through the Eye of Horus at this season. I have arrived at the furrows; let the Osiris Ani advance in peace.”²

¹ In the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 54) the house is said to be “in the underworld.”

² Another papyrus adds the words, “I have advanced, and behold, I have not been found light, and the Balance is empty of my affair.”

CHAPTER CXXXIII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 16).]

Vignette : The god Rā, hawk-headed and having upon his head the sun's disk, seated upon the cubit of Maāt in a boat ; before him he holds the emblem of "life." Above him is the legend, "Rā in his shrine." With him, in the boat, stands Ani, who "maketh adoration to Rā each day," with both hands raised in adoration.

Text : (1) THE BOOK OF MAKING PERFECT THE KHU, (2) WHICH IS TO BE RECITED ON THE DAY OF THE MONTH. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, saith :—

"Rā riseth in his horizon, and his company of the "gods follow after him. The god cometh forth out of "his hidden (3) habitations, and food falleth out of the "eastern horizon of heaven at the word of the goddess "Nut who maketh plain the paths of Rā, whereupon "straightway the Prince goeth round about. (4) Lift "up then thyself, O thou Rā, who dwellest in thy “divine shrine, draw thou into thyself the winds, “inhale the north wind, swallow thou the skin (?) of “(5) thy net on the day wherein thou breathest right

“and truth. Thou separateth the divine followers, and “thou sailest in [thy] boat to Nut; the divine princes
“(6) march onwards at thy word. Thou takest count of “thy bones, thou gatherest together thy members, thou “settest thy face towards the beautiful Amentet, and “thou comest, being renewed each day. Behold,
“(7) thou art that Image of gold, and thou dost possess
“the splendours of the disks of heaven and art terrible;
“thou comest, being renewed each day. (8) Hail, the “horizon rejoiceth, and there are shouts of joy in the “rigging [of thy boat]; when the gods who dwell in “the heavens see the Osiris Nu, the overseer of the “house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, (9) they “ascribe unto him as his due praises which are like “unto those ascribed unto Rā. The Osiris Nu, the “overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, “triumphant, is a divine prince and he seeketh (?) the “ureret crown of Rā, (10) and he, the only one, is “strong in good fortune (?) in that supreme body which “is of those divine beings who are in the presence of “Rā. (11) The Osiris Nu is strong both upon earth
“and in the underworld; and the Osiris Nu is strong “like unto Rā every day. (12) The Osiris Nu shall “not tarry, and he shall not lie without motion in this “land for ever. Being doubly beautiful [he] shall see “with his two eyes, and he shall hear (13) with his

"two ears; rightly and truly, rightly and truly. The "Osiris Nu is like unto Rā, and he setteth in order the "oars [of his boat] among those who are in the train of "(14) Nu. He doth not tell that which he hath seen,
 "and he doth not repeat that which he hath heard in
 "the secret places. Hail, (15) let there be shouts of "joy to the Osiris Nu, who is of the divine body of Rā,
 "as he journeyeth over Nu, and who propitiateth the "KA of the god (16) with that which he loveth. The "Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of
 "the seal, is a hawk, the transformations of which are

RUBRIC: [This chapter shall be recited over a boat four² cubits in its length (17) and made of green porcelain [on which have been painted] the divine sovereign chiefs of the cities:

shalt have made ceremonially pure by means of natron and the boat. And behold, thou shalt make an image of the *kh*u

Text: ANOTHER CHAPTER TO BE RECITED WHEN THE MOON RENEWETH ITSELF ON THE DAY OF THE MONTH. The Osiris Äuf-ānkh, triumphant, saith:—

“(1) Osiris unfettereth,” or, as others say, “openeth “the storm cloud [in] the body of heaven, and is unfettered himself; Horus is made strong happily each “day. He whose transformations are great (or many) “hath offerings made unto him at the moment, (2) and “he hath made an end of the storm which is in the “face of the Osiris Äuf-ānkh, triumphant. Verily he “cometh, and he is Rā in [his] journeying, and he is the “four celestial gods in the heavens above. The Osiris “Äuf-ānkh, triumphant, cometh forth (3) in his day, “and he embarketh among the tackle of the boat.”

RUBRIC: If this chapter be known by the deceased he shall become a perfect khu in the underworld, and he shall not die therein a second time, and he shall eat his food side by side with Osiris. (4) If this chapter be known by him upon earth he shall be like unto Thoth, and he shall be adored by the living ones; he shall not fall headlong at the moment of royal flame of the goddess Bast, and the mighty princess shall make him to advance happily.

CHAPTER CXXXVIA. (I.)

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 28).]

Vignette: Three boats. In the first are Osiris, Horus (or, Rā), the deceased, and others; in the second and third are the two divine hawks on standards.

Text: (1) ANOTHER CHAPTER OF TRAVELLING IN THE GREAT BOAT OF RĀ. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, saith:— (2)

“Behold now, O ye luminaries in Annu, ye people in “Kherāṇa, the god Kha (?) hath been born; his cordage

 “(3) hath been completed, and the instrument where“with he maketh his way hath [he] grasped firmly. I
 “have protected the implements of the gods, and I “delivered the boat Kha (?) for him. I have come “forth into heaven, and I have travelled therein with “Rā in the form of an ape, and have (4) turned “back the paths of Nut at the staircase of the god “Sebek.”

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 16).]

Vignette : In the Theban Recension this Chapter has no vignette, but in the Saïte Recension the deceased stands in the boat of the god Rā who is seated therein (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 56).

Text : (1) ANOTHER CHAPTER OF MAKING PERFECT THE KHU; [it shall be recited] on the festival of Six. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, saith :—

“Behold now, O ye luminaries in Anna (Heliopolis), “ye people in (2) Kher-āḥa, the god hath been born;
 “his cordage (?) hath been completed, and the instru“ment wherewith he maketh his way he hath grasped “firmly; and the Osiris Nu is strong (3) with them to “direct the implement of the gods. The Osiris Nu hath “delivered the boat of the sun therewith ,

“and he cometh forth (4) into heaven. The Osiris Nu “saileth round about in heaven, he travelleth therein “unto Nut, he journeyeth along with Rā, and he “voyageth therein in the form of (5) apes; [he] “turneth back the water-flood which is over the “Thigh of the goddess Nut at the staircase of the “god Sebaḳu. (6) The hearts of Seb and Nut are “glad and repeat the name which is new. Un-neferu “reneweth [his] youth, Rā is in his splendours of light, “(7) Unti hath his speech, and lo, the god of the In“undation is Prince among the gods. The taste of “sweetness hath forced a way into the heart of the “destitute one, and the lord of thy outcries (8) hath “been done away with, and the oars (?) of the com“pany of the gods are in vigorous motion. Adored be “thou, O divine Soul, who art endowed more than the “gods of the South and North [in] their splendours!
“Behold, (9) grant thou that the Osiris Nu may be “great in heaven even as thou art great among the “gods; deliver thou him from every evil and mur“derous thing which may be wrought (10) upon him
“by the Fiend, and fortify thou his heart. Grant “thou, moreover, that the Osiris Nu may be stronger “than all the gods, all the Khus, and all the dead.
“(11) The Osiris Nu is strong and is the lord of “powers. The Osiris Nu is the lord of right and “truth (12) which the goddess Uatchit worketh. The “strength which protects the Osiris Nu is the strength

 “which protects the god Rā in heaven. O god Rā, “grant thou that the Osiris Nu may travel on (13) in “thy boat in peace, and do thou prepare a road where-
 “on [thy] boat may journey onwards; for the force
 “which protecteth (14) Osiris is the force which pro“tecteth thee. The Osiris Nu driveth back the Croco“dile from Rā day by day. (15) The Osiris Nu cometh
 “even as doth Horus in the splendours (?) of the horizon “of heaven, and he directeth (16) Rā through the “mansions of the sky; the gods rejoice greatly when “the Osiris Nu repulseth the Crocodile. The Osiris
 “Nu hath the amulet (?) of the god, and (17) the cloud
 “of Nebt shall not come nigh unto him, and the divine “guardians of the mansions of the sky shall not destroy “him. The Osiris Nu is a (18) divine being whose “face is hidden, and he dwelleth within the Great “House [as] the chief of the Shrine of the god. The “Osiris Nu carrieth the words of the god to Rā, (19)
 “and he cometh and maketh supplication unto the “divine lord with the words of his message. The “Osiris Nu is strong of heart, and he maketh his “offering at the moment (20) among those who perform
 “the ceremonies of sacrifice.”

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be said over a figure of the deceased which shall be placed in [a model of] the boat of the sun, and behold, [he that reciteth it] shall be washed, and shall be ceremonially pure, (21) and he shall have burnt incense before Rā, and shall have offered wine, and cakes, and roasted fowl for the journey [of the deceased] in the boat of Rā. Now, every (22) khu for whom such things are done shall have an existence among the living ones, and he shall never perish, and he shall have a being like unto that of the holy God; no evil thing whatsoever shall attack him. (23) And he shall be like unto a happy khu in Amentet, and he shall not die a second time. He shall eat and he shall drink in the presence of Osiris each day; he shall be borne along (24) with the kings of the North and of the South each and every day; he shall quaff water at the fountain-head; he shall come forth by day even as doth Horus; (25) he shall live and shall become like unto God; and he shall be hymned by the living ones, even as is Rā each and every day continually and regularly for ever.

CHAPTER CXXXVI. B.

[From the Papyrus of N^o (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 28).]

Vignette : A boat in which is the head of a hawk, emblematic of Rā, whereupon is a disk encircled by a serpent, sailing over a heaven of stars; over the bows and stern are utchats, or symbolic eyes.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF SAILING IN THE GREAT BOAT OF RĀ TO PASS OVER (2) THE CIRCLE OF BRIGHT FLAME. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, saith :—

“[Hail], ye bright and shining flames which keep “your place behind Rā, and which slay (3) behind him,
 “the boat of Rā is in fear of the whirlwind and the “storm; shine ye forth, then, and make [ye yourselves]
 “visible. I have come [daily] along with the god “Sek-ḥrā from the bight of his holy lake, (4) and I “have seen the Maāt [goddesses] pass along, and the “Lion-gods who belong unto them. Hail, thou that “dwellest in the coffer, who hast multitudes of plants (?),
 “I (5) have seen [what is] there. We rejoice, and “their princes rejoice greatly, and their lesser gods (?)
 “are glad. I have made a (6) way in front of the boat
 “of Rā, I have lifted myself up into his divine Disk.
 “I shine brightly through his splendours; he hath “furnished himself with the things which are his, “taking possession thereof as the lord of right and “truth. (7) And behold, O ye company of the gods,
 “and thou ancestor of the goddess Isis,¹ grant ye that “he may bear testimony to his father, the lord of those “who are therein. I have (8) weighed the
 “in him [as] chief, and I have brought to him the “goddess Tefnut, and he liveth. Behold, come, come,
 “and declare before him the testimony (9) of right and “truth of the lord Tem. I cry out at eventide and at “his hour, saying;—Grant ye unto me (10) that I may “come. I have brought unto him the jaws of the "passages of the tomb; I have brought unto him the "bones which are in Ännu (Heliopolis); (11) I have "gathered together for him his manifold parts; I have "driven back for him the serpent fiend Äpep; I have "spit upon his gashes for him; I have made my road

 "and I have passed in (12) among you. I am he who
 "dwelleth among the gods, come, let [me] pass onwards
 "in the boat, the boat of the lord Sa. Behold, O
 "Heru-ur, (13) there is a flame, but the fire hath been "extinguished. I have made [my] road, O ye divine
 "fathers and your divine apes! I have entered upon
 "the horizon, and I have passed on (14) to the side of "the divine princes, and I have borne testimony unto "him that dwelleth in his divine boat. I have gone
 "forward over the circle of bright (15) flame which is "behind the lord of the lock of hair which moveth
 "round about. Behold, ye who cry out over your"selves, ye worms in [your] hidden places, grant ye
 "that I may pass onwards, (16) for I am the mighty
 "one, the lord of divine strength, and I am the spiritual
 "body (sāh) of the lord of divine right and truth made "by the goddess Uatchit. His strength which pro-
 "tecteth (17) is my strength which protecteth, which is "the strength which protecteth Rā. [Grant ye that I "may be in the following of Rā], and grant ye that I "may go round about with him in Sekhet-hetep [and "in] the two lands. (18) [I am] a great god, and [I "have been] judged by the company of his gods, grant
 "that divine, sepulchral meals may be given unto me."

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 26).]

Vignette : Four men, each holding a flame, standing in the presence of a god, before whom are four pools or lakes.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF THE FOUR BLAZING FLAMES WHICH ARE MADE FOR THE KHU. Behold, thou shalt make four square troughs of clay, (2) whereon thou shalt scatter incense, and thou shalt fill them with the milk of a white cow, and by means of these thou shalt extinguish the flame. (3) The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, saith :—

“The fire cometh to thy KA, O Osiris, governor of “Āmenti; the fire (4) cometh to thy Ka, O Osiris Nu,
 “the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, “triumphant. He that ordereth the night cometh “after the day. (5) [The flame cometh to thy KA,

"O Osiris, governor of those in Āmenti]¹ and the two "sisters (?) of Rā come likewise. Behold, [the flame]
 "riseth in Ābtu (Abydos) and it cometh; and I cause it
 "to come [to] (6) the Eye of Horus. It is set in order
 "upon thy brow, O Osiris, governor of Āmenti,² and it
 "is (7) fixed within thy shrine and riseth upon thy
 "brow; it is set in order upon thy breast, O Osiris Nu,
 "(8) and it is fixed upon thy brow. The Eye of Horus
 "is protecting thee, O Osiris, governor of Āmenti, and
 "it keepeth thee (9) in safety; it casteth down headlong
 "all thine enemies for thee, and all thine enemies have "fallen headlong before thee. (10) O Osiris Nu, the "Eye of Horus protecteth thee, it keepeth thee in
 "safety, and it casteth down headlong (11) all thine
 "enemies. Thine enemies have fallen down headlong
 "before thy Ka, O Osiris, governor of (12) Āmenti, the "Eye of Horus protecteth thee, it keepeth thee in
 "safety, and it hath cast down headlong all thine
 "enemies. (13) Thine enemies have fallen down head-
 "long before thy Ka, O Osiris Nu, the overseer of the "house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, (14) the "Eye of Horus protecteth thee, it keepeth thee in
 "safety, it hath cast down headlong for thee all thine
 "enemies, and thine enemies have fallen down headlong
 "before thee. The Eye of Horus (15) cometh, it is “powers of Suti, it taketh possession thereof, and it “bringeth its flame (16) against him upon [its] feet (?).

 “The Eye of Horus is sound and well, thou eatest the “flesh (?) of thy body by means thereof, and thou “givest praise (?) thereto. The four flames enter into “thy KA, O Osiris, governor of (17) Āmenti, the four “flames enter into thy Ka, O Osiris Nu, the overseer
 “of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant.
 “Hail, ye children of Horus, Kesthi, Hāpi, Tuamutef,
 “(18) and Qebhsennuf, ye have given your protection “unto your divine Father Osiris, the governor of “Āmenti, grant ye your protection to the Osiris Nu, “triumphant. (19) Now therefore, inasmuch as ye
 “have destroyed the opponent[s] of Osiris, the governor
 “of Āmenti, he liveth with the gods, and he hath “smitten Suti with his hand and arm since light “dawned upon the earth, and Horus hath gotten “power, (20) and he hath avenged his divine Father “Osiris himself; and inasmuch as your divine father “hath been made vigorous through the union which ye “have effected for him with the KA of Osiris, the “Governor of Āmenti—now the Eye of Horus (21) hath “avenged him, and it hath protected him, and it hath “cast down headlong for him all his enemies, and all
 “his enemies have fallen down before him—even so do “ye destroy the (22) opponent[s] of the Osiris Nu, the “overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, “triumphant. Let him live with the gods, let him “smite down his enemy, let him destroy [him] (23) when

"light dawneth upon the earth, let Horus gain power
 "and avenge the Osiris Nu, let the Osiris Nu have "vigour through the union which ye have effected for "him with his Ka. (24) O Osiris Nu, the Eye of Horus
 "hath avenged thee, it hath cast down headlong all
 "thine enemies for thee, and all thine enemies have "fallen down headlong before thee. Hail, Osiris,
 "(25) Governor of Amenti, grant thou light and fire
 "to the happy soul which is in Suten-henen (Hera-
 "cleopolis); and [O ye children of Horus] grant ye
 "power unto the living soul of the (26) Osiris Nu
 "within his flame. Let him not be repulsed and let "him not be driven back at the doors of Amentet; O
 "let his offerings of bread and of linen garments be "brought unto him (27) among [those of] the lords of "funeral oblations, O offer ye praises as unto a god to
 "the Osiris Nu, destroyer of his opponent[s] in his
 "form of right and truth and in his (28) attributes of a
 "god of right and truth."

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be recited over four fires [made of] âtmâ cloth which hath been anointed with hâtet unguent of Thehennu, and they shall be placed in the hands of four men who shall have the names of the pillars of Horus written (29) upon their shoulders, and they shall burn the fires in the beautiful rays of Râ, and this shall confer power and might upon the Khu among the stars which never set.
 If this chapter be recited (30) for him he shall never, never fail, and he shall become a living soul for ever, and these fires shall make the Khu as vigorous as Osiris, (31) the Governor of Amenti, regularly and continually for ever. It is a great struggle. Thou shalt not perform this ceremony before any human being except thine own self, or thy father,

(32) or thy son, because it is an exceedingly great mystery of Amentet, and is a type of the hidden things of the underworld, for when [this ceremony hath been performed] the gods, and the Khus, and the dead shall see him (33) in the form of the Governor of Amenti, and he shall have power and dominion like this god.

If thou shalt undertake to perform for him [what is ordered] in this "Chapter of the four blazing flames" each [day?] (34) thou shalt cause the form of the deceased to come forth from every hall [in the underworld] and from the seven halls of Osiris. And he shall have an existence in the form of the god, he shall have power and dominion corresponding to that of the gods and the Khus (35) for ever and ever; he shall enter in through the hidden pylons and shall not be turned back before the god Osiris. And it shall come to pass, if these things have been done for him, that he shall enter in and come forth, (36) he shall not be turned back, no limit [to his journeying] shall be set, and he shall not have sentence of evil passed upon him on the day of the weighing of words before the god Osiris for ever and ever.

And thou shalt perform [what is ordered in] this book for (37) the deceased, and he shall become perfect and pure, and [thou shalt] open his mouth with the iron instrument, and shalt write down these writings in accordance with the things which are found in the books of the royal son Heru-tā-tā-f, (38) who discovered [them] in a hidden chest—now they were in the handwriting of the god himself—in the Temple of the goddess Unnut, the Lady of Unnu (Hermopolis), during his journey to make an inspection (39) of the temples, and of the lands, and of the funeral shrines of the gods. And these things shall be done secretly in the underworld, they are mysteries of the underworld, and they are (40) a type of the mysteries of Neter-khert.

And thou shalt say:—"[I] have come advancing "quickly and casting light upon [his] footsteps, and "hiding [myself] to cast light upon his hidden place (?). "I stand up behind the Tet; I (41) stand up behind

“the Tet of Rā turning back the slaughter. I am
“protecting thee, O Osiris.”

RUBRIC: This chapter shall be recited over a Tet of crystal which is set up upon a brick (42) made of green clay whereupon hath been inscribed this chapter. Then thou shalt make a cavity in the west wall, and, having [turned] the front of the Tet towards the east [therein] thou shalt wall it up with earth moistened with (43) cedar juice (?). It will repulse the enemies of Osiris who set themselves at the east wall.

And thou shalt say:—“[I] have driven back [thy “foes, and I] have kept watch for thee; and he that is “upon his mountain (i.e., Anubis) hath kept watch (44)
“at thy moment, and hath repulsed [thy foes for thee].
“I have driven back the Crocodile [for thee] at thy “moment, and I am protecting thee, O Osiris Nu, the “overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal,
“triumphant.” (45)

RUBRIC: This chapter shall be recited over [a figure of] Anubis made of green clay kneaded (?) with incense and set up on a brick of green clay whereupon it hath been inscribed. (46) Then thou shalt make a cavity in the east wall, and having [turned] the face of Anubis towards the west [therein], thou shalt wall it up. [It will repulse the enemies of Osiris] who set themselves at the south (west?) wall. (47)

And thou shalt say:—“I am the collar (or girdle) of “sand round the hidden coffer turning back the arm
“from the blazing flame of the funeral mountain; I “have marched over the roads, and I am protecting the “Osiris (48) Nu, the overseer of the house of the over“seer of the seal, triumphant.”

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be recited over a brick of green clay whereupon it hath been inscribed; and thou shalt place incense (?) in the middle thereof, (49) and thou shalt smear it with pitch (or resin) and set light to it. Then thou shalt make a cavity in the south wall, and having [turned] the front of the brick towards the north [therein], thou shalt wall it up. [It will repulse the enemies of Osiris] who set themselves at the (50) north wall.

And thou shalt say:—"O thou that comest to make "a burning, I will not let thee do it; O thou that
 "comest to shoot forth [fire], I will not let thee do it.
 "I will burn thee, I will shoot forth [fire] (51) at thee,
 "for I am protecting the Osiris Nu, the overseer of the "house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant."

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be recited over a brick of green clay whereupon it hath been inscribed, along with a figure (?) of a (52) palm tree seven fingers in height; and thou shalt open its mouth. Then thou shalt make a cavity in the north wall, and having [turned] the face of the figure towards the south [therein], thou shalt wall it up [it will repulse the enemies of Osiris who set themselves at the south wall].

"And behold, these things shall be performed by a "man who is clean and is (53) ceremonially pure,
 "one who hath eaten neither meat nor fish, and who
 "hath not [recently] had intercourse with women; and
 "behold, thou shalt make offerings of cakes and ale,
 "and shalt burn incense on the fire of these gods.
 "(54) And every Khu for whom these things shall "be done shall become like a holy god in the under"world; he shall not be turned back at any gate in
 "Amentet, and he shall be in the following of (55)

“Osiris, wheresoever he goeth, regularly and continually.”¹

CHAPTER CXXXVII.B.

[From the Papyrus of Nebseni (Brit. Mus. No. 9900, sheet 6).]

Vignette : The goddess Api, the lady who giveth protection, in the form of a hippopotamus, setting light to a vessel of incense. In the Saite Recension the deceased is seen sitting upon a chair with two burning lamps on each side of him (see Lepsius, Todtenbuch, Bl. 56); there the Chapter is called, “Chapter of making the flame to burn up.”

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF KINDLING A FLAME BY NEBSENI, THE SCRIBE AND DRAUGHTSMAN IN THE TEMPLE OF PTAH. [He saith]:—

“The white (or) shining Eye of Horus cometh. (2)
“The brilliant Eye of Horus cometh. It cometh in

¹ The version of this Chapter found in the Papyrus of Nebseni (sheet 24) is much shorter than that here given, and that Papyrus omits all the supplementary Chapters and rubrics which are written in the Papyrus of Nu; a version much shorter still is given by Naville (op. cit., Bd. II. p. 361) from the Papyrus of Nefer-uben-f in Paris.

CHAPTERS CXLI. AND CXLII.

Vignette : The deceased, with hands raised in adoration, bowing before a table of offerings of every kind; or, the deceased standing and offering incense and pouring out a libation before Osiris; or, the god Osiris seated within a shrine on a throne, by the side of which stand Isis and Nephthys. On a lotus flower stand the four Children of Horus, and on a standard is a jackal, emblematic of Anubis. These vignettes are figured by Naville (op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 153), and differ entirely from the vignette which accompanies Chapter CXLII. in the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 59). Originally the text of Chapters CXLI. and CXLII. formed one composition, but it might readily be divided into two sections, viz., the list of the gods to whom a man was directed to make offerings for the benefit of his father and his son, and a list of the names of Osiris, and this is what the Editors of the Saïte Recension actually did, and they emphasized the division by giving to each section a distinct title

Text: [HERE BEGINNETH] THE BOOK¹ [WHICH] A MAN SHALL RECITE FOR HIS FATHER OR FOR HIS SON DURING THE FESTIVALS OF ÂMENTET, WHEREBY HE SHALL MAKE HIM PERFECT WITH RĀ AND WITH THE GODS, AND WHEREBY HE SHALL HAVE HIS EXISTENCE WITH THEM; IT SHALL BE RECITED ON THE NINTH DAY OF THE FESTIVAL. CHAPTER CXLIII.

Chapter CXLIII. consists of the Vignette to Chapter CXLII. (see Lepsius, op. cit., Pl. 59) which is found in the Saïte Recension only. This Vignette is divided into five sections:—(1) A woman standing upright with pendent arms. (2) The hawk of Horus upon a standard placed in a boat. (3) A man, with his left hand raised as if in invocation, standing in a boat; before him are two disks, one of the sun, and the other of the moon. (4) The Sektet boat wherein are the two divine hawks of Rā and Osiris upon standards. (5) A man (the deceased?) standing upright with both hands raised in adoration.

“for Osiris! Hail, ye who watch your Ārits! Hail, “ye who herald the affairs of the (2) two lands for the “god Osiris each day, the Osiris Nu, the overseer of “the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, “knoweth you, and he knoweth your names. The “Osiris Nu hath been born in Re-stau, (3) and every “glory of the horizon [and] every honour have been “given unto him. The Osiris Nu is in the city of “Pe like the pure being (?) Osiris. The Osiris Nu “hath received acclamations in Re-stau, and (4) the “gods lead [him] over the horizon along with the “divine princes who are behind Osiris. I am the “divine One among them, and [I am] their leader.
 “The Osiris Nu (5) is a Khu, the lord of the Khus, a “Khu [who] worketh. The Osiris Nu celebrateth the “monthly festival and he is the herald of the half-“monthly festival. Hail, thou that revolveth, the “Osiris Nu (6) is under the fiery Eye of Horus, and “he is under the hand of Thoth on the night when he “travelleth over heaven in triumph. The Osiris Nu “passeth onwards in peace, and he journeyeth (7) in “the boat of Rā. The strength which protecteth the “Osiris Nu is the strength which protecteth the boat
 “of Rā. The Osiris Nu (8) hath a name greater than “yours, and he is greater than ye are on the path of “Maāt; the Osiris abominateth defeat (?). The strength
 “which protecteth the Osiris Nu is (9) the strength “which protecteth Horus the first-born of Rā. [He] “hath made his heart, and the Osiris Nu shall not be “constrained and he shall not be repulsed at the Ārits

“of the god Osiris. (10) The Osiris Nu hath been “provided [with all things] by the double Lion-god,
“and the pure one (?) is in the following of Osiris, the “governor of Amenti, throughout the course of each “day, daily. (11) His fields are in Sekhti-ḥetep with “the divine beings who know things, and with those “who perform things for the Osiris Nu (12) by the “hand of Thoṥ among those who make offerings of “propitiation. And Anubis hath commanded him that “dwelleth among offerings that the offerings of the “Osiris Nu shall be with him, and that they shall “not be taken away (13) from him by those divine “beings who dwell in fetters. The Osiris Nu, the “overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal,
“triumphant, cometh like unto Horus in the splen-“dour of the horizon of heaven, and Rā hath set him
“in order (14) for the Ārits of the horizon; the gods
“rejoice in him when they meet him. The amulets (?)
“of the god are for (15) the Osiris Nu, the god Nebṯ “shall not come to him, and the doorkeepers of the “Ārits shall not overthrow him. The Osiris Nu (16)
“is hidden of face within the great celestial house “[which is] the shrine of the god, and he arriveth
“there in the following of the pure one (?) Hathor.
“The Osiris Nu (17) createth multitudes of human “beings, he maketh Maāt to advance to Rā, and he “destroyeth the twofold strength of Āpep. The Osiris “Nu (18) maketh a way through the firmament, he “driveth away the whirlwind and the storm, he maketh

 “the mariners of Rā to live, and he maketh offerings
 “to come unto the place where he (?) is. (19) The “Osiris Nu causeth a boat to be made, he travelleth “therein happily ; the Osiris Nu maketh a way and he “advanceth thereon. The face of the Osiris Nu (20)
 “is like that of the god Ur-pehi-f by reason of the “might (?), and the Osiris Nu is the lord of might.
 “The Osiris Nu is at rest in the horizon, and he is “(21) valiant to overthrow you, O ye Nehesu gods ;
 “make a path, then, for your lord Osiris.”

RUBRIC: This chapter shall be said over a drawing of the divine sovereign chiefs, which hath been done in yellow ink, (22) on the boat of Rā ; and offerings and oblations shall be made unto them, and sacrifices of feathered fowl, and incense [shall be burnt] before them. These acts will make the deceased to live, and they will give him strength among (23) these gods, and he shall neither be repulsed nor turned back at the pylons of the underworld. And, moreover, thou shalt make a figure of the deceased in their presence, and thou shalt make it to come forth towards every one of (24) these gates which are painted [above]. And thou shalt recite this chapter at the door of each of the Ārits which are painted [above], and at each one of them thou shalt make offerings, viz., the thigh, the head, the heart, and the hoof of a red bull ; (25) and four vessels of blood which hath not come from the breast ; and amulets (?) ; and sixteen loaves of white bread, and eight pasen (or persen) loaves, and eight shenen loaves, and eight khenfu loaves, and eight hebennu loaves, and eight large vessels of beer, and (26) [eight] large vessels of grain ; and four earthenware vessels filled with the milk of a white cow, and fresh herbs, and fresh olives, and unguent, and eye-paint, and hātet
 (27) unguent, and incense [to be burnt] on the fire, and [this chapter] shall be recited twice over each earthenware vessel, after the drawing (or image) hath been made, at the fourth hour, going round about by day; (28) and take good heed to the time in the heavens. Now when thou doest [what is written in] this book do not allow any person whatsoever to see [thee]. [And this ceremony] shall make long the strides (29) of the deceased in heaven, and on earth, and in the underworld, and it shall benefit him in everything which he doeth, and he shall [possess] the things of the day regularly and continually.

CHAPTER CXLV.

[From Lepsius, Todtenbuch, Bll. 61—65.]

Chapter CXLV. and CXLVI. are two versions of one and the same text. Of these, Chapter CXLV. is the longer, and the two different forms of it—of each of which, unfortunately, only a single imperfect copy is extant—are described by Naville (Einleitung, pp. 111 and 173—176). Both are ancient, one appearing in the tomb of Seti II. Meri-en-Ptah at Thebes, and the other in the papyrus of the royal military scribe Pa-ur (Einleitung, p. 104). A better general view of the contents of Chapter CXLV. will probably be obtained from the text as given in the Saite Recension than from the mutilated ancient forms now known; it is, moreover, fuller than the others, and the following translation has been made from it.

Vignette: The twenty-one pylons of Sekhet-Āanre of the House of Osiris. In each section the deceased stands with hands raised in adoration before a god who stands by the side of a shrine.

"portion thereof is in the Lake of the Kharu fowl, and
"the northern portion thereof is in the Canal of the Re
"fowl, (7) in the place wherein Rā saileth round about
"by means of the winds which bear him along. I am
"he who watcheth the leathers in (8) the divine boat,
"I am in the boat, and I am he who doth navigate it “without ceasing. I know (9) the two sycamore trees

 “of turquoise, from between which the god Râ doth “emerge when he setteth out upon his journey (10)
 “over the pillars of Shu towards the door of the lord
 “of the East, wherefrom Râ cometh forth. I (11)
 “know the Sekhet-Âarru of Râ. The wheat therein “is (12) five cubits in height, the ears being two cubits “long, and the stalks three cubits; the barley thereof
 “is seven cubits in height, (13) the ears being three “cubits long and the stalks four cubits. And behold,
 “the Khus therein, who are nine cubits in height, (14) “reap the wheat and the barley, side by side with the “divine Souls of the East.”

III. Vignette: The third Âat, which is called “the Âat of the Khus.”

Text: (1) The third Âat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“Hail, thou Âat of the Khus, whereover none can “sail (2) and wherein are the Khus; the fire thereof
 “is blazing with flame. Hail, thou “Âat of (3) the Khus! Your faces “are in the land (?) [make clear your “ways], and purify ye your Âats, and “what hath been decreed by Osiris do “ye for me (4) for ever. I am the “mighty one of the Teshert crown
 “which is on the brow of the god
 “of Light, and which maintaineth in life the two lands

“and the men and women thereof (5) by means of the “flame of its mouth. The god Rā hath been delivered
“from the Fiend Āpep.”

IV. Vignette: The fourth Aat, wherein is inscribed “the double mountain, doubly high, and doubly great.”

Text : (1) The fourth Aat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail, thou who art chief of the hidden Aat. Hail, “thou One who art lofty and great, who dwellest in the “underworld, over whom the “heaven spreadeth itself. (3)
“Thou art three hundred “measures in length, and “two hundred and thirty “measures in width, and “thou hast over thee a ser“pent the name of which is “Sati-temui¹ (?) ; (4) he is seventy cubits in length,

“and he liveth by slaughtering the Khus and the dead
“who are in the underworld. I stand up in thy “enclosure, (5) O Maā, I sail round about, and I see
“the way [which leadeth] unto thee. I gather myself “together to thee. I am the Man, and I clothe (6) thy “head ; I am strong and I have become strong. I am
“the god who is mighty in enchantments ; my two “eyes have been given to me, and I am glorious (7) “therewith. Who art thou, O Khu that goest upon

¹ I.e., Sati of the two knives.

“thy belly, and whose two-fold strength is upon thy “mountain? Grant thou unto me (8) that I may go “unto thee, and that thy two-fold strength may be
 “with me. I lift up myself by [thy] two-fold strength, “I have come, (9) and I have vanquished the Akriu “serpent of Rā. His peace is to me at eventide; I “revolve in (10) the heavens and thou art in the “mountain valley. A decree [hath been made] con“cerning thee upon earth.”

V. Vignette : The fifth Āat.

Text : (1) The fifth Āat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Hail, thou Āat of the Khus, whereover none may “pass. (2) The Khus who are therein have thighs “seven cubits long, and they live “upon the shades of the weak and “helpless. (3) Hail, thou Āat of “the Khus, open ye unto me your “ways so that I may pass by you
 “and may go on (4) to the beautiful “Āmentet, according to that which “Osiris, the Khu, the lord of Khus,
 “hath decreed. I live by reason of my splendour, (5)
 “I perform every festival of the month, and I observe “rightly the festival of the half month. I revolve,
 “and the Eye of Horus is under my hand in the (6) “following of Thoth. The mouth of every god and

“of every dead person devoureth mine enemy this day,
“and he falleth down at the block of slaughter.”

VI. Vignette : The sixth Āat, with a fish inside it.

Text : (1) The sixth Āat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Hail, thou Āmmehet which art holy unto the gods,
“and art hidden unto the Khus, (2) and art baleful

“unto the dead ; the name of the “god who dwelleth therein is Sekher-
“Āt (?). Homage to thee, O Āmme“het, I have come (3) to see the “gods who dwell in thee. Uncover
“your faces and lay down your “head-dresses when ye meet me,
“(4) for, behold, I am a mighty

“god among you, and I have come to prepare provisions
“for you. Let not (5) Sekher-Āt (?) have dominion “over me, let not the divine slaughterers come after me, “let not the murderous fiends come (6) after me, but “let me live upon sepulchral offerings among you.”

VII. Vignette : The seventh Āat.

Text : (1) The seventh Āat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail, thou city of Āses, which art remote from “sight, and the fire of which is in flame. There is a “serpent within thee (3) and his name is Rerek ; the “length of his backbone is seven cubits, and he liveth

“upon the Khus, and he annihilateth (4) their glorious “strength. Get thee back, O Rerek, who dwellest in “the city of Âses, who devourest
 “with thy mouth, and from whose “eyes (5) evil looks pour forth.
 “Let thy bones be broken, and let “thy emissions be impotent. Come “thou not against me, and let not “thy emissions (6) come upon me;
 “let thy poison fall and lie dead
 “upon the earth, and let thy two lips be in [thy] den.
 “(7) The Ka of the serpent hath fallen, and, conversely,
 “I have gained glorious strength. The Maftet (i.e., “Lynx), hath cut off thy head.”

VIII. Vignette : The eighth Âat.

Text: (1) The eighth Âat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith:— (2)

“Hail, Ha-hetep, great and mighty one of the canal/“None can obtain the mastery over the water which is “therein. (3) It is mightily to be “feared, and the roarings which are “therein are mighty. The (4) name
 “of the god therein is Qa-ha-hetep,
 “and he guardeth it gladly so that “none may enter. I am the Ennur
 “bird which is (5) above the thigh
 “of the god (?) Ân-ker-s, and I have “brought the possessions of the earth to the god Tem,

“and [I] make strong and fortify the mariners [of Rā],
 “(6) I have set the terror of myself in the divine lords
 “of the shrine, and I have set the awe of me in the “divine lords (7) of things; therefore I shall not be “carried off to the slaughter block of those who would “willingly destroy me. (8) I am the guide of the “northern horizon [and I know the god who is “therein].”

IX. Vignette : The ninth Aat. A crocodile thrusting his snout into a vase (?) called Åkesi.

Text : (1) The ninth Aat [which is to be painted] yellow. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Hail, thou city Åkesi, which art hidden (2) from “the gods, the Khus know the name of which the gods
 “are afraid. None can enter “therein, and none can come “forth therefrom except that “holy god (3) who dwelleth
 “in his egg, and who putteth
 “his fear into the gods and “the terror of himself into “the Khus. (4) The opening
 “[into the city] is of fire, and the winds thereof destroy “both nostrils and mouths, and the god hath made it
 “for those who follow willingly (5) in his train; none
 “can breathe the winds [thereof] except that holy god
 “who dwelleth in (6) his egg. He hath made the city
 “so that he may dwell therein at will, and none can “enter therein except on the day of great (7) transformations. Homage to thee, O thou holy god who dwellest in thine egg, I have come unto thee (8) that I may be among those who follow thee; let me come forth from the city of Âkesi, let me enter therein, let the gates thereof be opened unto me, let me breathe the air (9) which is therein, and let me have possession of the offerings thereof.”

X. Vignette : The tenth Âat. A man holding a knife in each hand; above him is a serpent.

Text : (1) The tenth Aat [which is to be painted] yellow. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail, thou city of the gods Qaħu, who take possession of Kħus and gain the mastery over the shades (kħaibit), who devour vigorous strength (3) and consume (?) filth when their eyes see, and who guard not the earth. (4) Hail, ye who dwell in your Âats, cast yourselves upon your bellies when I pass by you. My glorious strength shall not be taken away, (5) and none shall gain the mastery over my shade, for I am a divine hawk. Offerings of ānti unguent have been made ready by me, incense hath been offered by me, [animals have] been slaughtered (6) by me, Isis hath made offerings to my head, Nephthys is behind me, and a road hath been made clear for “me. [Hail,] serpent (7) Nāu, Bull of Nut, Neheb“kau, I have come unto you, O gods, deliver ye me,

 “and grant ye unto me my glorious strength for ever.”

XI. Vignette : The eleventh Âat, wherein stands a jackal-headed god holding a knife.

Text : (1) The eleventh Âat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :—

“Hail, thou city which art in (2) the underworld “(Neter-khert), which coverest over the body and “gainest the mastery
 “over the Khus. None
 “can come forth there-
 “from and none can “enter therein (3) by “reason of fear of “the opposing power
 “which is therein—
 “now the gods who

“are therein look upon it in iron (?) and (4) the dead
 “who are therein look upon it in his slaughterings—“except the gods who live therein in his mystery (5) of “the Khus. Hail, thou city of Âtu, grant thou unto “me that I may pass on, for I am the god who is “mighty of enchantments by reason of the knife which “came forth from the god Suti. (6) I have my feet
 “and legs for ever. I rise like Rā, I am strong “through the Eye of Horus, my heart is lifted up “(7) after it was brought low, [I am] glorious in "heaven, and [I am] mighty upon earth. I fly like

 "a hawk, (8) and I cackle like the smen goose, and it
 "hath been given to me to alight at the 'Thigh of the "Lake.' I stand up upon it, I sit down (9) upon it,
 "I rise up like a god, I eat of the food of Sekhti-hetep,
 "and I go onwards to the (10) domain of the starry
 "gods. The double doors of Maât are opened unto me,
 "and the double doors of the land of the great deep
 "(11) are unbolted before me. I set up a ladder to "heaven among the gods, and I am a divine being "among them. I speak with the voice of (12) the
 "smen goose to which the gods listen, and my speech
 "and my voice are those of the star Sept (Sothis)."

XII. Vignette : The twelfth Âat, called "Âstchetet em Âment."

Text: (1) The twelfth Âat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

"Hail, thou Âat of the city of Unt (?) at the head of "Re-stau, the flame of which is a blazing fire, the gods
 "are unable to approach thee (3) and "the Khus are unable to gather to"gether therein by reason of the uraei
 "which (4) would blot out their names.
 "Hail, thou Âat of Unt, I am in the "form of the mighty god who dwelleth
 "among the Khus and who dwelleth
 "in thee. (5) I am among the stars
 "that never fail within thee; I shall never fail,

“and my name shall never fail. (6) ‘Hail, odour
 “of the god,’ say they, the gods who dwell in the “Āat of Unt; [I shall be with you, I shall live with “you, O ye gods who dwell in the Āat of Unt;] love “ye me more than your own gods, (7) for I shall be “with you for ever [in the presence of the followers of “the great god].”

XIII. Vignette: The thirteenth Aat, called “Uārt ent mu.” Behind it stands the hippopotamus Hebet-re-f, with the right fore paw resting on a beetle.

Text: (1) The thirteenth Āat [which is to be painted] green. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith:—

“Hail, thou Āat wherein the Khus gain (2) no “mastery. Thy waters are of fire, and the streams “which are in thee
 “burn with fire, and “(3) thy flame is a “blazing fire, those “who are there and “who wish to drink “thy waters to “quench (4) their “thirst cannot do

“so by reason of the mighty dread which possesseth
 “them and by reason of the great terror which it causeth “them to have. The gods and the Khus (5) look “upon the waters thereof and retreat without having “quenched their thirst, and their hearts are not (6)

"set at rest ; and though they wish to enter into them
 "they cannot do so. The stream is filled with reeds,
 "even as the stream (7) which floweth from the issues
 "which come forth from Osiris. I have gained the "mastery over the waters [thereof], I have drunk
 "from the canal [thereof] (8) like the god who dwelleth
 "in the Aat of the waters, and who is the guardian
 "thereof. The gods are more afraid to drink (9) the "waters thereof than are the Khuis, and they retreat¹
 "therefrom. Homage to thee, O thou god who dwellest
 "in the Aat of the waters, (10) I have come unto thee,
 "grant thou that I may gain power over the waters
 "[thereof], and that I may drink from the canal "thereof, (11) even as thou dost allow to drink the "great god from whom cometh Hāp (i.e., the Nile),
 "who maketh green things to come into being, (12)
 "who maketh to grow the things which grow, who
 "maketh vigorous young plants and herbs, and who "also giveth to the gods gifts which proceed from him
 "and offerings (?). And grant thou that I may come
 "to Hāp, (13) and that I may gain power over young "plants and herbs, for I am the son of thy body for "ever."

XIV. Vignette : The fourteenth Aat. A range of mountains called "Field of Kher-āḥa," a man holding a libation vase, the god Anubis, a hawk with a disk, a lion-god, a man setting the techer crown upon a god, a hippopotamus, a crocodile, and a worm.

¹ Or, "they are terrified thereat."

Text : (1) The fourteenth Āat [which is to be painted, yellow. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail, thou Āat of Kher-āḥa, which turneth back “Hāp at Tattu, grant thou that Hāp may come (3)

“abundant in grain as “he advanceth for the “mouth of those who “eat, and giving divine “offerings to the gods,
“and (4) sepulchral meals
“to the Khus. There is “a serpent in the double “qerti of Ābu (Elephan-

“tine) at the mouth of (5) Hāp, and he cometh with “water and he standeth up upon the Thigh of Kher-āḥa “with his divine sovereign princes (6) at the head of “the canal, and he seeth in his hour, which is the silence
“of the night. Hail, ye gods of (7) Kher-āḥa, and ye “sovereign princes at the head of the canal [thereof], “let your pools be opened to me, let your streams be “opened (8) to me, let me gain power over the water, “let me rest on the canal, let me eat grain, (9) let me “be satisfied with your food, let me lift myself up, let “my heart be great, even as [is that of] (10) the god “who dwelleth in Kher-āḥa, let offerings like unto “yours be made to me, let me not be destroyed by the “(11) issues which come forth from Osiris, and let me
“not be withdrawn therefrom for ever.”

CHAPTER CLII.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 13¹.)]

Vignette : The deceased standing before a house.¹

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF BUILDING A HOUSE UPON THE EARTH. The overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail! Seb rejoiceth, for the Osiris Nu standeth “up over his body, [and he goeth round about among “those who follow Rā]. To men [and to the gods]
 “who have given birth to their own fathers (3) I have “ascribed praise; and they have sight. The goddess “Sesheta hath brought the god Nebt, and Anpu “(Anubis) hath called unto the Osiris Nu (4) to “build a house on the earth. Its foundation is in “Ānnu (Heliopolis), and the circuit thereof [reacheth]
 “to Kherāḥa, the shrine (?) is [like that of] the god

¹ In the Saïte Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 74) the vignette represents the deceased seated in a chair holding out his hands to receive the bread and water which the kneeling goddess of the sycamore tree is about to give him.

“Sekhem, who dwelleth in (5) Sekhem, according to “that which I have written for the renewal (?) thereof,
 “and men and women bring offerings, and libations,
 “and ministrants(?). And Osiris saith unto (6) the “gods who are in [his] following and who journey “along, ‘Behold ye the house which hath been built
 “for a Khu who is provided (7) with [all his attributes],
 “who cometh daily to renew himself among you. O
 “hold ye him in awe, and ascribe ye unto him praises,
 “and let him be a favoured being with you; look “ye (8) to what I have done and to what I have said.’
 “And Osiris saith concerning the god, ‘Let him come “daily to renew himself among you. And let beasts
 “[for sacrifice] be brought unto him (9) by the south
 “wind, and let grain be brought unto him by the north “wind, and let barley be brought unto him from the “ends of the earth’; the mouth of Osiris hath ordered
 “[this] for me. Drawing onward may he (10) go round “about on his left hand, may he place himself on his “right hand, and may he see men, and the gods, and “the Khus, and the dead drawing him along with “mekhes which is with me is (31) the ‘Thigh of the “god Shesmu’; and the pole with curved ends which “is with me is the ‘Finger of Sekeri’; and the table

 “which is with me is the ‘Hand of Isis’; (32) and the “slaughtering knife which is with me is the ‘Slaughtering knife of the god Shesmu.’ O grant that I may come; O grant, then, that I may sit (33) in the boat of Rā; let me sail forth on the Lake of Testes (?) towards the northern heaven; let me do as do they who sing when they sing praises (34) of my ka; and let me live as do they there. The Osiris Nu, triumphant, cometh forth upon your ladder which Rā hath made for him, (35) and Horus and Suti hold him fast by the hand.”

In the Saite Recension (see Lepsius, op. cit., Bl. 74), the following rubric is added to this Chapter:

[This chapter] shall be recited over a figure of the deceased which shall be put in a boat. And behold, thou shalt make a sektet boat on his right side, and a mātet boat on his left, and let them bring offerings of cakes, and of ale, and of all kinds of fair things on the day of the birth of Osiris. The soul of him to whom these things have been given shall live for ever, and he shall not die a second time.

 “then, O lord of the winds, (4) who dost magnify those “divine beings who are like unto himself. Stablish

 “the funeral chest. Grant thou that I may enter into “the land of everlastingness, according to that which “thee, let me not fall into rottenness even as thou dost “animal, and every reptile to see corruption when the “soul hath gone forth from them after their death.

 “And when the soul departeth (or perisheth), a man “seeth corruption and the bones (8) of his body rot

"and the flesh becometh foetid liquid, (9) and he
 "becometh a brother unto the decay which cometh
 "upon him, and he turneth into multitudes of worms, “minate, I shall germinate, I shall germinate; I shall “wake up in peace; I shall not putrefy; my intes“tines (?) shall not perish; I shall not suffer injury;

“I am the Watch of mother-of-emerald which “cannot be injured (?), and which the hand of Thoth “adoreth; injury is a thing which I abominate. It “is in sound state and I am in sound state; it is

Each one of these winds (4) shall breathe into his nostrils as he entereth in his daily course. Let none who is outside know [this chapter]; (5) it is a great mystery, and those who dwell in the swamps (i.e., the ignorant) know it not. Thou shalt not do this in the presence of any person (6) except thy father or thy son, or thyself alone; for it is, indeed, an exceedingly (7) great mystery which no man whatsoever knoweth.

Text: THE CHAPTER OF MAKING HEAT TO BE UNDER THE HEAD OF THE DECEASED. (1) To be recited:—"Homage to thee, O thou god Par, thou "mighty one, whose plumes are lofty, thou lord of the " Ureret crown, who rulest with the whip; thou art the "lord of the phallus, thou growest as thou shinest with "rays of light, (2) and thy shining is to the uttermost "parts [of earth and sky].  "head, for, indeed, he is the soul of the great divine a cow which hath been made in fine gold and placed at the neck of the deceased, and it shall be written upon (9) new papyrus and placed under his head, then shall abundant warmth be in him throughout even like that which was in him when he was upon earth. This hath exceedingly great protective power, for it was made by the cow for her son Rā when he was setting and when (10) his habitation was surrounded by a company of beings of fire. And the deceased shall become divine in the underworld, and he shall never be turned back at any of the gates thereof. (11)

And thou shalt say when thou placest [the image of] this goddess at the neck of the deceased:—"O Amen, O Amen, "who art in heaven, turn thy face upon the dead body of thy "son and make him sound and strong in the underworld." (12) This is a composition of exceedingly great mystery. Let not the eye of any man whatsoever see it, for it is an abominable thing for [every man] to know it; therefore hide it. "Book of the mistress of the hidden temple" is its name.

THE CHAPTER OF NOT ALLOWING THE BODY OF A MAN TO MOULDER AWAY IN THE UNDERWORLD, AND

OF DELIVERING HIM FROM THOSE WHO DEVOUR THE SOULS THAT ARE SHUT IN IN THE UNDERWORLD, AND OF NOT ALLOWING TO RISE UP AGAINST HIM THE THINGS WHICH HE ABOMINATETH UPON EARTH, AND OF MAKING SOUND AND STRONG HIS LIMBS AND BONES AGAINST WORMS AND AGAINST EVERY GOD WHO WOULD ATTACK HIM IN THE UNDERWORLD, AND OF CAUSING HIM TO COME FORTH AND TO GO IN AS HE PLEASETH AND TO DO WHATSOEVER HE HATH IN HIS HEART TO DO WITHOUT HINDRANCE. (1) The Osiris Äuf-änkh, triumphant, saith :—

“I am the divine soul of the great divine body which is laid to rest in Äthabu, which protecteth the body of (2) Harethi, the . . . which resteth in the marshes of Senhaqareha. O divine soul which hath no languor of heart either in rising (3) or setting, and which resteth within his divine body which is laid to rest in Senhaparekana, grant thou to Osiris Äuf-änkh, triumphant, that he may deliver himself (4) from the souls of the god-of-the-savage-face, who gaineth the mastery over hearts and taketh possession of limbs, and from whose mouths fire cometh forth to devour souls. Hail, thou who art lying prostrate within thy body, whose flame (5) cometh into being from out of the fire which blazeth within the sea (or water) in such wise that the sea (or water) is raised up on high out of the fire thereof, grant thou that the flame (6) may leave the fire, wherever it may be, to raise up the hand of Osiris Äuf-änkh, triumphant, and to make "him to have an existence for ever and for ever. Verily,

 "let his period of existence be as the period of existence
 "(7) of heaven in the limitless boundaries thereof.
 "Heaven holdeth thy soul, O Osiris Auf-ānkh, and "earth holdeth thy form. O deliver thou Osiris Auf-
 "ānkh, triumphant, and let him not be [consumed] by "the kawi (8) who devour the souls of those who have "raised up evil (?). Let his soul have its being within "his body, and let his body have its being with his "soul; and let him be hidden within the pupil of the "Utchat of the god whose name is Sharei-sharei-shapu-
 "neter-āri(9)-ka, who repositeth at the northwest of the "brow of the Apt of the land of Kenset (Nubia), and "journeyeth not to the east. Hail, god Amen, thou
 "divine Bull-Scarab, (10) thou lord of the divine
 "Utchats! God-the-pupil-of-whose-eye-is-terrible is "thy name, the Osiris Auf-ānkh, triumphant, born of "Sheret-Āmsu, triumphant, is the emanation of thy
 "two Eyes, the name of one of which is Share-share-
 "khet, and (11) Shapu-neter-āri-ka of the other, though
 "'Shaka-Āmen-Shakanasa at the brow of Tem who illu-
 "mineth the two lands' (12) is his name in very truth.
 "Grant that Osiris Auf-ānkh, triumphant, may be of "this land of Maāt, let him not be left in his solitude,
 "for he is of this earth wherein he will no [more]
 "appear, and 'Ān' (13) is his name. O let him be "with a perfect Khu, or (as others say), a strong Khu,
 "and let him be the soul of the mighty body which is
 "in Sau (Saïs), the city of Neith."

RUBRIC: [This chapter] is to be recited over a serpent having legs and wearing (14) a disk and two horns, and over two Utchats having both eyes and wings. In the pupil of one of the Utchats there shall be a figure of the god-of-the-lifted-hand with the face of the divine soul, and having plumes and a back (15) like a hawk; and in the pupil of the other there shall be a figure of the god-of-the-lifted-hand with the face of the goddess Neith, and having plumes and a back like a hawk. And this chapter shall be written with ānti either upon a meh stone . . . or upon mother-of-emerald (16) of the south and [dipped] in water of the western lake of Qemt (Egypt) or upon a bandage of uatchet linen wherewith a man should swathe every limb. And the deceased shall not be turned back at any gate of the underworld; he shall eat (17) and drink and ease himself even as he did when he was upon earth; and none shall rise up to cry out against him; and he shall be protected from the hands of the enemy for ever and ever. If this book be recited for him upon earth he shall not be seized (18) by the messengers of attack who work evil in all the earth; he shall not have gashes inflicted upon him; he shall not die through the slaughter of Set; and he shall not be carried off to any place of restraint whatsoever; but he shall go in unto the qenbet, and he shall come forth with triumph, (19) and he shall go out to terrify the evil-doers who exist in all the earth.

Vignette : A goddess, with a head of a woman and two heads of a vulture, standing with outstretched wings. On each side of her is a dwarf with two heads, one of a man and one of a hawk; each dwarf has a disk and plumes upon his head.

Text : ANOTHER CHAPTER.

(1) "Homage to thee, O Sekhet-Bast-Rā, thou
 "mistress of the gods, thou bearer of wings, lady "of the Anes bandlet, queen of the crowns of the "South and of the North, only One, sovereign of her "father, superior to whom the gods cannot be, thou
 "mighty one of enchantments (2) in the Boat of "Millions of Years, thou who art pre-eminent, who
 "risest in the seat of silence, mother of Pashakasa,
 "royal wife of Parehaqa-Kheperu, (3) mistress and
 "lady of the tomb, mother in the horizon of heaven,
 "gracious one, beloved, destroyer of rebellion, offerings
 "are in thy grasp, and thou art standing in the bows
 "of the boat of thy divine father (4) to overthrow the "Fiend. Thou hast placed Maât in the bows of his "boat. Thou art the fire goddess Âmit, whose oppor"tunity escapeth her not; thy name is Tekaharesa-

 "pusaremkakaremet. (5) Thou art like unto the mighty
 "flame of Saqenaqat which is in the bows of the boat
 "of thy father Harepuḳaka-share-sha-baiu, (6) for be"hold, thus is [the name uttered] in the speech of the "Negroes, and of the Ânti, and of people of Ta-Kensetet
 "(Nubia). Praise be to thee, O lady, who art mightier
 "than the gods, and words of adoration rise to thee
 "from the Eight gods. The living souls who are in "their chests (7) praise thy mystery. O thou who art
 "their mother, thou source from whom they sprang,
 "[who] makest for them a place of repose in the hidden
 "underworld, [who] makest sound their bones and
 "preservest them from terror, (8) who makest them
 "strong (?) in the abode of everlastingness, who pre-
 "servest them from the evil chamber of the souls of "the god-of-the-terrible-face [who is] among the com"pany of the gods. 'Babe that comest forth from the "god-of-the-terrible-face who keepeth his body hidden'
 "is thy name. (9) 'Âtare-âm-tcher-qemtu-rennu-par-
 "sheta' is the name of one divine son, 'Pa-nemmå' [is
 "the name] of the other. 'Utchat of Sekhet, mighty
 "lady, (10) mistress of the gods' is thy name. 'Eman-
 "ation of' is the name of Mut, who maketh
 "souls strong (?) and who maketh sound bodies, and "who delivereth them from the abode of the fiends
 "which is in the evil chamber. (11) The goddess

"saith with her own mouth, 'They shall never be fettered, and I will do according to what ye say, O ye T'chawi of the divine son, for whom they performed the funeral rites.'"

RUBRIC: (12) [This chapter] shall be recited over [a figure of] Mut which hath three heads; the first shall be like unto that of Pekhat, and shall have [upon it] plumes; the second shall be like unto that of a man and shall have [upon it] the crowns of the South and North; and the third shall be like unto that of a vulture and shall have [upon it] plumes. And the figure shall have a phallus (13), and a pair of wings, and the claws of a lion, and it shall be painted with ānt and powder (?) of uatch mixed (?) with yellow colour (?) upon a bandage of ānes linen. In front of it shall stand one dwarf, and behind it [another]; and (14) [each] shall have upon him plumes, and [one] hand and arm shall be raised, and [each] shall have two faces, one of a hawk and one of a man, and the body of each shall be fat. [Then shall the deceased] be divine along with the gods in the underworld; (15) he shall never, never be turned back; his flesh and his bones shall be like those of one who hath never been dead; he shall drink water at the source of the stream; a homestead shall be given unto him in Sekhet-āanre; (16) he shall become a star of heaven; he shall set out against the serpent-fiend Nekáu and against Tar, who are in the underworld; he shall not be shut in along with the souls which are fettered; he shall deliver himself wherever he may be; and worms shall not devour him.

 "supplication unto thee, I, even I, know thy name.
 "Thy transformations (5) are in my mouth, thy skin
 "is before my eyes. Come, I pray thee, and place thou
 "thy heir and thy image, Osiris Āuf-ānkh, triumphant,
 "born of Sheret-Āmsu, triumphant, (6) in the ever"lasting underworld. Grant thou that all his members
 "may repose in Neter-khertet (the underworld) or (as "others say) in Ākertet (the underworld); let his whole
 "body become like that of a god; let him escape from
 "the evil chamber and let him not be imprisoned (7)
 "therein. I adore thy name. Thou hast made for me
 "a skin, and thou hast comprehended [my] speech, and
 "thou knowest it exceedingly well. 'Āmen' is thy "name. O Retasashaka, (8) I have made for thee a
 "skin, [namely] a divine soul. 'Ireqai' is thy name;

 "adore thy name, grant thou to me that I may com-
 "prehend thee; grant thou that I may have peace in the
 "'Tuat (underworld) and may possess all my members
 "[therein]. And the divine Soul which is in Nut (11)
 "saith:— 'I will make my divine strength to protect "thee, and I will perform everything which thou hast
 "said.' "

RUBRIC: [This chapter] shall be recited over [a figure of] the god-of-the-lifted-hand which shall have plumes upon its head; the legs thereof shall be wide apart, and the middle portion of it shall be in the form of (12) a beetle, and it shall be painted blue with lapis-lazuli mixed with qamâi water. And [it shall be recited over] a figure with a head like unto that of a man, and the hands and arms thereof shall be stretched (13) away [from its body]; above its right shoulder shall there be the head of a ram, and above its left shoulder shall there be the head of a ram. And thou shalt paint upon a piece of linen a figure of the god-of-the-lifted-hand (14) immediately over his heart, and thou shalt paint the [other] figure over the breasts. Let not the god Sukāti (15) who is in the underworld know it. Then shall the deceased drink water from the source of the stream, and he shall shine like the stars in the heavens above.

Text: THE CHAPTER OF MAKING TO STAND UP THE HENKIT.¹ (1) The Am-khent, Osiris Nefer-uben-f, triumphant, saith:—

“Thou art the Lion-god. Thou art the double Lion-“god. Thou art Horus, the avenger of his father “[Osiris]. Thou art Four, the four glorious gods.

“Acclamation is made [unto thee], along with cries
“of delight (2) and sounds of joy, and the water from “their haunches and from their thighs I bring [unto “thee]. Thou art lifted up on thy right side, and thou “art lifted up on thy left side. The god Seb hath “opened for thee (3) thy two eyes which were blind, and “he hath given [thee] the power to stretch out thy legs
“[in walking]. Hath been bound unto thee thy heart “(āb), [thy] mother, and thy heart (ḥāt) is in thy body.
“Thy soul is in heaven, and thy body is under the “ground. There are cakes for thy body, and water for “thy throat, and sweet (4) breezes for thy nostrils,
“and thou art satisfied with offerings. Those who “dwell in their shrines open their abodes (?) unto “thee, thou hast thy provisions (?), and thou journeyest “along. Thou art stablished upon that which ema“nateth from thy existence, and thou comest forth
“from heaven. The cord hath been coiled up for thee
“(5) by the side of Rā, and thou snarest fish with the “net in the stream from which thou drinkest vessels of “water. Thou performest a journey on thy legs, and “in going forward thou dost not stumble (?); thou “comest forth (6) from over the earth, thou dost not “make thy appearance from below the walls [thereof].
“Thy walls are not thrown down, and what there is of “thine within hath been made for thee by the god of “thy city. Thou art pure, thou art pure Thy fore “parts are washed by libations, and thy hinder parts
“are cleansed (7) with resin and natron, and made cool

“with incense. Thou art made clean with the milk of “the Hāp cow, and with the ale of the goddess Tenemit,
“and with natron. All the evil which clung to thee
“(8) hath been done away with, and Tefnet, the “daughter of Rā, hath made offerings on thy behalf
“even as she did for her father Rā; and the funeral “valley which was the burial-place of her father Osiris “hath been set in order for thee. I make to eat of the “sweet things (9) which he giveth there the Osiris “Nefer-uben-f, triumphant, that is to say, the celestial “cakes which are before Rā, and the grain (?), and “drink, and the four terrestrial cakes which are before
“the god Seb, and the grain [brought by] the citizens.
“(10) I have brought unto thee Sekhet-hetep and the “gifts thereof are before thee. Thou comest forth as “Rā, thou hast gotten power as Rā, and thou hast “gotten power over thy legs; and thou, O Osiris “Nefer-uben-f, hast gotten power over thy legs at “every (11) season and at every hour. Thou hast
“not been condemned in the judgment, thou hast not “been put under restraint, a guard hath not been set
“over thee, thou hast not been imprisoned, and thou “hast not been given over to the chamber of the Fiends
“(12) therein. The sand is gathered together before “thy face and guarded are the offerings which are for “thee; thy face is not suffered to be turned back, and “thou art guarded and dost not come forth. Thou “hast received thy tunic, and thy sandals, and thy “stick, (13) and thy garment, and thy weapons for “fighting of all kinds wherewith thou shalt cut off “heads; thou shalt turn back the necks of thy foes “whom thou shalt take captive, and thou shalt keep “away from thee death so that it shall not come nigh “unto thee. And the (14) Great God hath said concerning thee: ‘Bring him [hither] on the day when “events take place.’ The Hawk rejoiceth in thee, and “the Smen goose cackleth at thee. Rā openeth for “thee the doors of heaven, and Seb unbolteth for thee

“the earth. (15) Thy *kh*u is mighty, and it is perfect “knowing thy name; thy soul maketh a way through “Āment, and thy perfect soul, O Nefer-uben-f, triumphant, hath the power of speech. Thy form is within “Rā, (16) and it resteth within the divine sovereign “chiefs of him who uniteth the two paths; mankind
“keepeth guard over it, and the double Lion-god guideth
“it, to the place where thou, O Osiris Nefer-uben-f, “triumphant, makest thy ka to rest. And behold, the “two lands and mankind work (17) the snare for thee.
“Thou livest, thy soul is strong, thy body is enduring
“and great, thou hast sight of the fire, thou dost snuff
“the breeze, thy face doth penetrate into the house of “darkness, (18) thou abidest at the Gap, thou dost not “see the whirlwind and the storm, thou followest in “the train of the prince of the two lands, and thou “refreshes thyself on the branch of merit tree on both “sides of the god Ur-ḥekau. The goddess Seshetet “sitteth (19) before thee, the god Sa protecteth thy “members, the bull and his cow give thee milk from "the breast [in] the following of Sekhat-Heru. Thou

 "washest thyself at the mouth of the stream of Kher-
 "āḥa, (20) thou art in favour with the princes of the "cities of Pe and Tep, the god Thoth and thyself see
 "each other, and Rā in heaven holdeth converse with "thee, thou comest forth from and thou enterest into
 "the anit chamber, and thou holdest converse with the "two divine combatants (i.e., Horus and Set). (21)
 "Thy ka is with thee to make thee to rejoice, thy heart
 "is with thee to [give thee] thy transformations, happy
 ". . . keep watch over thee, the company of the gods
 "make thy heart glad, thou comest forth to four cakes
 "in the city of Sekhem, and four in (22) the city of "Āqennu, thou comest forth to four in the city of "Ānnu, upon the altar of the lady of the two lands.
 "The stars keep watch over thee by night, the lords
 "of Ānnu have a favour unto thee, the god H̄u is in "thy mouth, thy feet are not (23) turned back, and thy
 "members have life. Thou graspest the smā in Āb̄tu,
 "the sacrificial cakes of the divine chiefs and the liba-
 "tions of the celestial beings are brought forward to "thee, with the offerings in the festival (24) which are "due to Osiris on the morning of the Uaḥ festival for "hidden things (?). Thou art ornamented with objects
 "of gold, and thine apparel is interwoven (?) with "byssus. H̄āpi (i.e., the Nile) thrusteth himself upon
 "thy body (25), thou hast power over the tablet (?)
 "which is inscribed with [lists of] offerings, and thou
 "drinkest water on both sides of the Lake of Ṭeṣṣes (?).

“The gods who are there have a favour unto thee,
 “and thou comest forth from heaven along with the “gods (26) who make to advance the maāt of Rā, and “thou art led into the presence of the company of the “gods; and there is done for thee even as it is done
 “for one of them. Thou art the Khart bird of the “geese, and Ptaḥ of the Southern (27) Wall maketh
 “an offering unto Nefer-uben-f, triumphant.”

Text : THE CHAPTER OF ARRANGING THE HENKIT.¹
 (1) The Osiris Nefer-uben-f saith :—

“Thy flesh have I given unto thee. Thy bones have “I fastened together for thee. Thy members have I “collected for thee. The earth submitteth itself unto “thee. Thy limbs are guarded. Thou art the (2)
 “mighty one within the egg. Thou art set in order.
 “Thou seest the gods (?). Thou settest out on thy

“and unto the holy place where thou wouldst be.
“There is acclamation made unto thee, and there are “(3) shouts of joy raised to thee at thine appearances “at the altar. Horus maketh thee to stand up at his “risings, even as he did him who is in the chamber of “holiness. Hail, Osiris Nefer-uben-f, triumphant, the “goddess Ua (?) hath given thee birth, (4) and Anpu “(Anubis), who dwelleth upon his hill, hath set thee
“in order, and he hath fastened for thee thy swathings.
“Hail, Nefer-uben-f, the god Ptah-Sekri hath given “unto thee of the ornaments of the divine house which “self cometh unto thee with the books of holy words,

“and he maketh thy hand [to reach] unto the horizon, “even unto the place [wherein] thy ka loveth to be;
“and Osiris worketh [for thee on] the night of journey“ing unto life. Thy white crown (6) is stablished on thy “brow. The god Shesmu is with thee, and he giveth “unto thee fine feathered fowl. Hail, Osiris Nefer“uben-f, triumphant, thou hast been set in order upon “thy funeral couch; thou comest forth, and Rā (7)
“who is in the hidden horizon within his boat hath “set thee in order. Hail, Osiris Nefer-uben-f, trium“phant, the god Tem, the father of the gods, hath “made for thee the things which are to endure for “gods of the shrine praise thee. Hail, Osiris Nefer“uben-f, with two-fold happiness thou settest out in

 "mighty one of souls, and hath
 "set thee in order, and the gods embrace thee. (10)

 "transformations which are more numerous and with "a created form more perfect than those of the gods.
 "Thou hast more light (?) than the Khus and thou "art more mighty of souls than are those who are in "[them]. Hail, (11) Osiris Nefer-uben-f, Ptaḥ on his "Southern Wall hath set thee in order, and he hath "made to advance thine abode more than [that of] the "gods. Hail, Osiris, the ām-khent, Nefer-uben-f, thou
 "art Horus, the son of Isis, begotten of (12) Ptaḥ;
 "and Nut hath created [thee] a being of light like unto
 "Râ in the horizon when he illumineth the two lands
 "with his beauteous light. And the gods say unto "thee:—'Come forward, advance now and look thou
 "upon the things which are thine in thine (13) abode
 "of everlastingness.' The goddess Rennutet, the heir
 "and first-born of Tem, hath set thee in order in the "presence of the company of the gods (14) of Nut. I,
 "even I, am the heir of heaven, and the fellow of the "God who maketh his light. I have come forth from "the womb, and I shall grow young again even as doth
 "(15) my father, and I shall not be prevented from “praiseth the majesty of Thoth, the beloved one, “[saying]:—‘May his beauties be in my tomb, and “may all the purity which he loveth (27) be there

 “even as my God hath commanded for me.’”

V. “Hail, verily thou art invoked; hail, verily thou “art invoked. Thy two hands are a pool of water in “the season of an abundant inundation, a pool of water “fringed about with the divine offering of the water-“god. Thy (28) thighs are encircled with gold; thy “knees are the plants of the waters which are the nests

“of the birds ; thy feet are stablished each day ; thy “legs lead thee into a (29) path of happiness, O scribe “Nebseni, thou favoured one. Thy hands and arms “are pillars (?) [set] upon their pedestals ; thy fingers
 “are bars of gold, the nails of which are like sharp “flakes (30) of flint by reason of the works which they “perform for thee.”

VI. “Hail, verily thou art invoked ; hail, verily “thou art invoked. Thou clothest thyself with the “garment of purity (ābu), and behold, thou drawest off
 “from thyself the umet garment when (31) thou goest
 “up to stretch thyself upon the couch (?). Haunches
 “of meat are cut for thy ka, O scribe Nebseni, and a “breast (or heart) of the animal is offered unto thy “sāhu. Thou receivest a garment of the finest linen “(32) from the hands of the ministrant (?) of Rā ; thou “eatest the cakes upon the cloth which the goddess
 “Tait herself hath prepared ; thou eatest the haunch
 “of the animal (33) ; thou takest boldly the joint which “Rā hath endowed with power in his holy place ; thou “washest thy feet in the silver basins which the god “Seker, the artificer, hath wrought ; and behold, (34)
 “thou eatest of the cake which appeareth on the altar
 “and which the two divine fathers have sanctified.
 “Thou eatest of the baked bread and of the hot meats
 “of the storehouse ; thou (35) smelllest the flowers ; “thy heart feareth not [to advance] to the altar of the “offerings made to thee ; and those who feed thee with “food make for thee the loaves and bread-cakes of the "Souls of Ánnu (Heliopolis), (36) and they themselves

 "bear them unto thee. Thine offerings (?) are ordered
 "for thee, and thy ordinances are in the gates of the "Great House. Thou risest up like Saḥ (Orion); thou
 "arrivest like the star Bau; (37) and the goddess Nut
 "[stretcheth out] her hands unto thee. Saḥ (Orion),
 "the son of Rā, and Nut, who gave birth to the gods—
 "the two mighty gods in heaven—speak each to the "other, saying, (38) 'Take the scribe and draughtsman
 "Nebseni into thine arms, and I will take him into "mine on this day, and let us make happiness for him
 "when praises are sung to him and when mention is "made of him, and when [his name] is in the mouth
 "of all young men and maidens.' (39) Thou art raised
 "up, [O Nebseni,] and thou hearest the songs of com-
 "memoration through the door of thy house."

VII. "Hail, verily thou art invoked; hail, verily
 "thou art invoked. Anubis hath bestowed upon thee
 "thy winding-sheet, he hath (40) wrought [for thee]
 "according to his will, he hath provided thee with the "ornaments of his bandages, for he is the overseer of "the great god. Thou settest out on thy way and thou
 "hast been washed in the Lake of Perfection; thou
 "makest offerings in the celestial mansions, and thou
 "propitiatest (41) the lords of Ánnu (Heliopolis). The "water of Rā is presented unto thee in vessels, and "milk in large vases. Thou art raised up and thou
 "makest offerings upon the altar, thou wasthest thy "feet upon the stone of (42) on the banks

“of the Lake of God. Thou comest forth and thou “seest Rā upon the pillars which are the arms of “heaven, upon the head of An-mut-f and upon the “arms of Ap-uat; he openeth out for thee a way “(43) and thou seest the horizon wherein is the “place of purity which thou lovest.”

VIII. “Hail, verily thou art invoked; hail, verily “thou art invoked. Offerings are allotted unto thee
“in the presence of Rā, and according to that which “Horus and Thoth ordered for thee thou hast had a “beginning and an end. (44) They invoke thee, O “scribe Nebseni, and see thy splendour there, causing “thee to come forth [as] a god (45) and to advance to “the Souls of Annu. Thou goest forth upon the great “roads in thy Sāḥ, who hast received the offerings of “thy father upon thy two hands; thou art furnished “with linen garments each day, at the beginning of “the journey of the god through the gates of the (46)
“Great House.”

IX. “Hail, verily thou art invoked; hail, verily “thou art invoked. The scribe Nebseni hath air for “his nose and breath for his nostrils, and one thousand “geese, and fifty baskets of pure and fair offerings.
“Hail, Nebseni, thine enemies have fallen down head-
“long and they shall nevermore exist.”

“Thy son hath offered up for thee [a sacrifice], and “the divine mighty ones tremble (2) when they look “upon the slaughtering knife which is in thy hand
 “[when] thou comest forth from the Tuat. Homage
 “to thee, O god Saa, the god Seb hath created thee,
 “and the company of the gods have given birth unto “thee. (3) Horus resteth upon his Eye, and the god
 “Tem resteth upon his years, and the gods of the east

“and of the west rest upon the mighty one who hath “come into existence within [thy] hand. (4) A god “hath been born [now that] I have been born; I see
 “and I have sight; I have my existence; I am lifted “up upon my place; [I have] done what hath been “decreed; (5) [I] hate slumber; I have endowed with “might the feeble one. He that dwelleth in the city
 “of Neṭet hath made cakes for me in the city of Pe,
 “and I have received [my form] in Annu, for it is “Horus who hath commanded (6) what shall be done
 “for his father the lord of winds (?), and the god Set “quaketh; he hath raised me up, and Tem hath raised “me up. O, I am the mighty one, (7) and I have come “forth from between the thighs of the company of the “gods. I have been conceived by Sekhet (8) and by “[Shes-]Khentet, and I have been brought forth at “the door of the star Sept (Sothis), the foremost (?) one “who with long strides (9) bringeth along the celestial “path of Rā day by day. I have come to my habita“tion (10) as prince of the North and South, and I rise

 “double plumes who art called by the name of Mi-“shepes, I am the lotus (12) which shineth in the “Land of Purity and which hath received me and “which maketh my abode at the nostrils of the Great “Form, (13) I have come into the Lake of Flame, and “I have placed right and truth in the Place of Sin.
 “(14) I am the watcher of the sesheru garments, and
 “the watcher of the Uraeus on the night of the flood

“of the Great one. (15) I rise like Nefer-Tem, who is “the lotus at the nostrils of Rā, when he cometh forth
 “from the horizon each day; and the gods are purified
 “at the (16) sight of the lady of the house Mut-“hetepeth, who is triumphant before the Kas and “who gathereth together hearts for Saau-ur, whom “(17) the god, Sāa-Āmenti-Rā, holdeth (?). I have “come upon my seat before the Kas, and I have “gathered together hearts for Saa-urt, and I have “my being (18) as Sāa whom Rā the god of Āmenti “holdeth (?); and the tchet implement is with me.
 “I recite the mighty [words] which are in the heart
 “on the festival of the Ānsi garment, and I am Sa-“Āmenti(19)-Rā, the strong (?) of heart within the “hidden chamber of Nu.”

CHAPTER CLXXV.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 29).]

Vignette : The deceased and his wife standing, with hands raised in adoration, before the god Thoth, who is seated upon a pylon-shaped throne, and has the emblem of “life” upon his knees.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF NOT DYING A SECOND TIME. Osiris, the scribe Ani, triumphant, saith :— (2)

“Hail, Thoth! What is it that hath happened unto
 “the divine children of Nut? (3) They have done “battle, they have upheld strife, they have done evil,
 “(4) they have created the fiends, they have made “slaughter, they have caused (5) trouble ; in truth, in “all their doings the mighty have worked against the “weak. (6) Grant, O might of Thoth, that that which “the god Tem hath decreed [may be done]! And thou

"regardest not evil, nor art thou (7) provoked to anger
 "when they bring their years to confusion and throng
 "in and push to disturb their months; for in all that "they have done (8) unto thee they have worked
 "iniquity in secret. I am thy writing palette, O
 "Thoth, and I have brought unto thee thine ink-jar.
 "I am not (9) of those who work iniquity in their "secret places; let not evil happen unto me."

Saith Osiris, the scribe Ani:—(10) "Hail, Tmu!
 "What manner [of land] is this into which I have "come? It hath not water, it hath not air; it is depth
 "unfathomable, (11) it is black as the blackest night,
 "and men wander helplessly therein. In it a man may "not live in quietness of heart; nor may the longings
 "of love be satisfied (12) therein. But let the state of "the shining ones be given unto me instead of water
 "and air and the satisfying of the longings of love, and
 "let quietness of heart be given unto me instead of "cakes (13) and ale. The god Tem hath decreed that "I shall see thy face, and that I shall not suffer from "the things which pain thee. May every god transmit
 "unto thee (14) his throne for millions of years. Thy "throne hath descended unto thy son Horus, and the "god Tem hath decreed that his course shall be among "the holy princes. (15) In truth, he shall rule over
 "thy throne, and he shall be heir of the throne of the "Dweller in the Lake of Double Fire. In truth, it "hath been decreed that in me he shall see his like-
 "ness, and that my face (16) shall look upon the face “of the lord Tem. How long then have I to live? It “is decreed that thou shalt live for millions of millions “of years, a life of millions of years. (17) May it be “granted unto me that I pass on unto the holy princes,

 “for indeed, I am doing away with all the wrong which “I did, from the time when this earth came into being “from Nu (18), when it sprang from the watery abyss “even as it was in the days of old. I am Fate (or “Time) and Osiris, and I have made my transforma“tions into the likeness of divers (19) serpents. Man “knoweth not, and the gods cannot behold, the two-fold “beauty which I have made for Osiris, who is greater “than all the gods. I have given unto him (20) the “region of the dead. And verily, his son Horus is “seated upon the throne of the Dweller in the Lake of “Double Fire, as his heir. I have made him to have “his throne (21) in the boat of millions of years.
 “Horus is stablished upon his throne, [among his] “friends and all that belonged unto him. Verily, the “soul of Set, which (22) is greater than all the gods, “hath departed. May it be granted that I bind his “soul in the divine boat (23) at my (?) will, and that “[he] may have fear of the divine body. O my father “Osiris, thou hast done for me that which thy father “Rā did for thee. May I abide upon the earth last“ingly; (24) may I keep possession of my throne; may “my heir be strong; may my tomb and my friends who “are upon earth flourish; (25) may my enemies be “given over to destruction and to the shackles of the “goddess Serq. I am thy son, and Rā is my father.

 “(26) For me likewise thou hast made life, strength,
 “and health. Horus is established upon his throne.
 “Grant thou that the days of my life may come unto “worship and honour.”

The remains of a much longer version of this Chapter have been found in the papyrus of “a scribe of the offerings of the King of the North and South,” called Rā (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bll. 198, 199), and from these we may see that the happiness of the deceased in the underworld was more fully described therein. No connected sense can, however, be given to this version, for the beginnings and ends of the lines of the text of the Chapter are wanting almost throughout. From the Rubric we learn that the Chapter was “to be recited over a figure of Horus made of lapis-lazuli which was to be laid upon the neck of the deceased,” and that the performance of this ceremony was believed to be most efficacious in securing important benefits for the dead.

CHAPTER CLXXVI.

[From the Papyrus of Nu (Brit. Mus. No. 10,477, sheet 22).]

Vignette: This Chapter is without vignette.

Text: (1) THE CHAPTER OF NOT DYING A SECOND TIME. The Osiris Nu, the overseer of the house of the overseer of the seal, triumphant, saith:—

“That which I abominate is the land of the East.
 “Let me not enter into the torture chamber. Let “there not be done unto me any of those (2) things “which the gods hold in abomination, for behold [I]
 “have passed as a pure being through the Mesqet “chamber. And let the god Neb-er-tcher grant unto “me his glorious power on the day of burial (3) in the “presence of the Lord of Things.”

RUBRIC: If [the deceased] know this chapter he shall become like a perfect khu in the underworld.

CHAPTER CLXXVIII.

Vignette: This Chapter has no vignette.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF RAISING UP THE DEAD BODY, [OF GIVING SIGHT TO] THE EYES, OF GAINING POWER OVER THE EARS, OF STABLISHING (2) THE HEAD, AND OF PROVIDING THE FACE WITH THE POWER OF PROTECTION. The Osiris, the scribe Nebseni, the draughtsman of the Temple of Ptah, the lord of piety, saith :—

“The Eye of Horus is presented unto thee, and it “feedeth thee with the food of offerings. Hail,¹ ye
 “who make the (3) labourers to rejoice and who raise “up the heart and purify the body, who have eaten the “Eye of Horus, thou Olive tree in Annu, (4) destroy ye
 “[what evil there is] in the body of [Osiris] Nebseni,
 “the scribe and draughtsman in the Temple of Ptah.
 “O Osiris, let him not suffer thirst before his god, let “him suffer neither hunger nor thirst, and let the god
 “(5) Khas (?) carry them away, and let him do away
 “with his hunger, O thou that fillest, O thou that fillest “hearts. O chiefs who dispense cakes [and ale], O ye

“who have charge of (6) the water flood, command ye
“that cakes and ale be given unto the Osiris Nebseni “even as Rā himself commanded this thing. And “moreover, Rā hath commanded those who are over “the abundance of the (7) year to take handfuls of “wheat and barley and to give them to him for his “cakes, for behold, he is a great bull; [these] shall ye “give to the Osiris Nebseni. O guardian of the five “cakes in (8) the divine house, three cakes are in “heaven before Rā, and two are upon earth before
“the company of the gods; may he burst through “Nu, may he see, may he see! O Rā, be gracious “unto the scribe (9) Nebseni this day, be gracious.
“The scribe Nebseni is as a lord of piety according “to the command of Shu and Isis, and he hath been “united (10) unto the piety of happiness before his “god. May [the gods] give cakes and ale unto the “scribe Nebseni, and may they prepare for him all “good and pure things (11) this happy day, things for “journeying and travelling, things of the Eye of Horus.
“things of the boat (?), and all things which should “enter into the sight of the god. Thou shalt have “power over the water, and thou shalt advance to (12)
“the table of offerings having cakes (?) and four “measures (?) of water. The Eye of Horus hath “ordered these things for the scribe Nebseni, and the “god Shu hath ordered the [means of] subsistence for “him, (13) [both] cakes and ale. Watch, O judges “of the form (?) of Thoth, watch him that lieth in “death. Wake up, O thou that dwellest in [Kenset]!

“Grant thou offerings (14) in the presence of Thoth,
“the mighty god, who cometh forth from Hāpi (i.e.,
“the Nile), and of Ap-uat who cometh forth from “Āsert, for the mouth of Nebseni, the scribe and de“signer of the (15) Temple of Ptaḥ, is pure. The “company of the gods offer incense to the scribe “Nebseni, and his mouth is pure, and his tongue “which is therein is right and true. That which “(16) the scribe Nebseni abominateth is filth and he “hath freed himself therefrom even as Set freed him“self [from it] in the city of Reḥiu, and he hath set “out [with] Thoth for heaven (17). O ye who have “delivered the scribe Nebseni along with yourselves, “let him eat of that whereof ye eat, let him drink of “that whereof ye drink, let him sit down upon that “whereon (18) ye sit, let him be strong in the strength “wherein ye are strong, let him sail about where ye “sail about; the scribe Nebseni hath drawn the net
“together in the (19) region of Āaru, and he hath run“ning water in Sekhet-ḥetep, and his offerings are “among [those of] the gods. The water of the scribe “Nebseni (20) is the wine of Rā, and Nebseni goeth “round about heaven and travelleth [therein] like unto “Thoth. It is an abomination unto the scribe Nebseni
“to suffer hunger and not to eat, and it is an abomina“tion unto him (21) to be thirsty [and not to drink];
“but sepulchral meals have been given unto him by “the lord of eternity, who hath ordered [these things]

“for him. The scribe Nebseni was conceived in (22)
“the night, and was brought forth in the daylight, and “those who are in the following of Rā, the divine an“cestors, adore [him]. [The scribe Nebseni] was con“ceived in Nu, and was brought forth in Nu, and he “hath come¹ and hath brought to you what he hath “(23) found of that which the Eye of Horus hath shed
“upon the branches of the Then tree. The governor “of those in Amenti cometh to him and bringeth to “him the divine food and offerings of Horus, (24) the “governor of Temples, and upon that whereon he doth “live the scribe Nebseni liveth also, and of that whereof
“he drinketh doth the scribe Nebseni, the designer of “the (25) Temple of Ptah, drink also, and facing his “offerings of cakes and ale is a haunch of meat “also. Osiris, the scribe Nebseni, is triumphant, and “he is favoured of Anubis (26) who is upon his “hill.”

“Hail, scribe Nebseni, thou hast the form wherein “thou hadst thine existence upon earth, and thou livest
“and renewest thy youth each day; thy face is un“covered and thou seest (27) the lord of the horizon, “who giveth to thee sepulchral meals in thy hour and “in thy season of night. Horus hath avenged thee,
“and he hath destroyed the jaw-bones (28) of thine “enemies; he hath shut in the doer of violence at the “mouth of his fortress.”

¹ These words are added from the Pyramid of Unās, ll. 199, 200.

"Hail, scribe Nebseni, thou hast no enemies in Het-
 "ur,¹ (29) and the scales balanced when thou wert
 "weighed therein, and the Hall wherein they were

CHAPTER CLXXX.

[From a Papyrus at Paris (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 204).]

Vignette: The deceased kneeling in supplication before three gods.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF COMING FORTH BY DAY, OF PRAISING RĀ IN ĀMENTET, OF ASCRIBING PRAISE UNTO THOSE WHO DWELL IN THE T̄UAT, OF OPENING UP A PATH FOR THE (2) PERFECT KHU IN THE UNDERWORLD, OF CAUSING HIM TO WALK, OF MAKING LONG HIS FOOTSTEPS, OF GOING IN AND COMING FORTH FROM THE UNDERWORLD, AND OF PERFORMING TRANSFORMA-

TIONS LIKE A LIVING SOUL. (3) The Osiris
triumphant, saith :—

“ Rā setteth as Osiris with all the diadems (4) of the “ divine Khus, and of the gods of Amentet. He is the “ One divine form, the hidden one of the T̄uat, the “ holy Soul at the head of Amentet, Un-nefer, whose “ duration of life (5) is for ever and for ever. Words “ of praise are addressed to thee, [O Osiris,] in the “ T̄uat, and thy son Horus hath satisfaction in thee,
“ and he hath spoken [unto thee] the decree of words.
“ (6) Thou makest him to rise upon those who dwell in “ the T̄uat like a mighty divine Star, unto whom the “ things which are his have been brought in the T̄uat.
“ Thou travellest through it, O son of Rā, and comest “ forth like Tem. (7) Words of praise are addressed “ unto thee by those who dwell in the T̄uat [which is]
“ the throne-chamber dear to thy Majesty, the King,
“ the Prince of Aukert, the mighty Ruler, [who is “ crowned with] the Ureret crown, (8) the great God “ whose seat is hidden, the Lord and Weigher of words,
“ and the Sovereign of his divine chiefs. And words
“ of praise are addressed unto thee by those who dwell
“ in the T̄uat, and they have satisfaction [in] thee.
“ And words of praise are addressed (9) unto thee by “ those who dwell in the T̄uat, and the divine beings
“ who weep pluck out their hair for thee, and they “ smite their hands together, and they praise thee, and “ they cry out (10) before thee, and they weep for thee,
“ and they rejoice that thy soul hath glorified thy dead “body. The souls of Rā in Amentet are exalted, and “in the zone (?) of the T̄uat the souls (11) cry

 “out in their songs of exultation unto the souls of Rā
 “who dwelleth therein; the body and souls of the god “Tchentch dwell in the T̄uat, and (12) his divine soul
 “resteth therein.”

“Hail, Osiris, I am a servant of thy temple, and one “who dwelleth within thy divine house; and thou “utterest with command the words of the decree.
 “Grant thou that I may rise like a luminary among “the denizens (13) of the T̄uat, and like a mighty star “unto whom in the T̄uat the things which are his have “been brought. Let [me] journey through it [like] the “son of Rā, and let [me] come forth as Tem. Let me
 “have rest in the T̄uat, (14) let me gain the mastery “over the darkness, let me enter therein, let me come “forth therefrom, let thy hands receive me, O Ta-tiunen, “(15) and let the Iletepu gods lift me up, O stretch ye “out your hands to me, for I, even I, [know your] “names. (16) Lead ye me along, praise ye me, O “Iletepu gods with your praises, for Rā rejoiceth over
 “the praises which are offered unto me (17) even as he “doth over those which are offered unto Osiris. I have “established for you your offerings, and ye have obtained
 “the mastery over your oblations, even as Rā hath com“manded me [to do]. (18) I am the god Meḥiu and I “am his heir upon the earth, and I have made [my] “path. O ye Iletepu gods, grant ye that I may enter “into the T̄uat, and let me make a way (19) into the “beautiful Amentet. I have stablished the sceptre of “the god Sah and the nemmes crown for the god whose “name is hidden. Look ye, then, (20) O Hetepu gods,

“and ye gods who are the guides of the Tuat, and grant
“that I may receive my glorious might, and let me rise “like a luminary (21) above his hidden place, and “deliver ye me from the deadly stakes of those who “are chained thereunto. Chain ye me not unto your “(22) deadly stakes, and give ye me not over to the “habitation of the fiends who slay.”

“I am the heir of Osiris, and I have received his “nemmes crown in the Tuat; (23) look ye upon me, then,
“and let me rise like a luminary who hath come forth
“from your members; and let me come into being like “my divine father (24) who is worshipped. Look ye “upon me, then, and rejoice ye in me, and grant that I “may rise up, (25) and that I may come into being like “him whose transformations were destroyed. Open ye
“a way unto my divine soul, O ye who stand upon your “places. Grant ye that (26) I may rest in the beauti“ful Amentet, and decree ye for me a seat in front of “you. Open ye out to me your paths, and draw back
“for me the bolts of your doors. (27) Behold, O Rā,
“as thou art the guide of this earth, so let the divine “souls be [my] guides, and let [me] follow after the “gods. I am he who guardeth (28) his own pylon, and “[I am] led along by those who lead; I am he who “keepeth ward over his doors, and who setteth the gods
“in their places; (29) I am he who dwelleth upon his “standard within the T̄uat. I am the god Henbi, the “guardian of the lands (?) of the gods; I am the “boundaries of the T̄uat, (30) I am the god Hetepi

 “in Aukert. My offerings have been made in Amentet
 “by the divine souls who dwell in the gods. (31) I “am the god Meḥ-ā-nuti-Rā. I am the hidden Bennu “bird; I enter in [as] he resteth in the T̄uat, and [I]
 “come forth [as he] resteth (32) in the T̄uat. I am
 “the lord of the celestial abodes and I journey through “the night sky after Rā. My offerings are in heaven
 “in the Field of (33) Rā, and my sepulchral meals are “on earth in the Field of Aaru. I travel through the “T̄uat like the beings [who are with] Rā, and I weigh “(34) words like the god Thoth. I stretch myself at “my desire, I run forward with my strides in my spiri“tual form of (35) hidden qualities, and my transforma“tions are those of the double god Horus-Set. I am
 “the president of the food of the gods of the T̄uat, and “I give the sepulchral offerings (36) of the Khus. I “am the god of the Mighty Heart who smiteth his “enemies. Hail, ye gods and Khus, the ancestors (?)
 “of Rā, who follow after (37) the divine Soul which he “hath, lead ye me along as ye lead [him] along, and do
 “ye, who are the guides of Rā and who are leaders (38)
 “dwelling in the upper heaven, [guide me,] for I am
 “like unto the divine and holy Soul who is in Amentet.”

RUBRIC: (24) If this chapter be known [by the deceased] things of evil shall not gain the mastery over him, and he shall not be turned back from any of the doors of Ámentet; but he shall (25) go in and come out, and cakes, and ale, and all beautiful things shall be given unto him in the presence of those who dwell in the Tuat.

At the foot stand Isis, Hapi, and Tuamutef, and at the head Nephthys, Kestha, and Qebhsenuf. Text: (1) THE BOOK OF STABLISHING OSIRIS FIRMLY, OF GIVING AIR TO THE STILL-HEART, WHILST THOTH REPULSETH THE FOES OF OSIRIS, who cometh there in his transformations, (2) and is protected, and made strong, and guarded in the underworld by the operation of the will of Thoth himself, and Shu setteth upon him each day. [Thoth saith:—]

“I am Thoth, the perfect scribe, (3) whose hands are “pure, the lord of the two horns, who maketh iniquity ‘[to be destroyed], the scribe of right and truth, who “abominateth sin. Behold, he is the writing-reed of “the god Neb-er-tcher, the lord of laws, (4) who giveth “forth the speech of wisdom and understanding, whose “words have dominion over the two lands. I am “[Thoth], the lord of right and truth, who trieth the “right and the truth for the gods, the judge of words “in their essence, whose words triumph over violence. “I have scattered (5) the darkness, I have driven away “the whirlwind and the storm, and I have given the “pleasant breeze of the north wind unto Osiris Un- “nefer as he came forth from (6) the womb of her who “gave him birth. I have made Rā to set as Osiris, “and Osiris setteth as Rā setteth. I have made him “to enter into the hidden habitation to vivify the (7) “heart of the Still-Heart, the holy Soul, who dwelleth “in Amentet, and to shout cries of joy unto the Still-Heart, Un-nefer, the son of Nut.” (8)

“I am Thoth, the favoured one of Rā, the lord of “might, who bringeth to a prosperous end that which “he doeth, the mighty one of enchantments who is in “the boat of millions of years, the lord of laws, the “subduer of the two lands, (9) whose words of might “gave strength to her that gave him birth, whose word “doeth away with opposition and fighting, and who “performeth the will of Rā in his shrine.”

“I am Thoth, who made Osiris to triumph (10) over “his enemies.”

“I am Thoth who issueth the decree at dawn, whose “sight followeth on again after [his] overthrow at his “season, the guide of heaven, and earth, and the under“world, (11) and the creator of the life of [all] nations
“and peoples. I gave air unto him that was in the “hidden place by means of the might of the magical “words of my utterance, and Osiris triumphed over his “enemies. (12) I came unto thee, O lord of Ta-tcheser, “Osiris, Bull of Āment, and thou wert strengthened for “ever. I set everlastingness as a protection for thy “members, and I came [unto thee] having protection
“(13) in my hand, and I guarded [thee] with strength
“during the course of each and every day; protection
“and life were behind this god, protection and life “were behind this god, and his ka was glorified with “power.”

“The king of the Tuat, (14) the prince of Āmentet,
“the victorious conqueror of heaven, hath the Atef
“crown firmly stablished [upon him], he is diademed “with the white crown, and he graspeth the crook and
“the whip; unto him the great one of souls, the

“mighty one of (15) the Ureret crown, every god is gathered together, and love for him who is Un-nefer, and whose existence is for everlasting and all eternity, goeth through their bodies.”

“Homage to thee, O Governor of those who are in Amenti, (16) who maketh mortals to be born again, who renewest thy youth, thou comest who dwellest in thy season, and who art more beautiful than, thy son Horus (17) hath avenged thee ; the rank (or dignity) of Tem hath been conferred upon thee, O Un-nefer. Thou art raised up, O Bull of Amentet, thou art stablished, yea stablished in the body of Nut, who uniteth herself (18) unto thee, and who cometh forth with thee. Thy heart is stablished upon that which supporteth it, and thy breast is as it was formerly ; thy nose is firmly fixed with life and power, thou livest, and thou art renewed, and thou makest thyself (19) young like Rā each and every day. Mighty, mighty is Osiris in victory, and he is firmly stablished with life.”

“I am Thoth, and I have pacified Horus, and I have quieted the two (20) divine Combatants in their season of storm. I have come and I have washed the Ruddy one, I have quieted the Stormy one, and I have filled (?) him with all manner of evil things.” (21)

“I am Thoth, and I have made the ‘things of the night’ in Sekhem (Letopolis).”

“I am Thoth, and I have come daily into the cities of Pe and Tepu. I have led (22) along the offerings

“and oblations, I have given cakes with lavish hand to “the Khus, I have protected the (23) shoulder of Osiris, “I have embalmed him, I have made sweet his odour,

“I am Thoth, and I have come each day into the city

 “set in good order the Mākhent boat, and I have “brought [it] [from] the East [to] the West. I am

 “my name of ‘He whose face is exalted.’ I have “opened fair things in my name of Āp-uat (i.e., Opener
 “of the road), and I have (26) ascribed praise and done “homage unto Osiris Un-nefer, whose existence is for “ever and for ever.”

AND EXALTETH THOSE WHO ARE UPON HIS SAND, (2)

“I have come unto thee, (3) O son of Nut, Osiris, “Prince of everlastingness; I am in (4) the following
“of the god Thoth, and I have rejoiced (5) at every “rejoiceth (18) greatly ; Egypt and the Red Land are “at peace, and they serve humbly under thy sovereign “power. The temples are stablished upon their own

“all lands praise thy beauties even as they praise Rā
“when (29) he riseth at the beginning of each day.
“Thou risest up like an exalted one upon thy standard,
“thy beauties exalt the face [of man] and make long
“[his] stride. (30) I have given unto thee the sove“reignty of thy father Seb, and the goddess Mut, thy “mother, who gave birth to the gods, brought thee “forth as the (31) firstborn of five gods, and created “thy beauties and fashioned thy members. Thou art “stablished as king, the white crown is upon thy head,
“and thou hast grasped in thy hands the crook and “the whip; whilst thou wert in the womb, and hadst
“not as yet come forth therefrom upon the earth, thou

“wert (32) crowned lord of the two lands, and the Atef
“crown of Rā was upon thy brow. The gods come “unto thee bowing low to the ground, and they hold “thee in fear; they retreat and depart when they (33) “see thee with the terror of Rā, and the victory of thy “Majesty is in their hearts. Life is with thee, and “offerings of meat and drink (34) follow thee, and that “which is thy due is offered up before thy face.”

“Grant thou that I may follow in the train of thy “Majesty even as I did upon earth. Let my soul (35)
“be called [into the presence], and let it be found by “the side of the lords of right and truth. I have come “into the City of God—the region [which existed] in “primeval time—with [my] soul, and with [my] double,
“and with [my] khu to dwell in this land. (36) The “god thereof is the lord of right and truth, he is the “lord of the tchefau food of the gods, and he is most “holy. His land draweth unto itself every [other]
“land; the South cometh sailing down the river “thereto, and the North, (37) steered thither by “winds, cometh daily to make festival therein ac“cording to the command of the God thereof, who is “the lord of peace therein. And doth he not say,
“‘The happiness thereof (38) is a care unto me’? The “god who dwelleth therein worketh right and truth;
“unto him that doeth these things he giveth old age,
“and to him that followeth after them rank and honour,
“and at length he attaineth unto (39) a happy funeral
“and burial in Ta-tchesert.”

"I have come unto thee, and my hands hold right
 "and truth, and my heart hath no crafty wickedness
 "therein. (40) I offer up before thee that which is "thy due, and I know that whereon thou livest. I "have not committed any sin in the land, and I have "defrauded no man of (41) that which is his."

"I am Thoth, the perfect scribe, whose hands are "pure. I am the lord of purity, the destroyer of evil,
 "the scribe of right and
 "truth, and that which I
 "abominate is (42) sin.
 "Behold me, for I am
 "the writing reed of the "god Neb-er-tcher, the "lord of laws, who giveth
 "forth the word of wis"dom and understanding,
 "and whose speech hath
 "dominion over the two
 "lands. I am (43) Thoth,
 "the lord of right and
 "truth, who maketh the
 "feeble one to gain the "victory, and who aven-
 "geth the wretched and
 "the oppressed on him
 "that wrongeth him. I have scattered the darkness;
 "(44) I have driven away the storm, and I have "brought the wind to Un-nefer, the beautiful breeze

“of the north wind, even as it came forth from the “womb (45) of his mother. I have caused him to “enter into the hidden abode to vivify the heart of “the Still-Heart, Un-nefer, the son of Nut, Horus, “triumphant.”

CHAPTER CLXXXIV.

[From the Papyrus of Uaa (see Naville, op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 210).¹]

Vignette : The deceased standing upright before Osiris, who wears the Atef crown, and holds in his hands the whip and crook, emblems of sovereignty and dominion.

Text : (1) THE CHAPTER OF BEING NIGH UNTO OSIRIS.¹ [The Osiris Uaa, the overseer of the estates of Amen, triumphant, saith :—]

¹ This Chapter contains about two short lines of text, of which only a few words have come down to us in a single copy ; to make any connected sense of them is impossible.

CHAPTER CLXXXV.

[From the Papyrus of Sutimes (ed. Guieyesse and Lefébure, Paris, 1877, Pl. 1).]

Vignette: Osiris at the head of Abtu, the great god, Prince of eternity and Governor of Amentet, enthroned within a shrine; he holds in his hands the whip and crook, emblems of sovereignty and dominion. Before the shrine, with hands raised in adoration, kneels the deceased, and on each side of it are two gods offering incense.

Text: (3) THE GIVING OF PRAISES UNTO OSIRIS, AND OF PAYING HOMAGE UNTO THE LORD OF ETERNITY, AND PROPITIATING THE GOD IN HIS WILL, AND DECLARING THE RIGHT AND TRUTH, THE LORD OF WHICH IS UNKNOWN. The Osiris Sutimes, the libationer and president of the altar chamber in the Apts, the president of the scribes of the Temple of Amen, triumphant, saith :—

“Homage to thee, O thou holy god, thou mighty
“and beneficent being, thou Prince of eternity who “dwellest in thy abode in the Sektet boat, thou whose “risings are manifold in the Ātet boat, to thee are “praises rendered in heaven and upon earth. Peoples
“and nations exalt thee, and the majesty of the terror “of him is in the hearts of men, and khus, and the “dead. Thy Soul is in Tettēt (Mendes) and the terror
“of thee is in Suten-henen; thou settest the visible “emblems of thyself in Annu and the greatness of thy “transformations in the double place of purification. I “have come unto thee, and my heart hath right and “truth therein, and there is neither craft nor guile in “my breast; grant thou that I may have my being “among the living, and that I may sail down and up
“the river among those who are in thy following.”

CHAPTER CLXXXVI.

[From the Papyrus of Ani (Brit. Mus. No. 10,470, sheet 37).]

Vignette : (1) Ani and his wife before a table of offerings adoring the god. (2) "Seker Osiris, the lord of the hidden place, the great god, the lord of the underworld," standing in a shrine. (3) The goddess Hathor, in the form of a hippopotamus, wearing upon her head a disk and horns; in her right hand she holds an unidentified object, and in her left the emblem of life. Before her are offerings, and behind her the cow Meḥ-urit, who may be identified with Hathor, looks forth from the funeral mountain. At the foot of the mountain is the tomb, and in the foreground grows a group of flowering plants

Text : "Hathor, lady of Amentet, mighty dweller in the funeral mountain, lady of Ta-tchesert, daughter (or eye) of Rā, dweller before him, beautiful of face in “the Boat of millions of years, the habitation (or seat)

“of peace, creator of law in the boat (?) of the favoured “ones

In the versions of this Chapter given by Naville (op. cit., Bd. I. Bl. 212) the deceased, sometimes accompanied by his wife, is seen standing in adoration before the hippopotamus and cow goddesses. The texts which occupy the upper portions of the scenes are longer than that given in the papyrus of Ani, part of which is manifestly corrupt, and though all of them are more or less fragmentary we learn from them that this Chapter is entitled, “The praise of Hathor, the mistress of Amentet, and the paying of homage to Mehurit.” After reciting the titles of Hathor the deceased describes his devotion to the gods and the works which he did for them whilst he was upon earth, and having stated that he is innocent of offence, he entreats the goddess that he may have his existence among her divine followers, and that suitable offerings of all kinds may be made unto him in Amentet

Seker-Osiris.

house of the overseer of the seal, Nu, triumphant, the son of the overseer of the house, Amen-ḥetep, [triumphant,] saith :—

“[Come] in peace! Thou hast a khu. Enter [thou]
 “in peace into the divine Utchat! Behold, thou hast
 “a khu, together with a soul (ba) and a shade (khaibit),
 “to look (3) thereupon. May it behold [me], when I “am judged, in whatever place it may be, with my “attributes, and with my form, and with my faculties
 “(4) of mind, and with all my attributes ordered and “things] and is divine. May I shine like Râ in his “divine splendour (5) in the temple of and “may [my] soul and my shade come [to me] upon their “legs from the place where I am judged, and behold

 “me. (6) May I stand up, and sit down, and enter

“The things which are an abomination unto me, the “things which are an abomination unto me, I will not “eat. What I abominate (3) is filth, and I will not “eat thereof [in the place of] the sepulchral cakes “[which are offered unto] the Kas. Let [me] not be “thrown down upon it, let it not light upon my body, “let it not enter into my fingers, (4) and let it not “join itself unto my toes. Thou shalt live, then, upon “that which the gods and the Khus decree for me in “this place and upon that which is brought unto thee
 “there. Let me live upon the (5) seven cakes which “shall be brought unto me, four cakes before Horus,

 “Khus shall say unto me, ‘What manner of food “wouldst thou have given unto thee?’ [And I reply,

“Let me eat (6) my food beneath the sycamore tree of “the goddess Hathor, and let my times be among the “divine beings who have alighted thereon. Let me “have the power to order my own fields in Taṭṭu and “[my own] growing crops (7) in Annu. Let me live “upon bread made of white barley, and let my beer be “[made] from red grain; and may the persons of my “father and mother be given unto me as (8) guardians

“tory. Let me be sound and strong, let me have a “large room, let me make a way, let me have my seat
“wherever I please, like a living soul, (9) and let me
“never be kept in restraint by mine enemy.’”

“That which is an abomination unto me is filth and “I will not eat thereof; let me never pass over filth
“and offal in Annu, but let it depart from me. (10) I “am the Bull who ordereth his habitation. I fly like
“the mighty one, I cackle like the smen goose, and I “alight upon the beautiful (11) sycamore which standeth
“in the Lake of Aḳeb. I come forth and I alight upon “it; he who alighteth there in the form of the great “god shall not be driven away therefrom. The (12)
“things which I abominate I will not eat; the things “which I abominate, the things which I abominate are

 "myself plough the fields of [my] estate in Sekhet-
 "Aarru.' And the divine Aukhemu beings (24) of the "god Pen-heseb shall say [unto me], 'Who will protect "them for thee?' And I reply, 'The two divine
 "daughters of the divine king of the North, besides
 "those who belong to them' (?). [And the divine Auk-

 "me,] 'Who will plough (25) them for thee?' [And "I reply], 'The divine chiefs who dwell among the "gods of heaven and the gods of earth. The treading
 "down [of the earth] shall be done for me by the cow-
 "goddess Hāpiu who dwelleth in the city of Sau, (26)

Vignette : This Chapter is without a vignette in the Papyrus of Nu.

Text : (1) THE BOOK OF MAKING PERFECT THE KHU WITHIN RĀ, OF MAKING HIM TO GAIN THE MASTERY BEFORE TEM, OF MAGNIFYING HIM BEFORE OSIRIS, OF MAKING HIM (2) TO BE POWERFUL BEFORE THE GOVERNOR OF ĀMENTET, AND OF CAUSING HIM TO BE MIGHTY BEFORE THE COMPANY OF THE GODS.

RUBRIC : This book shall be recited on the [first] day of the month, on the festival of the six, on the festival of Uak, on the festival of Thoth, (3) on the birthday of Osiris, on the festival of Sekri, and on the festival of the night of Haker. [It will enable a man to pass through] the hidden places of the Tuat, and to penetrate the secret habitations of Neter-khert, to break through (4) mountains, and to open up a way through the secret valleys which are unknown. This chapter shall preserve (or embalm) the khu, it shall make broad his steps, it shall give him [power to] walk, it shall destroy the (5) deaf-

When thou recitest [this chapter] thou shalt not let any man whatsoever see thee except him that is indeed dear to thy heart and the priest who readeth the service (kher heb), (6) thou shalt not let any other person see [thee], and no servant shall come outside [the chamber wherein thou art]. Thou shalt recite [this chapter] inside a chamber [lined] with cloth decorated (literally, shot) with stars throughout. The soul of every khu (i.e., the deceased) for (7) whom this book hath been recited shall come forth among the living, he himself shall come forth by day, and he shall gain the mastery among the gods and shall not be (8) repulsed by them. And these gods shall revolve round about him, and they shall acknowledge (literally, recognize) him, and indeed he shall be as the divine one among them. And he shall make thee to know the transformations which shall come to him in the light. (9) This book is indeed a very great mystery; and thou shalt never allow those who dwell in the papyrus swamps of the Delta (i.e., ignorant folk) or any person whatsoever to see it.

A PRAYER FOR THE PRESERVATION OF A PYRAMID.

[From the Pyramid of Pepi II.]

663. O Temu-Kheperâ, [when] thou hadst raised thyself on the qaa standard, and hadst shone as the "Great one in the place of shining" in Het-ur in Ânnu, thou didst send forth water in the form of Shu, and didst spit in the form of Tefnut, and thou didst place thy hands behind them, and verily thy Ka existeth 664. in them. “his hour to vivify that which cometh forth upon his “potter’s wheel, the disk of the Moon-god who openeth

“a way both in heaven and upon earth for the beautiful form ; the beneficent (or operative) god, who is untiring, and who is vigorous of heart both in rising and in setting, from whose divine eyes come forth men and women ; at whose utterance the gods come into being, and food is created, and tchefau food is made, and all things which are come into being ; the traverser of eternity, the old man who maketh himself young [again], with myriads of pairs of eyes and numberless pairs of ears, whose light is the guide of the god of millions of years ; the lord of life, who giveth unto whom he pleaseth the circuit of the earth along with the seat of his divine face, who setteth out upon his journey and suffereth no mishap by the way, whose work none can destroy ; the lord of delight, whose name is sweet and beloved, at dawn mankind make supplication unto him the Mighty one of victory, the Mighty one of twofold strength, the Possessor of fear, the young Bull who maketh an end of the hostile ones, the Mighty one who doeth battle with his foes, through whose divine plans the earth came into being ; the Soul who giveth light from his two Utchats (Eyes) ; the god Baiti who created the divine transformations ; the holy one who is unknown ; the king who maketh kings to rule, and who girdeth up the earth in its courses, and to whose souls the gods and the goddesses pay homage by reason of the might of his terror ; since he hath gone before that which followeth endureth ; the creator of the world by his “secret counsels; the god Kheperā who is unknown

“and who is more hidden than the [other] gods, whose “substitute is the divine Disk; the unknown one who “hideth himself from that which cometh forth from “him; he is the flame which sendeth forth rays of “light with mighty splendour, but though he can be “seen in form and observation can be made of him at “his appearance yet he cannot be understood, and at “dawn mankind make supplication unto him; his “risings are of crystal among the company of the “gods, and he is the beloved object of every god;
“the god Nu cometh forward with the north wind in “this god who is hidden; who maketh decrees for “millions of double millions of years, whose ordinances “are fixed and are not destroyed, whose utterances are “gracious, and whose statutes fail not in his appointed “time; who giveth duration of life and doubleth the “years of those unto whom he hath a favour; who “graciously protecteth him whom he hath set in his “heart; who hath formed eternity and everlastingness,
“the king of the South and of the North, Amen-Rā,
“the king of the gods, the lord of heaven and of earth,
“and of the deep, and of the two mountains, in whose “form the earth began to exist, he the mighty one, who “is more distinguished than all the gods of the first and “foremost company.”

Amen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the beginning of what hath come into being, hath sent forth his great and holy edict for the deification of

Nesi-Khonsu, the daughter of Ta-ḥennu-Tehuti, both in Amentet and in Neter-khert and he saith :—

“I deify Nesi-Khonsu, the daughter of Ta-ḥennu-Tehuti in Amentet, and I deify her in Neter-khert; “I have granted that she shall receive water in Amentet and funeral offerings in Neter-khert. I deify her soul and her body in Neter-khert, and I will not let her soul be destroyed therein; nay, I deify her in Neter-khert, [and I make it] like unto that of every god and of every goddess who have been deified therein, and like unto that of everything whatsoever which hath been deified in Neter-khert. I have granted that every god, and every goddess, and every divine being, and every thing which hath been deified shall receive her in Neter-khert; and I have granted that all her kinsfolk (?) shall receive her therein with a gracious reception; and I have granted that every good thing, which cometh into being with a man when he assumeth this form, whether he be carried off into the underworld, or whether he become deified, or whether every good thing be wrought for him where he is, or whether he be made to receive water and offerings, or whether he be made to receive his cakes from those which those who have been deified receive, or whether he be made to receive his divine offerings from those which those who have been deified receive, shall be done for her so that it shall be with her.”

Āmen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“I cause Nesi-Khonsu, the daughter of Ta-ḥen-“Teḥuti-ā, to make every kind of food and every kind “of drink which every god and every goddess who “have been deified in the underworld make; and I “cause her to make every good thing which is with “every god and every goddess who have been deified “in the underworld; and by means thereof I have “delivered my servant Pa-netchem from every evil “thing, and I will not let any of the calamities which “occur in the underworld fall upon Nesi-Khonsu to do
 “her harm; and I grant that her soul may come forth,
 “and that it may enter in according to its desire and “never be repulsed.”

Āmen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“I have gone round (i.e., I have examined) the heart
 “of Nesi-Khonsu, the daughter of Ta-ḥen-Teḥuti-ā,
 “and she hath done no evil thing against Pa-netchem
 “the son of Āset-em-khebit. I have carefully exam“ined her heart, and I have not let her attack his life,
 “and I have not allowed her to attack his life through “other folk. I have carefully examined her heart, and “I have not let her do any evil thing unto him such as “is done against a living man. I have carefully ex“amined her heart, and I have not allowed her to do

“ by means of other folk any of the evil things which “ are done against a living man.”

Âmen-Râ, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“ I have caused her not to seek to do any evil thing
“ which would cause death unto Pa-netchem, the son
“ of Âset-em-khebit. I have carefully examined her “ heart and she hath done no evil thing unto him in “ particular, nor any evil thing which could harm him “ in general ; she hath not worked against him by “ means of any god or any goddess who has been “ deified ; nor by means of any male khu or of any “ female khu who has been deified ; and she hath not “ worked against him by means of any kind of beings “ whatsoever who work schemes and plans so that “ beings of every kind may be obedient unto their “ words. I have carefully examined her heart and “ [see] that she hath sought that which was good for “ him whilst he was upon earth ; and I have caused “ her to seek in every way to give him a long life upon “ earth, and a life of health, and soundness, and power,
“ and strength, and might ; and I have caused her in “ every way to procure for him happiness wherever the “ sound of his words was heard. I have caused her to “ seek neither harm for him, nor anything which could “ inflict an injury upon man, nor anything which could “ cause evil to Pa-netchem, the son of Âset-em-khebit.
“ I have caused her not to seek any evil thing, or any “noxious thing which would induce death, or any “harmful thing like unto those things which make

“the heart of man to tremble, or those which do “harm unto the men and women who were beloved
“by Pa-netchem, nor unto him by making his heart “terrified at them by means of the evil words which “have been directed against them (the men and women).
“I have caused all that concerneth the heart and soul
“of Nesi-Khonsu to be in good case, that is to say, her “heart hath not been driven away from her soul; her “soul hath not been driven away from her heart; her “heart hath not been driven away from herself; Nesi-“Khonsu herself hath not been in any way driven back
“with the repulse with which a being in her form—
“that is to say a being who hath been deified in the “underworld, whatever its nature may be—is some“times repulsed; and no evil thing whatsoever, such “as may be done unto the human being who is in a “state like unto hers, hath been done unto her. Nay,
“but [I have given] all that could delight Nesi-Khonsu, “namely, that Pa-netchem might enjoy a very long life “along with might, and strength, and power; that his “life might not be cut short; that no evil thing of “any kind whatsoever, and none of the things which “do harm unto a man and strike terror into his heart “might come nigh him, or his wives, or his children, “or his brethren, or Átaui, or Nesta-neb-ášher, or “Masahairthâ, or Tchaui-nefer, the children of Nesi-“Khonsu, or the brethren of Nesi-Khonsu. And I

“have caused that everything which would be of “advantage to Pa-netchem, and all that would be of “benefit to him in any way whatsoever and which “could happen to a man in his condition, and an “exceedingly long life for himself, and his wives,
 “and his children, and his brethren, may also come
 “to Nesi-Khonsu, and to her children, and to her “sisters.”

Âmen-Râ, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“I grant that all things, of whatever kinds they “may be, which a man hath when he is in the state
 “in which Nesi-Khonsu is, and by which he is deified, “shall be possessed by her, and I grant that the “seventy addresses to Râ may be recited in my name,
 “so that her soul may not be destroyed in the under“world.”

Âmen-Râ, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“Every good word which can deify Nesi-Khonsu, “which will give her power to receive water and offer“ings, and which shall be uttered or said before me by “any person whatsoever I will fulfil to the uttermost, “omitting nothing. Every good word which shall be “uttered before me on behalf of Nesi-Khonsu I will “fulfil at every season of the heavens when Shu “cometh forth, in such wise that none of the evil

“ things which can reach a person who is in the con“ dition in which she is shall touch her at any season
 “ of the heavens, when Shu cometh forth from the “ waters with his weapons and when day beginneth in “ the sky. And I will utterly do away with the evil “ effect of every word which may be spoken by any “ person whatsoever of a being who is in the state in “ which is Nesi-Khonsu, omitting nothing, at every “ season of the heavens when Shu cometh forth from “ the waters with his weapons and when day beginneth “ in the sky.”

Amen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“ I have caused the seventy addresses to Rā to be “ recited in my name, and I have not allowed any “ single benefit which belongeth to a man who is in “ the condition in which is Nesi-Khonsu to escape her.
 “ And I have caused her to receive offerings, bread,
 “ and ale, and unguents, and wine, and pomade, and “ milk, and raisins (?); and I have caused her to re“ ceive all the benefits and all the good things which “ a being who is in her condition and who is favoured
 “ by me and who hath been deified can receive; and I “ have caused her to share equally with every god and “ every goddess every good thing whatsoever which “ those who have been deified in the underworld re“ ceive; and I have caused her to receive her divine
 “ offerings along with the gods.”

Āmen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“ If the word by which the offering of Sekhet-Āaru
 “ and of a field in Sekhet-Āaru is made is not one
 “ which is good for the person who is in the condition “ in which is Nesi-Khonsu, and it hath no effect, I my“ self will make unto her the offering of Sekhet-Āaru and
 “ of a field in Sekhet-Āaru, when that which is beneficial “ for her in this kind of offering shall come into being,
 “ and it shall suffer no diminution thereof whatsoever.”

Āmen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“ All good things which shall be spoken in my pre“ sence, saying, ‘ Let such and such things be done
 “ for Nesi-Khonsu, the daughter of Ta-ḥennu-Teḥu“ ti-ā,’ I will perform for her, and they shall not be “ lessened, and they shall not be abrogated, and nothing “ therefrom shall be cut off at every season of the “ heavens when Shu cometh forth. And, moreover,
 “ she shall receive in abundance the choicest things
 “ of all that is good for her, even as do every man
 “ and every god who have been deified, and who go “ forth and who come in, and who journey unto every “ place as they please.”

Āmen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great god, the prince of that which hath come into being from the beginning, saith :—

“As concerning all good things which have been “spoken in my presence, that is to say, ‘Perform them
“for Pa-netchem, the son of Aset-em-khebit, my ser“vant, and for his wives, and his children, and his “brethren, and his friends, and for those for whom “his heart is afraid lest evil come upon them’: be“hold, I will send forth my great and mighty and holy “word into every place that it may cause every good “thing to be with Pa-netchem, and his wives, and his “children, and his brethren, and all his friends, in “such wise that if any man shall omit to say, ‘Let the “decree of Amen-Rā, the king of the gods, the great “god, the prince of that which hath come into being “from the beginning, be performed,’ I myself will “make that which the great god hath spoken to com-
“to pass.”

BOOKS OF THE DEAD OF THE GRAECO-ROMAN PERIOD.

THE BOOK OF BREATHINGS.

PART I.

[From the Papyrus of Kērāsher (Brit. Mus. No. 9995, sheet 2).]

I. HERE BEGINNETH THE BOOK OF BREATHINGS.

(1) “Hail, Osiris Kērāsher, the son of Ṭashenātiṭ !
 “Thou art pure, and thy heart is pure. The fore-parts “of thee are pure, (2) thy hind-parts are cleansed, and “thy interior is made clean with bet incense and “natron ; no member of thine hath any defect what“soever. The Osiris Kērāsher, (3) the son of Ṭashen-“ātiṭ, hath been cleansed by means of the waters of “Sekhet-ḥetep (i.e., Field of Peace) which is situated “to the north of Sekhet-Saneḥem (i.e., Field of the “Grasshoppers). (4) The goddesses Uatchit and Nekh“ebet make thee to be pure at the eighth hour of the “night and at the [eighth] hour of the day. Come,
 “then, O Osiris (5) Kērāsher, the son of Ṭashenātiṭ,
 “and enter into the Hall of Maāti. Thou art pure
 “from all offence and from (6) defect of every kind ;
 “‘ Stone of Right and Truth ’ is thy name.”

“ Hail, [Osiris] K̄erāsher, the son of T̄ashenātiṭ ! Thou “ enterest the T̄uat (i.e., underworld) (7) as one mighty
 “ in purity. Thou art purified by the two Maāt god“ desses in the Great Hall. A libation hath been made “ for thee in the Hall of Seb, and thy body hath been “ made pure (8) in the Hall of Shu. Thou lookest “ upon Rā when he setteth as Tem at eventide. Āmen
 “ is nigh unto thee to give thee air, (9) and Ptaḥ like“ wise to mould into form thy members, thou enterest
 “ the horizon along with Rā. They receive thy soul in “ the Neshem boat of Osiris, (10) they make thy soul “ divine in the House of Seb, and they make thee to “ be triumphant for ever and for ever.”

“ [Hail] Osiris K̄erāsher, the son of T̄ashenātiṭ ! (11)
 “ Thy name is made to endure, thy material body is “ stablished, and thy spiritual body is made to ger“ minate ; thou art turned back neither in heaven nor “ upon earth. Thy face shineth before (12) Rā, thy “ soul liveth before Āmen, and thy material body is “ renewed before Osiris. Thou breathest for ever and “ for ever, thy soul maketh offerings unto thee (13)
 “ of cakes, and ale, and beasts, and feathered fowl,
 “ and cool water in the course of each day ; thou “ comest, and it is triumphant. The flesh is upon “ thy bones, (14) and thy form is even as it was upon “ earth. Thou takest drink into thy body, thou eatest “ with thy mouth, and thou receivest bread along with “ the souls (15) of the gods. The god Anubis pro“ tecteth thee, and he maketh himself thy protector ;

“ thou art not turned away from the gates of the T̄uat
 “ (i.e., underworld). Thoth, the most mighty (16) god,
 “ the lord of Khemennu, cometh to thee, and he “ writeth for thee the BOOK OF BREATHINGS with “ his own fingers. [Then] doth thy soul breathe for “ (17) ever and ever, and thy form is made anew with “ life upon earth ; (18) thou art made divine along with “ the souls of the gods, thy heart is the heart of Rā,
 “ and thy members (19) are the members of the great “ god.”

“ Hail, Osiris K̄erāsher, the son of T̄ashenātī !
 “ Āmen is nigh unto thee (20) to make thee to live “ again. And the god Āp-uat (i.e., the Opener of the “ ways) hath opened up for thee a prosperous path.
 “ Thou seest with thine eyes, thou hearest with thine “ ears, thou speakest with thy mouth, (21) and thou “ walkest with thy legs. Thy soul hath been made “ divine in the T̄uat so that it may make every trans“ formation ; at thy will thou breathest with delight
 “ [the odours] of (22) the holy Persea tree of Ānnu
 “ (i.e., Heliopolis). Thou wakest each day and seest
 “ the rays of Rā. Āmen cometh to thee (23) having “ the breath of life, and he causeth thee to draw thy “ breath within thy funeral house. Thou appearest
 “ upon the earth each day, and the BOOK OF BREATH-“ INGS of Thoth (24) is a protection unto thee, for “ thereby dost thou draw thy breath each day, and “ thereby do thine eyes behold the beams of the divine
 “ Disk. The goddess of Right and Truth maketh

“speech on thy behalf before Osiris, (25) and her “writings are upon thy tongue. Horus, the avenger
 “of his father, protecteth thy body, he maketh thy soul
 “to be divine like those of all the gods.”

II. (1) “The god Rā vivifieth thy soul, and the soul
 “of Shu uniteth the passages of thy nostrils.”

“Hail, Osiris Kērāsher, (2) the son of Ṭashenātiṭ!
 “Thy soul draweth its breath in the place which thou “lovest. Thou art even as Osiris. Osiris the Governor
 “of those in Āmentet is thy name. (3) The water-flood
 “of the Prince cometh unto thee from Ābu (Elephan“tine), and it filleth thy table of offerings with tchefau
 “food.”

“[Hail] Osiris Kērāsher, (4) the son of Ṭashenātiṭ!
 “The gods of the South and of the North come unto “thee, and thou art led by them to the ends of the “countries of (5) millions of years. Thy soul liveth, “thou art in the following of Osiris, and thou drawest
 “thy breath in Re-stau; the strength which protecteth “thee (6) is hidden in the lord of Setet and [in] the “great god. Thy material body liveth in Ṭaṭṭu [and “in] Nif-urtet, and thy soul liveth in heaven (7) each “day.”

“[Hail] Osiris Kērāsher, the son of Ṭashenātiṭ! the “goddess Sekhet hath gained the mastery over what “is baleful to thee, Ḥeru-āā-(8)ābu protecteth thee, “Ḥeru-seshet-ḥrā maketh thy heart, and Ḥeru-maati “protecteth thy body,” or as others say, (9) “thy “tongue. Thou art stablished with life, and strength,

“and health, and thou art firmly seated upon thy “throne in Ta-tchesertet. Come, then, Osiris K̄erāsher, “(10), the son of Tashenātiṭ, thou risest in thy form,
 “thou art arrayed in thine ornaments, thou hast firm “hold upon life, thou passest thy days (11) in health, “thou journeyest hither and thither, and thou drawest
 “thy breath in every place whatsoever. Rā riseth “upon thine abode even as Osiris; thou drawest thy “breath, (12) and thou livest through his rays. Āmen-“Rā-Ḥeru-khuti vivifieth thy ka (i.e., double), and he “maketh thee to flourish by means of the BOOK OF “BREATHINGS. Thou (13) art in the following of “Osiris-Horus, the lord of the Ḥennu Boat; thou art
 “like the great god at the head of the gods. Thy face “liveth, O thou whose births are lovely; thy name “(14) blossometh each day. Thou goest into the most “mighty and divine Hall in T̄atṭu; thou seest him
 “that is head of those in Āmentet during the Uḫa “festival. The odour of thee (15) is sweet like that of “the venerable ones [therein], and thy name is magni“fied like those of the divine spiritual bodies.”

“Hail, Osiris, K̄erāsher, the son of (16) Tashenātiṭ!
 “Thy soul liveth through the BOOK OF BREATHINGS, “thou art united through the BOOK OF BREATHINGS,
 “(17) thou enterest into the T̄uat and hast no enemy “therein. Thou art as a living soul in T̄atṭu and “thou hast thine heart, which hath not departed
 “from thee. Thou hast (18) thine eyes, and they “open daily.”

The gods who are in the train of Osiris speak unto Osiris Kērāsher, the son of Ṭashenātīṭ, (19) saying :—

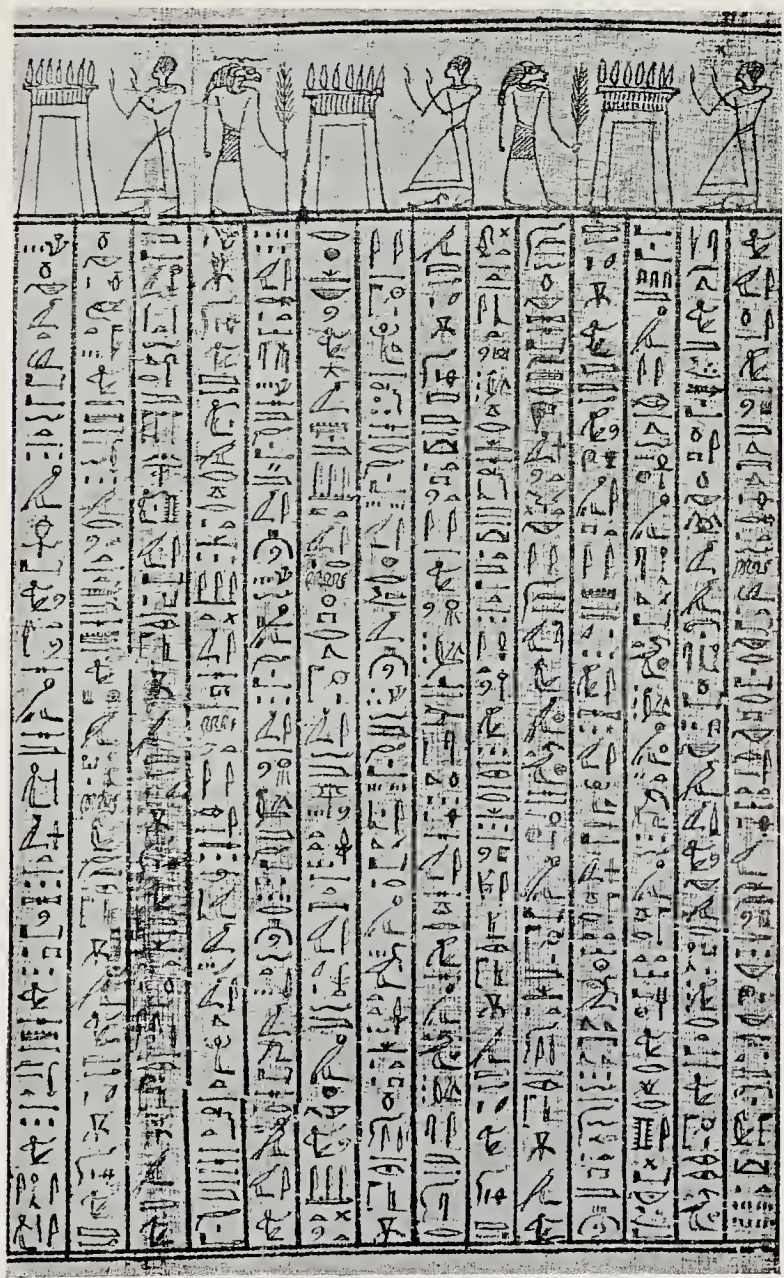

“Thou followest Rā and thou followest Osiris, and “thy soul doth live for ever and ever.”

The gods who dwell in the Ṭuat (20) of Osiris, the Governor of those in Āmentet, speak unto Osiris Kērāsher, the son of Ṭashenātīṭ, saying :—

“The gates of the Ṭuat are opened unto him, (21) “let him show himself in Neter-khertet. Verily, his “soul shall live for ever, he shall build habitations for “himself in (22) Neter-khertet, the god thereof shall “show favour unto his ka, and he shall receive the “BOOK OF BREATHINGS, and verily he shall (23) draw
“his breath.”

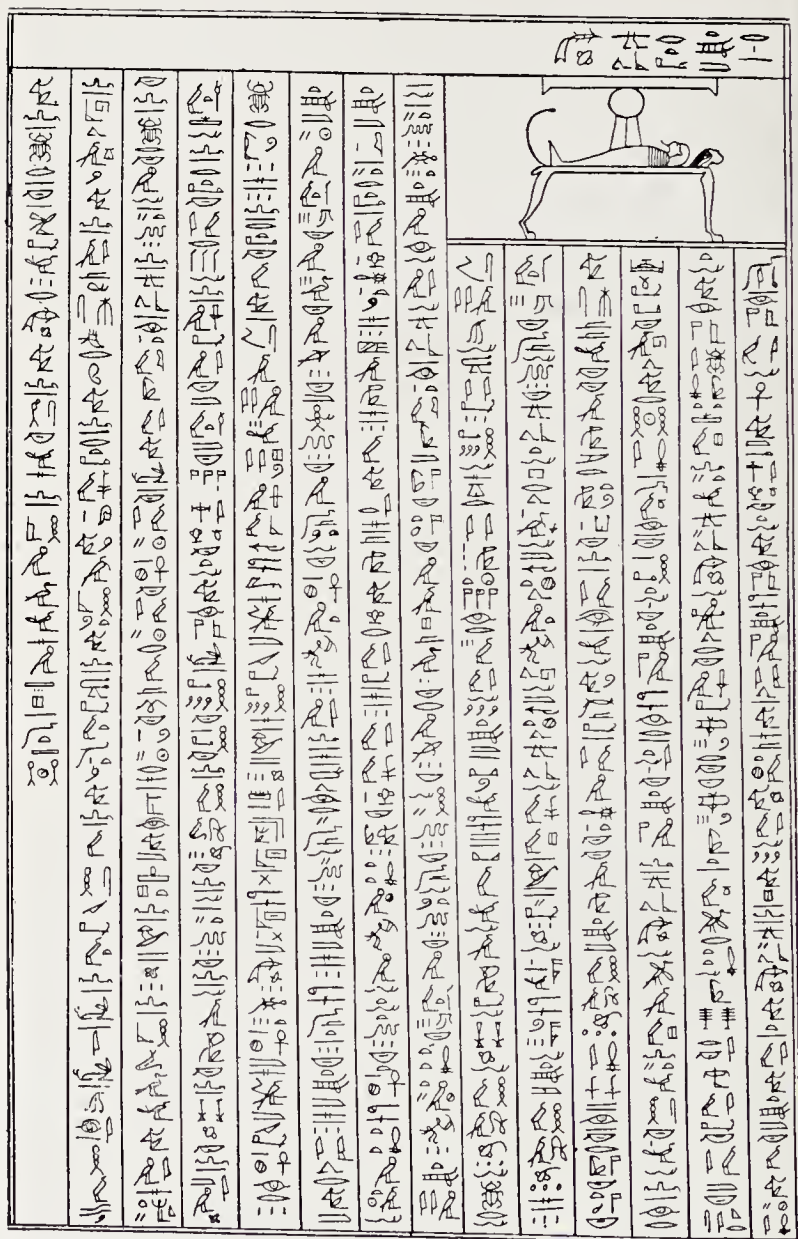

“May Osiris, the Governor of those in Āmentet, the “great god, the lord of Abydos, grant a royal oblation ;
“may he give offerings of cakes, (24) and ale, and oxen,
“and wine, and āqet drink, and bread, and tchefau food,
“and all beautiful things to the ka of Osiris Kērāsher, “(25) the son of Ṭashenātīṭ. Thy soul doth live, and “thy material body doth germinate by the command of “Rā himself ; thou shalt never perish and thou shalt “never suffer diminution, III. (1) [but shalt be] like “Rā for ever and for ever.”

“Hail, Usekh-nemtet, who comest forth from Ānnu,
“the Osiris Kērāsher, the son of (2) Ṭashenātīṭ, hath “not committed sin.”

“hath not plundered the possessions of the dead.”

“Hail, ye gods who are in the Ṭuat, hearken ye “unto the voice of Osiris K̄erāsher, the (12) son of “Ṭashenātiṭ, and let him come before you, for there “is neither any evil whatsoever, nor any sin whatso-

“and he hath satisfied (14) the heart of the gods by “all that he hath done. He hath given food to the “hungry, and water to the thirsty, and clothes (15) to “the naked. He hath made offerings to the gods, and “ to the Khus, and no (16) report whatsoever hath been

THE BOOK OF BREATHINGS.

PART II.

[From a papyrus at Florence (Pellegrini, Il libro secondo della respirazione, Rome, 1904).]

I. 1. The Second BOOK OF BREATHINGS, which shall be placed under the head of the god, that it may be recited by the 2. Hathor Arisuiniat, whose word is maāt, the daughter of Tasheratetut, whose word is maāt.

I am Rā in his rising. I am 3. Ātem in his setting. I am Osiris, governor of those who are in Āmentet by night and by day. Let your faces be turned towards me, O ye Gatekeepers of the Āmentiu gods, 4. O ye Guardians of the Ṭuat, O ye Doorkeepers of Pa-Ḥennu. May Ānpu, the son of Osiris, [come] to me, 5. the righteous Guardian of the Ṭuat.

Let your faces be turned towards me, O ye gods whose eyes are as sharp as knives, who are in the following of Osiris, 6. ye gods who dwell in the Hall of the Maāti-gods, ye gods of the Hall of Sekhet-7. Āanru.

Let your faces be turned towards me, O Hathor, Mistress of those who are in Āmentet, and O Maāt, unto whom those who are in Āmentet make acclamations.

8. Let your faces be turned towards me, O all ye gods who are in the Ṭuat, ye gods who watch over Osiris.

I am your father Rā-Ḥeru-Khuti, 9. from whom ye came forth in primaeval time.

I am Horus, the son of Isis, the son of Osiris, who is on his everlasting throne.

I am Horus the Great, 10. the Lord of the South. Thoth hath the members of Rā to perform the act of union, and he hath placed Horus upon the throne of his father.

I am Horus of the Two Eyes, the Lord of the divine staff, 11. whereby all the gods have been made to be victorious.

I am Horus, Lord of Sekhmit (Letopolis), Lord of, devourer of the enemies of 12. Ānnu (Heliopolis).

I am Thoth, the Lord of the words of the god, who giveth adoration to all the gods.

Let your faces be turned towards me, O ye Guardians of the Tuat, 13. I leave the desolation of the days and of the night; let, I pray, my soul come forth (or, appear) in the heavens with the divine Souls 14. of the great gods. Let me partake of the offerings with Ātem, and let me drink cool water from the river (?) in the House of the Prince 15. as doth the Aged Prince who is in Ānnu. Let me enter into Ānnu on the night of the offerings on the altar of the festival of the sixth day of the month, II. 1. with all the gods and goddesses of the South and of the North, and let me be like one of them. Let me enter 2. [before] Osiris Khenti-Āmentiu with the holy gods on the night of the festival of the divine Hēnnu Boat at the moment 3. of each day when my soul flieth upwards. Let me, I pray thee, enter in. Let me, I pray thee, come forth, [for] I am one of 4. them.

Hail, Thoth, let thy face be turned unto me. Make thou to be maāt my word against my enemies, just as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maāt against 5. his enemies, in the presence of the great Tehatcha who dwell in Heliopolis, on that night of battle when the

6. Sebi fiend was slain, on the day wherein the enemies of Neb-er-tcher were destroyed; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who 7. dwell in Tēttēt, on that night when the Tēt was set up in Tēttēt; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in Sekhem, 8. on that night when the offerings were [placed] upon the altar in Sekhem; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in the city Pe-Tēp, 9. on that night of the reception of Horus in the Meskhent of the gods, and of the stablishing Horus as heir 10. of the possessions of his father Osiris; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in the city of the Rekhti, on that night when Isis 11. lay down to watch and to weep for her brother Osiris; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in the ways of the 12. dead, on the night of making up the reckoning of those who are not to exist; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in Ān-ruṭ-f, on that night 13. of the Great Mystery of forms in Het-Suten-henen (Herakleopolis); in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in Tēttu, 14. on that night of the great festival of the ploughing up of the earth in Tēttu; in the presence of the great Tchatcha who dwell in Re-stau, 15. on that night of the lying down of Ānep (Anubis) [with] his arms upon the things which were round about Osiris.

Hail, Lord of Splendour, Governor of the Great House, 16. let thy face be turned towards me. Give thou unto me my mouth that I may speak with it. Guide thou to me my heart at the moment of the Nebt Fiend. Make thou for me my mouth that 17. I may speak with it with it in the presence of the Great God, the Lord of the Tuat, and let me not be turned back in heaven or upon earth III. 1. in the presence of the Tchatcha of every god and of every goddess.

I am the soul of Horus who quenched the fire when it came forth.

Hail, 2. Ptah, father of the gods, let thy face be turned towards me. Open for me my mouth, open for me my two eyes, even as thou didst open the mouth and two eyes of Seker-Osiris 3. in the House of gold in the city of Áneb-ḥetch. Open for me my mouth with the iron instrument wherewith thou didst open the mouth of 4. the gods.

I am the son of Sekhet, the goddess who is seated at the western side of heaven. Make thou to flourish my name like [that of] Osiris, Governor 5. of Ámentet. Let me be distinguished at the head of the gods of the Two Companies of gods. Make thou to be for me my heart in the House of Hearts, and my heart-case in the House 6. of Heart-cases. Make thou my heart to rest for me upon its throne, and let my heart-case be stablished upon the things of power which protect it Give thou unto me my mouth that I may speak therewith, 7. and my legs that I may walk therewith, and my two arms that I may overthrow mine enemies. Let there be opened for me the doors of heaven and of earth, even as thou didst 8. open them for the gods and the goddesses. Grant that Ānep (Anubis) may open for me the pylons of the Tuat. Grant that I may be made 9. one of those who follow Osiris. Let the decrees which have been decreed concerning me [be found] in Het-kau-Ptah (Memphis) my body in Neter-Khertet. 10. Let it be granted unto me to do whatsoever my KA pleaseth in heaven and upon earth. Let it be granted to my soul to alight upon my body.

Hail, my heart, I am 11. thy lord; thou shalt not remove thyself from me any day; [this is] the decree of Tanenu, the Great. Harken thou unto me, my own heart; thou shalt be in my body, and thou shalt not fall away (or, incline away) from me. 12. I am the being for whom were made the decrees in olden time(?) in Memphis whereby his heart was made to obey him, and the Two Divine Fighters (i.e., Horus and Set) in Ānnu shall not seize and 13. carry away my heart from me. I am that being for whom Ātem worked in olden time(?) under the holy Persea Tree in 14. Ānnu according to the decrees of Thoth himself. Let it be granted to me to have light within my eye, so that I may walk by night [as well as] by day, and let me see his radiance 15. every day.

O my heart, my divine mother! O my heart, my divine mother! O my heart-case, be stablished by the things which protect it. Let Ātem speak to me good [words]. Let my members be [made] anew, 16. and let Nehebkamake them to be in a flourishing condition.

May he grant that I may travel over the earth [and] in the horizon of the sky, and may he grant that I shall never die in Neter-Khert.

IV. 1. He shall make my soul to be divine, he shall glorify my body (or, he shall make my body to be like that of a khu, i.e., spirit), and he shall revivify my members. The god Âtem shall place me on the 2. Boat of Râ, and he shall cause me to perform all the transformations which it shall please me [to make]. He shall give to me my mouth that I may speak therewith, and he shall make me to renew my life 3. like Râ every day. My health shall be the health of Râ, and the health of Râ shall be my health.

My hair is as the hair of Nu. My face is as the face of 4. Râ. My eyes are as the eyes of Hathor. My ears are as the ears of Âp-uat. My nose is as the nose of Hent-Sekhem. 5. My lips are as the lips of Ânep (Anubis). My teeth are as the teeth of Serqit. My neck is as the necks of Isis and Nephthys. My arms are as the arms of Ba-nebt-Teṭṭu. 6. My body is as the body of Net, the Lady of Sais. My backbone is as the backbone of the Lords of Kher-âḥa. 7. My body is as the body of Sekhit. My thigh is as the thigh of the Eye of Horus. My legs are as the legs of Nut. My feet are as the feet of Ptaḥ. 8. My toes are as the toes of the Living Uraei. There is no member in me which is without a god. Thoth maketh the passes of life over my members, and my flesh 9. is [filled] with life every day. I shall not be pinioned by my arms, and my hands shall not be put in restraint. My name shall endure for 10. millions of years, and I shall fly about in heaven and on the earth. The fear of me shall be in the body of the gods.

My father is Sebu, 11. and my mother is Nut. "Osiris, Governor of those in Âmentet," is my name. I am Horus, Governor of millions of festivals. 12. his secret place in every land.

I am the Great One, son of the Great One.

I am the Mighty One, son of the Mighty One.

I am Horus, the son of Râ.

I am 13. the Sekhem (Power) of my father Râ.

I am the Two Tchaui of Shu and Tefnut.

I am he who is born of Sebu and Nut.

I am the 14. Holy Soul who dwelleth in Thebes; Âmen is my name.

I am Thoth in every land.

I shall rise up like the king of the gods, and I shall never die in 15. Neter-Khertet.

Hail, all ye gods and all ye goddesses! let your faces be turned towards me. I am your lord, come ye therefore to me and be ye in my following. 16. I am your lord, and the son of your lord.

Let your faces be turned towards me. I am your father, I am in the following of Osiris. I shall stride over the heavens, 17. I shall open up a way for myself in the earth, I shall journey over the whole earth, and my steps shall be as the steps of the holy Spirits (KHU).

I am provided for millions of years, and "Rā-Ḥerukhuti" is my name.

FUNERAL TEXT OF HERTU.

[See Lepsius, Denkmäler, vi. 122, and Lieblein, Que mon nom, plate l. ff.]

I. 1. [This] concerneth the Osiris Hertu, whose word is law.

I am Rā in his rising. I am Atem in his setting. I am Osiris Khenti-Āmenti by night 2. and by day. Let your faces be towards me, O ye doorkeepers of the Tuat, ye doorkeepers of Āmentet, ye doorkeepers of Per Henu. 3. Let thy face be towards me, O Anubis, son of Osiris, thou just doorkeeper of the Tuat. Let your faces be towards me, O Hathor, Mistress of Āmentet, 4. and O Maāt, to those who rise up [before her] in Āmentet. Let your faces be towards me, O ye gods who dwell in the Hall of Sekhet-Āru. 5. Let your faces be towards me, O Hathor, Mistress of Āmentet, and O Maāt, to those who rise up [before her] in Āmentet. Let your faces be towards me, O ye gods of the Tuat, 6. all of you, [and] ye gods who keep watch over Osiris.

I am your father Heru-khuti, from whom ye proceeded in primaeval time. I am 7. Horus, the son of Isis, the son of Osiris, who [sitteth] on the throne for ever. I am Heru-uru (i.e., Horus the Elder), the Lord of the South, who gave pleasure to the members 8. of Râ, and who hath placed Horus upon the throne of his father. I am Horus of the Two Eyes, the giver of weapons (?), who made to be strong all the gods. I am 9. Horus, the Lord of Sekhem, the Lord of Per- [the destroyer of] the wicked in Ännu.

I am Thoth, the Lord of divine words, who gave 10. a liturgy to every god. Let your faces be towards me, O ye guardians of the Tuat, and let me make to be empty things the hours of 11. the night.

Let, I pray, my soul fly upwards with the souls of the great gods. 12. Let me, I pray, gather together [my] things (i.e., offerings) with Atem. Let me, I pray, enjoy cool drink offerings¹ in the House of the Prince, like the Aged 13. Prince in Ännu. Let me, I pray, enter into Ännu on the night [when] the offerings [are placed] on the altar, with 14. all the gods and the goddesses of the South and of the North, and let me be one of them. Let me, I pray, enter into Osiris Khenti-Ämenti, 15. with the holy gods on the night of the festival of the god of the Henu Boat. Let, I pray, my soul fly upwards daily. 16. Let me, I pray, enter in, and let [my soul] fly up as one of their souls.

O Thoth, let, I pray, thy face be towards me. Make thou my word to be maât against 17. my enemies, as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Sovereign Chiefs, who dwell in Ânnu, on the night of the fight to

II. 1. overthrow the Sebâu fiend, on the day of the destruction of the enemies of Nebt-Tcher.

[O Thoth, let, I pray, thy face be towards me]. Make thou my word to be maât against my enemies, 2. as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs, who dwell in Taṭṭu, on the night of setting upright the divine Tet 3. in Taṭṭu.

O Thoth, [let, I pray, thy face be towards me]. Make thou my word to be maât against my enemies, as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs, who dwell in 4. Sekhem, on the night of the offerings on the altar in Sekhem.

O Thoth, [let, I pray, thy face be towards me]. Make thou my word to be maât against my enemies, as 5. thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs, who dwell in Pe and Tep, on the night of the conception of 6. Horus in the birth-place of the gods, and of the stablishing of the hands of Horus over the things of his father Osiris.

), O Thoth, [let, I pray,] thy face be towards me. Make thou my word to be maât against 7. my enemies, as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs of the Lands of the Rekhti Goddesses, on the night of the 8. lying down of Isis, [and of her] watching her brother Osiris, and her weeping for him.

O Thoth, let, I pray, thy face be towards me. Make thou my word to be maât against my enemies, 9. as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs, who dwell in Ân-ruṭ-f upon his throne, on the night of the hidden 10. and great transformations (or, ceremonies) which are performed in Suten-henen.

O Thoth, let, I pray, thy face be towards me. Make thou my word to be maât against my enemies, as thou didst make the word of Osiris 11. to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs, who dwell in Ṭaṭṭu, on the night of the Great Festival of Ploughing in Ṭaṭṭu. 12.

O Thoth, let, I pray, thy face be towards me. Make thou my word to be maât against my enemies, as thou didst make the word of Osiris to be maât against his enemies, before the Great Sovereign Chiefs, 13. who dwell in Re-stau, on the night of the lying down of Anubis, [when] his hands were over the things [which were] behind Osiris.

O Lord of Light, 14. thou Occupant of the Great Throne, let thy face be towards me. Grant thou to me my mouth that I may speak therewith. Guide thou for me my heart at the moment [of wrath] of the Nebt Fiend, 15. and fashion thou for me my heart that I may speak therewith before the Great God of the Tuat. Let me not be driven forth from heaven and from earth in the presence of the Divine Sovereign Chiefs of every god 16. and every goddess.

I am Horus, who maketh to be extinguished the fire when it cometh forth.

O Ptah, father of the gods, let thy face be towards me. Open thou for me my mouth,

III. 1. open thou it for me as thou didst make [to be opened the mouth of] Seker-Osiris in Het-Nub (i.e., the House of Gold) in Āneb-hetch (Memphis).

I am the son of the goddess Sekhet, and I have my seat by the dweller in the Urtet region of the heavens. 2.

Make thou to flourish for me my name like the name of Osiris Khenti-Āmentiu, and distinguish thou me before the gods of the Divine Cycles. Make thou for me my heart in the house of hearts, and 3. my mind(?) in the house of minds. Make thou for me my heart to rest upon its throne, and let my mind(?) be stablished by means of its protective amulets. Give thou unto me my mouth for speech, 4. my legs for walking, and my hands to overthrow my enemies. Let there be opened for me the doors in the heavens and in the earth, even as thou hast done 5. for the gods and goddesses. Let, I pray, Anubis open for me the doors of the Tuat. Let me, I pray, be made one of the followers of Osiris, and let be written down 6. my commands in Het-Ptah-ka (Memphis). Let my Ka be in heaven and on the earth, and grant that my person (?) may alight on my body. I am the hearts of thy Lord (?); thou shalt not 7. depart from me any day, according to the decrees of Tanenu, the great god. Make thou for me my own heart. I am he for whom decrees are made in Het-ka-Ptah; 8. grant that they may be hearkened to by him that is in Neter-Khert. Let not my heart be carried away from me by the Fighter Gods (Āḥaiu) in Ānnu. I am he concerning whom Ātem maketh records 9. before him on the holy Acacia Tree which is in Ānnu in the writing of the god Thoth himself. Let light be placed in my two eyes that I may walk by night 10. [and] by day, and let me see his rays every day. My mind is stablished by means of (or, upon) its protective amulets.

O Ātem, declare unto me the beauty of my members a second time, and let Neḥebka 11. make them vigorous (or, fresh). May he grant that I may traverse the earth in the horizon of heaven. He will not permit me to die in Neter-Khert, he will make my soul to become like that of a god, he will make my body to become like that of a khu, 12. and he will vivify my members a second time.

Ātem hath granted me to be on the way of Rā, he hath granted that I shall make every transformation which I desire, he hath given me my mouth that I may speak with it, and he hath granted me to be 13. renewed like Rā every day. I am strong and Rā is strong; Rā is strong and I am strong.

My hair is of Nu My face is of Rā. My eyes are of Hathor. 14. My ears are of Āp-uat. My nose is of Fent-Sekhem (or, Khent-Sekhem). My lips are of Ānpu. My teeth are of Serqet. My body resteth 15. upon its seat. My hands are of Ba-nebt-Ṭaṭṭu. My body is of Neith, Lady of Saïs. My backbone is of the Lords of Kher-Āḥau. 16. My belly is of Sekhet. My eyebrows are of the Eye of Horus. My thighs are of Nut. My legs are of Ptaḥ. The soles of my feet are of the Living Uraei.

IV. 1. There is not a member [of mine] without a god. Thoṭh protecteth my members, and my flesh possesseth perfect life. I come forth by day, 2. having been conceived by Sekhet and born of Nut. I am filled with [the strength of] the Utchat. I am the Ibis 3. which cometh forth from Ḥet-Ptaḥ-ka. Heaven is opened to me, and the earth is opened unto me. I have obtained the mastery over my heart. 4. I have obtained the mastery over my members. I have obtained the mastery over my mind. I have obtained the mastery over my hands (or, arms). I have obtained the mastery over my mouth. 5. I have obtained the mastery over my members and the things which belong to them. I have obtained the mastery over the things which appear at the word (i.e., offerings), [that is] beer, oxen, and geese. I have obtained the mastery over the water 6. from the depths of the river. I have obtained the mastery over my eyes on the earth. I have obtained the mastery over my eyes in Neter-

Khert. I live upon bread, 7. and I have cool water to drink from Hāpi (the Nile). I stand up through bread. I sit down through milk. I drink wine. 8. I create. I receive breath from the Erpuit goddesses.

I am the great god who cometh from Neter-Khert the rays of Rā, 9. the breath of Āmen—I am they for ever. Osiris, the Great God, the word Horus I-em-ḥetep, born of Mut-Menu (?). 10.

O Rā, I am thy son. O Thoth, I am thine eyes. O Osiris, I am thy Power. O ye Lords of Khemennu (Hermopolis) I am thy heir, 11. [and the heir] of Maāt.

O Horus, O Great Company of the Gods, O Little Company of the Gods, let, I pray, my name flourish in Thebes, as the 12. name of Ātem, the Lord of Ānnu, flourisheth in Ānnu; as the name of Shu flourisheth in the Upper sanctuary in Ānnu; 13. as the name of Tefnut flourisheth in the Lower sanctuary in Ānnu; as the name of Sab flourisheth in Ba-Shemaum; 14. as the name of Nut flourisheth in Ḥet-Shennu; as the name of Osiris Khenti-Āmenti flourisheth in Abydos; 15. as the name of Isis flourisheth in Nif-ur; as the name of Horus flourisheth in Pe; as the name of Uatchit flourisheth in 16. Tep; and as the name of Nephtys flourisheth in Ānnu. Let me fly upwards, let fly upwards the soul of Osiris Hertu 17. born of Mut-Menu, whose word is law, [and let him enjoy] breath for ever and for ever!

 "Thou journeyest about upon the earth, thou seest all "that are therein, thou observest all the affairs of thy "house, and thou eatest bread, there having been per"formed by thee transformations which are like unto
 "those of Baba. Thou goest to the city of Nif-urtet
 "at the festival of the altars on the night of the fes"tival of Six, and at the festival of Ānep. Thou goest
 "into the city of Nif-urtet at the festival of the little "heat, and the festival of lifting up the sky. Thou
 "goest into the city of Ṭaṭṭu on the festival of Ka-ḥrā-
 "ka, on the day when the Ṭeṭ is set up. The breath
 "of the wind hath made thy throat to breathe with "Khensu and Shu, the mighty one, in Thebes; and
 "thou hast abundant offerings for thy ka every tenth
 "day with the living image of Rā in Thebes. Thy life
 "is for ever and ever, and thy sovereignty is for ever,
 "and thou shalt endure for an endless number of "periods of twice sixty years."
